Jolene Montgomery & Marthas Sixshooter Hit Bulls-eye

By Tanya Randall

One of the most difficult tasks for any futurity trainer and rider is to keep their young horses together all season long, especially when they start out their careers as hot as 2012 BFA Juvenile Champion Marthas Sixshooter. But veteran Jolene Montgomery, Dawson, Texas, has kept the powerful 4-year-old gelding pulling checks all year, and they added another win to his resume with a Hawki Open Futurity Championship.

"He's been great," said Montgomery, who rides Shooter for her in-laws James and Nancy Baldwin. "He's kept pretty steady all year. He's had times when he hasn't worked 100 percent, but it's pretty hard to have one come out and start winning right away and then keep them winning all year long. He's just been a really nice, solid check-drawing horse."

Bred by Jud Little and sold through his production sale as a 2-year-old, Shooter is by up-and-coming sire Bug In My Frosty out of Marthas Moon View, a daughter of former leading barrel horse sire Marthas Six Moons out of Jet View, Top Moon mare.

A solid investment, Shooter had won more than 10 times his purchase price just six months into his career with strong showings at the LG Pro Classic, where he ran the fastest time in the slot-race qualifier and later taking reserve at the Diamonds & Dirt Barrel Horse Classic. Since then, he's steadily picked up checks, including $3,335 for winning the $5,000-added Hawki Open Futurity. Ironically, Montgomery hadn't planned on traveling to Lincoln, Neb., for the Oct. 10-13 event.

"I wasn't even going to go, but Latricia (Duke) called and said 'I have two holes,' so I took him and a Dash Ta Fame mare that someone wanted to look at," Montgomery explained.

The Open Futurity consisted of a qualifying round which split the field half with the top horses going to the Championship Round and the remainder running the Consolation. As an added bonus, futurity entries could carry over their first run times to the qualifier for RFD-TV's The American.

Shooter had the sixth fastest qualifying time with a 16.309.

"I was slightly disappointed in his first run," she said. "He'll cheat a little bit on his second so I held him out a little too long and he got by it just a hair and had to take an extra step on the second. It didn't clock up enough to get qualified to The American; I had entered up in that too. It wasn't a bad run. It was just decent."

They came back with a championship round winning 16.116, which incidentally would have qualified for The American.

"His second run was a really nice," said Montgomery, who wanted to thank her sponsors Classic Equine, Priefert and Razor as well as her in-laws, Shooter's owners. "I just tried to keep him smooth through the whole run."

Shooter has the WPRA Finals Futurity in two weeks, followed by another opportunity to qualify for The American in Alvarado, the JB Quarter Horses Futurity and finally the BFA World Championships.

Montgomery said Shooter will be for sale after the BFA.

Although she hasn't run him at any rodeos, Montgomery said she doesn't have any doubt that he could make the transition.

"He's not the kind of horse that starts looking around or tries to run off," she said. "And, I haven't hardly had any ground trouble with him. He would be fine for rodeos. He's built pretty solid. He's just a pretty good ole gelding."

Hawki Futurity Breeders Incentive Champion Jordan Briggs is also on a steady check-earner in HBS Mayan Gold ("Zena"), a 4-year-old daughter of Frenchmans Guy out of the Raise Your Glass (TB) mare Justwhatiaskfor.

Briggs and Zena were the fastest qualifiers in the Open Futurity with a 16.015, which won the first go of the $10,000-added breeders incentive and more important qualified them for The American. The clocked a 16.308 on their second run to finish fourth in the Open Futurity and take second in the breeders incentive second round to wrap up the average.

"She was just really solid," said Briggs, Lott, Texas. "The barrels

OPEN TO EVERYONE!

GAC to Telecast Live Coverage of 2013 WNFR

Open the chutes! Great American Country presents 10 nights of live action from the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo (WNFR), Dec. 5-14. The WNFR marks the season-ending championship event for the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) and is widely considered the world's foremost, richest and most prestigious rodeo showcasing the best cowboys, barrel racers and livestock anywhere.

For the first time since acquiring the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo in 2011, Great American Country will broadcast the ten-night event in high-definition. Viewers can request their cable or satellite provider to add Great American Country in HD by visiting <http://gac.viewerlink.tv>.

"Rodeo reflects values of competition, hard work and passion, which fit perfectly on Great American Country, where we celebrate all those same ideals," said Sarah Trahern, senior vice president and general manager of Great American Country. "Rodeo takes on a life all its own, with a little danger and a lot of heart. And for 10 nights, we commemorate this unique lifestyle and offer viewers an immersion into a gritty, real American subculture."

In addition to December's live coverage of the WNFR, Great American Country brings viewers closer to the action with the nightly series Inside the WNFR, co-anchored by Justin McKee, a PRCA announcer, and Suzanne Alexander, host of Great American Country's newest music series Great American Playlist, debuting Nov. 4. Inside the WNFR episodes will feature recaps of the events, standings reports, athlete profiles and more, and also runs Dec. 5-14.

"This is the Super Bowl of ProRodeo," said Karl Stressman, PRCA commissioner. "We have the best athletes against the best stock, and it all leads up to crowning the PRCA World Champions. Great American Country has been a tremendous partner in bringing the WNFR to viewers and helping drive the excitement around our biggest event of the year." --Courtesy of www.prorodeo.com

Jackson Hall Memorial Barrel Prospect Sale

Hallowe Ranch Productions is proud to announce the addition of a 3 yr old Select Barrel Prospect Sale to the Jackson Hall Memorial Barrel Event coming up April 2-6, 2014 at the Hardy Murphy Coliseum in Ardmore, OK. were kind of set on the fence so I just rode her hard. She was quick and snappy and worked perfect there.”

All totaled, Briggs won $7,468 with $2,337 for the Breeder's Championship, $1,819 in the Open Futurity, $1,658 for second place in The American qualifier and $1,654 for two Open 1D checks.

Zena will finish up her year much like Shooter with the WPRA Finals, JB Futurity and BFA.

“Depending on how many horses I'm taking to Arizona, I might turn her out for a couple of months at the beginning of the year and let her take a break,” said Briggs, who is sponsored by Classic Equine, Shiloh Saddlery, Panhandle Slim and Horse Hair Analysis. “I definitely want to keep her as a derby horse for next year and maybe rodeo on her a little bit. If I feel like she's the one for Mesquite (for The American Semi-Finals Rodeo), I might take her to some rodeos and get her used to the crowds.”

Barrel Horse Mamas, Sires and Babies Hit Hard

By Julie Mankin

A storm so devastating that it was given a name killed between 75,000 and 100,000 cattle and horses in western South Dakota and northeastern Wyoming over the weekend of Oct. 4 – including premier barrel-horse producing mares, a great stallion and several colts.

“It’s like nothing I’ve ever seen before in my life,” said Bill Myers of “Atlas,” which severely hit the Myers family’s barrel-horse breeding program (anchored by Frenchman’s Guy) near St. Onge, S.D.

What started as two inches of a drenching, freezing rain all day Thursday turned to snow that night as winds whipped up to 70 miles per hour and snow continued to dump through Saturday night. Because the area had barely even seen an overnight freeze, horses hadn’t yet developed winter hair coats. In fact, two days before the storm, it was 75 degrees in South Dakota.

“There were snowbanks like you’ve just never seen, up to 20 feet,” said Myers. “We were without electricity for six days. We turned on the burners on top of the stove to try to warm the air. After four days we got a generator for lights, but it wasn’t enough to power the water pump.”

Meanwhile, the Myers’ band of 38 broodmares was in a pasture with as much natural protection as possible. But it wasn’t enough.

“We couldn’t get to the pastures; only to the barn to take care of the weanlings,” he said. “The worst part was the feeling of helplessness; to not be able to get there and help them.”

Soaked by the driving, freezing rain for 12 hours and then unable to see due to snow blowing at 60 and 70 miles per hour, some horses became so cold and disoriented they didn’t know where they were going. One of Myers’ yearlings had a shed with full sides for shelter, but when the snow began to blow into it, he wandered out and drifted with the wind into a fence where Myers found him dead. In all, Myers lost six outstanding broodmares in foal and two yearlings.

“We lost Hot Brandi N Wine – a half-sister to Sky High Guy and the dam of Guy’s Champagne Girl,” said Myers. “We had just sold a 2-year-old [Guy’s Sangria] out of Hot Brandi N Wine for $35,000 in our sale, and two years ago we sold one out of her for $30,000. And she was bred back.”

The 17-year-old sorrel mare was by Hot Colours (speed index 102) and out of a Pie In The Sky daughter. Guy’s Champagne Girl was a big winner at the 2011 futurities and is currently running well for Nikki Steffes, who just won the Badlands Circuit Finals Rodeo average title on 9-year-old Sky High Guy.

The Myers family also lost French Wild Heart – the dam of Jordan Briggs’ 8-year-old gelding A Special Colour (an earner of more than six figures on the barrel pattern).

“The kind of mares we lost were great producers,” Myers said. “We can’t replace those kinds of mares.”

FRENCHMANS GUY | HOT COLOURS | WORLD SPEED | A SMOOTH GUY | COWBOYS CARTEL

The dead horses – which also included two of Hot Brandi N Wine’s daughters and three great daughters of the aging Hot Colours – reflect a future loss of up to $250,000 in revenue. But that’s not what really hurts.

“It’s the family factor you hate the most about the deal,” said Myers. “That’s the difference between horses and cattle, you know? Those horses had done so much for us that we really had a lot of emotional attachment. The money’s not the hard part – it’s seeing them go like that.”

The same emotion was expressed by Lainee (Shearer) Sampson, whose family had just put their good stud, Bray’s Moon Bug, in a small pasture by the house to live-breed their favorite mare. After the rain made roads a boggy mess, there was no way to get to the horses as the snow moved in.

Sampson’s mare and a colt at her side, plus one other mare and colt in the pasture, were old and storm-savvy and survived while also keeping their babies alive. But Moon was not as savvy and didn’t stay with the mares.

“He was born and raised in Oklahoma and was a stall baby,” said Sampson. “He’d never grown any winter hair in the three years we had him. I’m still so sick about it. They had trees and good protection in there, but I will always have that guilt that comes from knowing he deserved to go out better than that.”

Moon, by Martha’s Six Moons and out of a Shawne Bug daughter, was just 17. He was a big winner on the barrels himself, and Sampson’s “absolutely loved” all of his colts. While it’s easy to second-guess after tragedies, lots of horses died in shelters when roofs caved in or drifts filled them in. One thing that people don’t understand, according to Lana Ireland Dacar, futurity producer and barrel horse trainer, is that it just didn’t matter if livestock had shelter or not.

As for Myers, he talked to a guy in Wasta who estimated that within three miles of his ranch were at least 50 dead horses.

“If you figure that average for the whole of western South Dakota, I’d say the number of dead horses is in the thousands; maybe up to 3,000 including lots of mares and colts,” said Myers.

Dacar’s father, Bud Ireland, who lives east of Rapid City, lost 90 percent of his cows in addition to the deaths of four yearling horses. Two baby colts have still not been found but no hope remains that they’re alive.

“I drove around and only found four cows alive,” Dacar said. “And others had drifted up to seven miles and were just laying dead on the flat. When you pull up to someone’s place, it’s just dead cow after dead cow, just laying there. I’ve never seen anything like it.”

Myers feels fortunate that he’d already sold his colt crop. Cattle ranchers just getting ready to sell calves were not so lucky, and won’t have the income to pay their bills. One rancher who lost a third of his cattle told Fox News that, financially, it was like driving a brand-new pickup off a cliff and still having to make the payments for the next several years. Most ranchers lost between half and three-quarters of their herds, according to the executive director of the South Dakota Stockgrowers Association.

While the Irelands’ home is on high ground, people north of Philip, S.D., now are packing up because of flooding. It just keeps raining and snowing, and the area received two more inches of freezing rain this week. It’s an unprecedented five inches of mud underneath standing water up over your knees. Driving around is virtually impossible. And obviously, holes can’t be dug to bury the dead, complicating the mess.

Plus, the impact still isn’t fully felt.

“The shock of this deal; we’re not through that part yet to even consider the business side of this,” Myers said. “We’re also wondering what the abortion rate will be of the mares that did survive. Most of them were due to foal in four or five months.”

The stress level was so severe that most of his mares lost at least 100 pounds, he said, and many were wire-cut and lame. The thinnest and worst-off in the Myers herd were sent to live indoors at St. Onge, while the family tries to nurse the others back to strength at home, praying for sunshine.

“Brutal” is the only word I can think of to describe this,” he said. The helpline for those affected by the storm is (877) 708-4357, and carcass disposal information can be accessed at (605) 773-3321. To volunteer your time, please call (877) 708-4357 or (605) 274-1454.

The main way to help devastated horse and cattle ranchers is through the Rancher Relief Fund. Launched on Oct. 8 and administered by the South Dakota Cattlemen’s Association, Stockgrowers Association and Sheep Growers Association, the fund had generated $24,000 in less than a week.

Williams & Three Jets Olena Triumph at All-American ProRodeo Finals

By Tanya Randall

Victoria Williams and her gritty, gray mare Three Jets Olena capped off a great rookie season in the WPROA with a $12,079 victory at the All-American ProRodeo Finals, held Oct. 6-12 in Waco, Texas.

The tournament-style rodeo with its $60,182 purse was open to the Top 30 in the All-American standings. The field was split into three groups of 10 with each competing in two rounds. The top three money earners from each pool advanced to a semi-final from which the top four advanced to a sudden-death final.

Williams, a journalism student from Kiln, Miss., started out winning the opening round of her pool with a 16.03, but left the second-round victory on the ground when she pulled over the second barrel. In the semi-finals, she and Jets had their fast run of the event, a 15.99, to make the top four with Michele McLeod, Gretchen Benbenek and Kim Schulze.

"I was over-riding her to the first barrel," said Williams. "You really have to check her down to turn it, and I didn't trust her running that many times in that pen. So I kept checking her down really hard. In the semi-finals and the finals, I did it too much and we came in too close, and she stepped way off the first barrel. When they said I had a 15.9 I was so surprised. I could not believe it at all."

Williams said she didn't have time to think about her next run because it happened so fast. With just four contestants in the final round, the rodeo ran extremely fast.

"It all happened so fast," she said. "All four of us girls that made it back ran back to our trailers to let our horses get a couple sips of water. Then they were yelling at us to all get back up there. We all walked our horses around for a couple of minutes and then went and ran again.

"I think my Finals' run could have been better, but she did as good as could be expected with coming back and running again within an hour. I was super happy about it."

Williams and Jets are coming up on their two year anniversary together this Thanksgiving. She got the 7-year-old daughter of National Finals Rodeo qualifier and sire Blazin Jetolena out of Maggie Quick Dash, by Royal Quick Dash, from Bill Williamson of Gray Court, S.C.

"That's where I got the older mare (Dallas Oklawaha) that I won so much on too," she said. "Most of my good horses have come from him."

Jets' career was just getting started when Williams bought her. When the mare started doing better at the PCA rodeos, an amateur association along the Gulf Coast, than at the jackpots, Williams decided to try pro rodeos with her two talented mares.

WPROA card in hand, Williams and her mother Donna Berdine—who "completely stopped her life to haul me this summer"—headed out to chase a rookie title and the NFR. They spent much of the summer in Canada, but decided to come home in August once she knew that she couldn't catch Taylor Jacob.

"We ended up in the Top 40, so we get into all the big winter rodeos," said Williams, who is currently sitting second going into the Southeastern Circuit Finals, "and I ended up second in the rookie. Taylor had an amazing year. This year we're hoping to do a little bit better than last year."

Williams is currently taking mid-term exams at the community college she attends, before heading back to Texas for the pro rodeos in Liberty and Henderson this weekend.

Steffes, Lockhart are Badlands Queens

By Julie Mankin

Although winter hasn't officially started yet, don't tell that to the folks in the Dakotas. Not only did an early October snowstorm immobilize western South Dakota, but on Oct. 10-13, barrel racers returned to the tiny winter-like indoor pen in Minot, N.D., that's home to the Ram Badlands Circuit Finals Rodeo.

Going into the Finals, Badlands veteran Wanda Brown held a $1,000 lead over Lisa Lockhart. Conceivably, Britany Fleck and Jessica Routier could also unseat Brown, but both would have had to dominate at least a couple of rounds. Instead, Routier placed just once.

Fleck actually had a great weekend and headed into the final round just two-tenths behind Nikki Steffes in the average. Fleck had to run first that day.

"Britany really smoked her run, and if I'd have heard her time, I might have puked," Steffes told KBHB radio afterward. Instead, Steffes clocked just fast enough on that last run to edge Fleck in the average by five one-hundredths of a second.

The win gave Steffes $4,421 and a trip to Oklahoma City for the second time (she also qualified in 2011 on Dash Ta Vanilla). This time, Steffes was riding Sky High Guy, the 9-year-old palomino she bought from Bill Myers in April. Despite a season filled with penalties, "it couldn't have ended any better," she said.

Steffes – along with Donnie Reece – had ridden "Sky" as a 4-year-old stud. While Nilla is a granddaughter of Myers' stud Frenchman's Guy (out of the winningest futurity mare in South Dakota history), Sky is by Frenchman's Guy and out of a Pie In The Sky daughter. In February, the now-gelded Sky was chasing team roping steers in Arizona.

"At the time, I thought if the right horse came along I wasn't meant to go to dental school," Steffes said. "And I also knew I hadn't accomplished what I wanted in rodeo, and it would be hard to sit in that classroom in Lincoln, Neb. I want to go to the NFR on a horse that I own and have a little better experience than I did."

So Steffes bought Sky and hit the road. But they were out of sync and hit a lot of expensive barrels. In late summer, she decided just to stick to her circuit and Canada this year.

"At this level you have to make a great run every single time, which means taking chances to go fast," she said. "He runs so hard and is so powerful but so quick that we had trouble getting our timing down. He has really made me a better rider and more attentive to what I'm doing."

Quick-footed and strong, he runs something like his half-brother, Brittany Pozzi's 5-year-old Ima Super Fly Guy (by a Streakin Six daughter). But they are handfuls. Being "not cowgirl enough to ride him two-handed," Steffes did a lot of one-handed drills and used some Sue Smith bits made by Dave Elliott until Sky was moving off her leg and hand even after committing to a turn.

"We know what the other one is thinking now, and he'll let me pick him up and move him out," she said. "That 13-second pattern in Minot probably wasn't his ideal pen, but he really stepped up there. And our finals is dang tough – there are a lot of nice horses in this circuit."

Those included Jill Moody's talented but green dapple-gray 6-year-old, Cloudy Illumination ("Jesse" is a half-brother to her great NFR mare Dolly), and Britany Fleck's NFR mare Dasher Dude ("Rootie"). Incidentally, Dolly and Rootie – both 13 – share lineage in Texas High Dasher, the sire of Rootie and maternal grandsire of Dolly.

Then there was also Britta O'Keeffe, an engineer from North Dakota who would have won every single round if not for downed barrels. As it was, the former WPRA derby champ smoked the fastest time of the weekend – a 13.41 – on 7-year-old YHS Texs Roger, by Yellow Hammer Six (Easy Six and Magnolia Bar) out of P'm Pandes Hard Way.

While Fleck earned $3,592 in Minot, it bumped her only to third in the year-end standings. Lockhart, on the other hand, won the second round and placed in two others to earn $2,487 and leapfrog past Brown, who placed just once for $553. Riding Louie, Lockhart would have earned even more, but lost a stirrup in the second round, which led to her hitting a barrel.

"She tried to tell me the barrel wasn't her biggest problem; it was just staying on," cracked Steffes. "But she's full of it. She can ride anything and win, but it was fun to see her on Louie."

Lockhart's husband, Grady, also competed in Minot and finished fourth in tie-down roping on the season. Both Lockhart and Steffes will compete in November at the Canadian Finals Rodeo.

Steffes will be riding Sky, but she has another great weapon in Myers' 7-year-old mare Guy's Champagne Girl – almost a full sister

RFD-TV's The American -- Kendal Owen & Fortune N Fame

By Tanya Randall

Barrel horse trainer and broker Kendal Owen of Purcell, Okla., set a blistering pace with the 6-year-old gelding Fortune N Fame at the second qualifier to the RFD-TV's The American at the Barrel Bash in Lincoln, Neb., October 12. Owen earned a second run at the Semi-Finals in Mesquite, Texas, next winter, thanks to her fourth-place effort aboard the 8-year-old gelding VF A Live Design ("Zoom").

"It was a crazy experience," said Owen. "I just got off the phone from doing a phone interview with RFD-TV. They're definitely putting a lot of effort into this deal. It could be huge. I hope it is. It sure helps someone like me who can't travel."

Owen, a single mom with a young toddler son still at home, said The American qualifier was "the only reason I left my state." The trip, itself, was a profitable one as well, with Fortune winning Saturday's and Sunday's Open to the tune of $2,759 with his qualifier win paying an additional $1,950. His stable mate, Zoom, made three 1D runs and collected $2,008, plus in $1,268 qualifier earnings.

Of the four sub 16-second runs on the weekend, Owen and talented duo had three of them. She said Fortune worked "fabulous."

"With that horse, usually the first run you make on him for the weekend he works a little green," she explained. "I knew the times were going to get crazy tough for The American so I just sent him in there and went with it. He actually got a stride by the second barrel because I had sent him so hard, but he still clocked."

The AAA-gelding, by Dash Ta Fame out of the Corona Cartel mare Already In Love, has plenty of speed to burn. Started by Mary Beth Ogle, Fortune ran as a 5-year-old futurity horse and won the Sand Cup Futurity with Lance Graves. Owen purchased the gelding early this summer.

"I sell everything so I bought him with the intentions of re-selling him," Owen said. "He's a typical Dash Ta Fame. He's unruly and a lot of people don't want to deal with it and I can get around it."

Owen and Fortune posted the fastest time of the event, a 15.678, to win Sunday's Open.

"You couldn't have faulted him anywhere," she said. "One more stride and he was going to go by the first and I said, 'come here' and he did. He's fast, but he can turn just as fast as he can run. He's definitely got it all."

Not surprisingly, her phone is starting to ring off the hook with inquires about the gelding, who has won and placed at nearly all of the open amateur rodeos he's attended.

"My phones ringing on Fortune, so I probably won't have him much longer," said Owen. "It's the name of the game. When you're single like I am and you ride these things for a living, you have to (sell them); it's security."

Should Fortune sell, Owen has a very capable mount in Zoom.

"Zoom just worked like a top," she said. "He was consistent all weekend. He's going to be just as much a factor as Fortune will be. Zoom ran the fastest time of the entire Shootout this year, but caught a barrel. He's a horse with a lack of notoriety, I think. He's been good to me."

Though she usually has a barn full of prospects to sell, Owen has changed the focus of her program somewhat and doesn't even have a futurity horse for next year. "I just started focusing on these open horses and doing my own deal. They started paying my bills and things changed." She purchased her WPRA card for 2014.

"I thought I could sneak into the arena at Mesquite a couple of times," she noted. "I also thought (the pro rodeo in) Fort Worth would suit Fortune."

Other qualifiers to the Mesquite Rodeo Semi-Finals include the first male barrel racer Mark Bugni, riding Bridget Thomas' fabulous futurity horse BT Buddy Stinson; two additional youth riders—Jackie Ganter, qualifying on Guys French Jet, and Cashen Turner,

Headin' For Home

by Mike Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Many people think the voice activated gadgets are some new-fangled idea of this modern electronic age. Not so!!! God spoke the world into existence in the beginning. He created it with His words and, many times, the Scriptures instruct us to use words in our daily lives.

Joyce Meyer is one of the world's leading Bible teachers. She is well known for her TV and radio broadcasts and the nearly 100 books she's written. She said we can change our lives by changing our words. She said, "There is great power and authority in words. The kind of power depends on the kind of words. We can curse our future by speaking evil of it, or we can bless it by speaking well of it."

Proverbs 15:4 says, "A wholesome tongue is a tree of life." Keep a positive outlook on life and speak positive words are good things to remember. Romans 10:9 tells how to ensure salvation by speaking out in faith. Mark 11:23 and 24 tells us we can have what we pray for if we ask in faith.

Use your words to encourage other people. If someone is having a bad day, a compliment could change that person's whole outlook. If our words agree with God, we will have what God says we can have, and we will become what he says we can be.

Once you understand the power in what you say and know how it can have either a positive or negative impact on your life, you'll watch what comes out of your mouth. Prayer in the name of Jesus is a powerful tool that defeats the devil and makes us winners in life. Ask God to help you and read the Scriptures to see how you can speak God's words over your situation and see faith activated results!

Mike Morrison and his wife Sherry are ordained ministers in their own nondenominational church in Gillette, WY. They also travel widely as circuit riders ministering over a large area of the western states.
