WPRA Top 15 Set To Battle In Las Vegas

By Tanya Randall

The curtain has closed on the 2019 WPRA Regular Season with another record-breaking field headed to the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas this December. It took $88,936 to make the WPRA's Top 15, an increase of $1,989 over the previous record set in 2018.

World Title Race

With just $8,259 separating the top three barrel racers the chase for the World Championship will likely be an epic battle between two world champions and one of the most seasoned veterans in the field.

Four-time WNFR qualifier and 2017 WPRA World Champion Nellie Miller and her great homebred mare Rafter W Minnie Reba ("Sister") lead the pack with $154,611. This is their third straight qualification and they have the lowest rodeo count of the Top 15. The minimum requirement is 25. Miller and Sister have 28. The Cottonwood, California, duo set a new NFR average record in 2017 en route to their World Championship. They finished reserve champions in 2018 to Hailey Kinsel and freakishly fast DM Sissy Hayday ("Sister").

The defending World Champion Hailey Kinsel and her wicked mare DM Sissy Hayday ("Sister") are headed to their third straight WNFR. The Cotulla, Texas, team made their WNFR debut in 2017 an explosive one, obliterating the NFR arena record with a 13.11, setting an NFR earnings record of $189,385 and earning the 2017 Reserve World Championship. In 2018, Kinsel and Sister went into the WNFR with a lead and never relinquished it. They, along with the help of her veteran backup Thunder Stones ("T.J.") set the year-end earnings record at $350,700.

This year Kinsel is $5,744 behind Miller with $148,867 won the year and $2,515 just ahead of her future aunt-in-law Lisa Lockhart. Lockhart heads into her 13th WNFR loaded with horsepower. In addition to the much beloved An Okie With Cash ("Louie"), who carried her to two WPRA Reserve Championships in 2014 and 2015 as well as two average titles, 2014 and 2016, the Oelrichs, South Dakota, barrel racer has Alan Woodbury's go-for-broke speedster Rosas Cantina CC ("Rosa") and her youngster Prime Diamond ("Cutter").

With Louie out with an injury after Houston and Rosa at the breeding farm, Lockhart was forced to move Cutter into the No. 1 spot in her trailer. The Prime Talent stepped-up huge, winning the RAM National Circuit Finals Rodeos—which counted this year—and placing well at Austin.

Lockhart had Louie back by the heart of the summer run and the steady Eddie pulled checks at his favorite rodeos. However, it was Rosa that pushed Lockhart into the world title race finishing up for Louie on Championship Sunday at the Calgary Stampede with the $100k win.

Although these three ladies have the current edge, the sheer amount of money to be won at the WNFR gives any qualifier a legitimate shot.

Repeaters

It's been 14 years since Shali Lord ran down the alleyway at the Thomas & Mack. The Lamar, Colorado, barrel racer is headed to Vegas fourth in the standings with $111,776.

Lord, who first qualified with the dynamic bay gelding SX Docs Slider in 2005, rode Spitz Quarter Horses' Freckles Ta Fame ("Can Man") and Frosted In Fame ("Ci Ci") to numerous wins on the season.

Following Lord is two-time World Champion Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi. The dual Colorado and Texas resident won nearly all of her $105,503 on home-raised and trained horses. This is the 13th qualification, and third straight since the birth of her daughter, for Pozzi Tonozzi, who won the world in 2007 and 2009.

Stevi Hillman of Weatherford, Texas, is sixth with $105,335. The now four-time NFR qualifier rode Cauto Fame ("Truck"), owned by Jason and Melissa Mouton, Toni Dixon's Guys R A Mystery ("Sherlock") and her own Luv My Fame during the season.

Jessica Routier is headed to her second straight NFR. The 2018

WPRAs Reserve World Champion earned $96,582 on Fiery Miss West (“Missy”), owned and bred by Gary Westergren. Routier and Missy were also second in the average in 2018.

Ivy Conrado, soon to be Saebens, of Nowata, Oklahoma, is headed to her fourth straight NFR. She won all of her $93,433 on KN Fabs Gift Of Fame (“J Lo”), owned and bred by Kenny Nichols and Dale Barron.

Amber Moore of Kiser, Oregon, is also headed to her fourth straight NFR with $93,059, thanks her great mare CP Dark Moon (“Paige”) and her super backup Blue Duck Down (“Ducky”). The 2016 WPRAs Reserve World Champion finished third in the World in 2018. She and Paige are former NFR arena record holders with a 13.37 in 2016. They also set an NFR earnings record that year at $187,692 until Kinsel broke a year later.

It’s been 21 years since Cheyenne Wimberley ran down the tunnel at the Thomas & Mack. A previous qualifier in 1997 and 1998, Wimberley heads into her third NFR with $90,361. She was blessed with a trailer full of talented horses. She started the season with Dash Ta Suz, owned by Steve Hurlbert, and Streakin Images (“Lex”), owned by Liz Prickett. Later in the season, Robin Weaver’s talented duo KN Fabs Mist Of Fame (“Misty”) and VQ Sucker Punch (“Rocko”) had joined Suz in the trailer.

Incidentally, this is likely the first time full sibling horses will compete against each other at the WNFR with J Lo and Misty having both qualified. Other full siblings have run at the NFR, but they were ridden by the same rider.

The Newcomers

Emily Miller, Dona Kay Rule, Ericka Nelson, Jennifer Sharp and Lacinda Rose will be making their WNFR debut.

Emily Miller of Weatherford, Oklahoma, heads to her first NFR in seventh with $98,145. She won that while holding a full-time job as a dental hygienist for the best office ever—Stephens Family Dentistry.

Emily almost made the NFR in 2017, finishing 17th after her good horse Namgis D 35 (Pipwrench) was injured late season. She spent much of 2018 developing her fabulous string of horses—Pipwrench’s full sister Namgis D 54 (“Foxy”), half-brother Namgis D 33 (“Chongo”) and other youngsters like Biddin On Fame (“Beau”). In what was supposed to be a rebuilding year, Miller remained in the Top 30.

The key, however, was more than just the fact that she had the horsepower. The narrow miss in 2017 and the climb back in 2018 had set her up mentally. She also had a strong support team, which her family helping her make crazy drives so she could be back home in time for work, supportive friends—many of whom seemed to be getting married left and right, and a handsome boyfriend—now fiancé—and his son to keep her grounded.

A solid winter, the best Fourth of July run in the WPRAs and great Stampede experiences in Canada allowed Emily to return closer to home to finish out her circuit, set herself up well for next season, but more important, that NFR jacket she tried on for size two years ago—will now be hers.

Minco, Oklahoma, cowgirl Dona Kay Rule is headed to her first WNFR in ninth with $96,507 all won aboard High Valor. A few years ago, though, it wasn’t Valor who was bringing a twinkle to her eye.

Calm and cool on the exterior, Dona Kay buzzes with energy even when she’s sitting still. She’s a doer and she does a lot. She qualified for the Coors Women’s National Finals Rodeo when they were held at the Lazy E as a team roper and calf roper. In 2006, she was honored with the Pioneer Award for her contributions to women’s rodeo. She shares that award with several members of the National Cowgirl Hall Of Fame like Wanda Bush and Jimmie Munroe, both top all-around hands who made significant gains for the sport outside the arena.

Rule was just starting to have pro rodeo success on a cutting-bred gelding named Juice when tragedy struck. Juice was injured in a freak accident outside the arena at a rodeo.

Dona Kay was forced to season her other horse. You know the one. The horse that’s always quantified as “He’s talented, but I just don’t know.” Once she had to fully devote herself to Valor, he proved to her that he was more than just talented and what she didn’t know was just how High Valor would go.

Ericka Nelson of Century, Florida, heads to the WNFR in 10th with $93,433. She is a study in faith and perseverance because how many times can you try, come close and get up and try again?

Her answer was in a Facebook post from last year, where she wrote, “If it’s not God’s will, you can’t force it. If it is God’s will, you can’t stop it.”

Aboard GoodFrenchmanFriday, owned by Darren Scholl, Nelson was always right there. She’d win some rodeos and place at a lot, but I never got to interview her. She was in the Top 30 the past two years—18th in 2017 and 26th in 2018.

When she got PC Cash (“Bud”) back last fall, Friday had the help he needed to get over that final hurdle. She didn’t just place and win the little ones with the two horses; she was able to win the big ones and give her horses rests instead of having to push until the end.

Bud proved his worth winning rodeos when Friday couldn’t go, and at the end of the season, Friday proved just how dynamic he was—placing at Pendleton on the football field and winning a 14-second coliseum rodeo thousands of miles apart all in one week. They were simply guided by unstoppable faith.

An unrelenting work ethic and a little twist of fate helped Jennifer Sharp qualify for her first NFR in 13th position with $91,754.

A hard-scrabble horse trainer who grew up training her way up from sale barn horses, Sharp knew success on the highest levels with the most unlikely of horses. She parlayed her sale barn flip money into one of the toughest pole bending horses in the nation—a two-time National High School Finals Champion.

Once out of high school, she never stopped training horses. At the local races, she was and still is tough to beat with a string of horses. Since she returned home from her rodeo run, she’s won all but one jackpot she’s entered on horses she trained but let rest over the summer.

Having had made so many horses from questionable backgrounds, Sharp is a talented trainer, but equally masterful jockey. She climbed on the great Slick By Design to take him to his AQHA World Championship. So, when Terri Lamp was looking for someone to ride her mare while she recovered from a severely broken leg, due to said mare, the choice was obvious.

Lamp’s Six French Smooches had an incredible winter for Sharp. She had started running the mare at the 2018 summer pro rodeos at Mesquite, Texas, and made a late season push for her first Texas Circuit Finals qualification. Sharp started out 2019 planning to continue to season Smooch and some of her other young horses when a great winter changed everything.

Sharp won Denver and was second at Fort Worth, and even though she wasn't eligible to enter Houston and San Antonio, she got enough won to go to Calgary. With just one veteran, KR Famous Tequilla, in the trailer, Sharp headed to Canada and won enough on the stallion to qualify for the Canadian Finals Rodeo as well.

"This is my dream since I was little riding sale barn horses. Now that I've done it, I don't know? Should I retire now?" she laughed. That's highly unlikely with her training barn having filled the moment she got home.

In 2016, I had wondered if Lacinda Rose had retired or worse yet her horse was hurt. My first contact with her was tracking the pro rodeo horse for Equi-Stat. She was doing really well with a home-raised horse and then poof. Where'd she go? Well, her youngest of four children is now 3.

Rose of Willard, Missouri, is a two-time Great Lakes Circuit Champion with her family-raised horse RR Meradas Real Deal. She finished 23rd in the WPRA World Standings last year and was really close to the Top 15 until the very end of the season when she went home to focus on her circuit rodeos.

This year, her family pushed and she spent more time on the road this summer. She used experiences from previous years to better manage her horse and herself.

Although it was mathematically possible for Leia Pluemer to catch her in the standings, Rose had enough of a lead to make the decision to limit her rodeos at the end.

"I just picked where I knew he would do good at and I ran him at Texarkana and Omaha, and he didn't disappoint," said Lacinda, who made her circuit count of rodeos for the season at Kansas City. "I ran my daughter's horse at Kansas City because I drew up the same day. He didn't deserve that. He made such a good run at Omaha. He deserved the rest."

Lacinda had finished her season on Friday night and was sitting well enough at Kansas City and Omaha that she turned out of Stephenville. She awaited the official word from home.

"I'm relieved," she chuckled. "I'm very grateful, very thankful. Everyone was so supportive. I'm so thankful for my family. They kept pushing me."

Epic Performance for Epic Guy and Kassie Mowry

By Hope Raley

Kassie Mowry and Kristen Williams' Epic Guy topped the leaderboards at the 2019 Ardmore Barrel Futurity held September 26-29th at the Hardy Murphy Coliseum in Ardmore, Oklahoma. With over $50,000 in added money, the Ardmore Barrel Futurity had the best futurity trainers in the industry vying for their chance at that generous chunk of money. When the dust had settled and the barrels put up, it was the decades #2 top rider Kassie Mowry that topped the talented field of futurity trainers and riders.

The Dublin, Texas trainer and her speedy gray counterpart Epic Guy had a combined time of 29.789-seconds to win the average. They placed 2nd in the first round of the futurity with a 14.800 behind Mark Bugni and JL Lava Roc's 14.780. In the second round, Mowry and the big gray athlete were a 14.989 which landed them 12th in the round. After their win in Ardmore, Epic Guy's LTE are over $165,000 and counting!

Epic Guy "King" is by the standout sire Epic Leader and out of Frenchilicious who is by Frenchmans Guy and out of Shesa Drifters Kid by Rackum On Man. Both "King" and Frenchilicious are owned by Louisiana barrel racer Kristen Williams, and Frenchilicious herself is both a proven performer and proven producer. Although "King" has been a money winner from pretty much day 1 of his barrel racing career, Mowry explains that the first couple of weeks riding him was a bit of a struggle. "He had a hard time going to the left, so he struggled with that," explained Mowry. "He then went through a spell where he had a hard time with his hind lead in a small circle, and its actually still something that we have to consistently work on to keep him sharp on." Mowry explained that even though he is still a 'horse' and has things to work on like any horse, he never would say 'no'. "He always tried to figure out what we wanted him to do and he would always get better each ride. He just aims to please."

Going into Ardmore, Mowry's plan was to keep the barrels up and be sure to ride him hard enough that when he turned, he would clear the barrel. "He always shuts the clock off," Mowry said. "He never really makes any big mistakes."

"King" has more of a four-wheel drive style and runs all the way to the barrel, never shutting down before Mowry gives him the cue to start preparing for the turn.

"He runs until I tell him to turn, and sometimes he will swap ends really hard and then come back on the backside super hard, and sometimes when that happens, we will drag the barrel over coming out of the turn. I knew that I just had to ride him all the way to the barrel and keep him driving around it and we would be clean."

Mowry keeps "King's" barrel work at home pretty minimal and always does the same thing on the pattern if he does need to be worked. "I just do a lot of riding during the week, not a bunch of barrel work, but if he does need to be worked, I do most of my slow work at a trot. I trot to the barrel, then break to a long walk, circle the barrel the same I would in a run, then trot him to the next barrel. I stay very consistent and tune him, and the rest of my horses, exactly how I want them to run. No big circles, no counter-arching, nothing like that. Horses are creatures of habit, so consistency is key, and I have seen the best results in my program from working them that way."

Consistency, repetition and making sure her horses are soft and responsive are Mowry's biggest assets when it comes to training the perfect barrel horse. "Although it may look like my horses may have more of a straighter, stiffer turning style, they are very, very soft and will flex and bend with ease," Mowry explains. "I was a three-day eventer before I got started in the futurities, and I feel like I still ride my horses the same way I did when I was riding English-keeping them up in the bridle, in my hands. I do a lot of extension and collection and incorporate that into my training on the barrel pattern. I guess you could say that I strive to have the same frame on my barrel horses that dressage horses work on, and I have mirrored what I learned riding English onto my barrel horses."

With the 2019 futurity season coming to an end, Mowry and “King” have several more weekends filled with runs including the WPRM World Finals, WRAPN3 Texas Fall Barrel Classic, BFA and OKC Futurity. After the season comes to an end, Mowry isn’t sure yet what the future holds for her and “King.”

“Kristen (King’s owner) runs barrels too, so I am sure she will be dying to swing a leg over him and see what he’s like.”

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Do you ever consider what the 'abundant life' means to you? I'm thinking it's probably different for each one of us. Just like we are all made in God's image, we're all humans, there is NOT ONE person alike.

So it would stand to reason that what abundance means to me, wouldn't even be a blip on your radar. But when Jesus told us in John 10:10, 'The thief does not come except to steal, and to kill, and to destroy.

I (Jesus) have come that they may have life, and that they may have it MORE ABUNDANTLY", we should give it some heed. There are so many promises in the Bible for us. We just don't see them. We should.

Jesus came to give us life MORE ABUNDANTLY. So if we're lacking anything today, Jesus came so we could turn that around. Pray and ask Him to show you more of His provision this week! It's one of the reason He came! And I'm personally so thankful He did!
