Jordan Harrell & Playin N Vegas Top Inaugural Futurity at Ocala's World Equestrian Center

By Tanya Randall

Jordan Harrell and Playin N Vegas ("Peppy") topped the $25,000-added Futurity at the inaugural running of The Championship Show Barrel Futurity at the new World Equestrian Center in Ocala, Florida.

Harrell and the 4-year-old mare, owned and trained by Jute Wright of Bethel, North Carolina, collected $5,825 for winning the Futurity, plus added $4,554 from open carryovers to earn $10,279 on the weekend.

"There's just something about that horse that's different from the others," said Harrell, who hails from Hazlehurst, Georgia. "She's got the mentality, she's got the grit, and she's got a great attitude about it. She just loves it. Lord, she loves it.

"The way that horse turns is so unreal to me! It's so different from anything else I've ever ridden. She doesn't require much during the week. She's easy, yet she's still good. Sometimes I ask myself if I'm doing enough when I get to the barrel race. There's three days of exhibitions, and I exhibition one day and the rest of the time I'm contemplating—I don't feel like I need to exhibition these other days, but at the same time, I don't feel like I'm doing enough!"

Bred by Ronny Bumpus of Lampasas, Texas, Peppy is by the late leading barrel horse sire French Streaktovegas out of Peppy Playtari, by Ninas Peppy Doc. The mare was trained by Wright, who sent her to Harrell for seasoning.

"He doesn't get to go as much as he used to," said Harrell, 20. "I started exhibiting her at the end of her 3-year-old year. I ran her some when she was first eligible to run. In the beginning, it was a little bit shaky, but I think that was just having a new rider." Harrell didn't ride the mare from February to April, but she's been in her barn ever since.

"She might as well be mine because I take care of her like she's mine," she laughed. "She's been doing great!"

In Ocala, Harrell and Peppy had some ground trouble in the first round but placed third with a 17.044 on a staked standard pattern. "She was last on the ground and I think she just had some ground trouble," said Harrell. "I knew she still had a lot left in her because it wasn't one of her top-notch runs."

They ran away with the second round with a victorious 16.570. "The second day, she was top of the ground and everything fell in where she needed it to be," said Harrell, who added the large pattern left her breathless.

"There were 30 in the futurity and I had three in it," she explained. "It was huge, running the pattern. I felt it was never going to end! I don't know how my horses had the stamina to do it. It would take me ten horses to catch my breath! I was not ready for the next horse when I got on!"

The Standard set was totally different from what she's used to running in the Southeast.

"We have small traps on ridiculously deep ground," she explained. "This was totally different. "The pattern was huge and the ground at Ocala was a little firmer than most of them are."

Harrell said the WEC did really well for its first barrel race.

"It's so immaculate," she said of the facility. "There are arenas everywhere. The bars were super cool when it was hot and they were warmer at night. The stall mats were incredible. Each stall has its own personal fan. Everything is all on the grounds—res-

Harrell wanted to thank her mother Jerimie for all her help, her boyfriend Cade Edwards, who stayed home to take care of the horses, her veterinarian Nate Lea and farrier Jason Ennis and Wright for the opportunity to ride Peppy.

"I got a second horse from him this past weekend," she said of Wright. "I'm also riding Lovin Vegas, which another friend owns, that he trained. They're all awesome. He's the best!"

Shali Lord Sweeps Mountain States Circuit Titles

By Tanya Randall

Multiple National Finals Rodeo qualifier Shali Lord of Lamar, Colorado, swept the Mountain States Circuit, winning both the Circuit Finals, held October 22-23 in Loveland, Colorado, and the year-end title.

With the injury to Spitz Quarter Horses great Freckles Ta Fame ("Can Man"), Lord turned to her own 11-year-old mare Frosted In Fame ("CeCe") for the Circuit Finals. She and CeCe won the first round, placed fourth in the third to win the aggregate and $5,365—which counts toward the 2022 World Standings.

"For CeCe to come in and win the average, it was a nice way to end a tough season," said Lord. "She made three great runs all weekend. The second run she slipped at the third barrel—we were last out—and she recovered really well. She really likes that arena. It's a little smaller pen. The ground was really good and she fired hard and worked good."

Bred by Kelly Arizmendi, CeCe is a daughter of all-time leading barrel horse sire Dash Ta Fame out of the Sun Frost, Judge Cash mare Judges Fancy Frost. CeCe has been in Lord's barn for three years.

"The last couple of years I've been easing her into the rodeos," Lord said. "She hadn't really been to the rodeos when I got her. Jenna Cadwallader (Duhon) and Susan Siggins both had ran her some for Kelly. They both had done a great job with her."

Lord said transitioning between Can Man and CeCe wasn't difficult.

"She has a different style," she noted. "She's really gritty and really powerful. She runs really hard. As far as transitioning over it wasn't really hard. Before when we'd go to the rodeos, I'd plan out where I knew he liked and where I thought she would excel at." When Can Man got hurt on September 2 in Filer, Idaho, CeCe was pressed into service.

"We were sitting 16th in the World Standings, and moving up, when he got hurt," said Lord. "She was going to go to Fort Madison (Iowa), while Can Man was in the Northwest. My dad and a friend had to drive all night to get her to me. She did really good. I hit a barrel to make the short round at Puyallup and Pendleton. That was a little bit costly."

Lord finished the year 19th in the WPRCA World Standings with $48,131. She had won $20,377 before the circuit finals to win her fourth Mountain States year-end title.

She said she doesn't really have any concrete plans for 2022.

"Our world has been turned upside down with Can Man getting hurt," she said. "As far as next year, it will probably be just one rodeo at a time and see how she does. We're qualified for all the winter rodeos so we'll go to all of them and see how it goes."

Can Man is currently recovering in Idaho and will not stand to the public in 2022 so he can continue to heal.

"His health is our main priority," said Lord. "Whatever it takes to get him well is what we're going to do."

She was also honored that Can Man was once again named horse with the most heart and horse of the year for the Mountain States Circuit.

"He's won both of those four times," she said. "It was really neat that all the barrel racers voted for him even though he's injured."

Homegrown Horses Carry Kacey Gartner & Cheyenne Allan To Columbia River Circuit Titles

By Tanya Randall

Cheyenne Allan of Mabton, Washington, won the Columbia River Circuit Championship aboard her 8-year-old homebred gelding RCA Royal Flush, collecting $21,083 on the season, while Kacey Gartner of Walla Walla, Washington, topped the Columbia River Circuit Finals Rodeo, held October 21-23 in Redmond, Oregon, aboard her 9-year-old homebred mare Rebel Look.

Allan, a two-time circuit champion, started the season on her 16-year-old mare RCA Mollys Honor before deciding it was time for RCA Royal Flush (“Three”) to step into the spotlight.

“This year it was his year,” she said. “I felt like he could handle it. I ran Molly a couple times and she was just a tick off of winning things or one out of the money. She was 16 and just thought I’d rather pay my entry fees and my dues with a young horse than an old horse that’s been there, done that and has slipped a notch, at least I’ll have a product when I’m done.”

Three stepped up and won his first rodeo in Coulee City, Washington.

“He was last out on the ground, last out for the entire rodeo and he wins the rodeo!” beamed Allan. She and her husband Randy bred the gelding by Not A Bad Deal out of In Honor Of Sandy, by In Honor Of Leo. “He’s really a cool, cool horse. He’s big. He has big bone. He has a wonderful mind. I’ve never rode a horse like him. He’s really unique.”

Their season wasn’t without its ups and downs.

“Every weekend we’d go to a rodeo and Randy and I would come home and change a bit,” she explained. “By the end of the season, he got more comfortable with the routine and everything fell into place.”

She said she got her big boost at the Pendleton Round-Up, where all of her horses have excelled in recent years.

“I don’t know if my horses (like Pendleton), but I sure do,” said Allan, who finished third in the aggregate there. “I think it was the way I was raised out in the country in sage brush and hills. Running across at Pendleton doesn’t faze me one bit. When I get my horses ready, I take them across varying terrain with variable footing and get them in really good shape.”

Three also carried Allan to third at the Circuit Finals Rodeo.

“He’d never been in a building like that,” she said. “He’d never had a crowd up above his head. I was really tickled with him on his first run but I kind of let my guard down on my second. I thought,

‘Well, he did good on his first run. I’ll just take him in and ride him around and let him see it’s OK.’ Well, I should have done more homework. He did OK, but he could have done better. The third round, they had open arena that morning so we went in and did some homework, and he ran very well.”

Allan said her winter rodeo plans are on hold until she finds out if she gets into the winter building rodeos. She finished 57th in the WPRA World Standing with $17,923 all won in the Columbia River Circuit.

“If I can get into any of the winter rodeos, I’ll go south,” she said. “If I don’t, I’ll just stay home and get ready for the new year.”

After finishing second in the aggregate at the last two regular circuit finals—2020 was an outlier since there were no rodeos held in the circuit that year—Kasey Gartner was determined to win the rodeo.

“I told Steve Kenyon (the announcer) going in that this is my year, I’m not going to be second! I’m going to win the average!” she said.

Gartner and Rebel Look (“Mercedes”) were second in the first and third rounds and topped the aggregate with super consistent runs of 16.58, 16.59 and 16.54 to win $5,280.

“I was so pleased with her,” she said. “I had not got to compete on her since Pendleton (mid-September). My daughter’s horse got hurt so she jumped on Mercedes for her last few high school rodeos. I didn’t get back on her until a week before circuit finals. I took her to a jackpot the weekend before and she worked great. I went in there confident. She’s great indoors. She makes the same trip every time. She’s so consistent and honest. I was just so pleased with her. She walks into those buildings so confident that it gives me confidence to let her work, enjoy her and what she does best.” Gartner, a hairstylist, actually got Mercedes by accident. She had her dam, Jo Jos Dasher, a Twaynas Dash daughter, because she had produced A Dash Of Royal Gold gelding that she liked. She got another full sibling out of the mare before the stallion died. Since she wasn’t having any luck getting the mare in foal, she called Brad and Karen Gleason, who own JD Look, a Strawfly Special, On A High stallion.

“We were successful. We had no idea what was on our hands at the time,” she said. “I’m so blessed that it all worked out like it did with her.”

Gartner ran Mercedes as a 4-year-old futurity horse. At 6, the mare won the VGBRA Barrel Daze Derby. Gartner’s husband Chance, a steer wrestler, convinced her that she needed to rodeo. “He bought my card and started entering me,” she said. “The very first rodeo we went to was Central Point, Oregon, and we won that. Pendleton cinched circuit finals for me in 2018.”

In 2019, the pair made the circuit finals again and also qualified for The American Semifinals. In 2020, Gartner took five weeks off from work and headed to Texas, where she and Mercedes made it all the way to AT&T Stadium for The American.

She was home two weeks when COVID shut down the salon business. Her grand plans to rodeo through the shutdown ended in May when she was bucked off and injured. Gartner had to have surgery to repair her separated shoulder and was laid up until October.

Even though the 2021 rodeo season was more normal, Gartner’s wasn’t.

“My daughter high school rodeos,” she explained. “I got to go to a couple early spring. I didn’t even get to go over the Fourth of July. We’ve got some really good rodeos that I didn’t get to go to because TRAINING/CONDITIONING: Normally, she gets a day of rest, sometimes two, after a weekend of rodeos. My busiest days in the salon are usually Mondays and Tuesday. We breakaway and heel on her just to give her something else to do. She’s a free runner and I feel the roping really keeps her working on her hind end. Lots of long trotting and loping for conditioning. I kind of treat her like a colt, so lots of breaking down and making her move all her body parts, especially when I warm up.

my daughter qualified for the Silver State International Rodeo, so we went there. I didn’t really start rodeoing until mid-July.

“It was a short rodeo season, but it felt like I was going full speed. I’d get somewhere, run and go back home to go to work. Once we were able to open the salon up fully, we’ve been so busy. I’ve actually worked more hours than ever.”

Her success in Texas in early 2020 has Gartner itching to try again, but she’s torn with her wanting to be involved with her children’s activities. Her 12-year-old son also started rodeoing a bit, too, so she doesn't want to miss out.

"Last year was a big eye opener, trying to figure out how to be a cheerleader for her and still rodeo," she said. "Lisa Lockhart stayed up the road here this summer and I asked her, mother-to-mother, how do you do this? My dream is to make it to the Finals on (Mercedes). I know she would be deadly in that pen. I feel like she deserves to be there."

Gartner wanted to thank her family for all their support, especially her husband for encouraging her to step out of her comfort zone. She also wanted to thank the Gleasons for their breeding program.

"And always, Glory to God!" she said. "Going into this weekend I just said a prayer—if it is in Your will, I accept whatever doors you want to open, or if this is a door that needs to close for me, I trust His plan. I felt like He's trying to tell me I'm not done yet."

Wrangler National Finals Breakaway Roping moving to Las Vegas

Top 15 breakaway ropers will compete for $200,000 in prize money

The Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association® (PRCA) and Women's Professional Rodeo Association (WPRA) are proud to announce the Wrangler National Finals Breakaway Roping will take place at the Orleans Arena in Las Vegas December 6-7, 2021.

The Top 15 breakaway ropers will compete for prize money of $200,000 during the two-day, 10-round performance that will be produced by the PRCA in conjunction with Group W Productions.

"The continued success and growth of breakaway roping since the National Finals Breakaway Roping in Arlington, Texas, last year has made it clear that the NFBR should come to Vegas with the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo," PRCA CEO Tom Glause said.

In addition to the prize money, a Montana Silversmiths world champion buckle and custom Cactus Saddlery world champion saddle will be awarded, along with Montana Silversmiths go-round buckles after every round.

"The growth over the last two years for ladies breakaway roping at PRCA rodeos has been phenomenal and the popularity of the event continues to grow exponentially," said Jimmie Munroe, WPRA President. "We are excited to join with the PRCA in bringing this caliber of roping to Las Vegas for the first time with the second annual Wrangler National Finals Breakaway Roping at the Orleans. The ladies of the WPRA have worked hard this year and traveled many miles to make their dreams come true in Las Vegas as they compete for a world title alongside the National Finals Rodeo."

The performances will be at 1 p.m. (PST) each day, with five rounds Dec. 6 and five rounds Dec. 7. Tickets go on sale Friday, Oct. 22 at 10 a.m. (PT). Ticket information may be found at orleansarena.com/events. For more information, go to Prorodeo.com or WPRA.com.

"I am very excited and honored that our venue at the Orleans Hotel & Casino, home of the ALL IN Breakaway, will be hosting the National Finals Breakaway Roping and look forward to the opportunity to give these top 15 Breakaway Champions the visibility and platform they deserve," said event producer Chris Woodruff of Group W Productions.

The 2020 National Finals Breakaway Roping took place at Globe Life Field in Arlington in conjunction with the NFR.

Last year, Jackie Crawford captured the inaugural National Finals Breakaway Roping world championship. It was Crawford's 20th WPRA world championship and third in breakaway roping.

The PRCA and WPRA have worked together for several years to promote breakaway roping and grow the sport. Crowning the 2021 world champion at the Wrangler National Finals Breakaway Roping in Las Vegas during the Wrangler NFR is another step to establishing break away roping as a fan favorite in professional rodeo. Both performances of the 2021 Wrangler National Finals Breakaway Roping will be streamed live for free on the Wrangler Network.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

One of the things I hear often as a pastors' wife is, "My prayers aren't getting any higher than the ceiling." Prayer doesn't have to come out of your mouth, travel through the roof, and then go on a journey at the speed of light to reach God somewhere out in the ozone. They don't have to get any higher than your nose!

When you ask Jesus to be your Lord, the Holy Spirit comes to live on the inside of you! He hears your prayers!

Next question, "Why aren't my prayers getting answered?" Well, are you praying what the Bible says or what you THINK it says?

That was a hard thing for me when I was young in the Lord. I thought I was praying good. But honestly, I didn't know enough about what God said to ever be able to pray right. I even argued with the Sunday School teacher... so embarrassing now.

When you pray what the Bible promises, you are guaranteed success. Need healing? You can stand on I Pet. 2:24. Finances? Luke 6:38. And so on. If God said it, you can have it. The only thing stopping you in life and hindering your success, is how much you know about the Word of God.

Simple. Easy. Fun. Exciting! Spend time with God in His Word this week and win!
