Clean Sweep For Christina Mulford & PanamasCharlieHarly In The First Frontier

By Tanya Randall

Christina Mulford of Franklinville, New Jersey, and the 20-year-old wonder horse PanamasCharlieHarly swept the First Frontier Circuit Finals, held October 23-25 in Harrington, Delaware.

"He is phenomenal, that's for sure," said Mulford of the Joe and Judy Merola-owned gelding. "Harly had three beautiful runs." Mulford and Harly topped all three rounds to win the aggregate by more than a full second.

"We were first out the first run," she recalled. "I wasn't too sure what to expect on the ground so we just made a nice, solid safe run for both of us. The second night I just wanted to repeat exactly what we did the night before. We were last out on the ground. The ground crew did a phenomenal job. I wanted to level him out just a little bit more between one and two. He tends to get just a tad high. We did the same thing on the third run, just make a smooth, clean run like we have been."

Their clean sweep was worth $7,695. With circuit finals money counting toward the WPRA World Standings, Mulford sits No. 2 in the 2021 standings. She also topped the year-end standings thanks in part to their domination of their local rodeo in Woodstown, New Jersey—Cowtown.

Mulford, who has three year-end titles and two circuit finals titles with Harly, grew up going to the Cowtown rodeo with her parents. "Every week as a little kid I would go and watch," she recalled. "I just loved watching those girls and that's what I wanted to do. I did show Quarter horses and went to (the All-American Quarter Horse) Congress. I did youth rodeos. Of course, it was my dream when I turned 18 to buy my permit and run at Cowtown."

In the fall of 2016, she got the opportunity to ride Harly, who had already carried two other riders to the First Frontier Circuit Finals. "He's cool," she said. "He's a gentleman. He's very easy to work with and great to haul to other places. He's just so laid-back and easy-going in that respect."

She said there are no plans to retire the 20-year-old gelding, by Panama Edition, out of Special Triangle, by Hawkin's Special (TB).

"He's obviously very healthy and running great," she said. "He'll be the one to tell us."

Mulford wanted to thank the Merolas for the opportunity to ride Harley. She also wanted to thank her parents and boyfriend Brian Frattaroli for all their support.

She was also very grateful to have the opportunity to run at a circuit finals. The First Frontier Circuit Finals are usually held at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, in early January, but COVID caused them to reschedule and relocate.

"We were very lucky to have it," she said. "I thought everything went very well. It was a very nice time. We were able to have spectators, but it was a limited number. Friday night there wasn't as many in the stands. Saturday night had a good crowd. Sunday had a good

Repeat Win For Kelly Yates & Fiestanozshesfamous at Mountain States Circuit Finals

By Tanya Randall

For the second straight year, 2001 WPRA Reserve World Champion Barrel Racer Kelly Yates and her homebred mare Fiestanozshesfamous ("Gucci") topped the Mountain State Circuit Finals, held October 23-24 in Loveland, Colorado.

"I'm so shocked!" said the Pueblo, Colorado, barrel racer and trainer. "When I was walking out, they said something and I thought, 'Nah, I didn't hear that right!' The other barrel racers kept saying, 'Congratulations,' and I was like, 'What for?' They said I won the average and I was like, 'No way!' I had no idea! I was shocked and very happy!"

Lake Mehalic of Fort Collins, Colorado, captured the year-end circuit championship and will join Yates representing the Mountain States at the RAM National Circuit Finals Rodeo, tentatively scheduled for Kissimmee, Florida, next spring.

Yates, who has four year-end circuit titles on her resume, and Gucci came from behind to take the Circuit Finals Championship. Wendy Hoefler of Fort Lupton, Colorado, and WK Tres Margaritas led the average after winning the first round and taking second in the next.

Meanwhile, Yates and Gucci were third in the first round—in spite of Yates' inability to see. Like fellow barrel racer Ivy Saebens, Yates had her glasses fog up when she ran into the warm building from the crisp outdoors.

"I ran in and when I hit the lights, my glasses fogged up!" she laughed. "I was like 'Girlfriend, you're on your own! You better do your job because I have no idea where I'm going!' It was crazy!"

They were two holes out of the money in the second round, but still less than .15 behind Hoefler in the average going into the third. Yates and Gucci turned in their fastest run of the rodeo to place fourth in the third round and edge Hoefler for the championship.

Yates' winner's share was $3,252.

Following the victory, Yates was overcome by emotion. The win with Gucci brought back so many memories of the mare's mother, Firewater Fiesta, now an industry icon. Gucci, 9, is by Dash Ta Fame and out of the great mare that carried Yates to three of her four National Finals Rodeo qualifications including her 2001 Reserve World Championship.

Yates says Gucci is a lot like Fiesta through her demeanor. "She just wants to go in and work," she said. "She's a little more personable than Fiesta was, but not a whole lot. Just warming one up, just a whole lot of her actions and stuff are so much like her momma it's crazy."

Gucci, though, has a little more self-preservation than her mom. "She gives her all, don't get me wrong, but she's a little more conservative,” said Yates, who noted that Fiesta’s aggression was a large reason for the soundness issues that plagued her throughout her career. “Since Fiesta, I’ve been so paranoid about where I’m going to run (Gucci) because of her momma.”

Yates even bought Molson Canadian Gal to have an experienced mount for the more challenging rodeo conditions. “When I bought Molson, I didn’t really need her, but she could NFR qualifier J.D. Yates for their father, Dick, also an NFR qualifier and longtime horseman.

"I was okay for the first month and then it was like I've done everything I can do, now what?" she laughed. "As far as what we do, everyone did the same thing—we've got to feed and we've got to ride—it's just hard to make any money because there was nowhere to go."

Yates was grateful to the committees that stepped up and had their rodeos. She was particularly proud of the job done by the Westcliffe, Colorado, committee.

"They'd been an amateur rodeo for a long time," she said. "Like, I ran there as a little girl. When they decided to go pro rodeo this year, I went up to help with the ground. Everyone was able to place from every performance and slack. They just went above and beyond to help us try to make a living even though it helped us more than it helped them."

Yates says she's also grateful to have had the Mountain States Circuit Finals

"We had always had the circuit finals in the other building, but they put cement down," she explained. "It was supposedly for this pandemic. They moved (the rodeo) to the Budweiser and they had to move ground in there. It was a lot more expensive than they had planned. There were no spectators, not even companions. It's hard to produce a circuit finals when you can't have any spectators to have any income. Everyone just went above and beyond this year, everyone."

in the next to win the average.

"I wasn't thinking I was going to win all that!" she exclaimed. "I struggle with him because he's so powerful. He runs so hard that I sit up too early, he slows down and then rolls the barrels as I leave. My goal was to work so hard to get by those barrels!"

Todd was also extremely grateful to have a circuit finals for the barrel racers as the money counts toward the WPRA World Standings for 2020. With all the other circuits scheduled to host a finals, Turquoise members were at a disadvantage until the Mesquite event was put together.

"I didn't know until the week before," said Todd. "My cell service at the ranch isn't the best so when I joined I put down my home phone. Well, I wasn't getting any of the texts. One of my friends noticed and said something to me. I had no idea until the week before that we were going to have a circuit finals." Since it's against WPRA rules to have a jackpot on rodeo stakes, the barrels were marked differently for the circuit finals runs, which were held Friday before the first rodeo performance and after slack on Saturday morning.

"I'm so glad we had it," Todd said. "Those girls did a really good job. I'm really excited since that money really makes a difference in the standings."

Todd is hoping to make it into the building rodeos this winter. Not knowing if they would have a Turquoise Circuit Finals or not, she had even made the trip out for the Heart O' Texas Rodeo in Waco, Texas, earlier in the month to have an opportunity to win enough to be high enough in the 2021 WPRA World Standings for the upcoming limited entry rodeos. She currently sits No. 4 in the standings with $6,118.

Her next rodeo and last for 2020 will be a co-approved circuit rodeo in Brawley, California.

WCRA and PBR Announces Top Four Leaderboard Athletes Advancing to the Main Event of the Historic Women's Rodeo World Championship

Leaderboard pool roster of 60 athletes per discipline also revealed ahead of the $750,000 event slated to be held in tandem with the 2020 PBR World Finals: Unleash The Beast in Texas

AUSTIN, Texas- Ahead of the inaugural, $750,000 Women's Rodeo World Championship, WCRA (World Champions Rodeo Alliance) and PBR (Professional Bull Riders) have announced the Top 4 leaderboard athletes per discipline that will automatically advance to the main event of the historic, all-women's sporting championship.

Sixty additional women's rodeo all-stars from each discipline have also been revealed as the first group of contestants to advance to the pool competition, set to comprise the WCRA Leaderboard Pool for the landmark Women's Rodeo World Championship.

The Women's Rodeo World Championship will pay equal money in all four competing disciplines (breakaway roping, barrel racing and team roping, heading and heeling). Each discipline champion will collect $60,000, while the All Around Champion will earn a $20,000 bonus.

The championship event will hold its qualifying rounds from November 8-12 at the Will Rogers Memorial Center in Fort Worth Texas, with the final six from each of the four disciplines advancing to run at AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas alongside the 2020 PBR World Finals: Unleash The Beast. Competing from November 13-15, team roping will compete on Nov. 13, followed by barrel racing on Nov. 14 and breakaway roping on Nov. 15.

The following athletes in each discipline earned the top four spots on the Women's Rodeo World Championship leaderboard (W20) in their respected disciplines by nominating their efforts on the Virtual Rodeo Qualifier (VRQ) and will be directly seeded into the main event:

Breakaway Roping: JJ Hampton, Josie Conner, Kelsie Chase, Hope Thompson

Barrel Racing: Hallie Hanssen, Chenessa McGraw, Maggie Polonco, Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi

Heading: Lari Dee Guy, Bev Robbins, Kayelen Helton, Jackie Crawford

Heeling: Kelsie Chase, Danielle Lowman, Lorraine Moreno, Jessy Remsburg

The athletes ranked No. 5-64 on the W20 leaderboard will compete in two preliminary rounds of competition to qualify into the main event. A roster of all athletes competing in the WCRA Leaderboard pool can be found HERE.

Athletes who did not earn a position on the WCRA Leaderboard can still compete in the championship event through the open pools. Open entries for the Women's Rodeo World Championship will remain open until October 25 at 11:59 p.m. CT. Entry fees are $750 and are taken on entrytool.com. All female athlete's ages 13 and up are eligible to enter the event.

The Women's Rodeo World Championship will be carried on a CBS Sports Network telecast, and streamed LIVE on RidePass, available at RidePass.com or via the RidePass app available on iOS, Android and Roku

Tickets for the 2020 PBR World Finals: Unleash The Beast are on sale now and can be purchased online at ATTStadium.com or SeatGeek.com, or via the phone to PBR Customer Service at (800) 732-1727.

Mayor Betsy Price to Keynote 2020 PRCA Convention

Fort Worth leader to headline 'Challenge of Change' event

Fort Worth Mayor Betsy Price will be the keynote speaker at the 2020 Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) Convention in Fort Worth, Texas.

The mayor will address convention attendees at the Fort Worth Convention Center on Tuesday, December 1, at 10:45 a.m. (CT). The gathering of PRCA members precedes the biggest event on ProRodeo's annual calendar, the Wrangler® National Finals Rodeo (NFR) at nearby Globe Life Field, December 3-12, 2020.

"We are honored that Mayor Price will keynote our convention," said George Taylor, chief executive officer of the PRCA. "This is a woman who has successfully led through extraordinary change. She is helping to safely revive Fort Worth and was the leader in bringing the NFR to Texas, this year. We couldn't have a better keynote speaker on the docket."

The theme for this year's convention is Challenge of Change, and Mayor Price will address attendees on the challenges that she has witnessed in her career and the positive change she is bringing to her community.

"Change has been at the center of 2020 and I'm so impressed with the way ProRodeo is navigating the challenges that we have all faced throughout this difficult year," Price said. "I credit much of that to the cowboy spirit that permeates rodeo. We know that the cowboy is unique; strong, patient, hardworking and dedicated. You don't get through what we've all been through without strength, patience, faith, hard work and dedication."

Fort Worth is cowboy culture and the perfect venue for this year's convention, which is presented by Visit Fort Worth and the Fort Worth Sports Commission.

Convention attendees will discuss what enabled ProRodeo to overcome the unexpected challenges of the 2020 season and the changes facing professional sports in the years ahead. Randy Bracher, of the Pendleton Rodeo Committee, will moderate a Fireside Chat to review the experiences of rodeo committees this season from across the country. As in prior years, the convention will feature the State of the PRCA address from Taylor as well as the PRCA Member Tradeshow.

The PRCA National Convention is the annual meeting of the organization's members. It is the gathering to review the achievements of the prior year and lay out new strategic areas of improvement for the year ahead. The evenings are highlighted with fan favorites: the PRCA Welcome Reception and the PRCA Annual Awards Banquet to recognize the extraordinary achievements of PRCA members.

Fort Worth is the city of cowboys and cowboy culture. It is the 13th largest city in the United States. Fort Worth will have plenty to see for conventioners including more than 200 open-air patio restaurants and miles of walking trails. The Culture District alone boasts the nation's No. 1 Fort Worth Zoo, as well as the National Cowgirl Museum and Hall of Fame, and the Fort Worth Botanic Garden.

The 2020 PRCA National Convention will span two venues in Fort Worth, the Omni Fort Worth Hotel and Fort Worth Convention Center. Registration will be limited and is open for PRCA members and their guests at www.prcaconvention.com.

A relaxed attitude lengthens a man's life; jealousy rots it away.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Wyoming has entered into her normal social distancing season...winter! It's about two months early but we can thank global warming for that... LOL!

Okay. Let's be serious here. Mike was teaching us about being desensitized. Since I would assume that most of you reading this are horse people in some form, you are probably familiar with the current training technique of desensitizing your horse. You expose them to things a little at a time until they get used to it. Little by little you are able to increase what you are doing until you can pop a flag right over their head and they are great with it.

The world is trying to do that with us, the church. Just expose us to a little sin until we are alright with it, then add something bigger. Well, here we are. How is this working for us? It's not!

Romans 12:21 commands us to overcome evil with good, not go along with evil. Is. 5:20 warns us, "Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil; who put darkness for light, and light for darkness. . . .". Ps. 34:14, "Depart from evil and do good. . . .".

Is this confusing? No. God loves us and He wants only good for us. All that is required is obedience. Stuffing our heads in the sand and doing nothing is not the answer.

What can we do? Read His Word! Do what it says! Vote for morality! Stand up! Speak up! Don't back up or give up! Together we can make a great change!

Mike and Sherry Morrison pastor "Church at the Barn" in Gillette, WY. They also travel to other areas ministering at barrel races, ranches, rodeos, churches and home Bible studies.
