Raise Your Glasses – Ashley Thompson & Seis Shots Of Crown Top All-American Quarter Horse Congress Sweepstakes

By Tanya Randall

An amateur on a late-started 4-year-old futurity horse threw down with some of the best in the business in the 117-entry, $20,000-added All-American Quarter Horse Congress Barrel Racing Sweepstakes, sponsored by Universal Media.

Ashley Thompson of Clayton, Michigan, and Seis Shots Of Crown turned in the fastest time of the Sweepstakes in the short round to take the average title and $9,284.

“She did fantastic against some crazy, insanely talented horses and riders,” said Thompson. “Being in that last group with Pete (Oen) and Brandon (Cullins)...being in that last group—it’s just incredible to run with people like that! My goal was just to make the short round. I was petting my horse a lot and saying thank you for doing this for me.”

Thompson had purchased Seis as a 2-year-old from her friend Valerie Vansickle, whose parents, Bruce and Connie, raised the daughter of Tres Seis out of LK Crown, a daughter of Sun Frost out of the Thoroughbred mare Silver Shoon. Incidentally, LK Crown was bred and raised by Leo Kay, father of Aimee Kay, who raised Tammy Fischer’s NFR mount LK Sheza Hayday.

CONDITIONING/TRAINING REGIMEN: “I walk and trot around the barrels at home once a week. I ride her a couple of times a week and I’ll lounge her. I haven’t had to tune on her a lot. She really doesn’t take a lot. She’s got a very big personality and likes to know when she did well. That’s where you win her over.”

Vansickle’s Tres Seis mare Seis So Sweet had won the 2011 Congress Sweepstakes with Lance Graves. It was Thompson’s admiration for that mare that pushed her to buy the filly and consequently call her Seis too.

“Valerie’s mom Connie was one of the first people to me after I won,” laughed Thompson. “She handed me the phone and it was Valerie, just screaming. She was so happy and excited for me.” Thompson, who grew up in a rodeo, horse-raising family, had high hopes for Seis from the very beginning, but her world came crashing down in January of 2017. While stepping off of Seis, Thompson’s knee gave way, forcing her to have reconstructive surgery.

Seis, who was loping up to the barrels and trotting around them, ended up having more than a year off. Thompson’s husband worked the filly in the roundpen and a friend would occasionally ride her, but until March of 2018, Seis basically idled.

“When I was cleared to ride, I was with my mom and decided to lope through and see where we were at. She did so good. I decided to go a little faster, and she did great again. The next day, I went to run a set and it all fell apart,” she chuckled. “When I started entering her in April, she maybe had three weeks of barrels on her. The break did her so well."

Thompson and Seis won the Indiana Futurity in September and earned the Michigan Barrel Futurity Association's Year-End Championship in spite of their late start.

"She just loves running barrels," says Thompson, who is a licensed massage therapist and nail technician, "that's what keeps getting her stronger. I don't hardly ever tune on her. She's just come into herself so quickly."

In Columbus, Thompson and Seis finished 13th with a 15.137 in the first go of the Sweepstakes on Thursday. The round was won by Brandon Cullins on Robin Weaver's VQ Sucker Punch with a 14.836.

They had Friday off before making two runs on Saturday in the Junior Barrels and the 2nd Go of the Sweepstakes. Unfortunately, the Junior barrels didn't go quite like Thompson had hoped.

"It was a long walk back to the stalls after the Junior Horse," said Thompson. "I was in tears. She was even disappointed. She wasn't even expecting her treat after that run even though I gave her one anyway."

At the stalls, her husband, Jason, a non-horse person who caught onto the game quickly and encouraged the rodeo girl to take a more business-like approach to her hobby through futurities, told her, "You usually have a day to get over it, but today you have an hour. You have an hour to be sad and depressed, then you have to be over it."

Thompson and Seis came back to be a 14.867 for fourth in the second go of the Sweepstakes behind Pete Oen's 14.690 on Cathy Geary's Guys Dashing Jet.

On Sunday morning, Thompson and Seis had the Amateur first before the Sweepstakes Short Go. Once again, the first run didn't go as planned, but having already comeback from a disappointing run, Thompson didn't let it drag her down as much.

"I was bummed about the Amateur, yet I was so excited about the short go," she said. "To be one of the fastest five coming back with all those tough horses was just insane."

In the short, Thompson and Seis turned in the fastest time of the Sweepstakes, a 14.653, to capture the championship, which is determined by your fastest qualifying time and the short go.

"My brain was just on a repeat of 'Oh My God! Oh My God!'" she said. It was fitting as Thompson said she learned a lot about her faith and God's timing while laid up with her knee.

Thompson wanted to thank her husband and family for all their support as well as the Vansickles for raising Seis. She's celebrating the victory with an upcoming trip to Disney with her daughter and stepson before preparing for the BFA World Championships at the first of December.

Pete Oen Doubles Up at All-American Quarter Congress, Wins Junior & Senior Horse

By Tanya Randall

Ardmore, Oklahoma, barrel horse trainer Pete Oen made a triumphant return to his home state of Ohio, winning two classes at the famed All-American Quarter Horse Congress.

Aboard Monica McClung's PerksOf Being Famous ("Layla"), Oen won the 68-entry Junior Barrels, for horses 5-and-under, and with Cathy Geary's homebred Guys Dashing Jet ("Stella"), Oen topped the 178-entry Senior Barrels for horses ages 6 and older. Both horses qualified for the 2019 AQHA World Show in the process.

Layla, whom Oen rode to the VGBRA & BBR World Finals Championship earlier this year, had been with McClung, her owner and trainer, for much of the summer, going to and placing at pro rodeos. On her way home from the WPRA World Finals, McClung dropped Layla off with Oen to go to Ohio.

"I didn't throw a leg over her until we got to Congress. I rode her the night before we ran the first go of the Sweepstakes. We ran Thursday in the first go of the Sweepstakes. She had a good run, but it wasn't one of the better runs I've made on her. It was good enough and she placed 10th."

Their second run was in the Junior barrels on Saturday morning, where they won with a 15.050. Unfortunately, they had to make their second run in the Sweepstakes that afternoon.

"She turned her first barrel fantastic, but I caught the second barrel and just pulled her up," said Oen. "I hoped her first go time would make the finals of the sweepstakes. It actually did. They take the top 20 from the two go-rounds, like the (BFA in) Oklahoma City. She came back 18th."

Oen and Layla caught another barrel in the Finals of the Sweep-

"She's a cool mare," said Oen. "She's not a very big mare and she's not super stout either. She reminds me of my Fame In A Fling mare from last year. They're just little balls of fire and all attitude. They think they're as big as the rest of them."

Bred by Busby Quarter Horses, Layla is Dash Ta Fame out of French Lady Perks, a daughter of Frenchmans Guy out of the great Dash For Perks mare Lady Perks. Oen first climbed aboard the mare for McClung for the Kinder Cup Futurity when her schedule didn't allow her to travel to the event. The pairing worked so well that the two have both won on the mare during the year. Oen will next run Layla at the JB Quarter Horses Futurity in Waco, Texas.

Stella, who won both the Junior Barrels and Sweepstakes in 2017, nearly repeated the feat in 2018. Like Layla, Oen hadn't been on the mare's back until he got to the Congress as she had been home with Geary in Wadsworth, Ohio, since the Ardmore Futurity in late September.

"Cathy has had her at home just riding her, riding her outside and keeping her fit," said Oen. She said she she'd been around a barrel here and there, doing all rights and lefts, but not actually through the pattern."

Oen rode the 6-year-old daughter of Frenchmans Guys out of the Dash For Perks mare Perks Dashing Jet for the first time Wednesday night in practice. They made their first run in the Sweepstakes on Thursday.

"She got by her first barrel a little bit and turned the other two super-good," he recalled. "The second two, she's a cake walk to ride. The first—she's not difficult—you just have to get your timing and approach just right."

On Friday, they made their winning run in the Seniors, a 14.939.

"She nailed the first; it was fantastic," said Oen, who won the Senior Barrels last year with Strait Dallas Fuel. "She actually rocked it a little bit and I had to do my signature leg lift leaving the first. Going across the arena, when I went to go to two hands, for some reason, my hand went under the rein instead over the top to grab ahold of them. I flipped my hand upside down to grab it. I was able to baton twirl my fingers to get a hold of the reins right, but I got high centered. She got a little step by because both reins were tight instead of just the inside rein. She turned it, but it wasn't her typical second barrel. She got a little out on the back corner toward the timer."

"I was sitting there thinking, she'd maybe be Top 3 or Top 5, but that time ended up holding," he said.

Stella would just get better on her next run on Saturday, winning the second go of the Sweepstakes with a 14.690, making them the last to go in the short on Sunday.

"I needed to run an .85 to win the average," recalled Oen. "She turned the first really good, turned the second really good. I thought she got a little short at the third and I threw my hands forward which caused her to pop off of it a little bit. She ran an .89." The Sweepstakes Reserve Championship, worth $8,440, bumped Stella's career earnings to more than $150,000.

"That mare is so honest and so consistent," said Oen. "She gives you the same pattern every time if you get your first barrel. She's maybe the most honest and most consistent horse that I've ever thrown a leg over."

Oen wanted to thank his sponsors Med-Vet Pharmaceuticals, Equi-Resp, Bluebonnet Feeds, Outlaw Equine, Best Ever Pads, Iconoclast, EquiPulmin, B Free Of Flies, and Ammerman Saddlery. He also wanted to thank Stella's crew Geary and Kelsey Hildenbrand, and Layla's connections McClung and Busby Quarter Horses for giving him great mares to ride.

Unfortunately, on the way home from Congress, Oen was involved in an accident on the Interstate in Indianapolis, early Monday morning. He was able to get the horses to Chris and Stephanie Duke's, and judging by the running and bucking they did in the pasture on Monday and Tuesday, they appear to be fine. His parents, using Troy Crumrine's truck and trailer, were later able to get the horses back to Oklahoma.

"I'm so thankful for all the Facebook messages, texts and calls to check on us," said Oen, who has a sore shoulder and wrist from the ordeal. "The response was unreal and I really appreciate it."

Conrado and Lord Crowned Mountain States Champs

By Amy Wilson

In the first month of the 2019 regular season, Ivy Conrado has already won $20,672 at just two rodeos to be #1 in the WPRA World Standings. "It doesn't even feel like a new year yet. I'm relieved that I won't have to rodeo so hard – I have more won now than I did last year headed to Garden City and Reno," she said.

She and KN Fabs Gift of Fame "JLo" set a new arena record a couple weeks ago at the All American Finals, and this past weekend they won the average at the Mountain States Circuit Finals to earn a trip to the Ram National Circuit Finals in Kissimmee, Florida. They won the first and third rounds and tied for second in Round 2 to collect a total of $7,305 in Loveland, Colorado. "I grew up running at barrel races in Loveland all the time so it's like a hometown rodeo," Conrado said as she also expressed how grateful she was for all her family that came to support her, and to Mandy Hagler for working on JLo to ensure that she felt her best.

The 9 year old palomino mare who is by Frenchmans Fabulous and out of Mistys Dash Of Fame, was voted as runner-up for AQHA/WPRA Barrel Horse of the Year in 2018. Conrado said that JLo's owners, Kenny Nichols and Dale Barron were "so excited!" Then she elaborated on the special honor, "Tibbie (CFour Tibbie Stinson – 2016 AQHA/WPRA Barrel Horse of the Year) got recognized for her crazy ability. I've never seen a horse that ran that fast to the first barrel and turned it – just bellied down. I think JLo got recognized for how dependable she is. She does the same thing every single time. Everyone who was out there while I was rodeoing saw it. There's not very many horses like that."

Conrado speaks from experience as she has ridden a variety of horses. "Tibbie was so crazy fast and it was so fun, but at the same time, it was pretty stressful because she was so intense and she ran so hard – just no forgiveness. It was kind of the same thing with Famey (Fames To Blame), and the horses I rode before that. JLo – I don't even know how to explain her – she has become so confident in herself that it's so easy to show up and think 'I have the best horse here'. It's not necessarily because JLo is more athletic or faster or has won more, she's just so sure of herself and so sure of every step she takes." Conrado is able to adjust as needed during a run and pointed out that there aren't many horses that you can make adjustments on during a run. "JLo goes wherever you ask her to go. If there's a mistake, it is truly my fault. If anything, she'll get a little strong, and thankfully I have Billie to help with that. She's really willing – even at a dead run." Conrado's boyfriend, Billie Jack Seabens, who is a professional team roping heeler, has been a vital part of their continued success. "Billie's more of a horseman, and I'm more of a barrel racer," Conrado said with a laugh. Then she started telling the story about what happened in May 2018. "I started back on JLo after they flushed her. She came back really slow. I was running 18.0's for two or three weeks. I ran her at Reno and Billie was with me. She was strong and stiff – which she's always stiff, but it was more so – and it made her slow in her turns. Billie asked if he could go ride her. He rode her for about two hours, and just did his thing. I got back on her that night and ran a 17.0 and won the round at Reno." And Billie has continued to ride JLo for Conrado. "Whenever Billie can get on her and soften her up – he's really good about softening one up in the rib cage and even in their face, but I feel like everybody gets really caught up in their face – he makes her so much quicker." If Billie can't go with Conrado, he'll ride JLo the day before she leaves, and typically gets on her once or twice a week. Conrado said that Billie keeping JLo tuned up has been easier on her and JLo's relationship too. "She's super sensitive, especially towards me and she takes things really personal, so this way I can be more of the best friend." And for any barrel racer wanting Billie to get on your horse, don't get your hopes up. "Everybody asks and he says no," Conrado said with a laugh.

Conrado and JLo have become a consistently great team in a short amount of time. It all started last year when Conrado was on the bubble to make the NFR. "When I first got JLo, our runs were pretty boxy I'd say, or 3-point turns. I took what everybody told me she was like and just tried to ride her that way. I was at a pressure point. But that's what is funny about JLo, she doesn't feel the pressure. I got JLo in my trailer and I had no doubt that I was going to make the NFR because she was just so trustworthy. Now that I've had her for a year and a half, I've gotten to kind of put my own spin on her and make us fit each other," she said. Among their list of accomplishments, they finished second in the NFR average last year, and will soon be headed back to the Thomas and Mack.

The Mountain States Circuit Finals win just adds to their confidence, especially considering the level of competition. "Twelve girls make it and six of us have been to the NFR - Brittany has won the world, Shali usually dominates on CanMan, then there's Kelly Yates, Sydni Blanchard, Christine Laughlin... it's a tough circuit for sure," Conrado said.

Shali Lord is the Mountain States Circuit Year-end Barrel Racing Champion, and echoed those same words. "It's a tough circuit with lots of really nice horses. We have great committees in our circuit, and we have really good ground," Lord said. Conrado and Lord both complimented their circuit director, Melanie Luark and the sponsors of their awards and gifts. Lord was actually in charge of the awards this year. "We have a lot of great sponsors - Smoke Creek Quarter Horses that do our winter blankets, and then we have a stallion action online and some really great stallion sponsors that donate and help us so we're able to get really nice awards for all the girls," she said.

Lord has been to the Mountain States Circuit Finals so many times, she's nearly lost count but thinks it's 12 times. She's won the year end title three times on three different horses. This year she was riding the 9 year old stallion, Freckles Ta Fame "Can Man". "He worked really good. He really likes Loveland. It's a little different setup for that rodeo than it is for the barrel race jackpots, but he won the American qualifier there this spring at the Mile Hi Barrel Race. We've had a lot of success in that arena," she said.

For the second consecutive year, Can Man won the Horse with the Most Heart Award, and he was also voted as the 2018 Mountain States Barrel Horse of the Year. "He is a stallion - I think that makes him so special because he's a phenomenal barrel horse and there's not many stallions going down the road, especially going to the prorodeos and winning like he does. He's great to be around. He has a great disposition. He tries his heart out every time," Lord said complimenting her equine partner. They went to 28 rodeos and ended up 31st in the WPRA World Standings for 2018. They won the Dodge City Roundup, and then mostly went to circuit rodeos. "We made the short round at Cheyenne - he ended up in the top 5. We made the short round at Greeley. Everywhere he ran, he did really really well. We had a great summer," Lord said.

Last year Brittany Pozzi-Tonozzi rode Can Man at the NFR and then he went to the stallion farm in the winter so they didn't start going to rodeos until May/June. "Since we'll be able to get into the buildings, I'll try to get away from home more and see how it goes," Lord said about getting into the big winter rodeos. "He's at the breeding facility right now. So then I'll get him ready and start out in January. His owners, Joe and Carla Spitz, they're great to work with," she added.

As a mom of two young children, she appreciates that Can Man is so good to be around, "Can Man is not your average stud. Usually I always have a mare in the trailer too. My kids brush him and pet on him." And Lord values the extra help from her family to make rodeoing possible. "It seems like it takes a whole team and I'm very blessed to have all my family that helps," she said. Included in that team are her sponsors: Justin Boots, Cinch, Larry the Cable Guy, Coolaid, 522 Health, Cactus Saddlery, and Rodeo Quincy.

While horses like Can Man and JLo continue proving themselves in the arena, their offspring are in the making. Can Man's oldest babies are coming three year olds, and Lord has four of his babies that are coming two year olds. "We're really excited for them," she said. JLo's oldest baby is by Epic Leader and she's a three year old. "She's with Brad Lund right now and then we'll send her to Cody Hyde," Conrado said. JLo also has babies by A Streak Of Fling,

I try to get a solid hour of exercise on her everyday, mostly long trotting because I think that helps the lungs the best. Two days before I'll run somewhere I'll get on and ride her with a saddle, lope and try to get her back off me. Then the day before or day of, Billie Jack will get on and do his deal. We've been doing that since Reno and it seems to be the perfect system for her.

Tres Seis, Feel The Sting, and others. "We're going to try again this year to breed her to Darkelly," Conrado added.

And adding to their accomplishments, both Conrado and Lord will get the opportunity to ride their superstar horses while representing the Mountain States Circuit at the Ram National Circuit Finals Rodeo in Florida.

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Have you ever heard something funny because it just didn't "fit" with your experience? A few days ago, Mike came in with 4 eggs in his hands. When he handed them to me he said, "These eggs are all fine, but I accidentally dented one..." Can you "dent" an egg? I stood there batting my eyes trying to process what exactly that meant. After closer examination, I determined that one of the eggs was...broke.

How a person says something really can be interpreted differently. For instance, is it okay to tell a "white" lie? After all, you could be sparing someone's feelings.

The answer, in case you didn't get it right away, is NO. A lie is a lie. Jesus tells us in John 8:44 that the devil lies, that he is a liar and the father of it. Yikes! I want no part of that!

I'm sure we've all been in a position to tell that little white lie, but we all need to resist it. It's not easy. Especially when you know that the truth will cause discomfort for them.

But friends, the truth makes us FREE (John 8:32). So if it's not the truth, it'll screw us up. I NEVER want someone to lie to me, or to give false compliments, or unworthy praise. I know I'm not perfect and that God is working on me CONSTANTLY to take me to a higher level. I want that higher level!

So...if my egg is broke, JUST TELL ME!!!
