Back to Back CFR Championships for Nancy Csabay

By Hope Sickler

Nancy Csabay can add another victory to her very impressive resume after she made short work out of the barrel racing at this year's Canadian Finals Rodeo in Edmonton, Alberta. Csabay slipped into the top 12 in the standings just prior to the CFR after her success at the Cinch Finals held in Calgary and after that, there was no looking back. Csabay won the barrel racing championship in 2015 and now she can add back-to-back championships after claiming the 2016 barrel racing title.

"My goal this season was to stick to the same game plan as last year. I went to 23 rodeos and we tried to always make a family holiday out of it. I didn't win as much as I did last year but I am still incredibly grateful for the year that I had and the horse that got me there," Csabay said.

Csabay was sitting outside the top 12 prior to the Cinch Finals in Calgary so she knew had to put it all out on the line to see if she could squeeze into the top 12 and get back to Edmonton.

"The Cinch Finals have been a saving grace for me the last few years and this year was no different. I placed in both rounds and won the average and that shot me up into 7th in the standings and guaranteed me a spot in Edmonton."

Csabay ran her home raised and trained 12-year-old mare Little Miss Wicked who is by Terribly Wicked and out of Like An Effort who goes back to Special Effort and Jet Of Honor, all season and credits the talented mare to every bit of success that she has seen over the last several years.

"We still have Wicked's mother, Reba. She is 21-years-old and she has had 13 babies for us! Both Reba and Wicked have been a life changer for me and my family. Both have changed my life in so many ways that I can't ever imagine my life without the two of them. They are very special to us as a family and we are so grateful that they were chosen to be a part of our life," Csabay explained.

Csabay explained that both mares have opened so many doors for her and not all in the winning aspect of things.

"I started doing some retreats now because of what Wicked has done for me. It has been a dream of mine to do this for so long and I am so blessed that I am now able to make it a reality."

Csabay started doing her retreats last spring and it has taken off since then. Csabay's goal with her retreats are to take away the judgement that is in barrel racing amongst fellow barrel racers.

"My number goal is to stop the judgement and harshness that barrel racers use against one another. I am trying to teach that when you hear others judging someone, you have a choice. To join in, to walk away or to stop the judgement. I also want to show fellow barrel racers what I do to stay centered and on track. I want to teach them the secrets to my mental clarity and positivity. Those are my goals with the retreats," explained Csabay.

Going into the CFR, Csabay tried to stay focused on making clean, smooth runs and not get too caught up in where she was in the standings. Csabay wanted to make sure that she rode "Wicked" correctly, stayed out of her way as much as possible and let the cards fall where they may.

"I try not to focus too much on winning and instead I just try to stay in the present moment and make every run count on Wicked.

Champions Crowned at the Inaugural ERA Finals

The world's premier professional rodeo athletes and animals that represent the new Elite Rodeo Athletes (ERA) tour brought the year-long competition to a thrilling end today at the American Airlines Center, crowning 16 final event and overall champions and handing out more than $1,000,000 in cash purse prizes.

"What started out as a fresh idea between a few cowboys on how we could advance and better the sport of rodeo turned into a dream-come-true this weekend in Dallas," said ERA interim President Bobby Mote. "We couldn't be happier with how the ERA World Championship turned out over three days at the American Airlines Center.

Saluting the newly-crowned champions of the ERA's inaugural season, Mote tipped his hat to winners Chandler Bownds (Bull Riding), Bray Armes (Steer Wrestling), Clay Tryan & Jade Corkill (Team Roping), Cort Scheer (Saddle Bronc Riding), Lisa Lockhart (Barrel Racing), Shane Hanchey (Tie-Down Roping) and Steven Dent (Bareback Riding).

Strong Showing at Candian Finals Rodeo

For the past five days, Northlands was pleased to host the 43rd annual Canadian Finals Rodeo and Farmfair International from November 9 - 13 at Northlands Coliseum and at the Edmonton EXPO Centre. Two of Edmonton's largest annual events spurred western excitement throughout the Northlands grounds and the entire city of Edmonton, with a combined attendance of 182,968.

"Once again this event acted as a strong bridge between rural and urban," said Tim Reid, President and CEO, Northlands. "As an agricultural society we are proud to see the continued strength and activation while respecting the fact that many farmers and ranchers are still having to spend time in the fields harvesting their crops."

The 43rd edition of Farmfair International drew a record 95,574 guests to the Edmonton EXPO Centre to take in cattle shows and sales, equine events, the Heritage Ranch Rodeo, RAM Country Marketplace and more. Farmfair International brought international buyers from 12 countries together to conduct business, trade industry knowledge and to purchase top-quality genetics from Alberta producers. With more than 1,500 head of livestock exhibited including more than 1,000 head of purebred cattle, the 2016 edition of Farmfair International was one of the biggest yet.

From simple beginnings in 1974, the first Canadian Finals Rodeo drew 24,000 guests to the Edmonton Gardens. In its 43rd year, 87,394 guests came to Northlands Coliseum to take in six action-packed performances over five days. As the largest indoor rodeo in Canada, 107 competitors chased the dream for championship buckles and their share of more than $1.5 million in prize money. This year's concert series at The Roadhouse brought live performances by Chris Jansen, Brett Kissel and High Valley to the Edmonton EXPO Centre to keep the party going after every nightly CFR performance.

Tim Reid, President and CEO of Northlands will be available to speak with media outside in Alberta Ballroom corridor at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, November 14.

It's a story that will be told and retold for a long time. Bull rider Jordan Hansen thought his season was over in July when he shattered his ankle, which required three plates and 10 screws to repair.

Hansen had other ideas. He came back for the 43rd edition of the Canadian Finals Rodeo and left as the Canadian Bull Riding Champion.

"I kind of like to prove those doctors wrong," said Hansen, 23. "This is what we ride for all year, and once the cast was off and the surgeon said I could start training a little bit, I knew I'd be here. I only got on a couple of practice bulls, and it wasn't feeling that great coming here, but the (medical personnel) taped me up really well and I didn't feel it during any of my rides this week."

Hansen bucked off his first bull in the Nov. 9 first performance, and noticeably hobbled as he ran back to the chutes. Then came Nov. 10, and his first successful bull ride in four months - an 85.5-point ride to finish third in the round.

It was the first of five rides in row, and when he rode his final bull of the week Nov. 13 - Vold's Black Rose for 85.50 points and another third-place check - Hansen won the average and made the long climb to an improbable season victory, earning $78,185. He beat two-time champion Dakota Buttar by $7,000 for the win. Bareback rider Jake Vold won his third CPRA bareback riding championship, which he capped with an 87.5-point ride on Calgary Stampede's Reckless Margie.

The final go-round win, coupled with securing the average, took the Airdrie, Alberta, cowboy to a season earnings total of $91,467, and an $18,000 cushion over second-place Caleb Bennett of Tremonton, Utah.

Vold also claimed the Top Gun award that goes to the competitor who earns the most money over the five days and six performances of the CFR.

In steer wrestling, Cody Cassidy won the Canadian championship for the second year in a row, and fifth overall.

Cassidy, who won the average title, finished with earnings of $79,371, providing him with a $23,000 margin of victory over his older brother, Curtis Cassidy.

Clay Elliott, a 22-year-old rookie qualifier, snared the Canadian saddle bronc riding championship.

"I don't think about the stats - or anything really - just the horses," he said. "I knew if I rode like I can, I'd have a chance." Elliott finished with $70,685 to defeat eight-time CFR qualifier Jim Berry by $19,000.

One of the closest races was in tie-down roping. American Matt Shiozawa edged out Canadian Al Bouchard for the title. Bouchard was the last Canadian to win the Canadian tie-down roping title, in 2009.

Shiozawa now has two Canadian titles on his résumé in 2014 and 2016.

Team ropers - header Dustin Bird and heeler Russell Cardoza - won their event. Luke Butterfield, the Ponoka, Alberta, saddle bronc rider and steer wrestler, claimed his first all-around title, holding off defending champion, Josh Harden.

I know I only have so many runs so I want to make sure I used them wisely. We had a great finals and won third in five rounds and then won a round. I couldn't have asked for any better runs from her. She was consistent and honest all week."

With a total time of 88.890-seconds on six runs, Csabay won the average and added another big paycheck to her name.

"This my second time winning the year-end and I am also so grateful that I was able to win the average, too. I love the CFR for many reasons. I love that my friends and family get to come help and cheer me on. I also love how the barrel racers I ran with this year were all so great to get along with. It was never about competing against one another but instead complimenting one another. I never once felt any competition. We were all there for the same reason and no one acted like they were better than anyone else. It was extremely refreshing!"

Csabay closed out the season with $72,010.65 in earnings and was quick to credit her support system for getting her this far for a second year in a row.

"I could not do any of this without my family. My husband Tony and my daughter Kate are my biggest fans and biggest supporters. They keep me going and keep me positive. I also wouldn't be going

Horse Hair Analysis

Cullins Clenches Qualifier at No Bull Finale

By Hope Sickler

Brandon Cullins has been making a name for himself over the last several years and this past weekend he proved why. Cullins and 6-year-old Foxie Stinson by Eddie Stinson torched the rest of the competition in Fletcher, North Carolina when they won qualifier #12 for The American Semi-Finals

Cullins and the gritty mare posted a time of 14.045-seconds in the qualifier and finished out the night with a victory and a berth to the Semi-Finals in February.

"She felt great. She was really running hard and working her tail off. Somehow I dropped my reins going into the second barrel and then got them back and then I dropped them again to set the barrel up so she turned the second barrel completely on her own. Then, going to the third barrel, my glasses started falling off, so I had to reach up and fix them and she just kept running right where she was supposed to," explained Cullins.

Cullins explains that the mare is one of the coolest horses he has ridden and one that you have to stay out of the way of.

This qualifier was part of the No Bull Finale and hosted almost 1,000 runs every single day.

"The No Bull paid really well and I won a little over $8,000 on that run alone! It was ran very well and they really know how to take care of their contestants. They also have the best gate man in the history of barrel racing, Ned Cunningham. He keeps them rolling and keeps everyone up beat. I don't think they could run as many as they do without him."

Now that Cullins has one horse qualified, his goal is to get one more qualified for Ft Worth,

"We are going to try and get VQ Sucker Punch back so we have two shots in the Semi-Finals. He worked great in Fletcher and would've actually outran "Foxie" but drug a barrel over unfortunately."

Cullins admits that his favorite thing about The American is the money that can be won and the publicity it brings to the sport and what it can do for a person's career.

Wenda Johnson and Dreams First Flash Clean House at Elite Extravaganza & JB Quarter Horses Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Wenda Johnson and the wickedly fast Dreams First Flash cleaned house at the Elite Extravaganza and JB Quarter Horses Futurity, held Nov. 10-13 in Waco, Texas. The duo pocketed an amazing $12,566 for winning the Futurity and both open races.

"It was lot of fun and we look forward to seeing what the future holds," said the gelding's owner Mike Singletary, a former musician that operates an audio and video company in Fort Worth, Texas. Bred to dazzle on the track, Flash is by First Moonflash, a champion racehorse and sire of racehorses, and out of the First Down Dash daughter First Down Dream, who is a full sister to Champion 3-Year-Old Racing Filly Tinys First Effort.

Flash was purchased by Jerry Bailey for $9,000 at the Ruidoso Select Yearling Sale. Bailey, who bred and stood the great halter horse Sierra Te, the sire of Kay Blandford's great gelding The Key Grip, purchased the colt based on his conformation as well as his pedigree.

Bailey later partnered with Mike and Laurie Singletary—friends he made at church—to race the gelding. After an unsuccessful experience on the track, Singletary brought the gelding to his Fort Worth, Texas, home and purchased him outright.

Flash was started on barrels by Luis Hernandez, a former Peruvian Paso trainer who worked out of Singletary's boarding facility. Later, through a connection of friends, Bailey introduced Singletary to Wenda Johnson. After much convincing, Johnson agreed to ride Flash even though she didn't live near the Singletary's and had no desire to take the gelding to her Paducah, Texas, home.

Johnson and Flash set the futurity world on notice at The Ardmore Futurity, which they won handily.

"He still has a long ways to go," said Wilson of the 5-year-old gelding's amazing weekend in Waco. "He's still a colt and doesn't have a lot of experience. We're just trying to get him to where he knows a little more of where he needs to be. We're working on that, and we'll get him there."

The Elite Extravaganza marked Flash's 11th competition.

"As a jockey, I feel all the little errors and bobbles," said Johnson, recalled their first run of 14.935, the fastest run of the event. "I felt there was a lot of room for improvement, but there is no doubt because of his speed, he makes up for it. In general, over the weekend, there were a lot of things that we could have improved on, but that's part of the process of developing a colt and getting him to where he needs to be. Luckily, his speed made up for a lot of the small little errors."

Johnson said her biggest goal was to get him to open his turns up a little bit so she didn't hit barrels like she did at the American qualifier, held in conjunction with the Ardmore Futurity back in September.

"That's been my biggest goal—to open his turns a little bit, which has changed his turns a little bit. I'm still working through that. Johnson, a former emergency room nurse and recently certified nurse practitioner, is basically tuning/training on Flash as she competes on him. Living in Paducah, Texas, she doesn't get to ride Flash except during events. After winning the Ardmore Futurity, it was nearly a month later that she placed second at the RFD-TV's The American Qualifier in Starkville, Miss. And, a month later was Waco.

BIT: Molly Powell Rate & Turn Ported Chain Bit. "When I first started riding him they had been using a medium shank with a broken-mouthpiece. The second time I ran, I knew I needed something with a little lift. I had only used one bit when I had been competing and wasn't really knowledgeable about bits, so I called a girlfriend of mine in Arizona. She recommended three bits. This was the first one of the three that I tried and it worked. I didn't need much. I just needed to be able to pick up his shoulder a little if I needed to."

"Our little team that we have may be a little untraditional or unconventional, but it seems to be working," she said.

On their second run, which was still a wickedly fast 15.042, they bowed off their turns more than normal, but again Flash's extreme speed – along with Johnson's ability to continue to ride him forward rather than fight him through the mistakes – more than made up for the extra real estate they covered.

"He's still just young and still learning," she said. "The only time I ride him and school on him is when I'm competing. Which, I'm okay with. He's doing amazing. He still hunts for a barrel, so I don't have to check him or anything, but I know as a rider there are things that I need to help him on and be more consistent on, but I don't want to pick him apart. He's so talented and has so much athletic ability. I just want to keep him happy and loving his job."

The horse's owner is also enjoying his introduction into the barrel racing world, saying it's a joy meeting so many people and having the common ground of the love of horses.

"I spent the last week in California, and it was hard for me to explain to people out there that hadn't been around horses or been around barrel racing much, about the common ground we have," he said. "It bridges ages, gender, race...I find myself talking to 16-year-old girls about horses, and have something in common to talk about. Even playing music my whole life, if I try to talk to a 16-year-old about music, we don't have a whole lot in common. Horses are a common ground that people share, and that special."

With the JB Quarter Horses Futurity being Flash's last aged event for the year, his motley crew will be working toward preparing the gelding for RFD-TV's The American Semifinals Rodeo.

Mowry Sweeps ERA Finals, Lockart ERA Champion

By Hope Sickler

This past weekend at the American Airlines Center in Dallas the Elite Rodeo Association (ERA) hosted their World Championship Finals and by Sunday they had crowned their first ever event champions. South Dakota barrel racer Lisa Lockhart had a great showing while in Dallas and sealed up her first, of many, ERA World Championships. Lockhart can add this prestigious title to her already very impressive list of accomplishments including 2x The American Champion Barrel Racer, Average Winner at the National Finals Rodeo and several others.

When asked to be a part of this "elite" association, Lockhart jumped at the chance.

"I thought it was a great idea from the moment that I first heard about it. I am all about bettering our sport and helping to make our sport more known such as professional basketball or the even the PBR which has such a huge fan base," explained Lockhart.

The tour started out in Redmond, Oregon and it went off without a hitch. The committee welcomed the ERA contestants with open arms and were happy to be a part of this next generation of rodeo, as were the other tour stop committees.

"From the very first tour stop, it always felt like family. It was nice to be able to get somewhere and relax and not be worrying about where I have to get to next. It was also neat because I was able to watch the other events and throughout the season, I was able to keep up with the other events and who was doing well. I have never really done that and it was neat to finally be able to take some liking to the other events besides the barrel racing. The contestants of the ERA are like a family. We are all pretty tight-knit and support one another fully.”

Lockhart had a great first season in the ERA and went into the finals in Dallas confident and hopeful but knew she was competing against other barrel racers who were just as talented as she.

“With the roster of barrel racers that the ERA has, you cannot get too confident because everyone is so dang good and competitive. We definitely have some horse power in the ERA and it is cool to see how the fans react to the adrenaline of the barrel racing,” said Lockhart.

Lockhart’s goal for the World Championship Finals was to have three smooth and clean runs and let the rest take care of itself. She had given her main mount An Oakie With Cash “Louie” a much deserved break this fall and was anxious to be back on him.

“Louie worked great all weekend. He fired in the first round and then really fired hard in the second round and I couldn’t have been happier with how he was performing. In the third round, I tried to stay calm and keep him relaxed but I was back in the alley and Fallon had just ran. By the sounds of the announcer, it hadn’t gone how I know she had hoped it would go. After that I decided that I needed to do everything I could to be clean so I could hopefully win the year-end.”

Lockhart explained that even though “Louie” went in there and made a beautiful pattern, she felt like she safetied up a little too much and were a little slower than she had hoped to be.

Lockhart made three very respectful runs, clocking a 13.06 in the first round and winning third, then clocking a 13.106 in the second round to place second and just out of placing in the final round with a time of 13.321-seconds. With three good runs, she ended up third in the average behind Kassidy Dennison who was second and Kassie Mowry who won the average.

“I cannot fault Louie an ounce. He went in there and did exactly what his mom (me) told him to do! I should’ve went for the gusto but I decided that I needed to safety up and try to win what I could”

Mowry Marches Away with the Average

Kassie Mowry is a very reputable futurity trainer but she is also a rodeo girl at heart. The young talent made the NFR in 2005 but since then has stuck to the futurity side of barrel racing. That is, until this past weekend.

Mowry won the Last Chance Qualifier held in Dallas the Wednesday before the ERA Finals started and punched her ticket to the American Airlines Center to compete against the Elite roster of barrel racers.

Mowry rode the ever so talented Firewatermakemehappy, the 6-year-old son of Firewaterontherocks and out of Junior Country Girl to three go-round wins and the ERA World Championship Finals average win.

"I ran him at the futurities and derbies and have had a lot of success with him. Karma Loftin bred him and he is owned by Martha Smith. I am very grateful that I have been given the opportunity to jockey such an amazing horse," explained Mowry.

Mowry started off the weekend with a smoking fast time of 12.91-seconds in the first round and after that she never looked back. Mowry then won the second round with a 13.028 and in the final round, she set a new arena record and ran her fastest time of the event, a 12.793, outrunning everyone by 2-tenths of a second!

"I felt like our runs were very solid and he really got into a rhythm there in that little pen. They let us work our horses in the morning so I was able to really set him up for those runs. I tried to set him up for a safe run on the last day because we were leading the average but he had other ideas! He went ahead and laid down a run and I was very proud of how he handled everything and how confident and comfortable he was throughout the entire event."

Not expecting to be in Dallas for the weekend, Mowry was very grateful that she had gotten the opportunity to compete on a stage such as the ERA World Championship Finals.

"It was really awesome to be a part of it and the committee went out of their way to accommodate to the barrel racers and the rest of the contestants. The ground was perfect each night. It was an honor to rub shoulders with the best in the rodeo world and I loved being around those famous horses and barrel racers. All of the girls were very encouraging and a lot of fun. I have the upmost respect for them and what they do," Mowry said.

Two Titles For Lindsey Hayes-Banks At Southeastern Circuit Finals Rodeo

By Tanya Randall

Former National Finals Rodeo qualifier Lindsey Hayes-Banks of Opelika, Ala., was shooting for an average championship at the Southeastern Circuit Finals Rodeo, held Nov. 10-12 in Davie, Fla., and came away with both the rodeo and yearend championship.

The orthopedic nurse and mother of three went into the Circuit Finals Rodeo sixth in the standings, nearly $6,500 behind Sabra O'Quinn, who will be joining her at the RAM National Circuit Finals Rodeo next April in Kissimmee, Fla. Her aunt, who was the rodeo secretary, told her that she had a chance to win the yearend championship, but she had to place high, while those ahead of her either hit a barrel or placed below her.

"I said that's just way too much for me to worry about," she laughed. "I told myself all I needed was one more clean run to win the average so I could go to Kissimmee. Everything that needed to happen did and I ended up winning the yearend, but it was really close like $112. It was a pure luck thing I guess."

Hayes-Banks and the talented 7-year-old gelding Hesa Dashin Dreamer ("June Bug"), owned by Tom and Becca Kelly and their daughter Caroline, picked up $8,793 at the Circuit Finals Rodeo. They were second in the first round, won the second round and placed second in the third to win the average.

June Bug was also instrumental in helping Hayes-Bank qualify for the SCFR. She borrowed the gelding for three-weeks of rodeos at the end of season, while her personal rodeo horse was getting a break due to soreness.

"I knew that I was on the bubble," she said. "I was 11th with all these good rodeos like Texarkana coming up. I had to figure out something. I couldn't just hope and pray that 11th was going to hold. So, I called the Kellys. They come over to the house sometimes for me to help them with a few things. I had rode (June Bug) before at the house and really liked him. I called them to see if they'd let me take him to those last rodeos."

Hayes-Banks placed a four out of five rodeos over the three weeks that she had June Bug.

"I did really well on him that last run of rodeos, they took him back home because their daughter was trying to make the PCA Finals on him," she said. "I haven't had him for the last five weeks. I picked him the Thursday before the circuit finals, so I had him a week. That week I worked four days so I only got to ride him three times before we went."

Bred by the Kellys, June Bug is by the late leading barrel horse sire Dashin Elvis out of the late Ten Karrot Dream, a daughter of Hesa Gay Dreamer. June Bug was trained and campaigned by Jolene Montgomery, who won the 2013 BFA Future Fortunes Championship with the gelding. (He was also the first Sire's Slot Champion at the BFA Futurity). Since then, the gelding has been running with Caroline and the duo has recently qualified for RFD-TV's The American SemiFinals.

"They're great people and he's a super nice horse," said Hayes-Banks. "I couldn't have done this without them."

Prior to June Bug, the majority of Hayes-Banks' earnings came aboard her 6-year-old gelding Reckless Dreams, a gelding by NBHA 1D World Champion Sire Docs Gettin Reckless out of Six Moon Reverie, a daughter of Marthas Six Moons out of a Dash For Cash, Easy Jet mare.

"I got him last year," she said. "He came on really fast and I ran him at Circuit Finals last year. But he's still really green, and I have to kind of be careful with his mind. He was getting a little sore, so rather than cause problems down the road, I just turned him out. I've got him back up and have been riding him, he's just not in shape to go yet."

Hayes-Banks also won money on Docs Frosty Blue Bar, the 7-year-old cremello gelding by TT Dakota Kitabars out of Yonder Grace Goes, by Yonder Jack Goes, that helped Cayla Melby Small earn the WPRR Rookie Championship and qualify for the NFR.

"I qualified for the Circuit Finals last year on him," she said. "I didn't run him at Circuit Finals because I didn't feel like he excelled in small pens. I sold (Docs Frosty Blue Bar) around May or June to the Melbys. He does really well in the big outdoor pens and they were headed out west."

She also picked up checks on Lenas Peppin Dual, an 11-year-old gelding by Nitro Dual Doc out of DA Steady Chex, by Steady Tradition, and Smart Lil Spade, a 10-year-old gelding by Smart Lil Traveler out of Miss Judi Locks, by Mr Matlock.

Hayes-Banks wanted to thank her entire family for all their help and support. She and her husband, Shane, both work fulltime jobs and their three children-- Bailey, 14; Tanner, 10; Maci, 2—are involved with horses and extracurricular activities.

"My husband has to deal with a lot," she laughed. "We run 24/7 all the time, trying to get everything done with the kids and the horses. My oldest daughter takes dance; she does hip-hop. My son does football and roping, and my youngest is in gymnastics. "The whole family helps. My uncle helps take care of the horses on the days that I work. My aunt and my mother-in-law help babysit. It takes a village."

Ultimately, Hayes-Banks would like to find that special horse to take her back to the NFR.

"My plan is to get something that I really like that I think is going to hold up long term," said Hayes-Banks, who made trips to Las Vegas in 1992, 1994 and 1995. "I'd really like to go rodeo some and make the NFR again. It's just finding that right horse that I think is going to be worth hauling out there on the road."

Dream Year for Moore & CCC Ring of Fire

By Hope Sickler

When asked how she would describe her 2016 rodeo year, Jordan Moore defined it as a “dream year”. The 2016 Great Lakes Circuit Barrel Racing Champion and average champion had a great 2015 rodeo season and was hoping to capitalize on that for her 2016 season. Moore picked up a check at pretty much every rodeo she entered in the Great Lakes Circuit this year en-route to her first circuit championship. The young talent only had one weekend all season where she did not go to the pay-window!

“I was asked many times if I was going to try and repeat my 2015 season and the only response that I had was that I did not know how to do that but I was going to try! I went out to try and be more consistent this year and it resulted in a year-end circuit championship and average championship. My horses worked hard for me all year and I was very blessed to be able to haul with my mom and my fiancé, Brent Miller, almost the entire season,” said Moore.

Moore jockeyed three horses to her circuit championship this year. Her main horse CC Ring Of Fire, “Ringo”, is a 13-year-old gelding by VF Moon Fire that she has had for over 10+ years.

“Ringo is the most special horse that I will probably ever own. We formed a tight bond when I was young and that is why I think we have done so well together as a team.”

Moore also ran a 6-year-old gelding Triple Q “Trip” at some of the rodeos this year along with a royally bred 5-year-old stud, Boxers N Briefs, by Firewater Flit and out of Famous Silk Panties. Both young geldings experienced their first year out on the rodeo trail this year and are showing a lot of promise of following in their team-mates hoof-prints.

One of Moore’s biggest highlights of her 2016 season was winning Sikeston, Missouri.

“Sikeston is our biggest rodeo of the year in the Great Lakes Circuit and draws many NFR qualifiers so it was very big win for me and the most memorable one yet,” Moore delightedly explained.

Moore loves everything about the Great Lakes Circuit especially the other barrel racers that she competes against.

“I am going to miss the GLC this year as I plan to expand out across the country for different rodeos. I love the girls who I run against in the GLC and I have known most of them since I was little. I have grown very close to many of them. The girls in our circuit are all so close and everyone can appreciate a good run even if it is not them running it.”

Going into the circuit finals, Moore’s goal was to make three solid runs in hopes of winning a couple checks.

“My horse worked great in the first and second round. He ran hard and seemed to really like the ground. I was pretty nervous for my final run, as well as being nervous for my fiancé because he was sitting good to go to Florida, but I focused on what I needed to do.”

Moore ran the fastest time of the circuit finals, a blistering 15.50-second run, and not only sealed up her year-end championship but an average title as well.

“I did not believe my time when I saw it on the screen so I called my family in the stands to ask if it was correct and when they confirmed it, I felt a rush of excitement and relief! Ringo gave me his all that final run and I couldn’t be more proud of him!”

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

There are hundreds of "support" groups in this world. And on the surface, they have had some success. But are they God's best? GASP!

"DID YOU HEAR THAT??? IS SHE REALLY SAYING THAT MY SUPPORT GROUP ISN'T THE BEST WAY??? THEY HAVE HELPED ME GET OVER....." And here we go.

Grief, alcohol, smoking, moms with two year olds, and much more. Now PLEASE don't think I'm unsympathetic. I grew up in an alcoholic home. Both my mom and my dad were alcoholics and several aunts and uncles on both sides. I am very familiar with how it can destroy families' lives. It destroyed ours.

So let's just say, (and this is true), that I am a chocolaholic. So every week I meet with other people who love chocolate. We lament how when we go down the candy aisle at the store it's screaming our name. We tell each other how hard it is to not even THINK about chocolate, cuz then it goes right on our hips! We cry and say that we even got it on our favorite white shirt. Even came home with chocolate on our breath! We felt so ashamed....

I know that's a silly example, but it's not as painful as some things in our lives. When we align ourselves with the problem, instead of with God's promises, we just keep going around the same mountain. If we hang around with people who, like us, may be having financial problems, or who have had colds or flu, or who are divorced, or our horses run past the first barrel, etc., then all that's discussed is the PROBLEM.

It's past time to stop identifying with our problems and start identifying with who God is in our lives! HE meets our needs according to His riches in glory! Phil. 4:19. HE heals our bodies! I Pet. 2:24. HE delivers us from everything the devil tries to destroy us with! John 10:10. HE helps us with our kids! Isa. 54:13. Hang out with people who know God! Better than that, hang out with God! You'll be glad you did! HE saved me....
