Kinsel vs. Mowry - NFR Rounds 1-6 in the Books

Round 1: Barrel racer Hailey Kinsel breaks Round 1 record in win

Barrel racer Hailey Kinsel got her 2024 Wrangler National Finals Rodeo presented by Teton Ridge off to a record-breaking start.

The Cotulla, Texas, cowgirl turned heads with her Round 1 record run of 13.38 seconds aboard her star horse Sister.

"Well, I was first out on that day in 2018 (when she broke the Round 1 record the first time), and I was first out here again (Thursday night)," Kinsel said. "I'll let that speak for itself. When you have that in your favor, you have to capitalize on the opportunity. It's an advantage and will continue to be in a strong field like we have here in Las Vegas.

"I can't even put into words how much that horse means to me. My goal with her was to make sure everyone else knew how special she was. And now, I think people know."

Kinsel knows she needs to put Round 1 in the rear-view mirror as she chases gold buckle No. 5.

"The goal is to try and win nine more rounds. In all seriousness, it's about taking it one ride at a time," Kinsel said. "It's important for me to keep my head down and go at it every night. I can't worry about the others around me. I have to act like I'm the hunter in this game. So, that's how we're going to approach it going forward."

Round 2: Kinsel and horse Sister power their way to back-to-back round wins

Hailey Kinsel proved her Round 1 performance inside the Thomas & Mack Center was no fluke.

The Cotulla, Texas, barrel racer not only captured another round win on Friday night at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo presented by Teton Ridge but broke the Round 2 record with a 13.48-second run.

"It's cool to break the records I have so far, but it's even more important to get good momentum and start off great," said Kinsel. "There's still so much more rodeo to go as far as goals or plans go."

On opening night, Kinsel was the first cowboy girl out. Tonight, she was faced with the tall task of being on the bottom of the dirt. It was no problem for the four-time WPRA World Champion. The first-place check in Round 2 increases her season earnings to $281,477.

ground I wasn't really expecting to be that fast," Kinsel said. "She was able to stay in the ruts and turned tight tonight. The ground held us when we made those big moves, and I'll take it every time."

Round 3: Hailey Kinsel continues magical run with third straight round win

There's dominance and then there's what Hailey Kinsel is doing at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo presented by Teton Ridge.

Kinsel made it three straight go-round wins on Saturday night at the Thomas & Mack Center with a 13.48-second run. It's a stretch of success that not even the four-time world champion has experienced in Las Vegas.

“The most round wins I’ve had in a row is two, so this is pretty awesome,” said Kinsel. “These runs give me a lot of confidence. I wish I could go out there and make 10 more runs right now at this second.”

The lightning-fast run added to Kinsel’s impressive NFR earnings. Over the last three nights the Cotulla, Texas, cowgirl has pocketed $111,062. She grew her lead in the PRCA | RAM World Standings to $89,634 over fellow barrel racer Kassie Mowry.

Jimmie Munroe, the current WPRCA president, won five barrel racing rounds in a row in 1984 – Rounds 1 through 5.

In 1972, Oklahoma cowgirl Gail Petska placed in nine of the 10 rounds – the first nine rounds – winning seven rounds en route to the average title. That year Petska won four rounds in a row Rounds 3 through 6.

Round 4: Kassie Mowry captures first round win at 2024 NFR

Kassie Mowry faced adversity from the jump at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo presented by Teton Ridge.

In Round 1, Mowry tipped a barrel that resulted in an 18.34-second run, putting her back against the wall in the average on night one. The experienced cowgirl didn’t let it faze her.

She has bounced back with three straight go-round finishes in the top two, including a win in Round 4 on Sunday night with a round record at 13.43 seconds. The previous best was 13.46 seconds by Wenda Johnson in 2021.

“This is an incredible feeling,” Mowry said. “The horsepower back there is incredible. So, to come out on top against a stacked field is awesome. I really have to go into jockey mode and get the most out of my horse.”

Over the four nights of competition, Mowry has earned $96,935. Moving herself up to second in the race for a gold buckle.

“I have faith in my horse and know that he can do it,” Mowry said. “I didn’t come in here with any expectations. My goal was to get here, and I never really thought past that. I’m just enjoying being here and being with my horse. He carried me through a really tough year.”

Round 5: Mowry nabs second straight round win

Kassie Mowry showed on Monday night she isn’t afraid of the moment. After capturing her first round win of the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo presented by Teton Ridge in Round 4, she upped the ante tonight.

Riding her standout horse Jarvis, Mowry clocked a 13.43-second run to capture her second straight round win. She was quick to credit the horsepower underneath her in Round 5.

“I think my horse (Jarvis) is starting to get comfortable being here, which I don’t think I’ve ever had one get comfortable here,” said Mowry. “He is my one in a million horse and my once in a lifetime horse. It’s so fun to get tapped off with him right now.”

Mowry has earned $130,622 in Las Vegas after placing in the top two in every round but one. The race for a gold buckle is tightening up but for now it’s business as usual for the Texas cowgirl.

“I don’t think about the gold buckle at all. The goal was to get here, and I didn’t think farther past that,” Mowry said. “I tipped a barrel the first night and it pretty much took me out of the average. So, we are going out there looking for round wins and just having fun.”

Round 5 Notes: After Kinsel won 3 Rounds in a row, Mowry has now won 2 Rounds in a row. In 2023 Force The Goodbye & Kassie Mowry won 2 Rounds in a row as well. Winning Rounds 8 & 9 with times of 13.30 & 13.37! Kinsel leads the world by about $48k over Mowry and also leads the average. Mowry has moved up to 6th in the Average with a hit barrel. Last night's round saw 15 clean runs (no hit barrels) and everyone ran under 14 seconds! Unofficially (to our knowledge) this may be the first time that has happened!

Skyler Nicholas & Stoli My Guy All In for $27,481

By Tanya Randall

Soon-to-be 17-year-old Skyler Nicholas and the great 15-year-old mare Stoli My Guy added $27,481 to their career earnings at the All In Barrel Race (Race 1), held December 5-7 at The Orleans in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Nichols qualified for the Vegas Tuffest, a junior rodeo at the World Market Center, aboard her National Champion Barrel Horse Perrywater Dash ("Jessie") and opted to ride Stoli at the All-In. She's going to tie goats on Thursday before running Stoli again at The Patriot in the outdoor arena at The Plaza.

"We knew we were coming to Vegas for Jessie, and we thought about running Stoli at Vegas Tuffest, but it's an average. Jessie is a little more consistent and easier to get around the barrels sometimes. We saw the All In Youth Championship and you had to enter the Open too. We decided to enter Stoli. We were bringing her with us, and she wasn't going to be running this whole week," said the Rockdale, Texas, barrel racer.

An earner of more than $325,000, according to QData, Stoli is Traffic Guy's leading money earner. She is out of Sixes Future, by Stoli, and was raised by four-time WPRA World Champion Kristie Peterson and her late husband Chuck. Stoli was trained and futuritized by Nicholas' mother Lisa.

"She's a freak of nature, but she's a little bit harder (than Jessie)," Nicholas added. "She tends to get shorter and shorter with each run."

Nicholas and Stoli tipped third on their first run, but came back with winning efforts on their next two. They won the second round with a 14.375 which also gave them the Youth second round win and second in the Youth Championship Final (best time of two runs). They turned in the fastest time of the event, 14.205, to win the Showdown Finals for the big $20,000 check.

"I was definitely scared for the short go," said Nicholas, who was the second-to-last runner in the slowest-to-fastest run Showdown. "I warm up with headphones, so I can not listen to everything. I take them out about 10 runs before. I took them out 10 before and the crowd was going crazy every single run, so I put them back in until two before my run!"

At the time of this writing, Nicholas and Jessie were the second fastest qualifiers for the 19-and-under finals at the Vegas Tuffest on Nicholas, who is sponsored by Hay-Rite, Med-Vet Pharmaceuticals, Delicious Horse Treats, Double J Saddles and Iconoclast, also wanted to thank her parents Jeremy, who was with her in Vegas, and her mother Lisa, who stayed home to take care of the horses.

Nicholas, who has the Vegas Tuffest short go with Jessie on Tuesday, December 10, is looking forward to getting back home to Stoli's colts.

"I'm already counting the days until I get back home," she said. "I've got her 5-year-old by Makin Ya Famous that I just started running. His first show, he was 2D and his second run was sixth in the 1D out of a 100. We're really liking him. So, we're going to go to some futurities with him. Next November, 2025, I've got an Epic Leader out of her that I'm really liking."

Domer Wins ProRodeo Breakaway Roping World Title, Her 10th Gold Buckle

Truthfully, Kelsie Domer never considered this moment as a young girl raised in a roping family in northwestern Oklahoma, but she's living a dream after a dominating performance at the Wrangler National Finals Breakaway Roping presented by Tito's Handmade Vodka over two December days at the South Point Equestrian Center in the City of Entertainment.

In the year that her main mount, Little Man, was named the 2024 WPRA Horse with the Most Heart, Domer made headlines herself with her 10th world championship with four of those being in breakaway roping but this was her first in the ProRodeo Breakaway Roping era. She won the average title, worth $16,914, and cleared nearly $36,000 at the South Point to win the world championship and gather the most coveted piece of hardware in the game, the Montana Silversmiths gold buckle.

"This one means the most because it was won in ProRodeo," said Domer of Dublin, Texas. "It was all year long. I worked hard for the other ones, too, but this one's just different."

She won the first of her WPRA titles a dozen seasons ago, when she claimed both the tie-down roping and all-around crowns. She finished the campaign with $6,847; and most of the other world championships she's earned offered similar financial rewards. Things have changed, thanks to the resurgence of breakaway roping in ProRodeo. Domer finished the year with $168,758, outlasting a late surge by 2022 world titlist Martha Angelone by just $3,253.

"I knew I had to win as much money as I could, and I needed to hold my average spot," said Angelone of Stephenville, Texas. "I probably should've just tried to win something on the one calf I missed today (in the ninth round), and I shouldn't have gotten a leg yesterday, but it all works out. I'm so happy for Kelsie for winning the world and the average. She deserves it."

Domer's been around the game for several years and has been one of the elite cowgirls in the WPRA since her rookie campaign in 2011. She won her first three breakaway world titles from 2017-19, and the first National Finals Breakaway Roping took place in 2020.

She was more than solid on her first nine runs over the two-day championship. The lone hiccup came on her final calf of the 2024 campaign, when the loop didn't find its mark. By finishing with a nine-run cumulative time of 22.0 seconds, she was better than eight seconds faster than the No. 2 cowgirl in the aggregate, Macy Young of Wittman, Arizona.

The miss, though, opened the door for Angelone and Josie Conner of Iowa, Louisiana, to leap through. Domer's saving grace was her consistency and the big bonus that came with winning the aggregate race. Still, she was holding her breath after watching her rope hit the ground.

"Haven (Meged) actually came up to me and said, 'Congrats, world champ,'" she said of the 2019 world champion tie-down roper and husband of Shelby Boisjoli-Meged, the 2023 breakaway titlist. "I just kind of looked and said, 'Really?' He was like, 'I know for a fact. I wanted to accept it, but I wanted to see my name up there first and have them announce it."

With her husband, Ryan, and daughter, Oaklynn, standing nearby, the emotions showed. A year's worth of work – a lifetime of work – had come to fruition.

"I think (family) has affected it for the better," Domer said. "It's awesome that my family allows me to get to do this. I get to go with Oaklynn to every one of them if she wants to go, and that makes it that much more special. It's not just about me anymore. It's about supporting my family and hopefully showing my little girl that her mom worked her ass off for this."

While the veteran took in the kudos, NFBR newcomer Rylee George of Oakdale, California, carried her own distinction away from the South Point. She posted two 1.7-second runs (tying Danielle Lowman of Gilbert, Arizona) to win the Betty Gayle Cooper Ratliff Fast Time award presented by the National Cowgirl Museum and Hall of Fame.

"It means the world to me," said George, who received a set of earnings and matching scarf slide designed and made by Ryan Liggett of Loreena Rose Jewelry as well as a $1,000 cash award. "Being able to be that fast here is another accomplishment, and it's just a dream come true this week."

George is 10 years younger than Domer, but they have a lot in common. They chose to compete for a living, and they're doing pretty well at it. They were part of a world-class competition that lived up to its billing, and it's only an extension of a dream many ladies have had for the WPRA since its inception decades ago.

"Growing up, this really wasn't a dream, because it wasn't a reality for us," Domer said. "I was naïve. I didn't really know much about the WPRA. I junior high rodeoed, high school rodeoed, did all that, and college is really when I learned about it. That's when dreams changed."

"It's cool to see how much it has changed over the years, and it's going to be cool to see that if my little girl wants to do it, she can dream of it starting today."

Average: 1. Kelsie Domer, 22.0 seconds on nine runs, $16,914; 2. Macy Young, 30.1, $13,722; 3. Jordan Jo Hollabaugh, 42.8, $10,850; 4. Martha Angelone, 17.2 seconds on eight runs, $7,978; 5. TiAda Gray, 20.5, $5,744; 6. Josie Conner, 26.4, $4,149; 7. Jackie Crawford, 27.4, $2,872; 8. Shelby Boisjoli-Meged, 28.0, $1,596.

World Standings: 1. Kelsie Domer, $168,758; 2. Martha Angelone, $165,505; 3. Josie Conner, $165,046; 4. Shelby Boisjoli-Meged, $160,729; 5. Jackie Crawford, $157,107; 6. Taylor Munsell, $143,686; 7. Macy Young, $121,099; 8. Hali Williams, $118,983; 9. Maddy Deerman, $117,389; 10. Daniell Lowman, $112,355; 11. Rylee George, $106,641; 12. Rickie Fanning, $105,559; 13. Kendal Pierson, $99,137; 14. Jordan Jo Hollabaugh, $95,235; 15. TiAda Gray, $93,110.

Decide upon your major definite purpose in life and then organize all your activities around it.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

It's getting close to the end of 2024. How was 2024? Do you look back and rejoice? Or groan. Probably a little of both.

Across the highway from our house there is a big open field. A year ago, about 12 turkeys moved in. I think it's a combination of some wild and some domestic. Our neighbor obligingly started feeding them. And the herd has grown. There are about 26 now.

Each morning they make their trek across the field, sometimes with reckless abandon! I have mentally started putting the William Tell Overture (the Lone Ranger music) to their lumbering. Necks outstretched, elbows a flying, they gallop across the field to my other neighbors' bird feeder. Every morning. It makes me laugh!

I believe that that is how we are to go into 2025! Necks outstretched! Elbows flying! And humming the William Tell Overture! With God, we can accomplish anything. He has provided everything. We will lack for nothing!

Whatever 2024 was for us, we apply Phil. 3:13-14, and forget it. We press forward like those turkeys, to get the prize. . . .the future and hope God has already provided! Jeremiah 29:11.
