Kassie Mowry & Sand In My Socks Sweep MVP Futurity, Slot Race & Open

By Tanya Randall

For once, Sand In My Socks in the Arizona Desert was a good thing.

The 2020 BFA Super Stakes Champion Sand In My Socks, ridden by Kassie Mowry for Isabella Quarter Horses of Refugio, Texas, took top honors in every class she was eligible for at the MVP Futurity. The 4-year-old mare topped the Futurity, Slot Race and Open 5D Average to add $27,165 from the Barrel Racers National 4D (BRN4D) hosted event, held January 8-10 at the Southern Buckeye Equestrian Center in Arizona.

"What a neat little mare!" exclaimed Mowry, who trains out of Dublin, Texas. "She has surprised me in so many ways! She's just a good girl."

Sandi has been in Mowry's program since she was 2. She was started under saddle by Justin Arnold. The filly's consistency made her an easy pick for the BFA Super Stakes, which she won in her competitive debut. At her second futurity, the OKC Rookie, she finished ninth. The MVP was her third futurity.

Mowry started off the MVP Futurity winning the first round in 17.152 on Tres Mesas Horses' Steal Money ("Mo"), yet another First Moonflash gelding trained by Luis Hernandez. She and Sandi were third with a 17.417.

"She was putting together a really nice run, but the closer she got to the third barrel, the more she started moving away from it," said Mowry of Sandi's run. "She was spooking from the banners behind it. She had me a little worried there, but she pulled it together." Mowry said Sandi's second run was "flawless" and the time of 16.720 on a WPRA Standard Pattern left her "shocked." She was doubtful of Sandi's impending run because she was spooking from the banners in the warmup pen.

"She was so distracted and spooking at them," she explained. "I even had her in a little bit of a sweat, trying to get her over them. I did feel discouraged when I went into the holding pen to make my run. I just thought, 'Well, she's a colt. You can't get mad at her. She's a baby. Just take what she gives.' She ran so hard and turned so hard. I'll guess I'll take that!"

Sandi's only hole has been her fear of banners, though it hasn't been bad enough to prevent her from collecting an amazing $132,500 in her brief career.

"She'll wind way down going into the barrels because of the banners," Mowry explained. "Sometimes she'll move away from barrels, which I rather have than have her go toward the barrels. She has her mistakes but I understand where they're coming from and why she's doing it. I'm hoping that she'll mature out of it at some point. I'm sure that she will. I've never had a problem with her on the barrels. If she does make a mistake it's because she's scared of something. That's the only thing that I really have to work on with her."

"Overall, she's the kindest, sweetest mare. She's laid back. She never says no. She's just a nice horse. You cannot fault her. She's built nice and has the right mind. She's got a great, great mind." Mowry and Mo held on for the MVP Futurity Reserve Championship and earnings of $11,693.

All totaled, Mowry and her two charges collected $38,858 at the MVP event.

"I totally appreciate them having it," she said. "It's a great group

BIT: O-ring with a slow twist. Mowry previously won the BFA Super Stakes with a Kerry Kelly Bogie with a lifesaver. "I only ran her in it a time or two," Mowry said of the Bogie. "It was because of the banners. I thought if she did start veering left and right, not wanting to go toward a banner, it gave me a little more stability than the O-ring. Now I trust her more. This is just her third futurity and she's growing so much. I do feel comfortable in that O-ring, but before I just didn't want to make a mistake and not have enough to get her to her right spot and create a bad habit."

neatest things I've ever gotten. I've been riding it all around." Immediately following the event, Mowry was originally scheduled to run in slack at the Sandhills Stock Show & Rodeo in Odessa, Texas, on Monday afternoon, but the nasty winter weather made her change her mind.

"I had my rig hooked up before the futurity started," said Mowry, who sits No. 1 in the WPRA World Standings. "All my stuff was loaded. I was parked by the barn. As soon as the futurity was over and they did results, I had my horses loaded. I thought about it for about five minutes and talked to a couple of other people...and unloaded my horses! I was just too afraid of driving across there in ice or snow. That just gives me so much anxiety. The miles didn't bother me. My horse was ready. I literally did not want to drive on a sheet of ice. I've been there on that highway and I did not want to do that again!"

Double The Tres

Bred by Thomas and Zoe Braman's Isabella Quarter Horses, MVP Futurity Champion Sand In My Socks ("Sandi") is by BHR Frenchies Socks, an all-time leading sire with offspring earnings of $2.4 million, out of JC Pick Six, a race-winning daughter of Tres Seis.

JC Pick Six, who is out of the Mr Jess Perry mare Oh Perry, had produced V P Cornbread, a Grade 1 Stakes Finalist and earner of more than $47,000 on the racetrack, prior to being bred to barrel horse sires. Sandi was her first foal raised by the Bramans after purchasing the mare from Shelly Martin, who owned the late leading barrel horse sire Firewater Ta Fame.

The Bramans had purchased JC as well as the Tres Seis mare TK Twirl, the dam of all-time leading futurity horse JS Milo And Stitch, from Martin in a package deal.

"It was a great deal for me," said Zoe Braman. "From my understanding those two mares raced together and sold to Shelly together, and then I bought them together, so they'd been together their whole life."

Sadly, Braman lost TK Twirl and the RR Mistakely she was carrying late last year, but within a week of her death, Sandi made JC a $100,000 barrel horse producer.

"Losing TK was a big deal for our program," Braman noted. "Having this mare (JC) step up as a producer was really cool." Braman also has a 2-year-old filly, by A Smooth Guy out of JC that was injured as a foal that will join her broodmare band when she gets older. She sold Sandi's full sister at the 2020 Pink Buckle Sale for $23,000 as a yearling. JC is currently carrying a French Streakin Jess and Braman plans on breeding her back this season to BHR Frenchies Socks and Epic Leader.

TK left the Bramans with a BHR Frenchies Socks filly that's in training with Hallie Hanssen.

They sold their first TK Twirl, a Slick By Design filly, at the last Texas Best Barrel Horse Sale in Bryan, Texas. She also gave the Bramans an El Shady Zorrero colt and a full sister to JS Milo And Stitch, both of which have sold with retained breeding and embryo rights, respectively.

The First Barrel – Kim Thomas' Straight Approach

By Tanya Randall

Trainer and clinician Kim Thomas of Washington, Oklahoma, trains a straight approach to the first barrel as opposed to the often seen arch. The straight approach allows her to get the collection she needs for a snappy turn with a straight departure for the second barrel.

The late great trainer and multiple National Finals Rodeo qualifier Celie Ray helped her develop this style of approach.

"I had a really nice futurity horse and I was giving him a bigger pocket," she explained. "That horse never ran past the first barrel, but he floated. He never really set and snapped. Celie told me to take him straighter. It forced him to collect, get around, snap back and turn."

The straight approach also served her well at the rodeos where various setups prevent an arched approach. The San Antonio Rodeo in the old Freeman Coliseum—where this year's rodeo is reported to be held, was one such arena. With gates in each corner, rather than a center alley, barrel racers have a straight approach to the first barrel from the extreme angle.

The most famous horse that Thomas tweaked with a straighter approach to the first barrel was the great Dynas Plain Special. As a futurity horse, "Dee Dee" was struggling with her first barrel and Thomas speculated that too much room—the arched approach—was causing her problems. When she got the opportunity to tune the mare, the straight approach worked and Dee Dee ran her way into the history books.

For the straight approach, Thomas says pick a spot four feet off the first barrel—five if you're not comfortable—and ride straight to it.

"My pocket is three to four feet off the first barrel," Thomas notes. "I turn the first barrel close. I don't make big pockets, period.

"I keep them in a straight line to their spot. I keep their hip toward the barrel to make sure their hindleg is up underneath them. I actually take an extra step behind my first barrel, which causes you to leave straight."

The biggest difference between the arched and straight approach is collection. Horses will sometimes get strung out and lose collection trying to turn from the arch, while the straight approach forces them to gather.

"When you make that big arch to the first barrel like most people want to do they don't have their rear underneath them to make the turn," she says. "They're not collected. They float out and run around. A lot of horses when they're too round and you take that arched approach, it causes them to step off and then you have to handle them to get them over for the second.

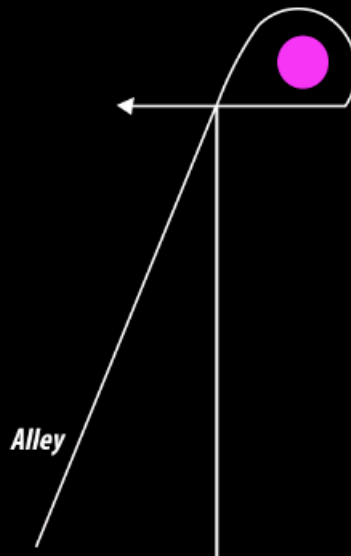

"My horses get on their hindquarters and take that extra step behind the barrel and that forces them snap back and leave straight. The way I do it, you don't have to handle them and there is no wasted motion."

When training the straight approach, Thomas will make a straight line directly to her spot beside the barrel. (See diagram.) She stops her horse's nose is even with the barrel and keeps the body straight. She makes her turn with an extra step behind the barrel that will allow her to leave straight.

The First Barrel – Kim Thomas' Straight Approach

Kim Thomas' straight approach teaches collection and produces snappy turns with no wasted motion. The right line in this diagram represents the straight approach when training and tuning.

The left line is the straight approach from the alley. No matter where you come from, the horse learns that spot is where they collect and turn.

"It's difficult for a horse, but they learn to get their hindquarters underneath them," she says.

Once the horse knows that's their spot to get their hindquarters underneath them, you can ride straight to that spot from anywhere.

"When you come from the alley, you still keep your horse's body straight on the approach to the same spot, same position for the turn. They turn quick and hard and leave the barrel straight with no wasted motion."

Rodeo Salinas Postponed

After a recommendation from the California Rodeo's COVID-19 Response Committee, the Executive Board voted unanimously to postpone the 111th California Rodeo Salinas from July 15-18 to Sept. 23-26.

"The current COVID-19 situation in Monterey County and the Central Coast and new guidance from state and local governments have led us to believe that postponing our rodeo is the right thing to do at this time," said California Rodeo Salinas President Dave Pedrazzi.

Details about tickets and more will be communicated when they are solidified, and the COVID-19 Response Committee will continue to evaluate other events the California Rodeo Association hosts. The COVID-19 Response committee meets regularly to review new information regarding the virus.

California Rodeo Salinas is one of the top 10 rodeos in the U.S. for ProRodeo contestants as well as an economic driver for the local community, creating more than $11 million in economic impact in just one week. That includes donations to local non-profits who work during the events to earn money for their programs.

Ongoing updates can also be found at www.CARODEO.com or by following @carodeosalinas on social media.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

"Classic" by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

When our Grandkids stay with us, we take turns picking a place to eat lunch. It was Mike's turn this last week and he picked a Chinese place. We all piled into the car and headed to town. When he took a wrong turn, the middle grand said in her husky voice, "Papa, where are we going?" Mike started laughing and said he'd forgotten which turn to take. The little grand, in this sweet little voice said, "Papa, do you have amnesia?" Now we're all laughing. Then the oldest grand, in typical teenage humor said, "No, this is the first sign of early Alzheimer's."

It seems silly to think you could forget where your keys are or that appointment or a 100 other things. But if we can forget God, you can forget anything!

How can you forget God? People do it all the time. Something bad happens and we dust off our Bibles and get our little bottoms to church and we actually pray!! Then when the answer comes, we slowly get complacent and before we know it, EVERYTHING is more important than spending time with Him.

God knew this (imagine that) and even put a warning to us in His word. Deut. 6:10-12 and Deut. 8:11-18 are accounts of people getting wealthy, then forgetting Him. Let's not let that be us!

Mike and Sherry Morrison pastor "Church at the Barn" in Gillette, WY. They also travel to other areas ministering at barrel races, ranches, rodeos, churches and home Bible studies.
