Big Weekend - 3 Circuits Finalize the Season

By Amy Wilson

It was a busy weekend in ProRodeo as three circuit finals awarded average and year end championships, and six barrel racers earned invitations to the Ram National Circuit Finals Rodeo in Kissimmee, Florida.

Montana Pro Rodeo Circuit Finals -

In Great Falls, Montana during the Montana Pro Rodeo Circuit Finals held January 11 – 13, Tara Stimpson and Carmel Wright each placed in all three rounds to finish first and second in the average respectively. Wright, who won the Montana Pro Rodeo Circuit year end championship, earned $5,738 at the finals. Stimpson, who won $7,459, edged Wright by 7 hundredths of a second to win the average.

The 23 year old who grew up on a ranch in Lodge Grass was riding her backup horse due to her main horse being hurt. "I was pretty shocked," Stimpson said of winning on her 7 year old gelding, Painted Fling "Reese". "With my other horse, I knew I could do it. But with him and the set up, I really had no intentions of it. I was happy with how he ran and handled everything. I'm excited for what the future holds for him," she added.

The tiny pattern and set up can be challenging for any horse, but especially one with limited rodeo experience. "It's offset. You come in crooked and are pointed straight at first when you come in, so it's a really hard set up actually," she explained. Stimpson, who was the Montana Pro Rodeo Circuit Rookie of the Year last year, took him to practice everyday and although she felt that she made some rider errors in both the first two rounds, she was happy with how he clocked while also knowing they could get even better. "In the third round, I was the first person out. At first I was a little nervous for that but then I was glad I could just do my own thing and not worry about anyone else. I had worked him again that morning and had him feeling good. I didn't think it was the smoothest run we had that weekend so I didn't think it was going to be that fast but he ran really hard," she said about their 13.32 run which placed second in the round. "I actually had no idea what I needed to do or what time I needed to run to win the average, I just went in there with my own game-plan and if it worked out, it worked out."

Now the girl who started going to jackpots on "an old ranch horse" about 10 years ago will get to make the 34 hour drive from Montana to Florida to compete for the national title. "I made mistakes and learned from them and kept going," she said. "I have a lot of family support – they help me with everything. I have a lot of friends who have helped me along the way with advice and letting me jump in with them."

Stimpson plans to run Reese and take her other horse as a backup

ALTERNATIVE THERAPIES: Lohof Animal PEMF Therapy – she actually worked on him all weekend during the circuit finals. And I do regular chiropractic work on him.

CONDITIONING-TRAINING REGIMEN: I keep it pretty laid back. I do a lot of outside riding in the hills. If we have something we need to fix, I'll go back to the pattern and tune him up. But I try to keep him off the barrels as much as possible so he can relax and enjoy his job.

since she should be healed up by then. And her goals have now changed. "I had some smaller goals set before the circuit finals. Looking forward now, I'd like to keep going to a bunch of winter rodeos with Reese and see how he handles everything. If it works, maybe go to a few more rodeos over the summer and see what happens," she said.

Columbia River Circuit Finals-

Only about $3,000 separated Cheyenne Allan and Teri Bangart in the year end standings as they entered the Columbia River Circuit Finals held January 11 – 13 in Yakima, Washington. While Allan placed in all three rounds, Bangart tipped a barrel in the second round. They are very good friends and Allan knew she needed to win the average so Bangart could get an invitation to the Ram National Circuit Finals Rodeo for finishing second in the year end standings, and that's exactly how it worked out. Allan won the average by three hundredths of a second and finished the year with over $40,000 after winning $5,176 at the finals. "I just want to thank and praise my Lord Jesus Christ," Allan said following the win. "It's overwhelming, I'm so blessed."

Allan went to the circuit finals numerous times with her husband, Randy, who had been a chute boss and pickup-man, but this was her third year to compete in the barrel racing. And while Allan has trained a lot of great horses, she admitted that this accomplishment has taken her "a long time". She and Randy own Diamond Slash Ranch near Mabton, Washington. "We have four studs and probably sixty mares. We have speed horses and then he has collected some really nice Hancock and cowbred horses and he's crossing them and doing a wonderful job," she explained.

At the finals Allan was riding the 14 year old mare they raised and trained, RS Mollys Honor "Molly". "She's ornery. She will kick you. She will bite you. And she just ran away from me a little bit ago. She's unique but she gets the job done for me," she said. They still have Molly's dam and several siblings. "They are doing really, really well – even better than her because they're not mean like her," she said with a laugh.

One of the highlights of her year was winning the Pendleton

Roundup. "Holy moly. I think anyone who wins Pendleton, that'll stick with you the rest of your life," she said. "This year has been a miracle year. It's been something you dream about but you never think it'll materialize," Allan said humbly. "The feeling and experience is unreal. It's amazing, just amazing."

Allan's plan is always to go one rodeo at a time, but this year she has some added confidence in Molly. "The more I went with Molly year," she explained.

Masterson was riding her 8 year old Ivory James gelding, Jim Case, who she calls "Jesse James" or "the outlaw". "I bought him as a 4 year old. We took him right to the rodeo world because futurities aren't real big in the northeast," she said. "He's really easy to have around. He's just a cool horse."

At the circuit finals, she really concentrated on getting the start they needed. "He's a push style horse and it's a short score so we made sure we came out of the hole hard so we could keep momentum through the whole run." It definitely worked as they got faster every run and won the average by 8 tenths. "He's been working really well this year. We've kind of figured it out this year and he's had a really successful season," she said.

Masterson grew up with horses but didn't get involved in rodeo until she was about 15 years old. "It's mostly a hobby up here so that's why we like the circuit system." The Lincoln, Vermont barrel racer added, "I have a real job where I work for Collins Aerospace as a program manager." In this week's WPRA World Standings, she is ranked 15th and will have the chance to add lots more to her winnings at coming up at the Ram National Circuit Finals.

Cody Bauserman & Smoke Creek's Papagaio Sweep Buckeye, Arizona, Futurities

By Tanya Randall

Cody Bauserman and Papagaio, owned and bred by Bill and Cheryl Kennedy's Smoke Creek Farm, dominated the early Arizona futurities. The duo followed up their MVP Championships with a clean sweep of the futurity and slot race sidepot at the Greg Olson Memorial, presented by Roo-Hide, held January 11-13 at the South Buckeye Equestrian Center.

Bauserman and Papagaio added $25,964 in futurity earnings to their all-ready impressive resume. Combined with their MVP total, the pair earned more than $50,000 in Arizona and have nearly $70,000 in career earnings.

"Cody has brought him into his own," said Kennedy of the 4-year-old gelding. "He's so big and so strong, but he's so calm and gentle. Cody's made him a superstar."

Bauserman and Papagaio's two 16.8s on a standard pattern were the talk of the event. While Bauserman said he wasn't surprised on the first run, the second did catch him off guard.

"The first run, I knew he was probably winning the round," said Bauserman, an Ohio native, who spent much of career training horses in Sallisaw, Oklahoma. "The second run, I knew if he made a smooth run and had a .2 or a low .3, he'd win the futurity. I knew he had run the .2 the weekend before when I rode him less aggressive, so I figured I'd do the same. I knew he'd made a smooth run, but I didn't even go as hard to the first, so I was a little surprised."

Bauserman had said after winning the MVP futurity the weekend prior that Papagaio was the kind of horse that every barrel racer would dream of having. He's just that easy.

"He's turned out to be everything I thought he'd be," said Kennedy of his homebred. "Even as a baby, he was always bigger and stronger than the other colts. He was faster, always the first to the feed bucket. You could tell he was going to be a super athlete.

By leading racehorse and barrel horse sire Tres Seis, Papagaio, which means parrot in Portuguese, is out of the stakes winning Dash Ta Fame mare Ms Lucky Lucky.

"When we first started, I was always looking for Dash Ta Fame mares," recalled Kennedy. "Mac (Murray of MJ Farms where Dash Ta Fame once stood) called me and said he's got the perfect mare for me. She's a $90,000 winner and would be a great mare for me to start out with. We've bred her to Tres Seis, Frenchmans Guy several times and we just bred her to Fire Water Flit. She's produced some really nice babies for us."

The Kennedys accidentally got into barrel racing 13 years ago when one of their pack horses gave birth to a barrel horse.

"Cheryl and I used to go backpacking up into the mountains," he explained. "We had three Appaloosa pack horses. One had baby that Cheryl had helped foal out and imprinted at birth. We called it Cocoa Dot. We had sent it off and we got a call from the trainer that it was better suited for something else because it was so athletic. It needed to be something else than a mountain horse. I asked what that something else was and he said a maybe a barrel horse. I told Cheryl and she said, 'Find me a barrel horse trainer.'"

While Cocoa Dot did well, the Kennedy's learned the ropes of the sport, which of course, led them to search out more horsepower. A breeder of champion German Wirehaired Pointers, Kennedy was already well versed in genetics and pedigree, so it didn't take him long to start hunting Dash Ta Fames.

"I'd always go to the sale and the ones that I'd buy would have chips or some problem," he recalled. "I told Cheryl I'd be better off breeding to him and Frenchmans Guy. She said, 'Well, you're going to need some mares first. So, I went to the sale and started buying mares."

"We started out with three Appaloosa pack horses 13 years ago and now we have more than 200 horses!"

The Kennedy's program raised some nice horse, like BFA World Futurity Champion Famous Shiny Hiney, but the couple had yet to hit big with one of their own.

"We had jockeys come and go, but we never could quite get to where I wanted to be," said Kennedy, who operates a landscaping business in Denver. "When we'd go to the futurities, Cody Bauserman would always talk to me. I knew he had always told me the truth and wouldn't sugar coat anything, so I asked if I could pay him to come up and look at my horses and tell me what he thought?"

In the early summer of 2017, Bauserman and his girlfriend Adrian Bolin spent three days in Bennett, Colorado, looking at Kennedy's colts and riding a few of the older prospects and horses. Not long afterwards, Bauserman and Bolin moved to Colorado to train for the Kennedys. Since then, both Bauserman and Bolin have won futurities for Smoke Creek Farm, including the BFA Juvenile with Tinys Stormy Weather and the last three futurities with Papagaio.

It's possible that Papagaio may be one that will eventually make the transition from futurity horse to rodeo horse for the couple as well.

"When we went to the NFR for the first time to watch Shali Lord, I told Cheryl I want to own an NFR horse one day," he said. "My real dream is to make great rodeo horses for Cheryl or for others. Papagaio is built to do it and he's built to last. We're just going to try to run him at the bigger things and not put too many runs on him. We want to make sure he's still running when he's 15."

$12,000 for Tiany Schuster & Take The Fame Guyz at Isabella Quarter Horses Slot Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Tiany Schuster and her recently acquired Take The Fame Guyz ("Mic") topped the Isabella Quarter Horses Slot Futurity, held during the Texas Ultimate Barrel Classic in Edna, Texas, on January 10. The victor's share was worth $12,000.

Mic, formerly known as Rascal around the barn, captured everyone's attention at the Lucky Dog Race in Memphis, Tennessee, when on the very first day he was eligible to compete, December 1, he carried Rylee Shields to a second-place finish in the American Qualifier with his debut run as a 3-year-old.

Bred by Bill and Deb Myers, Mic is by all-time leading living sire Frenchmans Guy out of the Dash Ta Fame mare Disarray. He is a full-brother to Guys Famous Girl, the LG Pro Classic Slot Futurity Champion and Equi-Stat's Leading Futurity Horse for 2011. The Shields made him the high seller at the 2017 Myers Sale by paying $62,000 for the gelding.

Schuster, a 2017 National Finals Rodeo qualifier and the PRCA and WPRA's All-Time Leading Regular Season Earnings record holder, knew about the horse's Memphis performance but never dreamed that the Shields family would sell him.

"I was sitting in the stands at Oklahoma City, watching the slot race," she said. "He wasn't entered in it and he wasn't entered in the Juvenile. I was talking to Colton Melby about horses for sale. That horse's name came up, and I figured there was no way he'd be for sale, that he was the horse that they (the Shields) had been waiting for their whole life. He said, 'Let me make a call.' The horse was for sale, and I talked to Edwin (Cameron, her SO). We bought the horse right there, sitting in the stands."

Unfortunately, Schuster didn't get the opportunity to get with the gelding before Edna, because her horses came home from Oklahoma City with the infamous respiratory crud and promptly contaminated Mic.

"I thought I had him over it," Schuster said, "but by the end of the second week of Edna, he couldn't breathe. Luckily, he was perfect for the slot race."

Just four horses into the slot futurity, Caroline Boucher had taken the lead on Heavens Guy, a colt that Schuster and Cameron had purchased as a yearling from his breeder Jud Little. The 4-year-old gelding, by JL Dash Ta Heaven out of the Holland Ease, Frenchmans Guy mare Easy Guys, was trained by Boucher and was sold just prior to the Edna futurities to Julien Veilleux for his daughter Oceane.

"Everyone's happy because the horse did great!" said Schuster of the gelding that won $12,640 over the two weekends. "He placed second in the slot race, placed (fifth) in the first futurity; he got better and better. They're happy because they've got a winning horse and I've got a happy customer."

Just seven runs later, Schuster and Mic—"so named because he has 'Moves like Jagger' and is 'handy like MacGyver'"—took the lead with a 14.800, the fastest time by a futurity horse during the two events.

"When he turned the first barrel in the slot race, Jane Melby thinks he flung dirt in his ear somehow," recalled Schuster. "He had his left ear pinned back and was shaking his head. I thought, 'Oh Geez Louise, what the heck is going on now!' He was shaking his head the whole time like he had water or dirt of something in his

Back From The Break -- Kassie Mowry & Famous Ladies Man Top Isabella Quarter Horses Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Leading futurity rider and two-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier Kassie Mowry had some catching up to do at the Edna, Texas, futurities, the first two weekends in January. The veteran trainer from Dublin, Texas, fought her way back from a broken ankle and fresh colts to win the $30,000-added Isabella Quarter Horses Futurity, held January 10-13 during the Texas Ultimate Classic, aboard Famous Ladies Man ("Emmett"), owned by Michael Boone.

Mowry broke her right ankle while loading horses to leave the BFA World Championships in Oklahoma City in early December. When the horse she was leading slipped on the asphalt, both Mowry and the horse went down. The blunt force trauma broke her fibula at the ankle.

Luckily, she didn't require surgery, but unfortunately, that also meant she couldn't ride for a month.

"I was basically useless," said Mowry. "Mike (Boone) stayed with me and he kept my 2-year-olds going—the 2's coming 3—because he didn't want those to fall behind. We had hauled to a friend's arena every day or every other day, and I just watched.

"My current futurity colts didn't get rode at all. He didn't want to get on them. We both believe that when they're running and finely tuned that it's hard to start changing things so early in the game. They're so impressionable at the stage. We didn't change anything. We knew they were trained. They were in decent shape to go run, they just weren't ridden down enough to go run like they should. They all came back around."

She used the Texas Extreme Futurity, held January 3-6, to prepare her extremely fresh string of horses for the Isabella Quarter Horses Futurity.

"I only rode those horses twice before I went to Edna," she said, "so he was already behind. I didn't want him to be even more behind. That's why we ran him through. I was able to ride, but it was still painful. I was able to kind of get it done."

Emmett also had some recovering of his own to do. At the first futurity, he came off the trailer with a severely cut leg.

"I didn't want him to miss that weekend because I feel it's hard to compete against those colts that have run in that arena the weekend before if yours hasn't," Mowry explained. "Dr. Janicek (with Brazos Valley Equine) was there. He stitched him up and okayed us to cruise him through there, so that's what we did. It was sore, but he wasn't lame on it. We kind of just went through the motions the first weekend."

Mowry went back home on Sunday to regroup and get her ram-bunctious herd rode down.

"I was able to get a lot of work done," she said. "My ankle felt a lot better. I was able to really ride the colts down for the first time in over a month. He got some slow work and got a little sweat that he needed before the next one.

"They were all whole new animals. They all did better at the second one. They were all really at a disadvantage there with me not riding them since Oklahoma City, but it was out of my control."

At the Isabella Futurity, Mowry and Emmett placed ninth in the first go with a 15.288 and followed it up with a round winning 15.035 to win the average. The victory was worth $11,000.

Royally-bred, Emmett, a 4-year-old gelding, is by all-time leading sire Dash Ta Fame out of the Canadian Champion Barrel Horse Lady Perks, by Dash For Perks. Boone had purchased the gelding from his breeders, Jeff and Andrea Busby, as a yearling.

"We got him broke and (Michael) took him and patterned him his 2-year-old year," she said. "I got him back the late summer of his 2-year-old year. I turned him out for the winter. I started adding speed and exhibiting him in the spring of his 3-year-old year."

Mowry also placed fifth in the average, earning $5,065, on her own colt, CP He Will Be Epic, an Epic Leader out of Claire Powell's Dash Ta Fame mare Percilla. She was 10th in the average for $1,090 on Dave and Lori Zabel's Back The Blue, an Epic Leader out of Karma Loftin's great producer Junior Country Girl, by Deep Note Jr.

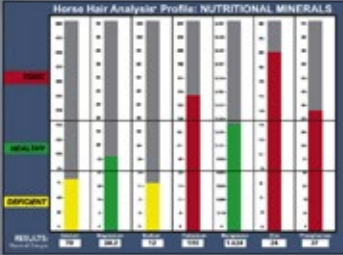

"What's really cool is seeing other people winning on them,"

Mowry said of the Epic Leader offspring. She pointed out that Craig Brooks also placed in the average on an Epic Leader and Hallie Hanssen did well on her Epic Leaders in Arizona. "It's really fun to see these horses going on with other people. The feedback that I get—that they're loving them, it's awesome. I remember when we decided to breed Firewater Fiesta to Confederate Leader and I said that'll be my dream horse. He truly was and he still is. He's done everything I've asked of him and he still is doing it. It's just amazing."

Although she's not quite 100 percent, Mowry is back to riding full time and she has plans to hit a few of the closer pro rodeos this winter in between futurities.

"I entered Fort Worth and San Angelo," she said. "I like to do the close ones. Whatever is ready is what I'll take. I've got Digger (Girls Dig Fame) and he's done well at both of those rodeos. The only problem is he hasn't been ridden. None of those (older) horses have been ridden since BFA. They got put on the backburner big time."

Cheyenne Wimberley & Streakin Images Win $50K at WCRA's Windy City Roundup

By Tanya Randall

Solid runs aboard Streakin Images ("Lexi") made Cheyenne Wimberley of Stephenville, Texas, the first barrel racing champion of the World Champion Rodeo Alliance's Windy City Roundup. The $1 million finale, held January 11 at the All-State Arena in Chicago, offered the nine qualified barrel racers a purse of $111,111 of which Wimberley's winner's share was $50,000.

"This is a great opportunity for people like me who have been out (of mainstream rodeo) for 20 years," said Wimberley, a two-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier in the late 1990s. "With regular rodeo, I would have to have gone a whole year and spent thousands of dollars so I might be in contention for the next year—and that's if I had a horse left!"

Wimberley, who splits her time between training horses, her real estate business CW Horse Properties, selling equine coverage through Albracht Insurance and her family's saddle company Cowboy Classic, went to two jackpots to qualify for the WCRA Semifinals at the Lazy E in Guthrie, Oklahoma. She and Lexi picked up more than $10,000 at the event to earn the right to compete in Chicago.

"They went out of their way to accommodate us," said Wimberley of the Chicago experience. "They did a great job welcoming us. Our horses stayed an hour away at a very nice facility. It wasn't as cold as I expected it to be. They had a nice heated tent for us out back. Our warm-up was a little tight, but they only let the people whose event was next in there at a time. There were only nine of us so it wasn't bad. It was very contestant-oriented and that gets overlooked a lot. They're trying really hard to accommodate everyone and get this off the ground."

The barrel racers were allowed to ride in the arena on Thursday night. The footing, that looked like beach sand on screen, was actually a flaky, limestone fill material that would get muddy and slick if you added water to it.

"It was a different surface," Wimberley said. "It was shifty, but no one fell on it. When we rode on it, we knew it was a surface that horses weren't going to be able to get a hold of."

Wimberley and Lexi were second out in the qualifying round, where all nine contestants were running for just two advancing spots.

"She'd never been in a pen that size," noted Wimberley. "She struggled a little with the ground but kept her forward motion."

They had the fastest opening time, a 13.55, and were followed by Ivy Conrado and KN Fabs Gift Of Fame's 13.59. Since Wimberley and Conrado advanced, no money was awarded to them for their first run, while the remaining contestants were paid on their order of finish.

Wimberley elected to run first in the final round and turned in a 13.562. Conrado and J Lo were second after tipping the first barrel to jump their time to 18.421. Their share was $25,000.

"She made an excellent run," Wimberley said of Lexi. "She shuffled around the second a little, but like I said, she always keeps moving forward and that makes a difference."

The 8-year-old daughter of the late Pyron Six is out of BFA Secretary Cindy Arnold's great mare Visual Images, a daughter of Dashing Cleat out of the Bugs Alive In 75 mare Kissable. Lexi was trained and futurity by Lance Graves. Wimberley has ridden Lexi off and on for a year for the mare's owner Liz Prickett of Brownwood, Texas.

"I had to learn Lexi because you weren't going to teach her anything," Wimberley chuckled. "One day I just threw my sucker and the dirt and decided I wasn't going to train on her. I was just going to let her do what she wanted. I took her headgear off and put a hackamore on her. I just had to learn to do it her way."

Ironically, Lexi didn't have a lot of rodeo experience prior to this summer.

"She hasn't been to that many rodeos," said Wimberley. "I borrowed her for Mesquite and Denton this summer when I needed to get some more circuit money. I think Liz had run her at two open, amateur rodeos."

Wimberley, who qualified for the Texas Circuit Finals on her own mare Dash Ta Suz ("Smooch"), was forced to switch horses while Smooch recovered from a nasty fungal infection in an eye. Smooch is now being legged up and will hopefully be ready for some of the winter rodeos.

"I'll go to some of the building close to home," she said. "I might have gotten into San Antonio. I'm thankful for opportunities, like the WCRA, and hopefully, I'll make the best of them. I've got to take advantage of them while I can."

National Western Stock Show Rodeo gets off to a Rousing Start

by Susan Kanode; For the National Western Stock Show

It's become a tradition to start the National Western Stock Show Rodeo with competition between teams representing rodeos from Colorado and from across the rest of North America.

The history of the event goes back eight years, but in that amount of time, its popularity has grown for both fans and contestants. A near capacity crowd saw competitors in bareback, saddle bronc and bull riding as well as steer wrestling and barrel racing compete for a pair of championship spurs as well as part of the $90,000 purse.

The day started with an 11 a.m. performance featuring all of the contestants on the Cinch Jeans World Team. What started with 10 contestants in each event was quickly narrowed to the best four advancing to Saturday night's Showdown.

A matinee performance featuring contestants from the Ram Rodeo Colorado Team started at 3:30 p.m. with the same format. Then at 8 p.m. the four contestants that advanced from each team went head-to-head to narrow the field once again in the semifinals. The top score in each event from the two teams advanced again to a winner-take-all final round.

To be part of the World team, contestants were invited to represent rodeos in North Platte, Nebraska.; Guymon, Oklahoma; Rapid City, South Dakota; Cheyenne, Wyoming; Austin, Texas; Fort Worth, Texas; Calgary, Alberta; Dodge City, Kansas; San Angelo,

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

When our Grandkids stay with us, we take turns picking a place to eat lunch. It was Mike's turn this last week and he picked a Chinese place. We all piled into the car and headed to town. When he took a wrong turn, the middle grand said in her husky voice, "Papa, where are we going?" Mike started laughing and said he'd forgotten which turn to take. The little grand, in this sweet little voice said, "Papa, do you have amnesia?" Now we're all laughing. Then the oldest grand, in typical teenage humor said, "No, this is the first sign of early Alzheimer's."

It seems silly to think you could forget where your keys are or that appointment or a 100 other things. But if we can forget God, you can forget anything!

How can you forget God? People do it all the time. Something bad happens and we dust off our Bibles and get our little bottoms to church and we actually pray!! Then when the answer comes, we slowly get complacent and before we know it, EVERYTHING is more important than spending time with Him.

God knew this (imagine that) and even put a warning to us in His word. Deut. 6:10-12 and Deut. 8:11-18 are accounts of people getting wealthy, then forgetting Him. Let's not let that be us!

Mike and Sherry Morrison pastor "Church at the Barn" in Gillette, WY. They also travel to other areas ministering at barrel races, ranches, rodeos, churches and home Bible studies. Check out our schedule online. You can also download all Bible studies by visiting our website: m-m-m.org or contact us at: PO Box 2439, Gillette, WY 82717, 307/685-2272.
