Tricia Aldridge & Three Times The Fury Sweep Come And Take It Futurity & Slot Race

By Tanya Randall

OKC Slot Race Champions Tricia Aldridge and Three Times The Fury ("Sway") were back in the winner's circle at the Come And Take It Barrel Race, hosted by Twisted Sisters, January 1-3 at the Brazos County Expo Center South Arena in Bryan, Texas.

Aldridge and Sway, a 4-year-old mare she co-owns with Catherine Dudley, swept the $10,000-added Futurity, won the best-of-two-runs slot race and placed well in the Open 1D both days for total earnings of $15,990.

"I call her my unicorn because she really is," Aldridge said of Sway.

The Sanger, Texas, barrel horse trainer and broker purchased the daughter of Copper Spring Ranch's late leading barrel horse sire Furyofthewind, out of the Tres Seis mare Three And Out from her breeder Amy Schimke of Wessington Springs, South Dakota, shortly after the mare came home from Rodney Yost's program as a 2-year-old.

"Amy said this is the only horse that she never wanted to sell but was glad she did," said Aldridge. "I hope we continue to make her and Catherine proud."

Aldridge and Sway started off their victory quest in Bryan in the same fashion as they did in OKC—with an oopsie in the exhibitions on Thursday night.

"In Oklahoma City, she ducked in the exhibition before the slot race. I guess she wanted to keep every exactly the same because she ducked again in the exhibition at Bryan! I just had to laugh. She doesn't do it to be dirty. She's just looking around and isn't looking for a barrel. If she could not be so literal and do it exactly the same I'd be okay with that," she said.

Thankfully, Aldridge had another opportunity to exhibition on Friday before the race started on Saturday.

"I just slow loped her through one," she explained. "I felt like I needed it to keep her on track."

Aldridge's goal for Sway was to surpass the $100,000 mark in earnings. She was $8,000 away before she made her first run at Bryan.

"I talk to her all the time," she admitted. "Every time we go down the alley I tell her she's a champion. I told her we're $8,000 away and this is what we need to get done."

Their first run of 15.637 held for nearly the entire 500-plus entry race. The futurity, derby and other classes ran concurrently in one Open draw. At the end of the first day, Aldridge and Sway had won the futurity, had the lead in the slot race and finished third in the Open.

"It was a good run but it's so full of baby bobbles," said Aldridge. "She came in hard and wanted to set a little bit early so I had to help her out. It kind of got her off her rhythm a little bit and I was scared I was going to kick the first barrel over leaving it, so I stepped her out and she stepped out like two or three strides. I was like, 'We cannot hit a barrel!' I had to lift a little but she had a nice second and a nice third. She came out with a .6 so we were super happy with that."

Even though she ran early again—within the first 100—on Sunday, the pace had already picked up in the second round.

"The next day, I told her we needed to win $6,000 more," the whip as she approached the third. The result was a 15.577 to secure the futurity and slot sweep as well as sixth-place check in the open.

“She’s so setty,” Aldridge said. “My client laughed, ‘Oh my God, you whipped her to the third! I was so scared!’ When you say turn, she’s going to turn. I just trust that mare so much. She lets me help her. She’s just a really good team player. I didn’t need to be a whole lot faster to win, I just needed to be a little bit faster and she was just a little bit faster. I’m super proud of that mare.”

With the futurity victory paying $8,618, the slot race awarding $5,130 and the open runs paying $2,242, Sway’s earnings are now more than $106,000. Aldridge now has a goal to win $200,000 on the mare.

“She’s so big and fast and strong,” Aldridge said. “I love her style. I have to work at keeping her round a little bit. She’s very upright on the ground. I never feel like she’s not collected in a turn. I can trust her on a lot of different types of ground and different types of patterns. I don’t feel like she ever gets really strung out at all. I think that’s going to help keep her sound too.”

The two have a packed schedule with Dinosaur Classic in Glen Rose, Texas, Lance Graves International in Guthrie, Oklahoma, Royal Crown in Bryan, Dinero Dash in Alvarado, Texas, and the Elite Futurity in Waco, Texas.

“I’m super excited,” said the part-time construction engineer for SPI Asphalt. “She feels really good. She’s definitely changed in her personality since Oklahoma City. I think before she thought she was fast and now she knows she’s fast. She’s confident and outgoing. You can just see her attitude change. Now she knows she’s big and

SPECIAL: TRUST YOUR PROGRAM

“The hardest thing about training 3-year-olds is watching everybody else’s,” says Tricia Aldridge. “Right now, other people are loping their 3-year-olds through and mine are barely even broke. I think the important thing is to trust your gut on what your horse needs.”

The barrel horse trainer and broker and part-time construction engineer says the key to making three-time champion Three Times The Fury (“Sway”) was trusting her program and avoiding the outside influences of what others were doing with their colts at any given time.

“I feel like that mare would have been an easy one to overdo,” she says. “She always had the speed and the talent. With her, it was just knowing that you’re sitting on a good one and not pushing one too fast. I’m just letting her come on her own.

“You have to trust in your program and not compare it with someone else’s.”

bad. It’s been fun to watch her come around like that.”

Next weekend, Aldridge is taking Sway with her to the pro rodeo in Odessa, Texas.

“We’re late in the slack and I feel that’s the right place to be,” she said. “I’m taking her to the jackpot the day before so I’m going to trot her through and let her look around. I feel with that the day before she should be ready for slack. We’re very excited.”

Craig Brooks Dominates Southern Futurity, Wins First & Second

By Tanya Randall

Decorated futurity trainer Craig Brooks won his fifth championship at the Southern Futurity, formally known as the Southern Rebel, with Im So Sway. The victory in the $5,000-added Futurity was worth $2,509.

It was Brooks second victory on a Jud Little-bred, Jordan Diaz-owned gelding, having won it in Dashin In Heaven in 2018.

The Eastanollee, Georgia, based trainer also took the reserve championship on Holy Flitin Fireman, owned by Lindsey Netterville, and fourth on Im Stylin Like Sissy, owned by Margo Crowther. He also picked up a go-round check on Streaknsassymemories, owned by Trey and Amber Honeycutt.

"It's just a cool futurity," said Brooks of the Southern Futurity, which is in its 36th year. "They've got the arena open every morning so you can go in and work your colts. It's just really laid back futurity that's been going for a long time."

Sway, who is out of NFR qualifier Smooth My Credit, by Cash Not Credit, has been in Brooks' barn since he was a 2-year-old.

"He picked up on it really quick from the start," Brooks said. "He's really laid back and easy going, but at the same time you have to play with his face, set his head and really get him backed off the bridle just so he'll soften up. But, from day one on the barrels, when I loped up there, he fell in there really easy."

Brooks says Sway is probably the best clocking 3-year-old that he's ever had.

"He's been one that's always clocked right along. Just coasting through a set, he can clock really hard. Like at (the Ardmore Futurity last September), he was really going three-quarter speed and clocked a .2 out there and that would have placed him in the futurity. He's always been able to clock really well."

Sway's futurity career got off to a rough start as the gelding discovered he had more speed to give. The extreme speed with his hard turning style created footing problems.

"Both of the Dash Ta Heaven colts really, really commit to a turn," Brooks said. "It's not really the ground's fault, they just commit really hard and there's not a lot of scotch or safety. (The ground) is either going to hold them or it's not. It's going to take some time for them to understand that and be slightly more cautious."

"You always worry when they fall down if it's going to scare them or if they're going to come back and get gritty. These guys, knock on wood, go in there and try again. I haven't noticed them being cautious or safetying it up. I do hope they learn to slow their feet down a little but I don't want them to get too cautious where they stand up completely and can't cut the clock off."

With their footing troubles, Brooks put Safe-Grip horseshoes on both geldings.

"I actually had to shoe them myself before I left," he laughed. "I don't shoe anymore. I've got a farrier and he was more than willing to come out, but with the way the mail ran, they didn't come in when they were supposed to, so I ended up tacking shoes on both of them. Luckily, they'd been done recently and all I had to do was pull, shape and tack them on. That was still more work than I'm used to! God bless farriers because I don't want underneath there anymore!"

In the first round of the Southern Futurity, Brooks hit paydirt with Streaknsassymemories, while the rest of his crew clocked just out of the money with 15.0s. In the second round, it was Streaknsassymemories turn for ground trouble, while the two JL Dash Ta Heaven geldings clocked in the money with two 14.5s, while Im Stylin Like Sassy ran a 14.6.

"When Sway runs, he kind of steps off the first barrel sometimes and we kind of had a little problem with it in the first go," Brooks said. "We didn't get over in time for the second so it was a little out of sorts. The second run, he turned the first barrel much better but still not as well as we would like him to. He really stuck it

TRAINING/CONDITIONING: "I've eased up a little bit on these guys, mostly because the futurities are so close together. I've been going to what I can get to because if they shut us down I at least wanted to get something before they did that. The week before I just worked them once on the barrels lightly and just rode the other days. He usually gets rode three to four days a week with one to two days a week on the barrels."

around the second barrel. At the point we were just hoping to stay standing up around the third.

"That colt is really good minded. He really cuts the corner on the backside and I think that's where he makes up most of his time. He's constantly moving forward. He's not a big butt dragger. He's always been talented."

This weekend, Brooks will take his quartet to Lumberton, North Carolina, for the $5,000-added Futurity at the Carolina Can Jam. His next major futurity will likely be the Royal Crown in Bryan, Texas, in February.

Tiany Schuster Sweeps Texas Circuit Titles, Wins Year-End & Finals

By Tanya Randall

Two-time Wrangler National Finals Rodeo qualifier Tiany Schuster took home both the year-end and aggregate titles at the Texas Circuit Finals Rodeo, held December 31-January 2 at the Extraco Coliseum in Waco, Texas. She'll be joined by Shelley Morgan at the RAM National Circuit Finals Rodeo in Kissimmee, Florida, this spring.

"I struggled a little bit this weekend," said Schuster, who won both Texas titles in 2017 as well. "The change in the weather and rain set off my vertigo. It's bothered me off and on for the past 20 years. It's like the nagging relative, always there."

"Show Mance just took care of me. He's an even better horse in my eyes now."

Schuster and Show Mance nearly swept the rodeo, winning the second and third rounds after placing second in the first to win the aggregate for $6,401. They also posted the fastest time of the rodeo, a 15.570, in the third round.

"Show Mance is such a good boy. He just did his job and made my life easier," she said of the 11-year-old gelding by First Smart Money out of Blue Baby Cash, by Hold On To The Cash.

Schuster, who is based out of Krum, Texas, had the year-end lead going into the Circuit Finals. She'd won $21,029 in the COVID-abbreviated season prior to the Finals. She and Show Mance started off the season placing well at Waco, Texas, but climbed on her youngster Famous Mic Guy Ver for most of the winter rodeos.

The gelded son of Frenchmans Guy, out of the great producing Dash Ta Fame mare Disarray, picked up nearly $13,600 before the COVID shutdown, drawing big checks at San Angelo and San Antonio and winning co-approved Lafayette, Louisiana, and Mesquite, Texas, once the rodeos started up again.

After an incredible summer run on Show Mance that led her back to the WNFR, Schuster finished out the circuit on the apple-craving gelding, placing at Buffalo and Abilene, Texas, and co-approved rodeos in Hot Springs, Arkansas, and Springhill, Louisiana.

Schuster also picked up almost $3,000 on her veteran Dash Ta

Next up for Schuster is the Sandhills Pro Rodeo in Odessa, Texas. San Antonio is also scheduled to be a go, but for the most part the winter rodeos are slim.

"We've just got to see what happens, what's available and doesn't get cancelled," she said. "We're just taking it day-by-day now, which is probably a good thing because it lets the horses rest more."

ProRodeo Hall of Famer Leo Camarillo passes away

ProRodeo Hall of Famer Leo Camarillo passed away Dec. 30 at the age of 74 in Chandler, Ariz.

Camarillo, a five-time world champion – team roping in 1972-73, 1975 and 1983, and all-around in 1975 – was inducted with the inaugural 1979 ProRodeo Hall of Fame class in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Camarillo and his younger brother Jerold, also a ProRodeo Hall of Famer, learned to rope from their father, Ralph, a champion roper in California rodeos before he turned to raising stock. They grew up in California's scenic Santa Ynez Valley.

"I've never seen a man who loved that sport so much," said Jerold, 73, in a phone interview with ProRodeo Sports News. "He dedicated himself to go to rodeos and learn new things. Then, we would come home and try it here, and he loved the whole sport, and he loved all the cowboys."

When the boys were youngsters, their father required that the pair spend an hour each day practicing with their ropes.

One of the first targets was a pop bottle, brought into the living room when the weather was cold. From the bottle, they graduated to roping chickens and finally calves.

"We were raised on a ranch and found a way to win money (roping) without having a job," Jerold said. "We were raised roping. We roped all day long and we loved it, and it was a way out for us."

Leo and Jerold revolutionized team roping as heelers. Leo qualified for the National Finals Rodeo 20 times (1968-86 and 1988), while Jerold qualified for the NFR 17 times (1968-83, 1985-86) and won a world title in 1969.

Leo won the NFR team roping average a PRCA-record six times – 1968-71, 1980 and 1982.

He also was a star in the PRCA circuit system. He won the all-around title in the California Circuit in 1976-77, 1980-82, team roping in 1976-77, 1982 and tie-down roping in 1976. In 1983, he was the Texas Circuit team roping champ.

An intense competitor, Leo created and perfected a polished style of heeling steers. An excellent horseman, Camarillo, born Jan. 25, 1946, in Santa Ana, Calif., roped off his horse named Super Stick, which many pros thought unsuitable for professional competition. Camarillo was also an excellent tie-down roper and steer wrestler.

"We both dedicated ourselves to be the greatest ever," Jerold said. "We were so fortunate to learn from our dad, and from then on we changed the style of roping and changed the style of heeling the steers in the air. We worked at it really hard, and when we went out on the road people were amazed with the way we were roping."

Leo is survived by his wife, Sue; sons Wade and Trey; and daughter, Cassie.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

As New Year's resolutions go, I usually don't make them. BUT. I weighed the other day and nearly fainted! What happened here?? Frantically searching for an excuse, ANY excuse, I arrived at the answer! 2020 was something... (this is my excuse) and I kept hearing from people that one of the symptoms of COVID was the loss of taste.

Soooooo, just to be sure that I wasn't getting it, I kept testing my taste buds! Like a two year old, EVERYTHING was going into my mouth...and boy howdy I successfully conquered those symptoms...it was my lame excuse and now I'm headed toward a New Year's resolution.).

You know, if we try hard enough, we can make an excuse for anything we want to justify. But let's not do that in 2020WON.

One of the fruits of the Spirit listed in Gal. 5:22-23 is. . . .self control. No groaning here. Self control doesn't just pertain to food. It can be overspending, angry outbursts, cussing.

But with God, we can and will overcome anything that tries to be the boss of us. The boss position is already taken. He's Jesus. This is the year where, once and for all, we submit our whole life to Him. And we'll be sooooo blessed for it!
