Jackie Ganter & Howes A Tycoon Leave Fort Worth as WPRA's World No. 1

By Tanya Randall

Two-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier Jackie Ganter of Abilene, Texas, claimed the No. 1 spot in the WPRA World Standings with a $25,260 championship at the Southwestern Exposition & Livestock Show, held January 20 through February 4 in Dickies Arena in Fort Worth, Texas.

Ganter was aboard her 15-year-old war horse Howes A Tycoon. She was extremely grateful that the world got to see the talent of the often-injured gelding with the Fort Worth Championship.

"I just love this horse," she said. "I truly believe in him. I'm so glad that everyone got to see what kind of horse he truly is at a rodeo like Fort Worth."

Ganter and Tycoon made five runs in the 56-entry, tournament-style rodeo with a payout of $127,600.

"He's never made four runs in a row and he's never made five runs in a week," said Ganter. "He did at least have the one day off before making the fifth run. Honestly, he does get better the more that you run him, but I don't like to run him over and over again like that. It was very stressful."

Ganter, who qualified for the rodeo via her position in the 2022 WPRA Tour Standings, was out in the last bracket of eight competitors. She hadn't had much saddle time since her runs at Denver due to illness, so she took advantage of the practice time in Dickie's arena before her run Monday night.

"I wanted to take him through and make sure I wouldn't fall off," she laughed. Typically, Ganter just walks Tycoon through the pattern during arena practice sessions, but she did lope him through at Fort Worth. "He worked great and won the round that night."

Ganter opted out of practice on Tuesday morning and they had a bad stumble coming into the second barrel that kept them out of the money.

"If you slow the video down it looks like his back foot caught his front foot," said Ganter. "He didn't pull a shoe or anything, but you can see his back foot stepping down on his front foot so he couldn't pull it forward. He made a whole other jump with just his right leg. His left leg just stayed under him."

Looking back, she wishes she would have at least walked him through again in practice that day.

"I do feel like he runs better if you can walk him through the pattern, sometime during the day, before you run him," she said. "He's so big, has a bad leg and is kind of clumsy all the way around. If he's being a little lackadaisical and stumbling around when I walk him through, I can remind him to pick his feet up. He knows what he's supposed to do, but I have to remind him sometimes."

Ganter qualified for the Wild Card Round because she was the third highest money earner in her pool by virtue of her round win. Unfortunately, that meant she had to run Tycoon on Wednesday night.

She had Smokn Lane with her and the gelding had done well in Fort Worth last year, so she had an option.

"We were debating on whether I should run Lane in the Wild Card, or try to make the semifinals and run Lane in the semifinals," she explained. "Tycoon was running so good. He's sound."

My mom was like he wouldn't be running this good if he didn't want to be. I didn't want to take that opportunity away from him, so I kept running him."

They won the Wild Card Round with a 16.30.

"I felt like the Wild Card run was the prettiest run we made all week," Ganter said. "He was so stood up and correct. He just worked flawlessly. He had warmed up really well that night so I felt really good before I ran. He had enough pep to him that he was going to run but he was relaxed too. We were lucky enough to be first out."

Tycoon had to step up yet again the next night as she drew the first semifinals set.

"The next night he warmed up a little dull," Ganter said. "He was just a little tired. He worked the first and second barrel great. As well as he'd clocked all week I thought we really need to just get around the third. I kind of pulled my outside rein a little bit and made him make a little funky move at the third. I hated that I did that because he was being honest and there was no reason for me to do that. I felt like I messed him up at the third, but he still clocked great."

They split second and third in the semifinals with Jordon Briggs and her great horse Famous Lil Jet to advance to the clean-slate Final on Saturday.

Thankfully, they had Friday night off to rest.

"Friday we got to dedicate to him and his recovery," Ganter said. Tycoon got an extra BEMER treatment and was "bubble wrapped" in PHT products. She also spent a lot of time getting Tycoon out of his stall. "The stalls in Fort Worth are great. You can bed them belly deep if you want to, but they're regular size. He doesn't really fit in those. He has to stand sideways because he is so big. On Friday, I tried to get him out a lot."

On Saturday, Ganter said she felt like she really needed to work on herself and focus on riding correctly.

"He's shown up for every single run this week," she said. "He can be honest to a fault so you have to ask him to win first. He's so honest that he's just going to go around the barrels every time. In order to win first, you really have to ask him to cut the corners and that's hard for me. We had to do the same thing that we did at the WPRA Finals. We had to cut the corners."

Ganter was fifth out in Saturday night's Final. Every single contestant had been to the NFR at one time.

"I felt like I had to mentally bare down on myself and not allow myself to feel like I didn't fit in the short round," she said. "I wanted to do that a little bit."

Ganter tried unsuccessfully to not pay attention to those that ran before her.

"I did try not to listen to the times, but I'm not deaf," she laughed. "I did think to myself, 'Is the ground not very good?' because I thought a couple of the girls before me would have clocked a little bit faster than they did. They still clocked, but I was wondering why everyone was running .4s? I thought if we get out in the ruts it's going to take us hours to turn so I tried to turn as close to the barrels as I could and it paid off."

Ganter and Tycoon turned in another 16.30 to win the star-studded Final and moved to No.1 in the World with $36,768 won on the year.

Now, Tycoon won't likely see another barrel until Rodeo Houston in March as she tries to save him for the big money runs. She tried running him at a smaller rodeo to start the year but pulled him up when he had a little ground trouble.

"I physically can't ride him because I'm so nervous about hurting him," she said. "I feel like Fort Worth, Houston—that's our job. At the smaller rodeos, he's not winning enough to get us where we want to be. I can't run him correctly at a small rodeo. He runs for big money and big money only. I can't stomach running him for little or no money."

Since she bought Tycoon in the summer of 2018, the gelding has battled several significant injuries to his left front leg. The first thing Tycoon did was damage the laminae in his foot. The following year, he tore his deep digital flexor tendon and had it surgically repaired by Chad Marsh, DVM. In 2021, he won $30,000 in a month before bowing a tendon.

"With each of those injuries he's been off just shy of a year, eight months maybe for each one," she said. "He would not be running without my vet Randy Lewis, Chad Marsh and my shoer Shawn Turner. It takes all three of them working very hard to keep him sound."

"When he is sound, he's great. I'm very fortunate that he doesn't have to make a lot of runs. When he does get to run, it's on a big stage. If he's sore, I just get to look at him. I get to look at him a lot more than I get to run him. That's okay, because I love that horse."

Latricia Duke & DM High Roller Triumph The American Central Region Final

By Tanya Randall

Latricia Duke and DM High Roller survived the pressure cooker in the Ford Truck Arena in Tulsa, Oklahoma, for a hard-won victory at The American Contender Tournament Central Region Final, held February 5. The victory was worth $12,082 of the $81,500 up for grabs.

"Everything was so tough," said Duke, one of the industry's leading futurity trainers and competitors. "Every run was do or die."

To advance to the Central Region Final, contenders had to make two runs in the Semifinals, held February 3-4 in the Ford Truck Arena. The top 10 on two advanced to the Central Region Final.

With nearly 100 entries—95 that either qualified out right or earned their way in on points, and the five from the top six through 20 in the WPRA World Standings that chose to enter (some turned out due to conflicts with the Fort Worth pro rodeo)—the race was extremely tight.

Duke, who qualified on points earned at the Go Fast Thanksgiving Classic Contender Qualifier in San Antonio, and her 6-year-old palomino stallion squeaked into the Final after finishing ninth in the two-run aggregate.

"The first two rounds, I thought, 'Oh, you just need to be clean,' and I was almost too safe keeping him off the turns," Duke ex-

THE RUNDOWN w/ LaTricia Duke

DM High Roller ("Vanilla Wafer") 15.2 h., 1,250-1,275 lbs.

BIT: Flaharty Duke with a twisted mouthpiece. "I did let my bridle out one hole because I knew it was going to be so fast. I always say if I need more breaks, I'll take it up a little. If I need to go fast, I let it out a little."

HEADGEAR: Bonnet "I could probably take it off now. When he was green at handling different types of ground and setups, I think it gave him a little more balance. I don't think a bonnet makes them as stiff as a tiedown. I've just never took it off."

SADDLE: Double J Duke

SADDLE PAD: 3S Custom

LEG GEAR: Iconoclast on front with rubber pull on bell boots

SHOES: Rims on front, plains on back. Shod by Bravid Duke.

FEED: Purina Ultium

HAY: Cubeit alfalfa cubes

SUPPLEMENTS: Succeed

ALTERNATIVE THERAPIES: Radial Wave therapy, Veterinary care by Randy Lewis and equine dentistry from Randy Reidinger.

CONDITIONING/TRAINING REGIMEN: "I just exercise him. If I'm exercising him and he really wants to play, wants to do something, and I haven't made a run on him in a while, I'll let him float through the barrels just because he thinks it's fun. He doesn't get schooled on the pattern. He does better if he's never seen the arena because he's more responsive and more serious. He's just soft and easy. The biggest thing is he still likes to play."

plained. "I tried to keep him off (the barrels) because he will cut the corners back there."

She and "Vanilla Wafer" were incredibly consistent on their two runs. They were just out of placing in the first round with a 15.778 on the top of the ground. Running on the bottom in the second, they placed ninth with a 15.770.

Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi and her homebred mare Babe On The Chase ("Birdie") led the field on two-runs to claim the Central Semifinals Championship, worth $15,713. She and Duke were joined by Stephanie Fryar, Amanda Welsh, Victoria Proctor, Cayla Small, Tammy Fischer, London Gorham, Lilly Lohmann and Camrin Sellers in the Finals.

The youngsters Merrick Moyer and Dusky Lynn Hall bumped the Region Final field to 12 after taking the top two spots in a salty Redemption Round.

"The most fun I had all week was sitting up there and watching the buy-back (Redemption Round)," said Duke. "It was insane!"

Knowing that she was going to have take extreme advantage of her top spot on the ground in the Final, Duke loosened Vanilla Wafer's bridle one hole and planned to let the stallion "cut the corners."

"I had told someone that I was going to have to let him cut the corners because it's going to be fast," she said. "Everybody is going to bring it."

When she got a little nervous, she opened her Bible app on her phone. The verse that stood out was Proverbs 21:31—"The horse is made ready for the day of battle, but victory rests with the Lord."

"I had heard that 1,000 times, but that day it meant something to me," she said. "Yesterday, warming up, I kept thinking my horse is ready for battle. My horse is truly ready.

"I always say the same prayer before every run. I reach up and pet him and say, 'God keep him safe one more run.' I don't ask for anything but please keep him safe. Yesterday, I reached up and said my prayer, 'God keep him safe one more run,' and I thought this horse is truly anointed by God.

"Last year was really tough. I had to return to my roots. Everything has a different meaning to me now."

Duke and her two-time futurity winner posted a 15.498 and promptly went back to the stalls to await her fate.

When she heard Tonozzi's time, she realized that she had made it to the next round of the American Tourney since there were just two left to run and she couldn't be bumped out of the Top 4 that advance to The American Contender Tournament Final on March 9 at Globe Life Field in Arlington, Texas.

"It was a crazy blur after that," she said. "That horse is pretty emotional for me. My whole career is in that horse. From the time in my life where I started with the futurities ... he's all of it wrapped up together."

Vanilla Wafer, who is by the late champion sire and performer French Streaktovegas, is out of a generational mare line that Duke has either owned or rode.

His granddam Lady Rompin is a treasure she found at the Saturday night horse sale in Stephenville, Texas.

"She went through with the loose horses at the end," recalled Duke. "She sold for $175. I was in the back fixing to leave when I heard the pedigree. I was like 'What?' I was on the catwalk and they open the gate and this bag of bones comes running out. I was like, 'No. Don't do it. Don't do it...'

Duke went to the office to find out if the mare was really bred like they announced. She had watched Tara Schroeder win a lot on Hesa Tornado, a gelding by the Tinsys Gay son Tiny Tornado Too, so it might be worth taking a chance. After finding the mare's buyer and haggling over the price, Duke got Lady Rompin bought. "It was the best $400 I ever spent," she said.

Lady Rompin now has offspring earnings of more than $300,000. Her first foal Aced My Bully won the BFA World Championship Futurity and other winners followed including Vanilla Wafer's dam, Happy To Run Em ("Kiley"), by Firewaterontherocks, who Duke futurityed for the stallion's owner Robyn Herring. Kiley ran out more than $100,000 before suffering a career-ending injury at the 2015 American Semifinals Rodeo in Fort Worth. Sadly, the mare had to be put down due to complications from that injury in late 2021.

"I hadn't entered another (American) qualifier since the year she got hurt in Fort Worth," Duke admitted. "This is the first time I entered again."

Vanilla Wafer, who was one of the Top 4 Futurity Horses in the country in 2021 with earnings of more than $175,000, proved to be a precocious study at the rodeos. He picked up his first pro rodeo checks before he won his first futurity. The stallion has since carried Duke to the Texas Circuit Finals Rodeo and recently earned his way into the San Antonio Rodeo, where they'll compete this later week. "I have geared him a little more to the rodeos because that's what the general public wants to see," she said. "They want to see a stallion go on and be successful after the futurities.

"I really need to get it in my brain to stop riding him like a colt, because he's not a colt. When I don't ride him like he's a colt, he really steps up. He's never said no in his whole life. Whatever I ask him, he's like 'Ok.'"

She said how long Vanilla Wafer runs totally depends on him. "It's what he wants to do," Duke said. "If he's sound and happy and still loves running barrels, I'll give him another year or two."

Vanilla Wafer, who is standing this season with frozen semen due to his competition schedule, already has his first foals on the ground this year.

"There are two out of Nemeseis (Tres Seis) that were a twin flush," Duke said. "Kim Matthews owns one and I own one. And, there's a Mean Cheerleader (Epic Leader) already born that belongs to Karma Loftin."

Duke wanted to thank her family and friends for all their support, especially her son Bravid, who literally cut through a sheet of ice to clear a path so she could safely load her horse on the trailer to go to Tulsa.

"Last year was a bit of a tough year, but God has really surrounded me with great friends and supportive family," she said. "My support system is something that people should be jealous of. That sounds crazy but I have the best support system."

Path To The American

The Top 4 from the Central Region—Duke, Tonozzi, Dusky Lynn Hall and Merrick Moyer—automatically advance to the $40,000 American Contender Final on March 9. Region finalist Stephanie Fryar, Amanda Welsh, Victoria Proctor, Cayla Small, Tammy Fischer, London Gorham, Lilly Lohmann and Camrin Sellers will compete in the Wild Card on March 8 also in Globe Life Field.

The Wild Card will also include 11th through 40th in the Semifinals Average, plus third through sixth from the Redemption Round.

All totaled, there will be 42 contestants from each region—east, central and west—competing in the Wild Card for more than $80,000, which is 20 percent of all qualifier fees. Only one will advance to the American Contender Final.

The Cowgirl Channel Set To Launch on DISH Network and SLING TV

Rural Media Group announces today the official launch of The Cowgirl Channel, a new television network dedicated to women in western sports and the modern-day cowgirl. The Cowgirl Channel will officially launch in HD on Dish Network Channel 269 and on SLING in February of 2023. The new network will be offered as part of Dish Network's "America's Top 120 Package" to further the satellite company's dedication to providing programming and services to rural America and those that love the rural lifestyle.

The Cowgirl Channel will primarily feature content around western sports for women, including barrel racing, breakaway roping, and women's ranch rodeo. The new network will also feature programming around western fashion, western home design, and more. The initial television line-up will include the following series: Women's Western Sports Roundup, Rodeo Queens, RanchHer, FarmHer, Grit & Grace, and more. The Cowgirl Channel will showcase the WPRA (Women's Professional Rodeo Association), Cowgirl Hall of Fame, Art of the Cowgirl, and Cowgirl Gathering, along with work with many western associations to produce programming around special events such as Reining, Cutting, National High School Rodeo Association, the American Paint Horse Association, and more.

"Women of all ages participating in western sports and embracing the western lifestyle is experiencing explosive growth," said Patrick Gottsch, Founder and President of Rural Media Group. "The popularity of this content on The Cowboy Channel is undeniable, and with so much original content and women's events now being produced not only in the United States but all over the world, the launch of The Cowgirl Channel to go with The Cowboy Channel just makes sense. I am so excited about the initial feedback we are receiving from individuals and organizations who have worked so hard to develop opportunities for women and their love of horses over the years."

The Cowgirl Channel will serve as the sister network to The Cowboy Channel, the official network of ProRodeo, and in addition to programming designed around the interests of cowgirls, will also provide Rural Media Group the opportunity to program more professional rodeo and western sporting events. Together, The Cowboy Channel and The Cowgirl Channel will be the foundation for Rural Media Group's effort to revolutionize western sports and invest in the future of the western lifestyle.

Headquarters for The Cowgirl Channel will be in the historic Fort Worth Stockyards. Rural Media Group is expanding its existing footprint, which includes The Cowboy Channel studios in the old auction barn, and is building out a devoted television studio for The Cowgirl Channel in the front entrance of the parent company's office along the bricks of Exchange. Now, when visitors and viewers are in the Fort Worth Stockyards, they will have the opportunity to watch a live recording of a show for The Cowgirl Channel in one building and then see another show being recorded for The Cowboy Channel just down the street.

Live streaming + on demand for The Cowgirl Channel will be available by subscribing to Cowboy Channel+. Subscribers will now have access to live television network feeds for both The Cowboy Channel and The Cowgirl Channel, along with access to all on-demand content for both networks as part of one $9.99 monthly or $99.99 yearly subscription. The Cowgirl Channel will also be available through the SLING app on all supported devices.

More information about The Cowgirl Channel will continue to be released in the coming weeks. To stay up to date on future programming updates, news, and information, please sign up for The Cowgirl Channel newsletter at www.thecowgirlchannel.com.

Winn again wins $5,000 Jerry Ann Taylor Award at Fort Worth

by Johna Cravens for the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo

The barrel racing at the 2023 Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo finished with a Winn win. Sissy Winn of Corpus Christi was honored with the $5,000 Jerry Ann Taylor Best-Dressed Cowgirl Award at the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo's (FWSSR) ProRodeo Tournament.

Winn and her horse Chewingthehotwire (Chewy) finished third in the Championship Finals with a time of 16.42 seconds. She earned $8,000 for that round and a total of $13,760 in the competition. When the $5,000 bonus money for the Jerry Ann Taylor award is added to her total, Winn took home more than any other barrel racer except champion Jackie Ganter of Abilene.

This is the second consecutive Jerry Ann Taylor Award for Winn, who also took home the award last year. She received her second trophy bracelet from the National Cowgirl Museum & Hall of Fame and the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo.

Chewy and Winn were the first horse and rider team to compete in Friday night's Semi-final B, and they stopped the clock with the fastest time of the rodeo — 16.24 seconds.

"Winning the Jerry Ann Taylor award last year was such an honor," Winn said. "I knew I wanted to try to win it again if I got the chance."

The award is only given at the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo (NFR) and at the Championship Round of the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo. Once she knew she would be in the finals, she and her mother Melissa went to work on an outfit.

"My mom and I stayed up all night to finish this," Winn said. This year's outfit included a bright blue hat, a white shirt with blue and black sequin trim on the sleeves and jeans embellished with red, white and blue rhinestone stars and white rhinestone writing spelling out "Land of the free because of the brave" on the outside of the leg.

Winn learned sewing from her mother, and they enjoy collaborating on her outfits.

The petite blonde is a product of high school and college rodeo. She competed in barrel racing, breakaway roping, goat tying, cutting and pole bending, and qualified for the national junior high and high school finals seven times.

She was the Texas high school all-around champion in 2013. She was named Miss Rodeo Texas Princess in 2011 and Miss Rodeo Texas Teen in 2015. She graduated with honors from Texas A & M University in 2020 and qualified for her first NFR this past December.

Pam Minick of Fort Worth, a National Cowgirl Museum and Hall of Fame board member and honoree and former WPRA vice president, said the award is to encourage women in professional rodeo to continue the tradition of wearing colorful western attire in the rodeo arena.

The award is named for Taylor, a Hall of Fame honoree who was known for her flamboyant style. She was a trick rider and trick roper who entered the hall in 1986 and died in 2012.

Champions crowned at FWSSR ProRodeo Tournament

by Susan Kanode for the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo

The $1.2 million FWSSR ProRodeo Tournament came to a rousing close on Saturday, February 4, in Dickies Arena.

No one was more excited to win their first championships at the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo than bareback rider Rocker Steiner and barrel racer Jackie Ganter. Steiner, who calls nearby Weatherford home, made a 90-point ride on Calgary Stampede's Yipee Kibitz. This was the second matchup for Steiner and the bucking horse. The last time the two met, Steiner won the Calgary Stampede in Alberta last July riding, so the 19-year-old was super excited to get on the horse again.

The ride on Saturday added $20,000 to Steiner's earnings. Prior to Fort Worth's rodeo, he was 13th in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association world standings. With his success in the brackets and the semifinals as well as the championship round, he added $27,080 which will give him a big boost on his way to his second consecutive Wrangler National Finals Rodeo (NFR) qualification.

"This win is really special," Steiner said. "It's close to home, the fans are great, and I just love that horse."

An emotional Jackie Ganter, from Abilene, Texas, got the win in the barrel racing. Riding her great gelding Howes a Tycoon, she stopped the clock in 16.30 seconds, the same time that she had when she won the wildcard round. Ganter and Tycoon made four trips around the barrels to have the opportunity to run on Saturday. They watched as two-time FWSSR champion Hailey Kinsel stopped the clock in 16.35 seconds.

Ganter and Tycoon earned $25,260 here. They were seventh in the world standings before and with their earnings here they will be very close to the number one spot. She has qualified for the NFR twice in 2015 and 2016. With her success here and her blazing fast horse, the former hunter-jumper equestrian is on track to make a third trip to Las Vegas this year.

Will Lummus, a college rodeo coach from Byhalia, Mississippi, punched his ticket in the steer wrestling with a 4.1-second run. The horse he rode was Be Dun By Three, nicknamed "Benz", owned by Clayton Hass. While this was a great rodeo for Lummus, who earned a total of $27,080 here, it was even better for Benz. Ty Erickson, from Helena, Montana also rode Benz and finished second for the championship. Benz earned $32,000 for his riders on Saturday night.

The saddle bronc riding ended in a tie, and it was a big one. Stetson Wright of

BARREL RACING REPORT NEWS

Milford, Utah and Dawson Hay from Wildwood, Alberta, each had 90.5 point rides to win $16,000. They both rode horses from the Calgary Stampede. Wright got on Xena Warrior and Hay rode Tokyo Bubbles.

In the breakaway roping, Cheyenne Guillory caught the win with a 1.9-second run. The National Finals Breakaway Roping qualifier earned a total of $26,193 to take back home to Kingston, Oklahoma.

A Texan took the top spot in tie-down roping. Weston Hughes from Cameron stopped the clock in 7.4 seconds for the win. He earned a total of $25,200 here and said, "It couldn't have happened at a better time."

Andrew Ward from Edmond, Oklahoma and his brother-in-law Buddy Hawkins II, who lives in Stephenville, Texas, had the fastest team roping run of the night at 3.9 seconds. This is the second time Hawkins has won this rodeo. He also won it in 2014 roping with Drew Horner. Ward and Hawkins have roped together twice at the NFR and are looking good for another trip to Las Vegas this year.

The best two bull riders in the PRCA in 2022 took the top two places in bull riding. Reigning world champion Stetson Wright made the night's first successful ride on 4L & Diamond S Rodeo's bull Dances With Monsters to earn a score of 87.5 points. After a few other riders hit the dirt, 2022 reserve world champ Josh Frost tried his luck on Rafter G Rodeo's High Brow Cat. Frost's 90.5-point score gave him the FWSSR signature square trophy buckle. He took home $23,787. Wright added $18,347 in bull riding money to his winnings, boosting his total from Fort Worth to nearly $41,500.

The Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo is the biggest rodeo so far in the 2023 season. It is one of the big indoor rodeos that can jump start a contestant's year. Plans are underway for the 127th Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo which will start on January 12 of 2024.

2023 FWSSR ProRodeo Tournament Champions with total money:

Bareback Riding: Rocker Steiner, Weatherford, Texas, $27,080

Steer Wrestling: Will Lummus, Byhalia, Mississippi, $27,080

Breakaway Roping: Cheyenne Guillory, Kingston, Okla., $26,193

WRWC Week to pay out $1.145 million to more than 800 women's rodeo athletes across six days of competition

During the 2023 PBR (Professional Bull Riders) World Finals from May 12-21, Fort Worth, Texas will welcome the inaugural Women's Rodeo World Championship Week, marking the richest women's-only week of competition in Western sports, it was announced today. The week-long schedule of events is slated to pay out $1.145 million in prize money, affording more than 800 women's competitors the chance to compete for life-changing payouts.

The Women's Rodeo World Championship Week will feature three marquee events, including the 2023 Women's Rodeo World Championship (WRWC) along with a NBHA (National Barrel Horse) one-day event and The Cowgirl Gathering.

All events will be held at Cowtown Coliseum, with select events held at the APHA (American Paint Horse Association) Headquarters, RFD-TV Studios and Mule Alley.

"The merging of forces with the APHA is another example of a new age in women's rodeo to establish a historic week for female competitors," said WRWC Commissioner Linsay Sumpter. "Together, we will elevate the sport as we share the vision for future growth and opportunities for women in rodeo."

"The Cowgirl Gathering has become a pinnacle event for the women of the Western world in the heart of cowgirl country," Marked For Greatness Properties CEO Steven Hayes said. "We paid out more than $300,000 to cowgirls across three disciplines in 2022 and have created an expansive community of Western female leaders through our Essence Exchange platform. Moving to May with other groups who are actively elevating cowgirls and the Western lifestyle is a significant enhancement for this event and the groups who support it."

"The National Barrel Horse Association (NBHA) is honored to welcome and collaborate with the American Paint Horse Association and Wild West Promotions with the desire to create an ultimate high-payout barrel race within the prestigious PBR World Finals event lineup," said NBHA Director of Barrel Racing Bailey Nahrgang. "It made perfect sense, with the Cowgirl Gathering shifting their dates to the PBR Finals week, for NBHA to join forces and combine two well-established events and make one prominent event for the record books."

The 2023 Women's Rodeo World Championship will span May 17-20 and will introduce the new Last Chance Qualifier, allowing for athletes not qualified on the WRWC leaderboard the chance to ride their way into the marquee event. The 2023 Women's Rodeo World Championship will pay out $750,000, in addition to crowning World Champions in three women's rodeo disciplines: Team Roping, Breakaway Roping, and Barrel Racing. An All-Around World Champion will also be crowned.

The Last Chance Qualifier will launch the 2023 Women's Rodeo World Championship on May 17 beginning at 8:00 a.m. inside Cowtown Coliseum, featuring a Pro and Challenger Open Barrel Race, Pro and Challenger Barrel Race Buy Back Round, Pro and Challenger Breakaway Roping, and Pro and Challenger Team Roping. The one-day tournament is anticipated to award $40,000.

The main event for the fourth edition of the WRWC will be held May 18-20, when the Top 20 athletes from the Pro Leaderboard and Challenger Leaderboard per discipline take to the arena alongside those contenders who advanced via the Last Chance Qualifier and those athletes who have won a generic qualification through a Qualifier Series event.

All qualifying and Semi-Final rounds will be held May 18-19. Following the Semi-Final Rounds, the leaderboard will merge with 12 athletes in each discipline to advance to the May 20 Triple Crown of Rodeo performance.

Each event champion will collect $60,000, the World Champions in each discipline will be awarded a $5,000 bonus, and the All-Around World Champion will collect a $20,000 bonus. As part of the Triple Crown of Rodeo, those event champions at the Women's Rodeo World Championship will be eligible to win the $1 Million cash bonus awarded to any one athlete or collection of athletes who win first place in any three consecutive WCRA Major Rodeos.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

You probably can't tell, but I'm limping on my left front finger. LOL! It's because I didn't practice the fruit of self control. Or patience. Gal. 5:22-23. Or heed the word of God which instructs me in 1 Peter 5:6 to roll all my cares over onto Him. Do you ever have those days? You KNOW the right thing to do but frustration sets in and you ignore your good sense.

I'm writing this so that you won't make the same mistake I did. For a few weeks now, it seems like so many bad things are going on and I'm getting frustrated. So, I took my self over to my sewing room and commenced power sewing. Pedal to the metal, pins snapping off, and hands not where they're supposed to be...got stuck over a particularly thick seam and thought I could just power over it...stuck my finger right in front of the needle just when it broke loose and impaled my finger! Instead of stopping, I jerked it out! The needle went clear through and then I ripped the side of my finger off when I jerked it! Blood everywhere!

Several people have asked me why I didn't stop. I DON'T KNOW! I'm stupid???

The one good thing I'm coming up with is that I wasn't riding my horse that day with my attitude like it was. Could have been worse. BUT IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN BETTER!

If I would trust God 365 days a year, instead of the 351 to date, I would not get frustrated. I'd roll it all over on Him and have victory every time. Now I get to practice receiving my healing!

This week let's practice being "Better Together"!
