Brandon Cullins & MJ Segers Fast Lane Make History at The American

By Tanya Randall

Brandon Cullins wasn't thrilled with his fiancé Emily Efurd's purchase of a toy Australian Shepherd at the 2021 BFA World Championship Futurity. Yet, he owes his $1.1 million victory at Teton Ridge's The American to that tiny canine.

"That useless animal that we treat like a child and goes everywhere with us is really why we won a million dollars," chuckled Cullins.

Zoey, in her cute, cuddliness, gave Cullins the connections to MJ Segers Fast Lane, owned by Grant and Rayel Little.

"When we first got her as a puppy, we were at Guthrie and stalled next to Brad Lieblong and his son," Cullins recalled. "They just loved the dog. We got to talking because of her, and two weeks later, he called about sending a horse."

After dropping off a horse at Cullins' place in Dublin, Texas, Lieblong was going to Eastland, Texas, to meet Grant and Rayel Little in person for the first time. He asked if Cullins and Efurd wanted to tag along.

Although they never talked business during the visit, the Littles contacted Cullins a few months later and asked him to take Seger, who at the time had earnings of $5,658 as a 5-year-old futurity horse.

The pairing proved to be lightning in a bottle, winning $284,773 together before giving Cullins his best shot at winning The American and a chance at the $1 million challenger bonus.

"The hardest part," he said, "was I felt like it was hers to lose." Road To The American Cullins, one of the industry's leading trainers and riders of aged event horses, has attempted The American nearly every year. He'd made it all the way to the final rodeo in Arlington, Texas, six times and had tipped barrels twice in the Final Four to either win or finish second.

On his first attempt with Seger in late 2022, he tipped at a qualifying event, but the mare had only been in his barn a short while and they were still getting to know each other.

In 2023, Cullins and Seger handily won their qualifying event in Andrews, Texas. They tipped a barrel in the first round of the Central Regional, scratched from the second round, won their way back to the Semifinals through the Redemption Round and won the Semifinals.

In Abilene, Texas, the black mare topped the Contender Finals to earn the right to compete at Globe Life Field in Arlington, Texas, on March 9.

Unfortunately, the barrel bug bit the team hard leading into Arlington. They tipped in the second round at the Royal Crown Derby in Buckeye, Arizona, after winning the first. They tipped again at The Big League slot race to win by 3/10ths.

Cullins made the comment to Efurd that he wanted to visit with Sherry Cervi about his mindset going into The American. Then after hitting yet another barrel at arena record pace at the 377 Arena on Monday night, the opportunity presented itself.

"A few days before that I had told Emily that I wanted to go ride with Sherry and pick her brain a little bit and figure out how not to screw it up," he said. "I'm not used to going with just one horse and having one shot not to mess it up. When I ran that .1 (at Stephenville), she was standing right there where I pulled up and I told her that I needed help. It was funny how I just come out of the arena and there she was."

The Wednesday before The American, Cullins spent six hours riding with the four-time WPRA World Champion.

"I think everyone in the world is pretty much a Sherry Cervi fan, and they should be," he said. "I feel like I wasted her whole day, but she helped me get my mind straight."

Fated

When Cullins saw the setup at Globe Life Field, he knew it would fit Seger.

"When we went down there for practice, I saw the long alley—they were letting us come in straight from the back. The barrels were off the walls a little bit but not way out there" he said. "I said, 'This is made for her.' It was like everything was falling into place."

Seger also handled the commotion of The American like a seasoned veteran instead of her first major rodeo.

With his new mindset in place, Cullins was "bound and determined" not to tip in the long round.

"I kept her really round and unlocked," he explained. "I didn't rock her back at all before I ran. I just moved her around my leg a bunch."

He asked Seger "for her life" running to first. Although they got by it a little, he thought they were in great shape until Seger slipped at the second.

"I guess because I had her pretty unlocked, when she went to turn, she hit a rut and got her leg back behind herself,” he explained. “That’s the difference there—why I think she won—because she wanted to. She fell belly down, leg out behind her, going the wrong direction and still turned. Going to the third, I think she didn’t want to bury up again, so she just stuck and let go, that’s why she bailed out of the third.”

Cullins knew there was no way he was making it back with that run only to look up and see they were leading at the time.

“She can do things that most can’t and then she puts the effort on top of it,” he said.

In the Final Four, Cullins and Seger were first out. While the third barrel rocked on their departure, their 15.173 set a pace that none of the others could match. With the $100,000 in their possession, all they had to do was wait through the bull riding—with three eligible challengers—to see if they had won the $1 million bonus. From the Stands Rayel Little, who had been on the biggest stages in rodeo as a multiple Canadian champion and two-time NFR qualifier, sat visibly shaking through it all, while her husband Grant prayed not for victory, but for peace with whatever happened.

The Canadian couple couldn’t have been more pleased with the outcome.

“We are beyond blessed and so honored to be a part of it,” said Grant. “This whole journey—and I don’t think it’s over yet—for Brandon and that horse to accomplish what they have, especially on stage such as Globe Life Field, is beyond words.”

Rayel, who trained Seger, said it was incredible to watch Cullins put his touch on the mare and mold her into what she’s become.

“To have the opportunity to put a horse like that into somebody’s hands and to see how it has evolved and how he was able to mold her to suit him, to me was incredible to watch,” she said. “Through a trainer’s eyes to be able to see how she let him mold her into what he needed her to be is pretty incredible. It takes that special individual horse that allows all that too. She’s just a special horse, but special horses aren’t always easy.”

What Rayel really admired about Cullins is his trust in Seger. “He is so trusting of her,” she said. “I don’t know that I’ve seen a horse that can turn a barrel like she can. He trusts that she’s going to stay honest for him and he stays out of her way.

“I truly think there’s a special bond between him and the horse.

NOTES FROM THE AMERICAN:

— Mj Segers Fast Lane’s sire, The Goodbye Lane has produced $7.6 Million (QData) in barrel horses and with the $1.1 Million MJ Segers Fast Lane won at The American that will put him at over $8.7 Million.

— Mj Segers Fast Lane’s Dam, SKS Running Faucet had a 104 speed index on the racetrack and was a G1 Silver Dollar Futurity Finalist! She is also the dam of Slingshot Lane, the 2022 NHSFR National Champion Barrel Horse with Morgan Beckstrom.

— Brandon Cullins earned his first recorded check in 2005 and before The American Cullins lifetime earnings sat at $1.884 Million (Equistat). With the $1.1 Million win and other recent winning counted in, it should put Cullins over $3 Million in career earnings!

— According to the 2023 Barrel Horse News Statistical Review, Brittany Pozzi Tonozi won $1,487,552 and Kassie Mowry won $1,194,179 in 2023. They were the only two barrel racers over $1 million in earnings. This $1.1 Million win alone put Cullins within striking range of Tonozi’s record setting year in 2023!

She’s so calm and quiet with him. Everything about the combination is special.”

The Right Combination

Bred by Mark and Linda Jarvis, MJ Segers Fast Lane is by their 8 million dollar barrel sire The Goodbye Lane. The 7-year-old mare is the last foal out of SKS Running Faucet, a daughter of Diamond Faucet.

When Little inquired about purchasing a filly. She picked out Seger --named after a granddaughter—for Little because of her strong maternal line.

Rayel started the mare and hauled her through the first few months of her futurity year before handing her over to Marcie (Jarvis) Wilson to run through the Pink Buckle. It was after Pink that the Little’s contacted Cullins.

Cullins said that Seger loves her job “100 percent” and would probably run barrels without a jockey.

"I think she'd prefer it," he chuckled.

He said Segers demeanor is the biggest reason he knew she was his best shot at winning The American.

"She's really laid back, but sometimes if you're riding around in the field or in the arena, she'll get a little go-ey, get pushy," he said. "But when you get on her to go run, it's like she knows. She's so chill and laid back and rides perfectly. It's like she knows we're going to go run. If you're riding her not to run, she's not bad, just different. Going to go run...she gets locked in and in the zone and she gets more relaxed the closer you are to running."

It was as he predicted after winning the Contender Final, the electric environment of Globe Life Field never fazed her.

"Before the Final Four, I was first out and so I was waiting for them to set the barrels up," he said. "I was standing directly behind the alleyway. You couldn't feel her heart beating or anything. She was like a stone statue just looking out in the arena, just waiting."

Her poise in that situation showed the Littles how much the mare had truly evolved too.

"We're watching her standing there flatted footed on the biggest stage," chuckled Grant, "but as a 5-year-old in Buckeye, Arizona, Rayel is backing Seger into the venue before the run or trying to find a buddy horse to go with her. You can't tell me that horse hasn't come a long way!"

Seger left for Zerlotti Genetics the following morning. She's got a date with Tres Seis. The Littles are awaiting the arrival of their first Tres Seis, Seger baby in April. Seger's oldest foal, a 2-year-old by Winners Version, is in Canada.

Following her reproductive duties, Seger is returning to the arena for her second derby season. And with the addition of many 8-year-old derbies, Seger may have a few more the following year.

"They could retire her today," said Cullins. "She doesn't owe them or me anything."

STARTING SOMEWHERE

Brandon Cullins, who grew up in Clements, Maryland, didn't come from a horse family. An aunt got him into trail riding. When he was introduced to speed events at his first 4-H horse show, he was hooked.

"There were like three or four shows a year, and that's all I thought about all year!" he said. "Then my dad met a woman at the feed store that said she ran barrels. She lived not 20 minutes from us, and she did NBHA. I didn't even know what the NBHA was at that point. I started riding with her."

He learned from whomever was willing to teach him and became one of the best futurity trainers and riders in the business.

"You've got to want to be poor for a long time and hope it works out," Cullins chuckled, remembering when he told his parents that he wanted to train horses for a living. "I remember those conversations as clear as day when I was telling them that's what I wanted to do. They said you know that's like making it into the Major Leagues but harder and less money. There are probably less people making living training horses than playing professional baseball!"

His parents were on hand to see him win the million. It was his mother's birthday too.

"My brother and sister-in-law came too, but I think it was more for Posty (Post Malone); I just happened to be there too," he laughed.

Prior to The American, Cullins had earned $1.9 million, according to EquiStat, since 2005. He's also made a lot of exceptional horses.

The 35-year-old trainer is the only person to have won the BFA World Championships' Juvenile, Futurity and Derby in the same year, which he did in 2017 with RR Mistakelly, Folsom Prisoner and VQ Sucker Punch, respectively. RR Mistakelly, now the leading freshman sire, became the highest money earning stallion at the futurities under his guidance. VQ Sucker Punch, his best shot at winning The American until Seger, helped Cheyenne Wimberly qualify for the NFR.

Now, with the ground-breaking American victory, Cullins is already joining World Champion Brittany Pozzi Tonozi and all-time money leader Kassie Mowry in crossing the $1 million mark for yearly earnings. Seger, too, now has the record for a horse as well surpassing DM Sissy Hayday's 2017 mark of $740,000.

AIRWAY EQ

"Air-Way EQ is the first product I have seen work in aiding airway/lung health and help clear up a cough. I use Breathe'O2 paste for pre-run support, it also helps clear the airway, allowing him to breathe easier and work harder."

Gleaming Performance For Tana Trosper and Shiney Cartel At Hooley Junior Patriot

By Tanya Randall

Ponder, Texas, barrel racer Tana Trosper and her 10-year-old mare Shiney Cartel ("Shiner") took home a $44,400 Championship from the Hooley Jr Patriot, held February 28-March 10 at the Will Rogers Complex in Fort Worth, Texas.

"She's awesome," said Trosper of the race winning daughter of Tee Cos, a Corona Cartel, Splash Bac stallion, out of the First To Shine mare First Bright Light.

She partnered with the mare in June of 2022 after purchasing her from Chani Graves.

"I knew instantly that this mare was going to go off and do great things," Trosper recalled of the day she tried the mare. "She wasn't a fire-breathing dragon, but she was on the muscle. She knew that she was a good horse and was ready to run. We were in the little bitty pen, and she sucks the paint around the first barrel. I was not expecting it all and we hit the first. We're just cruising along and we almost set an arena record with a down barrel."

They won steadily for the first six months together until Shiner got hurt playing in the pasture.

"She was running in our big pasture," Trosper explained. "It was kind of muddy, and she always likes to slide. That's her big thing. She just slides around the barrels. She was running hard, slid to the fence and the ligament popped off of her right front knee. She was down for a year."

Last July, Shiner was finally cleared for 10-minute hand walking sessions. Trosper didn't make a run on the mare until early January 2024.

During Shiner's convalescence, Trosper qualified for the Jr Patriot on GL Dashing To A Te ("Audi"). She finished second in the second round of the International Youth Finals Rodeo and qualified through the Jr Patriot sidepot.

At The Patriot, Trosper and Shiner started off with a tipped barrel in the Young Guns race.

"She just turned really hard, and I wasn't ready for her to, and I couldn't get my leg up high enough to save the barrel," Trosper explained. "I looked at my mom coming out and told her, 'That was just to get in the pen.' She looked at me like she wasn't too proud of that answer!"

They turned things around the next day with a 15.376 that earned them a spot in the Jr Patriot Finals and earned $2,374 in carryover earnings.

"All the nerves really came in the showcase round Sunday," she said. "We were sitting in the alley, and my mare was getting amped up and I was getting amped up because I knew the stakes were higher. But we both went out and did our jobs. I couldn't have asked for a better horse!"

Their 15.375 was worth $40,000 and a chance at the $100,000 bonus round, where the top three in each timed event had a chance at a share of $100,000 if they bettered their previous time in one final run. Although Trosper's run didn't go as planned, the bonus was split by a goat tyer and a pole bender.

"It's really hard on them to make two runs back-to-back like that," she noted.

Trosper, 16, came by the rodeo bug honestly. Her mother Melinda ran barrels and her father Jason team roped until she and her

It is easier to move from failure to success than from excuses to success.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

If we have horses, I believe that most of us know what their breeding is. We know the sire, the dam and can research and go back as far as we want in their lineage. If you have a registered dog, bull, cow, sheep, etc., you can go look. Cats? I'm not sure about cats! What if you adopted a dog from the pound? You can do a DNA search now and find out what breed they are. It's interesting.

People? Yep. I know that I am mostly Irish, then Scottish and Swedish. When he was a lot younger, my brother-in-law would tell women that he was Italian and Indian. He was neither! But he thought it sounded good to the girls! LOL!

But what if there is something undesirable in your lineage. Good news! When we ask Jesus to be the Lord of our lives, the Bible tells us in 2 Cor. 5:17 that we are new creations, old things have passed away and behold all things have become new!

Friends, with Jesus, no matter what our natural heritage is, we are new creatures. We have a new Father, a new family and new everything else! Now, that's a heritage!
