Brett Monroe and Chad Hart's recently acquired Frisky Ta Fame topped the $50,000-added HHA Futurity, held March 12-15 during the Elite Extravaganza in Waco, Texas. Their share of the $123,000 total purse was $15,840.

"I felt very fortunate to go out there and make two clean runs," said Monroe, a veteran futurity rider and farrier from Gay, Georgia.

Hart, a longtime friend and client of Monroe's, purchased Frisky from Mickey Thompson after the Kinder Cup Futurity in early February. Jamie Hodges had trained the 4-year-old daughter of the late leading barrel horse sire Firewater Ta Fame out of Christy Adkins' Streakin Again mare Streakin Porsche. Incidentally, Streakin Porsche is a full sister to LLP Streakin Lady, whom Monroe's wife Nicole ran two years ago.

"I have to be very thankful to Chad for buying her," said Monroe, who had won the Southern Rebel Futurity earlier in the season on Shot Of Firewater, a gelding he trained for Hart. Unfortunately, the gelding injured a stifle and wasn't able to compete at Elite. "You don't have customers all the time that are willing to pay good money to buy you something to ride."

Monroe also complimented Hodges for training the mare.

"I've made a few little changes and done a few things different," said Monroe, "but I have to give Jamie credit. He trained a nice horse."

Monroe only had four runs on Frisky prior to the Elite Futurity. They tipped a barrel at their first race—the first round of the Southeastern Arena Futurity—but came back and placed third in the second round.

Their next race together was the Good Times Barrel Racing Association's event in Statesboro, Georgia. Although he tipped a barrel the first day, Monroe and Frisky tied with Craig Brooks and Jess The Way You Are, another 4-year-old futurity horse, the next day to win the race.

"That was the only times I had run her before I went out there," he said. "I had changed her headgear up a little bit from what Jaime rode. He rode her in a bonnet with a little bit with a little bit of shank to it. At Unadilla, I ran her with a bonnet and 5 Bit. I didn't really like the bonnet on her. He said he'd never rode her in a tiedown, but I like her in a tiedown. I have a little bit that I had Curt Leonard change. It's like a little Dutton gag and I had him straighten up the shanks and put a little stop in it. I like her in it better than anything else I've rode her in."

At Waco, Monroe and Frisky clocked a 15.258 but again tipped a barrel in the first round. Since the futurity took the fastest 40 times from either of the two qualifying rounds, Monroe knew he needed to be clean on his second run.

"We'd drove all that way, and the other horse we took came up with a stifle injury and we had to scratch him," Monroe said. "I thought, 'Here I am with one chance. I got to make sure I get around the barrels.'"

Frisky finished sixth in the second go with a 15.072, which ended up being the ninth fastest qualifying time. Janna Brown and Jets Top Gun, owned and bred by Busby Quarter Horses, had the fastest qualifying time with their first round-winning 14.935.

"She turned the first and second barrel really good and I took out a little insurance at the third barrel," he said. "I made sure I

In the Finals, Monroe just wanted to keep the barrels up.

"In the short go, I thought, 'Just get around the barrels,'" he said. "She can be a little hard to qualify because she can be so turny. When I turned the second she stepped out of it a little bit and I thought I lost a little time. I was going to try to make it up at the

PRCA establishes Webpage Regarding COVID-19

The Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association is sensitive to the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19), especially with the recent positive cases identified in the United States. The PRCA felt it was critical to communicate and put some additional structure around its plans for the 2020 PRCA Rodeo season. This is an incredibly fluid and dynamic situation. The PRCA is committed to being responsible, thoughtful and transparent in its work with the communities and its membership that are engaged.

The health and safety of athletes, officials, fans and event hosts is a priority. The PRCA is monitoring official information on COVID-19 from health authorities and assessing the possible impact on the ProRodeo family.

Ultimately this is not a decision of the PRCA. The PRCA policy, with our committees, is to continue to monitor the situation and to follow the advice of the CDC and directives from local public health authorities.

To help provide PRORODEO fans, members and athletes with information on the virus and how it is affecting our sport, the PRCA is maintaining a webpage with the latest updates. On that page you can find:

- A letter from PRCA CEO George Taylor regarding PRCA responses
- An in-depth document about COVID-19
- A live document that is updated frequently regarding the status of upcoming rodeos

That webpage can be found at <http://www.prorodeo.com/covid-19>

Commentary: Wyatt Casper, Shad Mayfield Share more than $1 million at The American

While it's far from official, Wyatt Casper and Shad Mayfield are heading to the 2020 Wrangler National Finals Rodeo. They're also $600,000 richer. And that is official.

Casper won the saddle bronc riding at RFD-TV's The American, while Mayfield won the tie-down roping at AT&T Stadium, March 8.

Every event winner took home $100,000 from The American, with $50,000 counting toward the PRCA | RAM World Standings. But because they were qualifiers to The American, Casper, 23, and Mayfield, 19, split a $1 million bonus, paid out to qualifiers who won their event. That meant an extra $500,000 to Casper and an extra $500,000 to Mayfield.

That wasn't the only thing they shared Sunday. Both men entered the Shoot-Out round at The American in their respective events as the top cowboy after putting up the best two-head averages. They also both entered as the top cowboys in their respective events in the world standings.

But they differed when it came to enjoying their new-found wealth.

"How much have I won or spent?" Mayfield quipped.

Casper wasn't exactly sure what $600,000 looked like.

"I don't think I've ever had more than $20,000 in my account at one time, $600,000 is going to be life-changing," he said. "I don't have the slightest clue what to do with it."

The $50,000 toward the standings all but guaranteed the two will be heading to Las Vegas and the Wrangler NFR when the regular season ends Sept. 30.

They both have the same determination when it comes to the rest of the regular season.

Casper entered the weekend with $66,645 in earnings, more than $20,000 ahead of his closest competitor. He added $53,000 to that total after Arlington. Last season, it took $90,811 to qualify for the Finals. Casper already has $119,645. Pencil him in for Finals trip No. 1.

"I rodeo for a living," he said. "I'm not satisfied until I can't ride any more. I'm going to try and take advantage of every rodeo I can."

Mayfield has been one of the hottest cowboys on the rodeo trail. The 19-year-old entered The American with more money earned toward the world standings than any other competitor in any event – $77,701. Mark him down for $127,701 and save him a spot for his second consecutive Wrangler NFR. He's surpassed his total from 2019 including last year's Finals.

He attributes this season's success to last season's struggles at the Finals.

"When I got home (from the Finals), the next day I went right back to the practice pen," Mayfield said. "I was pretty mad over it. It's not a good feeling making the Finals having all the people look up to you and getting there and not doing very well."

In 2019, the No. 15 tie-down roper qualified for Vegas with $86,260. I think it's safe to say Mayfield can make reservations to Las Vegas, even if he's not old enough to gamble.

And when he is old enough to gamble, you won't want to bet against him. Mayfield's ability to back in the box and go out and beat a time is quickly gaining fame. For him, however, he doesn't see it that way. Needing to best 8.25 seconds in Arlington, "Money" Mayfield clocked a time of 7.75 seconds as the last man out.

Mayfield might produce and look cool doing it, but there's a whole different look on the inside.

"My heart is racing, especially running at a million dollars," he said. "Right before that (run), I was adding up how much I was going to get, splitting it with Wyatt."

These two are destined to share something else – a little time in Las Vegas at the Wrangler NFR, Dec. 3-12.

third barrel and I darn near knocked the thing over!

"I thought well it's not going to fall and then it kept tilting. I had a split second there and just did get my fingertips on it just enough to stop it."

They stopped the clock with a 14.877, the second fastest time of the Finals behind Dakota Monk and Famous Lemon Drop's 14.840, for the winning aggregate.

"I feel lucky and fortunate to get to win it," he said. "I sure didn't expect it. I got lucky saving that third barrel.

"Waco, knock on wood, has been pretty good to me three of the four times I've been there."

Tamara Reinhardt & YesSir ImaReddie Triumph at Grand Island Rodeo

By Tanya Randall

2019 Prairie Circuit Finals Rodeo Champion and former National Finals Rodeo qualifier Tamara Reinhardt and her homebred YesSir ImaReddie ("Remilee") topped the Grand Island Rodeo, held March 13-14 in Nebraska. They turned in a 13.56 on the dirt-filled hockey rink to earn $2,927.

"I really appreciate the committee for stalwartly committing to having it and allowing contestants the opportunity to compete," said Reinhardt, who made an 800 mile roundtrip from her Canadian, Texas, home for the rodeo. "I sent them a thank you note today (Monday) because I know it had to be a very difficult decision. They did a great job putting on a family-friendly event for the community of Grand Island."

With $4,500 in added money and co-approval with the Prairie, Badlands and Great Lakes circuits, the rodeo had a lot of entries.

"They added quite a bit of money," added Reinhardt. "It was a good rodeo."

She also commended the rodeo committee on the consistency of their ground.

"In my performance, I think I was fifth out and there may have been a draw out," she recalled. "I think a person or two after me won checks, so it wasn't dependent on your draw number. People won checks in performances and slack, so kudos to that committee."

Reinhardt was also proud of her 8-year-old mare for working so honest.

"Rather than me working so hard to get around them, I felt really confident that I could ask her for an effort and be quiet and let her make her pattern," she said. "Sometimes that's really hard to do. Sometimes your horse's fast is fast enough. I tend to always ask for more when honestly her fast is fast enough. That's how I'm going to try to approach things this year."

Remilee also fired hard to the closed gate off the third barrel and performed a nifty little straight sliding stop.

"I've run to closed gates a few times and that's her MO," Reinhardt chuckled. "She doesn't want to go to a corner. She'll just run straight back. She really doesn't weaken. In the video, she leaves the third barrel and for two or three strides she pins her ears thinking it's an open gate I'm running out and then she's like 'Oh, not an open gate' and just sits down and takes care of herself."

is by leading barrel horse sire Eddie Stinson and out of a family owned mare Ravishing Red Ruby.

Reinhardt's father Don had purchased the lightly started race winner off the track as a 2-year-old and her mother Vera started the daughter of Bully Bullion on the pattern. She purchased the mare as a 3-year-old from her parents and lightly campaigned her at the futurities.

The mare's difficult nature hindered her competitive career with Reinhardt, who later sold her to a friend. Several years later, thanks to fellow NFR qualifier and futurity competitor Lisa Ogden noticing Reinhardt's name on the mare's papers, she was able to return to her barn.

The grand old mare is still standing in Reinhardt's barn at age 29.

"If I knew then what I know now, her mom would have been every bit as capable if not better because I think her mom was faster," noted Reinhardt. "But, not knowing about ulcers and therapies we have now...that would have been helpful in managing that mare. If I had all those things back then that mare would have been a really accomplished horse."

Remilee inherited quite a few quirks from her mother, but time and knowledge have allowed Reinhardt to find ways to work through them.

"She has some unusual competition characteristics," she said. "She is a mess. She's a difficult horse outside of the arena. On the competition aspect of it, she is just determined and fierce and capable."

One of the ways Reinhardt helps the fractious mare cope with travel is through her steadfast companion, the miniature former show mule pretentiously named Marina Falina Rachele A'nesse.

"That donkey..." Reinhardt chuckled, "just because of where we had to park and all the commotion, if that donkey doesn't spook at anything this mare rests because she doesn't have to be on high alert. The donkey just takes all that stress responsibility away because she just chills."

After the COVID-19 threat passes, Reinhardt said she'll probably focus on qualifying again for the Prairie Circuit Finals, especially if it is decided that the money won there will count toward standings again. She'll also probably to go a little more than she did in 2019.

"We'll probably extend our boundaries this summer from what they were last year," she said. "I think I went to 35 rodeos last year and I could easily double that because last year we stayed close to the house except for over the Forth of July."

"Last summer we learned that there are some setups that are better for her than others, but we know mud is not a problem for her! If everyone runs in the mud, she's got a pretty good chance of pulling a check because she is a mudder."

"It just determining what kind of hauling schedule she can handle and picking places you know the ground is going to be safely and consistently prepared."

HEADIN' FOR HOME

"Classic" by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

So. Are we all ready for spring? Are you seeing any signs of it yet? Yesterday I was doing some outside chores. It was windy. Tons of snow on the ground with ice underneath. Cloudy. I was trying hard to not keep sighing out loud. And grumbling. I was grumbling. BUT THEN! I heard GEESE HONKING! Mike said, "Stupid geese". I yelled, "GO GEESE!" They could trust things I couldn't see! Does this sound familiar?

How many times have we prayed for something but couldn't see the answer that minute? I'm sure we all have. But the answer, like spring, is coming, even if we can't see it. Have you ever been sick and a doctor gave you medicine? Did you go home, take one pill and expect instant wellness? No, you took the medicine and things turned around a little at a time. When we pray, things begin to change. Sometimes we can see it right away, sometimes the answer may be hours, days or weeks away. God never leaves us or forsakes us and I John 5:14-15 is the promise from God we need to keep in front of our eyes while we wait. We are smarter than geese. They have faith in the gift God put in them, and even when they can't see it, spring brings them back north. We should be even more confident in our God. Our answers are coming!!!
