Bubbling over - Hunter & Fizz win $53K at Rodeo Houston

By Tanya Randall

Nancy Hunter is going to Disneyland. She promised her 6-year-old granddaughter they'd make the trip if she won Rodeo Houston. With a $53,000 championship in hand, thanks to her talented horse Flit N Fizz ("Fuzz") and the guidance of Fred, her husband of 38 years, the Hunters will be packing their bags for Anaheim, Calif., in their near future.

"I'm still giddy as ever looking at that beautiful saddle and buckle," said the registered nurse from Neola, Utah. "I've always wanted to run there but I've never dreamt that I would win Houston. The stars just lined up."

Hunter was up in the first bracket at Rodeo Houston, held Feb. 25-March 16 at the Reliant Center, after running at San Antonio. Her expectations weren't very high since Fuzz had hurt himself in a turnout on break between runs.

"I had run in the first bracket at San Antone and I had turned Fuzz out in this turnout," she explained. "I don't know how, but 20 minutes later he got his leg tore up in the fence, just below his knee. It wasn't career ending or anything. I came back to San Antone; it looked pretty good so I went on and ran him in the semis but he just didn't want to turn."

Hunter climbed on her 6-year-old cutting-bred gelding Wee Boss Man, by CD Lights out of Ote Darlin, by Hickoryote, to finish out San Antonio. With the rest, Fuzz's leg had gone down some and she was able run him the first two rounds of her bracket in Houston.

"The first night he didn't fire very good," she said. "The second night he got a check but he came out and just didn't feel very good. He didn't want to come around on the backside and drive off. He'd run straight but he didn't want to turn.

"So I got on that 6-year-old for that third run in that bracket. He ended up getting that bottom check. He worked good but he didn't want to run home. I remember thinking San Antone was bad; but this was crazy to run a young horse at Houston. He worked his turns really good, but he didn't really want to run back through that (tunnel) and the timer was right there. He didn't want any part of that. He did pretty good for being in that type of environment."

Even though her runs were slightly off the pace, Hunter placed in

Walker Fires to fast time and $41K at D&D Futurity

By Julie Mankin

Vauna Walker's 4-year-old palomino gelding, DTF Way Ta Fire, had won the first round of the Diamonds & Dirt Futurity in Bryan, Texas, with a respectable 16.0-second time, and then returned in the second round with a bobble in the alley, though they still managed a 16.4.

Then came the finals.

"I could tell by the second barrel by how soft he was and how hard he was driving that it was going to be good, but when I looked up and saw that 15.698, I couldn't believe it," said Walker, who won the futurity average and $35,482. "On Facebook there is a really geeky looking picture of me in the alley about two seconds after I saw the clock. I didn't hear the time because I'm kind of hard of hearing."

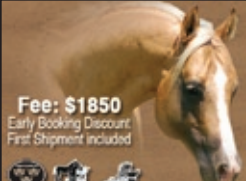

The format in Bryan was to take each horse's fastest time from the first two rounds and combine it with their finals run to get the winner on two. The morning of the finals, Walker had taken her yellow powerhouse in and out of the alley to settle him down in there, because his nerves had affected him badly on her second run.

"In the finals, he started his run so smooth," said Walker, whose 15.6 was faster than that of the more than 1,000 times clocked by older, seasoned horses.

The palomino is so light-mouthed that he really tips his nose headed to first. He also drives harder around the barrels than about any horse out there.

Donations Needed for Benefit Auction

Every year the UBRA holds a silent auction during our Annual Futurity and 5D with many items including hay, art, jewelry, sporting goods, quilts, tack and lots of great stuff. In the past we have donated the proceeds to local charities like The Huntsman Cancer Institute and The National Ability Center.

This year Alicia Williams will be in charge of our silent auction and proceeds will go to the National Ability Center in Park City, Utah and MadaresGold Horse Rescue & Rehab in Herriman, Utah.

The National Ability Center has an amazing equine program and many other programs including ski team, aquatics, archery, cycling and a military program.

Madaresgold Horse Rescue is dedicated to rescuing starved, abused and neglected horses. They rehabilitate, provide feed, vet and hoof care and training. The Horses then go up for adoption to approved homes.

Please contact Alicia Williams by phone 801-598-9497 or email moffatcreek@msn.com and let her know what you have to donate to the auction. Thanks Alicia for taking on this project!

Extraco Event Center to Upgrade

A proposed land swap between McLennan County and the Waco (Texas) Independent School District would allow the Extraco Events Center – home of the All American ProRodeo Finals each October – to add a new arena and potentially hold more events, officials told the Waco Tribune. The $1.5 million project is part of a $20 million master plan approved three years ago to upgrade the center complex. The center would finance and build the expanded stall barn and turn it over to the county once construction is complete, perhaps as early as January 2014, said Wes Allison, president and CEO of the Extraco Events Center. It would supplement the existing arena in the Heart O' Texas Coliseum and Extraco Show Pavilion. --Courtesy of www.prorodeo.com the average and advanced to the semi-finals because she was clean on three. Due to the extreme length of the rodeo, Fuzz had 14 days off to heal.

"I had him x-rayed and ultrasounded and it was all just swelling from that cut," explained the mother of four grown boys. "Over that time the swelling went down and the leg tightened up, and then he was back on top. I ran him the rest of the time. I gave him one gram of Bute one day and that was it."

On Wednesday, March 13, Hunter and Fuzz made their semi-final's run and was one hole out of the money, meaning they had to run on Friday in the Wildcard Round. Hunter said it was her most pressure filled run of the entire rodeo.

"There were 12 really good horses and you had to be in the Top 2," she explained. "I loaded all my buckets and everything and told Sunny the secretary that I would see her back in Wickenburg. I was being realistic. I knew the cards really had to line up for me." Carlee Pierce and Rare Dillion set an arena record with a 14.04 before Hunter ran. She said she was glad she didn't hear her time before she ran.

"I would have probably kicked too hard or something like that," she laughed. Fuzz turned in a 14.3 to advance to the Finals. Like she had done for all her runs, Hunter and husband got up at 4 a.m. to work the horses in the arena. All she did with Fuzz was walk him through the pattern.

"When I looked at the draw," she said, "I was happy with where I drew, but I thought, 'this is some of the best talent in the United State here.' I felt really honored to even be in that crowd. If I didn't win another dime I was happy. They pay you $1,000 just to be there. This isn't Fuzz's kind of deal; he's usually a big outside pen horse and he's done great. We were just really happy. I didn't feel a lot of pressure. I just wanted to go in there and do my best."

The Final 10 were WPRA World Champion Mary Walker, National Circuit Finals Rodeo Champion Tana Renick, three-time

Walker, Hunter, Renick and Cervi advanced the Championship Final. Hunter, who didn't even know she got into the rodeo until Brenda Mays showed her name in the draw on her phone, was "flabbergasted" that she even made the Championship Final.

"I wasn't that nervous going into the Final Four," she said.

"Mary's horse—what can you say—he's been spot on. He's an amazing animal. Tana Renick's mare, she had just been firing every run. She was probably one of the most consistent horses there. And Sherry... that's her pen. Her mare loves that pen. I told Fred, no matter what I've got $5000 no matter what."

When Walker hit a barrel first out, Hunter knew a clean run would net her more money.

"I knew if I kept the barrels up I was going to win $10,000," she said. "So that was going through my mind. $10,000 is a lot of money to me. I was probably smiling going down the alleyway thinking just keep the barrels up you're going to win $10,000!" Making his second run, Fuzz was feeling the effects of his Utah winter coat in unusually hot Texas spring and the many runs in a short time span.

"I didn't have as good of run, kind of missed the first barrel," she recalled. "I could tell he was little bit tired and just didn't crank it back, but his other two barrels were good and he ran home really strong. I was tickled pink with him."

Hunter and Fuzz had clocked a 14.40. After her run, Hunter set to tending Fuzz while her husband watched the action on the television in the tunnel for the contestants. Although she could stomach watching, Fred gave her a play-by-play.

"Tana went in; I didn't see her run," she said. "Fred said 'Oh wow, she ran a .47'. I said 'Oh my God, I just won $20,000!' Sherry was going in and that mare's like rock solid in there. I heard Fred say 'Oh man, she's got ya; that was a beautiful turn.' As she was running home he said, 'I don't know. She kind of bowed off that end turn a little bit.' He said, 'Oh my heavens, a hundredth, a hundredth!'"

Hunter had won the $50,000 by one one-thousandth of a second, 14.40 to Cervi's 14.41.

"After that I can't hardly tell you anything I did," said Hunter, who wanted to thank the Houston Committee and the countless volunteers for their hospitality during her stay. "I can't remember. I just knew my mouth was so dry I couldn't even spit and they told me to go do an interview. I didn't know what to say because I never thought I would be doing that. It just got crazier from there."

With the WPRC dropping their sanctioning of the rodeo due to the committees wish to have the option to pick unranked contestants, earnings do not count towards the WPRC standings. Nevertheless, Hunter is overwhelmed with the thought of that much money in her bank account.

"I'm like the miser budget queen from hell," she laughed. "I had four boys and when they go through four gallons of milk a day you learn how to budget! Fred and I argued all the way home about it. He thinks he should get half of it. I said, 'No, I'm going to give you a couple $100 and you can buy a new straw hat. He thinks he needs a motorcycle.'"

Fred wants a Harley and had even gone so far as to put leather streamers on Nancy's stirrups like they have on motorcycles.

"Fred had put them on my stirrups to remind me that I owe him Harley," she laughed.

So what is she really going to do with the money? She said candidly, "I'm going to put it in the savings account and everyday I'm going to go online and look at it!"

Even with hauling money in the bank, Hunter doesn't plan to haul much harder than she usually does. She'll make the RAM National Circuit Finals and Logandale, Nevada, in April and then probably stay home until the end of May, first of June.

"I probably won't haul Fuzz to any more rodeos than I usually do," she said. "He usually goes to 25 rodeos a year. But I've got that 6-year-old that's doing good, so we might try to stretch it out and pick some from him too."

Making the National Finals is something that would just have to happen rather than being her mission.

"I'm such a realist," she said. "You want to do things, but you know life has got other things planned for you. Fuzz is 13 this year and his career is winding down. I want to make sure he ends his career sound and happy. I eventually want to let my 6-year-old granddaughter run him—not anytime soon—when she's big enough to handle him. She's always said she wanted to ride Fuzz, so I said I'd let her."

Bred and raised by Harry and Vivian Blackwell, Fuzz is by WPRC World Champion sire Dr Nick Bar out of Sting It, by Power Train. The Blackwells met the Hunters when they asked for Fred's help with Willy Nick Bar, whom their daughter NFR qualifier Amanda Clayman was riding.

"Fred had actually rode the mom to Fuzz a few years before," noted Hunter. "Harry had called and said he was going to send this horse out that wasn't going to make it in the futurity program. He was a stud, he cribbed and was little underweight and he could buck. He's not a natural stopper and Fred really worked on that. They wanted to sell him. No one was interested. I called tons of girls and couldn't get anyone to come look at him."

Hunter was busy working full time and hauling her kids to rodeos, and when she made the decision to start competing again they asked about buying Fuzz.

By the time he was 7, Fuzz had seasoned out into a solid rodeo horse. Hunter had qualified for the Wilderness Circuit Finals all six years she ran him, winning the circuit four times and taking second twice.

Hunter credits her husband for as much of her success as she does the horse.

"I'm really blessed," she said. "I wouldn't be able to do this without him. It's all his training. I don't think he gets enough credit."

"About a year ago, when I was barely asking him, we went to a local arena and my husband watched and remarked about how he was really driving the entire time, even then," said Walker. "Anymore, as long as I'm smooth, I know he'll clock."

DTF Way Ta Fire is by JB Quarter Horses' stallion Chasin Firewater (Firewater Flit crossed on a Bugs Alive In 75/Tiny Charger mare) and out of a half-thoroughbred Dash Ta Fame daughter.

"Because he's pretty soft, I try hard to think 'smooth' before I run," said Walker, who felt plenty of excitement and pressure the night before the finals. "I don't do a lot of bumping and checking because when my adrenaline gets going, it can be more like a floating your teeth kind of thing."

Walker, who commonly runs futurity horses as 5-year-olds due to her climate in Idaho, is enjoying the bigger, more fun futurities this season with her 4-year-old.

"If they're mature, we'll run them at 4," said Walker, who took three colts to the Diamonds & Dirt. Her plans for Way Ta Fire are to hit the futurities in Pasco and Walla Walla, then a couple small ones in Heber and Salina, Utah, before venturing on to Fort Smith.

"We've talked a lot about this horse, and I think he is as fast and quick-footed and physically talented as anything I've ever run," she said.

Jatzlau and Catch The Rain clinch D&D derby title

By Julie Mankin

While most 6-year-old derby horses have a good two years of competition runs under their belt, Catch The Rain hasn't even been entered for a solid year. Still, she swept the more seasoned horses at the Diamonds & Dirt Derby in Bryan, Texas – as well as placing sixth in the Sweepstakes and 12th in the Open 5D to earn $6,488.

"I raised her," said Jatzlau. "Her mother Takin On The Bug, was the very first futurity horse I ever trained, who won like $74,000." Takin On The Bug, now deceased, was by Takin On The Cash (Dash For Cash crossed on an Easy Jet mare) and out of a Shawne Bug daughter. Catch The Rain, or "Puddin'," is by Blazin Jetolena.

"I placed in the Superstakes at Oklahoma City on her when she was 4, and then I got pregnant," said Jatzlau, whose son, Jagger, with husband Lane was born 18 months ago. "I quit riding because I was so sick while I was pregnant, and placed at the Oklahoma City in the futurity after only running her in November. Then she placed third in the Fort Smith derby."

After that, she was out again for six months with a tendon sheath puncture. Still, Puddin runs like an old, seasoned rodeo horse.

"She's a really consistent mare," said Jatzlau. "Especially for not having run very much. She's my 'good, old faithful' because she makes the same run every time, is so super honest and never hits a barrel or makes mistakes. All I do is pony her during the week. At Bryan I ran her three times and she ran a 16.1 and two 16.0s."

Jatzlau has an entire stable full of horses to train this season, and has already earned nearly $100,000 with her futurity horse, Good To Be The King. She stays in the house with Jagger every day until 1 p.m., when her babysitter watches him until 5 p.m. while she rides. Jatzlau stays close to home training and rodeoing at the amateur rodeos in Texas. Last year she won the CPRA and placed third in the year-end standings of the UPRA, having earned roughly $18,000 just within a couple hours of the house. Puddin will likely see a lot of time at amateur rodeos this summer.

She's one mare that Jatzlau won't sell, since she lost the dam last year. Already, she's pulling embryos out of Puddin. In fact, Good To Be The King is actually an embryo baby out of Princess, Jatzlau's last good rodeo mare. Princess was sold to help pay for the extensive and expensive medical treatments Jatzlau had to go through to get pregnant.

As for the event itself in Bryan, Jatzlau called it "fantastic," saying it was run really well, offered great prizes in addition to the large amount of money and added lots of extras including great hospitality. Futurity champion Vauna Walker agreed.

"I will go again without a doubt," Walker said. "It was so well-organized and user-friendly from getting stalls and shavings to finding the office – I have nothing but good things to say. It was the easiest check-in for a big futurity as I've ever seen, and in just their second year."

She was also impressed with the two $2,500 diesel cards she won and said it's easy to see why the Diamonds & Dirt was so big this year.

"They were great with all the little details," she said. "Like for the exhibitions, they gave you two minutes in the arena to do whatever you wanted with those babies. It was really nice."

The Coup is back! Snedegar wins D&D Sweepstakes

By Julie Mankin

Outrunning nearly 1,200 of the toughest barrel horses in the world is already a fantastic feat – but for a horse to do it after she wasn't expected to live and then spent two years trying to get sound, well, it's sweet indeed.

Ashley Snedegar was just a kid when her family bought a 2-year-old filly named VF Coup De Ville. Bred by Victory Farms, the filly was by Danny Ray's First Down Dash/Beduino stallion Burrs First Down and out of the Coup De Kas daughter Go Coup De.

"Coup" and her teenaged trainer won virtually everything for years – Coup is a two-time Horse of the Year and world champion in the NBHA. But in August 2010, Coup threw a little fit at the gate at a Mega Show, so Snedegar decided it might be time for some joint maintenance. She'd never done anything of that kind with the then-8-year-old mare.

"I had her injected, and left her at home to relax while I went to train for a lady in North Carolina," said Snedegar. "I got a call the day after I left saying Coup's probably not going to make it past today – both hind legs got infected. She had a 25 percent chance to live."

Luckily, the mare survived. After more than six months, she was ready to run again. Snedegar took her to a horse show and she turned as sharp as always, but clocked in the 2D. Knowing something was wrong, Snedegar hauled Coup to a vet in Kentucky who said she had navicular. He told Snedegar she'd be much better off buying another horse than trying to fix this one.

"You can't buy a horse like this one," she told the vet.

"Well, she'll never win again," he told her.

So Snedegar decided to make her a broodmare, and hauled her to Danny Ray's to get some embryos pulled.

"While I was there she started moving ten times better and was running in the pasture," she said. "They had stood her up more and put bar shoes on her to relieve the pressure."

In the meantime, Snedegar moved from Illinois to Conroe, Texas, where she started up the same family business hauling used motor-oil that they had sold in Illinois.

"I was working full time training horses, but when Coup got hurt, that slowed down and I had to look for a more steady income," said Snedegar. "Horses can be very up and down. I found something steadier in running the family business here."

Now 22, Snedegar went back to running 10-year-old Coup. The mare felt good but still not quite in peak form, so this time she went to Dr. Greg Ford in Houston. He suggested hind joint injections.

"That scared me," she said. "I couldn't take the risk of putting her through that again. I went to another vet who told me the same thing. But I just couldn't do it."

After quite some time, she finally decided to trust Dr. Ford and allowed him to do the joint injections about four weeks ago.

"I gave her two weeks off and ran her in Waco last weekend," said Snedegar. "When she ran the fast time of the event, I knew she was back."

Texas, on Sunday, Snedegar was number 45 to run and the ground was a little deep before the big drag at 50. Coup went flying in and tripped starting her first turn, but in Snedegar's words, she made up for it at the third barrel – arguably the fastest third barrel ever turned.

"She always turns third like that, but like Latricia said on the HRTV highlight video, the mare had been out of commission for two years," said Snedegar. "She usually turns second like that too, but honestly she hasn't been back very long and I'm a little behind. I need to get back with her."

Snedegar clocked a 15.759, but then had to sweat some stiff competition among the remaining 50 horses.

"You can't count out Brittany Pozzi, and you can never count out Kassie Mowry, who came close to me, or Latricia Duke," said Snedegar. "Them riders, they can make a piece of junk work good and outrun your butt."

When her time held, Snedegar won not only the Sweepstakes, but also the Open 5D to which she'd rolled her time. She banked a whopping $13,785 and two trophy saddles.

"This personally was my biggest win at a big payout event," said Snedegar. "There have been some that I'd have won if I hadn't drug over a barrel, so this one was extra sweet. It was kind of like a 'finally did it' thing."

She can't heap enough thanks on Dr. Ford and her farrier, Chase Taylor, for getting the mare back to herself. Rather than egg bars or wedges, Coup wears a custom-made bar shoe with padding designed to relieve pressure on her navicular area.

Going forward, Snedegar will likely only haul Coup to big shows once or twice a month, instead of living on the road like she did in the glory days winning all those youth championships.

"I want to keep her sound and healthy as long as I can," she said. "I'll spend more time at home letting her relax this year."

More embryos are to come, too, to join the new baby filly and baby colt born this spring. For now, Snedegar is keeping the filly and Danny Ray will keep the colt.

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Spring is on the way! In some places, horses are starting to shed off old hair, birds are flying over and the days are getting longer.

Spring cleaning is underway. It's time to get rid of some stuff that should have been thrown out or given away long ago.

I know of a man who travels a lot for a large company. He often brings home sacks full of stuff he's given at conventions and trade shows. His busy wife just stuffs the sacks in the back closet out of the way and doesn't even look in them, sometimes for weeks. When she finally did, she was horrified at what she found. Her husband, who hadn't paid any attention to the "gifts" either was just as shocked.

Not all, but many of the give-a-ways were inappropriate and some were down right obscene. She wasted no time in destroying them not wanting anyone who might come upon them to think she and her husband condoned such things.

Look around your house and property. Do you have some things you'd want to whisk out of sight if you saw Jesus coming up your walk for a visit?

There's an old saying that asks, "By looking in your house, could you be convicted as a Christian?" If something makes you uncomfortable, get rid of it. It doesn't matter who gave it to you. If you're uneasy about it, get rid of it.

It's good to say Psalm 51:10 as a prayer every day. It says "Create in me a clean heart, O God. And renew a right spirit within me." Don't just spring clean your material possessions. It's time to see if your heart and mind need cleaning up as well. Study the Word of God and pray. Spring is a time for new beginnings. God is good and His mercy is new every morning!
