One Step Closer to The American Dream for Randee Prindle & Red Man Jones, Win Semifinals Rodeo

By Tanya Randall

Running first out in the last performance of RFD-TV's The American Semifinals Rodeo, held February 27-March 1 at the Cowtown Coliseum in Fort Worth, Texas, Randee Prindle and Red Man Jones ("Scooby") posted a 13.631 to win a $24,416 championship and punch their ticket to the $2 million rodeo in AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas.

"It's been one heck of a ride," said the Gilman City, Missouri, barrel racer. "I don't know if it's really sank in yet on where I'm going, but I guess we'll find out on Saturday!"

With nearly 1,200 barrel racers attempting to qualify for the American Semifinals, 248 including exceptions competed in a progressive first round of slack on Monday morning, February 27.

Prindle didn't have high expectations for her and Scooby.

"I only threw in four bales of hay, because I figured as the soon as the first round was over I would be headed home," she said, "so I've been having to buy hay down here. It's a good problem to have."

Running fourth on the ground right before a big drag in draw 199, Prindle and Scooby clocked a 13.859 to place sixth in the first round, earning $4,061.

THE RUNDOWN w/Randee Prindle

Red Man Jones "Scooby" 15 hands, 1,000 lb.s

"He's not a really big horse, but he's got decent bone."

BIT: Kathy James with twisted mouthpiece

SADDLE: I've been running him in a Burns, but we're getting a custom tree made for him," she explained. "Right now, I'm in a Master's Lightweight."

SADDLE PAD: 5-Star

LEG GEAR: Classic equine fronts only

SHOEING: Steel shoes on front only, barefoot behind

FEED: "A concoction" of ½ pound Nutrena Performance, ½ pound of oats, ½ pound ReNew Gold and ½ pound of a fat additive

HAY: Alfalfa, grass mix

SUPPLEMENTS: MVP Exceed 6-Way, In Sync, GastroPlex and Kahm CBD

CONDITIONING-TRAINING REGIME: "He visits the chiropractor about once a month," she says. "I've been using my PEMF machine on him. He's been getting an hour a day. I tried just doing 40 minutes, but the minute I took it off he started backing up to me and was like, 'You're not done.' I did another 20 minutes and he was happy. A Spectra Therapy blanket for three to four hours a day. He has a PHT blanket that he wears sometime. He's just a spoiled brat."

CONDITIONING-TRAINING REGIME: "I might work him in the roundpen for 15 minutes every day, but other than that, he's kicked out on pasture, just being a horse," she said. "The first time I attempted to get him really in shape, he stepped on the side of the roundpen and was lame for three days, so we to keep our conditioning to a minimum and it seems to work."

SPONSORS: Med-Vet Pharmaceuticals, Kahm CBD, Spectra Therapy, Leaning Pole Arena, PEMP Complete and Hidez.

"For the (first run), he had a hard step around first and kind of threw me up a little on the horn. At the second, he knocked it a little with his head. He had a good third barrel. With all that, he still clocked that .8 so I figured as long as I kept him clean (on his next run) we should have a chance," she said.

Her championship run, which was worth $20,355, came as a total surprise.

"I had no idea that he was going to run that fast," she said of the 13.631. "He rolled in there and didn't leave much room around first. He stepped passed second just a tad, but third was just on point. I was shocked at the time."

Bred by the barrel racing industry's leading breeder Jud Little, Scooby was one of more than a dozen horses competing in the Semifinals that were created by the Ardmore, Oklahoma, oilman. Scooby, a 9-year-old gelding by Brownie Jones out of multiple AQHA and Congress barrel racing and pole bending champion Dinkys Purple Rain, by Dinky's Red Man, first sold to Kelsey (Deal) Knight at the 2013 Jud Little Production Sale where he brought $6,900 as 2-year-old.

The gelding started his futurity career with Knight, who later consigned him to the 2015 BBR World Finals Horse Sale, where he caught the eye of Prindle's mother, Kim.

"Honestly when I went to that sale, I had my mind on a 2- or 3-year-old just because I didn't think I could afford any of the started horses," she said. "My mom is actually the one that stopped at his pen. I had seen that he was started, so I figured he was out of my price range. I looked over him and left. Mom said she liked him. I said, I guess we'll try because he went right before the young one that I was interest in. I ended up getting him."

When the gavel dropped at $16,500, Prindle was hoping for a

PRCA, Calgary Stampede form new partnership

The Calgary Stampede and the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) are pleased to announce a new partnership aimed at supporting the ongoing growth of the sport of rodeo in North America.

"Forming this partnership with the PRCA allows for greater collaboration and the chance for the Calgary Stampede to be more actively involved in future developments within the sport of rodeo," says Paul Rosenberg, Chief Operating Officer of the Calgary Stampede, adding, "It also guarantees we'll continue to attract the world's best competitors and stock to Calgary for ten remarkable days of rodeo in July."

Through this exciting new partnership, prize money won at the Calgary Stampede by PRCA athletes will count toward qualifying for a coveted spot at the National Finals Rodeo (NFR), the season-ending championship for the PRCA, and further guarantees that the best competitors in the world will be competing in the Stampede's one-of-a-kind rodeo format.

"We are incredibly excited by this partnership with the Calgary Stampede and what it means to our membership," says George Taylor, CEO of the PRCA. "The Stampede is one of the quintessential rodeos in North America, and now it will help PRORODEO cowboys as they chase their dreams of a gold buckle. The PRCA offers the best cowboys the chance to compete at the best rodeos, and the Stampede is helping further that reality."

The Calgary Stampede Rodeo will continue to invite competitors through a qualification process that allows all competitors at the top of their game to receive a much sought after Stampede spot. All of the invited athletes must have a PRCA membership. As part of this new agreement, the Calgary Stampede Rodeo will also be broadcast live daily to more than 42 million homes in the United States on the Cowboy Channel, a western and rodeo lifestyle cable and satellite network.

Expect to see the best-of-the-best compete at the 2020 Calgary Stampede July 3-12. For more information, please visit calgarystampede.com

ProRodeo Tour and Cinch High School Rodeo Tours (which airs on RFD-TV).

Medders' expertise expands beyond the rodeo world and into cutting and reining as he worked as the host of the AQHA TV show "America's Horse." Medders was also inducted into the Texas Rodeo Cowboy Hall of Fame in 2018.

"Jeff's experience with the PRCA as well as his perspective from being on-air talent for so many years brings a unique perspective to our office," said Patrick Gottsch, founder of Rural Media Group. "He will help to expand The Cowboy Channel and improve our relationships within the industry, while also providing some structure to our Fort Worth operations. We are more than thrilled to welcome Jeff to The Cowboy Channel Family."

Medders' success in the production industry comes from working together like a family with his production crew. Working and building relationships is something Medders strives for and will continue to do with all the rodeo organizations throughout The Cowboy Channel's deal with the PRCA.

"I have had the privilege of being on the front line of most of the major changes in ProRodeo over the past three decades. The vision Patrick has for The Cowboy Channel, the rodeo industry and the Western way of life is unmatched," Medders said.

Medders will be based out of The Cowboy Channel's headquarters in the Fort Worth (Texas) Stockyards.

solid 1D horse at the local races. However, the pairing struggled early on. Scooby injured a suspensory ligament. Prindle was pregnant with her 4-year-old daughter Kayla. Once they got back to running, Scooby was anything but consistent.

“He had an issue running up the fence,” she explained. “He had a slight tear in a suspensory. He was off for six months, but by the time I was able to ride him, I was six months pregnant. So, he only had like four runs that fall as a 4-year-old. I brought him back out as a 5-year-old and we still had problems with him running up the fence for about a year and a half, and then finally everything fell together.”

Even with a rapidly growing win record throughout the Midwest, Scooby was still prone to being “a brat.”

“It’s kind of a surprise,” she laughed. “He’ll be rolling in and set for the first barrel and kind of hump. It’s not a hard buck; it’s more of a rocking buck. You think you could get him to run out of it but ‘Nooo.’ Once he starts, he’s very determined to keep going.

“Last year at the Bonus Race Finals, in the small pen, he about bucked the whole pattern,” Prindle laughed. “He ended up 21st in the 5D in that small pen, bucking about the whole thing. It was quite entertaining.”

The spontaneous bucking also thwarted their first attempt to qualify for the American Semifinals.

“At Marshall, Texas, he did really good on Friday and Sunday, he won the race, but on Saturday for the Qualifier he decided to buck through the pattern, so I had to go up to Winona, Minnesota,” said Prindle, “and I finished second up there.”

Prior to the American Semifinals, Prindle had made a couple of trips to Texas for some of the winter rodeos. She and Scooby placed at the Odessa, Texas, pro rodeo and finished fourth at San Angelo. Her finish at San Angelo put her just three spots out of making another rich event—Rodeo Houston.

“I’ve hit a few (rodeos),” she said. “I haven’t entered any lately. I don’t know where this is going to go and I don’t want to run his legs off. I try to pick and choose the best ground. Sometimes that’s hard when you’ve never been there. I’m up in the air if I want to try rodeoing or just stick to the three-day weekends. I’ve got five others that I can run. I like to go to those three-day weekends because I can haul them all and run them all.”

Prindle, who has also shown miniature horses nationally, inherited the barrel racing bug from her mother, who along with her brother Daniel, grandparents Gary and Marion Moulin and her fiancé Hunter Van Patten have been her biggest supporters.

“I have to thank everyone at home for keeping everything running smoothly, my sponsors who keep me well-stocked in everything and the Lord, because if it wasn’t for him...He’s been watching over me, for sure.”

Prindle is anxiously awaiting the outcome of her American Dream.

“This is going to be a totally new experience,” she said. “I didn’t even watch it last year. I’ve never been there before but at least I don’t have to buy a ticket!”

Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi & Babe On The Chase Earn $50,000 WCRA Royal City Roundup Championship

By Tanya Randall

World Champion Barrel Racer Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi is having an exceptional winter. The current WPRA World Standings Leader picked up some serious travel money at the World Champion Rodeo Alliance's Royal City Roundup in Kansas City, Missouri, held February 28.

The Lampasas, Texas, barrel racer and her homebred star Babe On The Chase ("Birdie") collected $50,000 for the Championship at the $1 million rodeo, which offered a $111,111 purse to the nine qualifying barrel racers.

"They are really for the cowboys and cowgirls," said Tonozzi, who earned her world titles in 2007 and 2009. "They're putting up a lot of money."

Since the rodeo was held prior to a PBR event, the set up was a short course, just as it was for the San Antonio Rodeo and RFD-TV's The American Semifinals.

"The setup was a little small, but we knew that going in because it's a PBR event," Tonozzi explained. "They were great and let us set it up like we wanted, let us put the barrels where we wanted to. The ground was really good. No one slipped or fell. It was just a really well-run event and they let us do what we wanted."

Eight of the nine competitors advanced to the Royal City Roundup through the WCRA Semifinals Rodeo, held . Those advancing were Wenda Johnson, Kassidy Lovell, Ivy Saebens, Kylie Conner, Hallie Hanssen, Paige Jones, Michelle Darling and Deann Morgan. Tonozzi had an automatic advancement due to her No. 1 position on the WCRA Barrel Racing Leaderboard.

While nominations have often been a point of confusion to many interested in the WCRA, Tonozzi used her hectic schedule to her advantage and nominated the premier rodeos she attended.

"I started looking at the schedule and Guthrie was right over the Edna (Texas) futurities," she explained. "I thought it would sure be nice to not have to go back and forth. Then it ended up being over the top of slack at San Angelo, so I was really thankful that I had nominated and was able to go all the way and not have to go to the (WRCA) Semifinals."

Contestants must pay a nomination fee prior to the start of an event in order for their points to count. Events are ranked into one of four divisions based on the total payout of the event. Division 1 is the richest with payouts greater than $250,000 and costs the most to nominate ($200). Division 4 is the smallest for events awarding less than $14,999 and only carries a $50 nomination fee. Not surprisingly, the richer the division, the more points are available.

"All the nominations I do are Division 1 because they're the most points and that's mainly what I go to," Tonozzi explained. "I like to nominate things that have several rounds, so I have several chances to win points."

In the first round at Kansas City, Wenda Johnson and Macgyver Moonflash ("Mac") led the field with a 13.146, followed by Kassidy Lovell and Crown Royal Ransom's 13.172 and Tonozzi and Birdie's 13.224. The top three advanced to a sudden death second round with $87,500 on the line, while the remaining contestants each earned a check.

In the Finals, Tonozzi and Birdie flew to a victorious 13.112. Johnson and Mac took home $25,000 for second, while Lovell and Ransom pocketed $12,500.

Birdie's $50,000 run was her sixth straight sub-13 second run since the semifinals of the San Antonio Rodeo. She also had the slack round of the American Semifinals during that time as well.

"She doesn't want to hit one," said Tonozzi. "That's kind of just her. I can't take credit for her being really honest. She's just been working really well."

Tonozzi said she did take the opportunities to slow work the mare when she had the chance.

"I worked her during my exhibition at The American (Semifinals) and they let us in the arena the night before at Kansas City," she said. "I got to work those few times, but that's just her style. She doesn't want to hit one."

Tonozzi's slow work during those times consisted of "going as close to the first barrel as I possibly can without hitting it," she chuckled, "and then I just make big round pockets around the second and third."

The biggest hiccup of the Royal City Roundup was of the small, two-legged kind. With her husband Garrett, a former $50,000 WCRA winner, competing as well, watching after their daughter Tinlee, soon to be 3, was a little challenging.

"We were both entered and we were having to transfer all of our horses," Tonozzi said. "There were a lot of moving parts. We probably should have had someone go with us. I told Garrett we're definitely having someone go with us next time."

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Winter in Wyoming is ssloowwllly moving out...thank you Jesus. I was born in Wyoming. I know better, but on the first day of spring I want green grass and warm weather. Does it happen? Nope. LOL.

It's the same with being a Christian. Jesus might be our Lord, but we are falling short. Why? I heard it explained like this. "You can be close to the water and still be dry." How can we change that? John 6:35 says in part, "I am the bread of life. He who comes to Me shall never hunger, and he who believes in Me shall never thirst."

Food and water are basic to our natural lives. Spending time with Jesus is absolutely vital! We need to spend quality time with Him. Every day. If we do, we will flourish. And then, even if trouble (snow) falls on our life, we will break through anyway!
