Queen Schuster Scores Again

By Hope Sickler

Krum, Texas barrel racer Tiany Schuster is holding tight to her #1 position in the WPRA World Standings, winning yet another Champions Challenge and making her dreams of a WNFR qualification more real every day. Schuster topped the tough roster in Grand Island, Nebraska aboard a new horse, Show Mance. Show Mance and Schuster blazed the cloverleaf pattern in 13.76-seconds, ultimately giving them the win.

Show Mance is a 7-year-old gelding by First Smart Money, by First Down Dash, and out of Baby Blue Cash, by Hold On To The Cash. He was trained by Christine Lollis and Schuster first set her sights on the talented red gelding at Diamond T Arena in Denton, Texas.

"I was there at Diamond T the day after Thanksgiving and Christine blasted a run on Show Mance. I met her right after she had gotten off him and asked about him and if he were for sale," said Schuster. "The next morning I was hooked to my trailer and headed to her house to hopefully add him to my team."

Schuster explained that Show Mance was solid leading up to the Champions Challenge, winning the Stockyards Rodeo last Saturday night, then going on to win the lucrative $5,000 open in Graham, Texas with over 300 entries.

After an exciting weekend in Texas, Schuster was anxious to see how the Champions Challenge would stack up for her and her new ride. The epitome of consistency, Schuster and Show Mance continued their winning streak in Grand Island.

"My run at the Champions Challenge was more than what I was expecting. I was hopeful after our run at the Stockyards, considering he had never been to a rodeo performance until then, so my goal going into the Champions Challenge was to stay cool, calm and collected and let him work."

And work he did. The upcoming rodeo-star, proved that he has what it takes to hang with the big dogs.

"He worked great and winning another Champions Challenge, aboard a new horse and one that is new to the rodeo atmosphere, was definitely something special," Schuster explained. Schuster explains that when rodeoing as hard as she is, a strong mental game is key.

"I try to tear myself down to build myself back up. In that sense, I hope to stay grounded and humble."

While Schuster tried to rodeo a little last year, this is the first year that she has set out with a plan. From day one of the 2017 rodeo season, Schuster has had her eye on the prize, knowing that a long road was ahead of her but if she stayed focused, a trip to Vegas could be in her future.

"We started out last year thinking that we were going to end up in Vegas, however one thing after another found us back home and

Hadley Barrett: Sept. 18 1929 - March 2, 2017

The Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association lost a legend March 2.

Announcer Hadley Barrett, who was inducted into the ProRodeo Hall of Fame in 1999, passed away in the early morning hours of March 2 due to heart failure while at University Hospital in Denver, Colo. He was 87.

"I'm having a hard time dealing with this because he was not only my dad, but my best friend," said Trent Barrett, Hadley's son. The last rodeo Barrett announced was the San Antonio (Texas) Stock Show & Rodeo, and his final day of announcing was Feb. 25. A memorial service was held for Barrett Monday at the Budweiser Events Center, in Loveland, Colo.

Veteran announcer Wayne Brooks, who has worked with Barrett for years, was trying to come to grips with his passing.

"I've talked to everybody in the last two or three hours (on March 2), and the consensus is that he was supposed to be bulletproof," Brooks said. "Because that's not only the way everybody depicted him, but that's the way he came across. Regardless of age, the numbers don't count, he was just an ironman. We all know (passing away) is going to happen to us someday, but it doesn't seem possible that's happening now with him. It's unreal for sure." Brooks worked with Barrett some, most recently at San Antonio, and was scheduled to work with him at Rodeo Austin (Texas) March 11-25.

"The level with which everybody around him held him was unbelievable, even to this day, whether it's fans, committees, cowboys, stock contractors, the list goes on and on," Brooks said.

"Not just because of his tenure, but because of the kind of man he was. To not have that piece of the puzzle in these locations is going to be very odd, very strange, very different. The thing that created his longevity in our game is after a rodeo performance when you went and listened to him, you felt like he was your friend." Barrett was born Sept. 18, 1929, in North Platte, Neb. The ranch-raised Nebraskan started his career as a contestant and formed his own dance band, but found his place in rodeo history behind the microphone.

A PRCA member since 1965, Barrett has announced all the big rodeos, and a great number of the smaller, ones across the country. He has been the voice of the Sidney (Iowa) Championship Rodeo since 1983; worked the Buffalo Bill Rodeo (North Platte, Neb.) for more than 30 years; the Greeley (Colo.) Stampede for more than 20 years; and worked for more than a decade at Cheyenne (Wyo.)

making a plan for this year. We came home to prepare and last year ended up getting me set up to get into everything this year." Being the planner she is, Schuster plans to keep going and see where it all leads when the curtain drops on this year.

"Our plans are to keep going. I have learned no matter how great things are, it can all change in a blink of an eye. You go when you can and you work the hardest when able. I don't want to make any solid plans because no one knows what tomorrow holds but I am going to keep going and see how far we can get," concluded Schuster.

Schuster sits at the top of the WPRA World Standings with $72,627. Amberleigh Moore is in second with $58,705 and Kathy Grimes from Medicine Lake, Washington finishes up the top 3 with $52,038.

James Barnes Nabs First Futurity Championship at Lucky Dog Texarkana with Wheres My Soxx

By Tanya Randall

A spectacular second run propelled James Barnes and Wheres My Soxx ("Cartier") to the futurity championship at the Lucky Dog Productions, held March 3-5 in the Four States Fairgrounds at Texarkana, Ark.

It was the first futurity championship for the Hamburg, Ark., trainer.

"It couldn't have been at any better place than Lucky Dog," said Barnes, who started training and campaigning futurity horses in 2010. "I live in Arkansas and they're from Arkansas. This futurity is pretty special for me."

After a "forgettable" first run, Barnes made some adjustments with the 4-year-old sorrel mare that he co-owns with Ashley Rice of Decatur, Texas. Two weeks prior at the LG Pro Classic in Kinder, La., the mare didn't clock, so Barnes changed up Cartier's exercise program to build up her lung capacity.

"She ran extremely hard," he said of his first run of 15.458, which was nearly a second off the pace. "That told me that I had my run back, but I had lost my turn. She ran to the wall at the first barrel, she ran past the second barrel and swung her butt and ran past the third barrel. She was just running. I was tugging and pulling and saying whoa and she was just running through it."

For the second run, he took Cartier's tiedown off and replaced the KB Ring Bit with a ported chain Petska, the bit he uses for tuning.

"It would give me a little more control if I needed it, but I had confidence that I could leave her alone if I needed to," he explained. "She warmed up really nice. I always re-enforce whoa. I down and said whoa the next time, she planted it. I thought 'OK, you're ready.'"

They blistered the pattern with a second-round winning 14.652, an 8/10ths improvement.

"She was really relaxed and focused," Barnes said. "The alleyway at Texarkana is really long and it's a long way to the timer and the first barrel, so I made her wait on me. She's the type of horse, the further down she runs, the faster she gets. My game plan for the second go was to hold her and keep her under control until I get to the mouth of the alley.

"When I dropped my hand at the first barrel I felt her leaning in and I knew she was fixing to hook it. I thought, 'She's found it, she's rating it, and she's going to hook it.' She turned it a little flatter and stiffer, but it was still really quick. After that I just focused on running her in straight lines.

"If I let her get too far out on her second barrel, she'll swing her butt out a little bit so I try to take her in closer to the second and third to keep her locking in that inside pivot foot. Her second barrel was pretty good. I think she could have snapped it a little harder. I had to grab her a little at the third because it's sitting out there in the middle of the pen. She smoked the third.

"She ran really hard for me the whole run and that's something that I didn't have two weeks before in Kinder. She was dialed in with the bit change. That was the horse that I had trained all summer. I was sure pleased with her performance."

The victory was worth $4,030.

Cartier is by leading sire BHR Frenchies Socks out of Amanda Kay's Dash Ta Fame mare Picabo Gold. Barnes bought the mare as a yearling.

"She was always a little quirky, maybe a little spooky on the ground," he said. "I sent her to Craig Stodart for two months to break her for me. Before the two months was up, he called me and said, 'James, I just don't know about this mare. She's very fractious.' About a week later, he called and said, 'We're going up over the mountain now. Come get her and turn her out and give her some time off.'"

Barnes picked the mare up and took her to Outlaw Equine in Decatur, Texas, where she spent a month in the conditioning program.

"I knew she was fractious and a little 'watchy' on the ground," he explained. "I figured taking her to OE to let them swim her, the leg spa and water walker would help desensitize her and help her relax on the ground."

Cartier returned to Stodart for two more weeks before going home with Barnes for barrel training.

"Even when I started her on the barrels, she'd slow down, turn the barrel and then gas up," he recalled. "I got her going pretty. I thought, 'I'm either going to blow her up or cripple her. She's going way too good.' So, I sent her back to Outlaw Equine."

Lucky Dog Futurity Continued From Page 21

Cartier spent the next four months enjoying the conditioning amenities under the care of her co-owner Rice. Barnes got the mare back in August and was putting the finishing touches on her training before the BFA Juvenile Futurity when she got sick and went back to Outlaw Equine for a few weeks. When Cartier placed in the BFA Super Stakes, it was just her eighth trip—including exhibitions—down the alleyway for a run.

"This weekend was probably her 20th time to go down the alley," noted Barnes. "It's pretty crazy. As of now, I would say she's the best horse I've ever trained. She's all business, but by far, the most different style horse that I've ever trained."

The biggest challenge to her training has been the mare does not like slow work at all. Her schooling and tuning is done at a lope because walking and trotting the pattern makes her angry.

"She's just so unorthodox (walking & trotting) that I have to ask myself, 'Am I doing this horse any favors, or am I making her worse?' Her heads everywhere, her legs are everywhere. All she wants to do is run the barrels."

Not surprisingly, Cartier has had the least amount of barrel work—and competition runs at this point—of any horse that Barnes has trained.

"She was a natural from the very beginning," he said. "Once she got to the point that you could lope the barrels, that's all she wanted to do—lope them or run them. That's difficult for me because I like to walk and trot the barrels with my futurity colts when I'm at home. Even when I exhibition, I just want to trot them through and let them relax and see the pen, not doing any training or anything to stress them out. I've had to learn to really trust my training with this mare."

Barnes has even had to change his warmup routine to suit the mare.

"She doesn't like to lope big circles," he said. "If you do, she just gets faster and faster. She prefers small circles. It's best to find a small corner and lope her in her little circles until her feet slow down and she relaxes. She just really different."

Barnes wanted to thank Rice and the Outlaw Equine crew as well as his sponsors. He added the partnership with Rice has worked out well for both parties.

"I knew she needed to be hauled and campaigned much more than I could financially stand," he explained. "It's worked out to be a pretty good partnership for us. We'll eventually sell her—she could be bought today—but I'd rather keep her in training until December. I'm not a millionaire; this is what I do for a living, so it's something that I have to do even if I don't like to."

Marvelous Marne—Loosenort Earns High Money Buckle at Lucky Dog Texarkana

By Tanya Randall

Veteran futurity trainer and multiple Great Lakes Circuit Finals qualifier Marne Loosenort picked up a nice chunk of change at the Lucky Dog Productions race in Texarkana, Ark., March 3-5. Her $5,856 won in the open, sidepots and average earned her the high-money buckle. She also picked up $4,322 in the BFA-approved Futurity and Derby.

"I love the Lucky Dog Races," said Loosenort. "The No. 1 thing is they're very nice to you. They've got the Futurity and the Open so that's the best of both worlds for people like us. We can take our colts and a couple of open horses too."

Loosenort had seven horses entered in the $10,000-added BFA Futurity and five horses entered in the open, two of which were futurity-aged horses that were too green to enter in the $10,000-added.

"You've got to get up early," she laughed the Hazel, Ky., trainer. "We got up at 4:30 to get horses fed and saddled. We had to warmup early before the futurity even started. That's the hardest thing with colts, you don't want to go in there on them fresh. We take a lot of horses to the local barrel races so we're used to it, but it's a rat race for sure."

In the Futurity, Loosenort placed fifth in the average on Hungry Indy Eyes for $1091. Bred and owned by Todd and Ericka Bekins of Sand Lake, Mich., the mare is by Indy Charger out of One Hungry Honey, by Lucks Jazzmatazz. The mare also placed in the Open for total earnings $1,301.

Tracy Wren's Waitin On Fame placed eighth with Loosenort for $1,273. Bred by Wren, Hemlock, Mich., Waitin On Fame is by leading sire Dash Ta Fame out of the Invisible Injun mare Invisibella.

Loosenort also picked up a futurity check on Danny Kingins' PT Barefoot N Famous, a daughter of BHR Frenchies Socks out of the Dash Ta Fame mare Rickashay Ta Fame, the former aged event star ridden by Loosenort for Kingins.

Kingins also owns her two big money earners on the weekend—the derby horses VF Famous Duck (“Betty”) and Lovin Fame.

Betty earned $3,435 for placing in the BFA Derby, taking second in the 1D on Saturday and fifth in the 1D average. The 5-year-old daughter of Eddie Stinson is out of Victory Farm’s Duck Dance mare Elmers Duck.

Lovin was right behind Betty, earning $3,340. She, too, placed in the Derby and 1D Average, but was 2nd in the 1D on Sunday. Bred by Gordon and Claudia Case of Lindon, Utah, Lovin is by Dash Ta Fame out of Moon Special Leader, by Special Leader.

Loosenort also picked up open checks on PT Chasin A Rickasha, Marry Me Fame and Pick Pocket Annie. PT Chasin A Rickasha is a 4-year-old futurity colt by the late Chasin Firewater and out of Rickashay Ta Fame and is owned and bred by Kingins.

Marry Me Fame is a 4-year-old daughter of BHR Frenchies Socks out of Crystal Shumate’s Dash Ta Fame mare Fame Aint Free. She is owned by Joyce Hanes of Lancaster, Ohio.

Pick Pocket Annie, a 5-year-old futurity colt, wasn’t eligible to run the BFA-approved Futurity, but placed in the futurity sidepots on Friday and Saturday, earning $174. Owned and bred by Scott and Amanda Brooks of Advance, Mo., the mare is by Lions Share Of Fame out of the Casady Casanova mare Casette Casanova.

“We have a lot of futurity colts this year, more so than normal. I really like them all. I don’t have one that I think I need to send home, so I just have to buck up,” noted Loosenort, who is sponsored by Twister Trailer, Equinety, K&N Equine Solutions, Equi-Sure and Triple Crown Feeds.

Loosenort wanted to thank her husband Bob, a talented farrier, horseman and multiple event Great Lake Circuit Finals qualifier.

“I’m blessed with a good husband who helps me,” she said. “He’s always there with me and does all the grunt work. I have to perform in the arena, but I couldn’t do it without him going with me and helping me out. That means a lot. We work well together and that helps out a lot when you’re running a lot of horses.”

She also praised her owners.

“I’ve got a great group of owners,” she said. “They’re always willing to enter and go. I’ve rode for Danny Kingins since 1998. We’ve been pretty good partners for a long time. He’s a just a great guy. He’s one-in-a-million. There aren’t many like him.”

Pay It Forward with Jill Moody

By Jill Moody

The theme among my Facebook friends as of late is to nominate or challenge someone to post their favorite rodeo picture. The majority of the photos I have seen catch that moment in time of the flawless turn, the perfect loop, the best dismount, or the textbook bronc ride. Most of the posts include a salute to an equine partner and the mention of a win, or at least a fond trip down memory lane.

There have also been numerous posts of photos that are not so glamorous. Many of those posts aren't shared by someone who has been challenged or nominated, but by those choosing to criticize at someone else's expense.

With all of the photos and videos shared online these days, everyone sees everything and it becomes a free for all of opinions. Share a nice picture accompanied by a nice accomplishment and you will most likely get a lot of positive comments. Post a less than stellar picture and the onslaught of criticism begins.

Barrel racing is a competitive sport and it is not above the jealousy and scorn that we see in all other walks of life. Competitive people who strive to win cannot be everyone's best friend and often struggle to be supportive of even friends and family who play in their sandbox. A lot of it stems from jealousy and a good way to cover up jealousy is to criticize. The click of a camera at the right (or in this case the wrong) time is the perfect fuel for the fire.

Beyond being critical of our peers barrel racers can also be their own worst enemy. Their biggest nightmare is to fail epically and have someone catch it on film. In today's world there is no way to hide from it short of curling up in a hole and dying. But oh no, you get to watch it over and over and over and live the failure over and over and over.

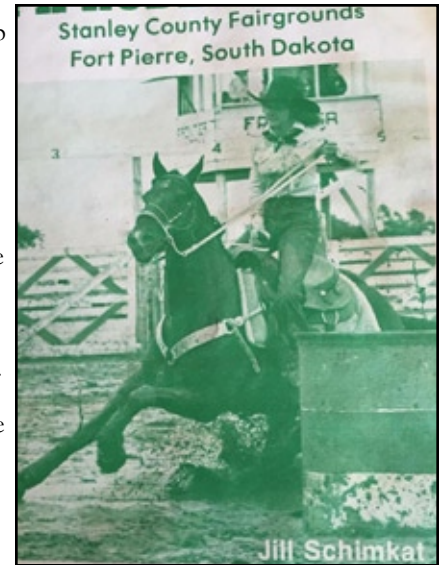

The day you learn to laugh at yourself and keep reaching for your goals is the day your failures become your successes; but you can't really laugh at yourself until you see yourself. So bring on the pictures and videos. Let the critics criticize and the scorners scorn but the joke's on them in the end because you'll get the last laugh laughing at yourself.

I am extending a challenge to everyone to share their most embarrassing rodeo pictures and I will go first. (I am a barrel racer and very competitive so of course I will be first!) The top photo was on the cover, not buried in the middle of the program mind you, but on the cover of our SD State 4-H rodeo finals when I was a senior in high school. I about died of embarrassment and threw away every copy of that program I could get my hands on. The bottom photo was taken at the 2007 NFR and once again I was utterly dismayed and I hid the disc with that photo on it at the bottom of the pile in an inconspicuous case.

After seeing so much negativity aimed at people who fell off, missed a perfect shot, were drug, or found themselves bucked off, I felt obligated to share my NFR picture. Joke's on the folks on the sofa end of that ride. That run was a second place NFR go round finish worth $13,000 plus.

A couple of years later the 4-H photo somehow resurfaced and I absolutely had to laugh because I had tried so hard to erase that image from planet Earth. What choice did I have but to share it along side of the NFR photo? Maybe I wasn't a 4-H or high school barrel racing champion "back in the day" and maybe I darn near fell off on national television but I learned to laugh at myself through the tears. I threw my sucker in the dirt more than once when the criticism got the better of me. But because I love my horses, my sport, and my lifestyle I picked my sucker up and rinsed it off. I learned to appreciate and accept the compliments and take the rest in stride. Maybe it's called "growing up".

Here's to hoping that the golden moments that we share along with our accolades are stored forever in cyberspace along with the flub ups. Just remember that a picture is worth a thousand words but it will never be able to encompass the whole story. Laugh at and criticize yourself but when it comes to judging others choose your words carefully or it may not be you who has the last laugh.

FIRST DOWN FRENCH BREEDING FOR SALE. This is a return season rebreed. I decided not to breed my mare back after she did not produce a live foal last year so this is a breeding with no guarantees. $1000 or best offer. His regular fee is $1750 (530) 893-8586, Sandra Bignault

Frontier Days.

Barrett was named PRCA Announcer of the Year in 1983, 1985, 1989 and 2002. He worked five National Finals Rodeos (1968, 1976, 1979, 1983 and 2008) and the 1967 National Finals Steer Roping, as well as called the action at the Canadian Finals Rodeo seven times. He has worked as an NFR television announcer since 1980. He was among the first to announce while on horseback, and had always been credited with an honest approach to arena accidents and mishaps.

Barrett's legacy is his willingness to share his talent and experience with others. He is known for taking rookie announcers under his wing and sharing hard-earned information.

"He had that capacity just to get up and love every day he was in touch with the rodeo business," Brooks said. "It's that passion that kept him going. He loved the game as much as he loved his family. He was an amazing man."

The Robin Glenn Pedigrees database adds AQHA points to online reports

The American Quarter Horse Association and Robin Glenn Pedigrees are excited to announce that the RGP Online Database reports now include money earned, money-class placings and AQHA points and awards. For the first time ever, owners can request a record that gives the whole picture.

Continually updated, the RGP database contains more than 317,000 money-earners and a billion dollars in horse earnings. The database offers results from more than 300 halter and performance organizations dating back to 1946 for some disciplines, and covers every type of performance event attended by American Quarter Horses.

Robin Glenn Pedigrees offers a useful selection of reports to help with breeding decisions, marketing strategies and buying and selling horses. Examples of each report are available and all RGP users, existing and new, receive a free $10 credit when signing on-torobinglennpedigrees.com.

CPRA Welcomes New President

Terry Cooke was named as the new president of the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association Feb. 28, and takes on the role immediately. Cooke was elected to the position by acclamation, according to the CPRA.

A long time CPRA rodeo official, committee member and CPRA Board member with a strong business background, Cooke brings a wealth of expertise to the position.

From his late teens, Cooke enjoyed involvement in the sport of rodeo.

"I rode bareback horses and bulls initially, but I wasn't that good," he said.

Cooke turned his attention to other areas of the industry. He worked for amateur stock contractors (Rudy Ostrem among them) and from the mid-1980s on, he judged rodeos and volunteered with the Dawson Creek (British Columbia) Stampede as a committee member.

In 1994, Cooke was invited (by then CPRA Rodeo Administrator Keith Hyland) to attend a professional rodeo judging clinic. The British Columbia native hasn't looked back. For much of the year, he travels across Western Canada and into the U.S. officiating at professional rodeos.

As far as his involvement with the CPRA, Cooke is excited about the new position.

"I want to make this organization one that people are proud to be a part of ... where contestants want to be members," Cooke said. Cooke went on to say that helping the Association become more stable financially is another goal, as is greater transparency within the organization. He's excited to be part of the board structure once again, and noted that current board members have been welcoming.

Saddle up for the Canadian Finals Rodeo in November 2017

Northlands, in partnership with the Canadian Professional Rodeo Association (CPRA), is proud to announce that the 44th Annual Canadian Finals Rodeo (CFR) will kick up the dust in the Northlands Coliseum November 8 – 12, 2017.

"For the past 43 years, Northlands has been home to the CFR," said Tim Reid, President and CEO for Northlands. "The CFR provides the Capital Regional with a strong economic boost. Our research dating back to 2011 continues to be validated as we have worked with Edmonton Tourism on an economic impact study in 2016. The results will show that the CFR is the single largest annual event in Edmonton."

"Northlands has been our partner in the CFR for more than 40 years and we are proud to continue the tradition," said Kyle Rock, Operations Manager with the Canadian Pro Rodeo Association. "We look forward to two more years at Northlands Coliseum as well as seeing the launch of a summer rodeo in Edmonton. This is a testament to Northlands commitment to their roots and the rodeo community."

Tickets for the CFR will go on sale May 1, 2017 and can be purchased at ticketmaster.ca. In addition to CFR, advanced reserved seats to the inaugural K-Days Rodeo (July 21 – 23, 2017) and the Heritage Ranch Rodeo (during Farmfair International) will be available at that time.

2017 Horse Industry Directory Now Available

The American Horse Council's (AHC) 2017 Horse Industry Directory is available for purchase. NEW for 2017, the Directory can be purchased in two formats—traditional print (subject to availability) and a digital, interactive flipbook.

The AHC's Horse Industry Directory has thousands of equine listings and resources that will help any user find important information relating to the horse industry including breed registries; racing, rodeo, show, sport, and trails organizations; equine health and welfare organizations; interstate health requirements; statistical information on the horse industry; and an index of all the listings and telephone numbers are provided for easy access. The Directory reaches over 2,000 equine individual and member organizations, and horse enthusiasts across the country.

"This is an incredibly useful resource for any person who is associated with the horse industry. No other publication provides the depth of national horse industry resources found in the Horse Industry Directory," said Ashley Furst, AHC's Director of Communications.

To purchase a copy of the 2017 Directory, please visit the AHC website here. The 2017 Horse Industry Directory is also delivered as an AHC member benefit to Legislative level members and above—join today and receive your new copy today! If you have any questions, or problems purchasing the Directory, please contact the AHC at info@horsecouncil.org or 202-296-4031.

On the right, bold text reads '60 Million Hits Per Month' and '50,000 Visits Every Day'. Below this, it says 'The Largest Source for Barrel Events on the Internet!'. At the bottom right are social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube, along with a 'Search our App' button and the text 'Connect With Us!'. The acronym 'BHWN' is also visible.

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Has anyone ever used the phrase, “you reap what you sow”? That is a scripture in the Bible, Galatians 6:7, and it’s a good one! So often, though, it is used in a negative way. If you see someone doing something bad, or cheating, or just plain mean, we get perverse delight in thinking that they are ‘going to pay’! And we are happy that they are going to get what they deserve...

Um. But is that what we want for ourselves? To get what WE deserve? Or do we want mercy??? I want mercy. Mercy in the morning, mercy at noon and mercy at night! I want forgiveness for all the crap I’ve done in my life! I don’t want justice. But if you think that when someone hurts me, that I’m not thinking justice, then you’re wrong. I THINK justice. But I’ve learned to PRAY for mercy. If God forgave me, then I can forgive them! Matthew 6:12.

And don’t forget that sowing and reaping can be a most beautiful thing! If you’ve been sowing friendship, loyalty, money, forgiveness, or anything else good, then get ready to receive those things back! I don’t know about you, but when I get up in the morning, I want to look forward to RECEIVING back any good I’ve sown! Makes the day ahead look inviting!
