Miller has Weekend to Remember at Barrel Daze

By Tanya Randall

Kelsie Miller, Riley, Ore., hauled nearly $15,000 away from the 35th Annual Valley Girls Barrel Racing Association's Barrel Daze, held April 12-14 in Walla Walla, Wash.

Aboard the 5-year-old mare, AMR Jumpin Dry Fire ("Jumper"), Miller won the Open and Breeder's Futurity to the tune of $13,218. With her former Barrel Daze Futurity Champion, Bridle Bit Riley ("Sparky"), Miller set an arena record with a 13.648 on Sunday. As an added bonus, her 9-year-old daughter Skye also swept the Pee Wee class.

"It's been unbelievable," said Miller, who had a successful weekend at the Sand Cup the prior weekend. "We came into Walla Walla, and I was thinking, you can't have two good weekends in a row. I've never had two good weekends in a row. I'm not the luckiest person in the world. I don't know what to do with myself?"

Futurity

Miller described her first-go winning run on Jumper as "pretty good."

"You don't run her from the back 40," she explained. "You walk her up there and back her off the bridle a little bit and make her take a couple of slow steps before you let her go. The key to her is rating. You're going to rate her like a big horse. My thought was 'check her early. You'll be fine if you check her early.' She nailed her first barrel; she smoked it. Had a beautiful second barrel, and then I got a little excited and forgot the drill on the third. I kind of threw the whole checking thing out the window, so she didn't have the third barrel that I wanted. She just never slowed down."

Having won the 2010 Valley Girls Barrel Daze Futurity with Sparky, Miller had some experience with leading the futurity into the second round.

"I had like a 4/10ths lead with him, and all I needed to do was leave them standing," she recalled. "With her, I had to show up a little bit and make a better run. There were a lot of tough runs that first day. And, I didn't do it. I kind of choked a little bit. I didn't ride her as good as I should have. I checked her at the first barrel just like the day before but I got a little behind her and she bowed off, leaving the first barrel. It's really short over to that second barrel in that arena and I didn't know if we're going to make it over in time. It messed up the third barrel because I got into the second too tight and left it wide. I lucked out because I didn't have a very good run on Sunday. Past the first barrel I didn't do anything that I wanted to get done. Thank God she saved me, because I wasn't doing anything to help her."

Miller happened on to the daughter of PG Dry Fire out of Ms Jumpin Jack Sprat, by Doc's Jack Sprat, while searching for a stallion for her Dash Ta Fame daughter. She knew she wanted to breed the Fame mare to a cow horse stallion, and reined cow horse trainer Jake Telford, who had shown PG Dry Fire, recommended the son of Playgun out a Dry Doc mare.

"He's been very successful in the bridle horse classes," she said of PG Dry Fire. "He's phenomenal down the fence, and if you watch him run down the middle of pen in the dry work and come to a stop, you can see what you want in a barrel horse. He can reach and drop his hindquarters. He's more old school cow horse."

Since she had to wait until spring to breed the mare, Miller thought she'd like to ride a PG Dry Fire first before "sinking the money in the stud fee." She ended up with 3-year-old out of Miss N Cash mare.

"We got her home and loved her," she said. "She's a neat mare. She's a futurity horse for next year."

After riding the 3-year-old, Miller inquired about a 2-year-old she had her eye on. The trainer at Aspen Meadows Ranch, Zeph Schultz discourage the purchase of the 2-year-old that he described as "hotter than a jalapeno" and "not very big" and recommended a 4-year-old—Jumper.

"He said, 'she can mortally fly,'" noted Miller, who said most people assume the mare is a Judge Cash because she's gray and can run. "Those were the first words out of his mouth. He got her broke for the reined cow horse but she was a little slow to mature. We went ahead and picked her up the end of June, first of July."

Jumper wasn't without her challenges—even for her cow horse blood and training she still has to be convinced to slow down for a turn—and Miller was appreciative of Schultz's honesty about the mare.

"When you call to ask about a horse there is no horse trader crap," she said. "He's brutally honest. It's nice and refreshing to have someone that you can trust and a place you can get colts where they don't blow any smoke. He said, here's her faults and here's what I think she'll do. He told me that he thought she'd make me what I wanted."

"It's been a really neat journey to find Zeph and Aspen Meadows Ranch. It's hard to find someone that's honest. I just don't think there's as much honesty out there anymore when it comes to horses. I'm eight hours from Aspen Meadows in Utah, so you have to be able to take someone's word."

After getting Jumper home, it took the mare a while to settle. "She's a little neurotic," said Miller. "Once she bonded with me about October-November, it was like I was her person. I've never had a horse do that. She was like, 'Oh, I get it. You're my person, and let's do this.' The light bulb came on. She was going to quit hurrying and listen to me."

Jumper didn't have but 10 competitive runs under her belt before the Sand Cup Futurity. Miller thought as tightly wound as the mare was it wouldn't be a good idea to pressure her by hauling her to Arizona or making the SWWA Futurity before the Sand Cup.

"You can burn them out, especially the cow horses," she said. "They get bored really quick. Actually going into these two futurities, we did a lot of cow work. We worked pairs one day, moved cows both days before we left for the barrel races. It was good for her to get out and be outside. She's really cowy and a lot of fun to do that with."

Open

After disappointing herself with her riding in the second go of the futurity, Miller more than made up for it in the Open with an arena record aboard Sparky.

"He's been on fire," she said of the 8-year-old gelding. "We went to quite a few rodeos last summer. It was his first year to rodeo. We gave him most of the fall off. He's just come back super confident. When I got on him in December he was a completely different horse when you rode through the gate. He just really matured." Miller had caught the second barrel leaving it to win the Sweepstakes, so her first run in the open on Saturday she rode cautiously.

"I thought on Saturday I would just try to make a clean run and keep his hip out of the way. It got wicked tough and my .0 was way down in placing in the 1D. I made the comment to my friend on Sunday as tough as it was I was just going to have to go for it."

"I think I might have kicked him to the first barrel for the first time in a long time and he about dash-boarded me at the barrel. He just didn't waste a step. He took one less step around second and I rocked it hard just like I did the Sweepstakes night, but it stayed up. Someone was looking out for me. He ran hard to the third. It was just one of those run were there wasn't one misstep. He was on fire.”

Miller said perfect ground was a large part of the successful run. “It was phenomenal what people were able to do up there,” she said. “I have to give a huge credit to the ground crew. That ground was unbelievable. When you give a horse ground that they can be confident on—you set arena records on ground like that.”

Bred by Tanya Jones, one his biggest supporters, Sparky is by Miss N Cash out of Freckles Miss Cindy, by Freckles Cal Bar. Freckles Miss Cindy was a top heading horse in her day and has produced more than one barrel futurity money earner.

Sparky actually belongs to the family ranch, since they traded a partial load of alfalfa hay for the gelding.

“I got an email from Tanya Jones,” Miller explained. “She needed hay and wanted to know if we’d be interested in trading for one of these three colts. We went over and looked at him. He wasn’t broke. We watched him trot around the roundpen for about 45 minutes. We took a chance, but when you’re trading hay, you’re not out a lot.”

Miller was pregnant at the time, and Sparky was sent to her late uncle Ron Wiemers, a reined cow horse trainer in California, to start.

“He was awful,” she chuckled. “Ron was not impressed. When we picked him up, he said, ‘here’s the deal with this horse. Don’t take him to the arena. Take him to the rock and pound him. Move cows, brand calves. Be hard on him because that’s the only way he’s going to make it.’ My brother-in-law took him because he had a lot of outside riding to do. My mom was a little stressed because he looked awful, like he’d been rode hard.”

Compared to the life of a using horse, barrel work was a piece of cake for Sparky—but he did still have his quirks.

“He bucked me off three times before the first futurity,” she laughed. “My mom was worried that I would get hurt and she asked if I was sure I didn’t want to sell him. I told her this horse was special. Every time I took him to the arena he was spot on in his barrel work. He does have his quirks. He has to have a fleece girth and fleece-lined pad. Even his back cinch is lined with fleece. Once we figured some that out, he was fine.”

Meet Kelsie Miller

Miller and her husband Mick ranch with her parents Wayne and Susan Evan in the high desert of southeast Oregon.

“I live in the middle of nowhere,” laughed Miller, who’s two children—Skye and Colton, 5, attend classes in local two-room schoolhouse. “We’re about 100 miles east of Bend and 35 miles west of Burns, Ore. It’s big, high desert ranch country, so it’s mostly big cattle ranches. It’s not heavily populated. I think it’s the biggest county in the state with the smallest population. There’s not a lot of people here!”

Miller grew up showing horses, particularly reined cow horses because of her uncle. She switched to barrel racing due to the costs and politics of the show world.

“I got tired of going to the Snaffle Bit Futurity and watching the judges decide if you got to win,” she said. “There’s so much politics and it’s one man’s opinion in the horse show world. When you go run barrels, it’s generally your own fault if you don’t get to win.” Miller turned her reined cow horse into a barrel horse.

“I was lucky enough to have a cow horse that was the perfect barrel horse,” she said. “I was kid and didn’t do a lot of things right. I wish I had her back now because she was phenomenal. I’m sure I spent many a day screwing her up!”

Noting that her mare had to make perfect patterns to make up for her lack of speed, she decided to try race-bred prospects.

“I was tired of getting out run by horses that ran all over the pen,” she said. “I went with racehorses for a few years and I will never go back. Everyone has their own style and cow horses fit me more. You’ve got to stick with what fits you.”

Pay It Forward with Jill Moody

A new car comes with an owner's manual; a new horse comes with a cheap and/or extremely used halter. A car has an acceleration pedal, a brake pedal, and a steering wheel. A few buttons to push, a handful of road rules to learn, a couple of gallons of gas, a diagram of the fuse box in the operator's manual and off you go for a drive into the sunset. Kick the horse to go, pull on both reins to stop, and pull on either rein to turn. A few pieces of leather to manipulate, a handful of horsey commands to learn, a couple gallons of grain and off you go for a ride into the sunset.

But, what do you do if your horse blows a fuse? The halter that came with the horse doesn't have a brain diagram imbedded anywhere. Hours of blood, sweat, and tears lead you to the realization that you may never figure it out.

What is "it"?

"It" is anything and everything that you thought you ever knew about a horse. Every horseman from a beginning rider to an Olympic medalist struggles with horse issues.

"I think I got it figured out" becomes a boldly announced phrase or a mutter when dealing with those issues. Unfortunately, horses don't come with a chart, numbers, or a tool box to help us dummies put all of the pieces together. Books and videos on horse ownership and training can be helpful but they sometimes read like the owner's manual of a Japanese car, written in Japanese.

Figuring out a horse takes patience, imagination, trial and error, and modification of your own behaviors. How do you know when you finally "get it figured out"? You will succeed in reaching the goal you have set for yourself and your horse. That goal might be as simple as your horse standing patiently while you halter him or as outstanding as winning a go-round at the NFR.

Just as a mechanic tinkers with a car, we fiddle around with our horses trying to improve on our communication and reach our set goals. More often than not the bigger bit and sharper spur doesn't work and we wind up with a tack room full of useless tools. But for a barrel racer bit shopping is a prerequisite to our famous last words, "I think I got it figured out!"

So, shop away because as soon as we "get it figured out" something else will fall apart and it's back to the owner's manual. Maybe we should just hire a mechanic/horse trainer.

Jill Moody is a 2-time Reserve World Champion, & a 2-time NFR Avarage Champion. She and her great mare Dolly are the average Record Holders for 10 rounds at the NFR. Moody made 10 runs in 138.26 earning over $133,000.

Jill is a multiple futurity champion, Badlands Circuit Champion and owns multiple amateur association finals championships in the Dakotas. Jill is also a 2-time Female Athlete of the Year by the South Dakota Sports Writers Association. She is sponsored by Equimedica, Dakota 2000, Thomas Ranch & the Barrel Racing Report.

Bauman, Poppino take $6K, $7K out of Lincoln

By Julie Mankin

The Barrel Bash & Bonus Race Finals was literally a cash cow last weekend in Lincoln, Neb., for Open champion Tana Poppino and Cactus Bonus Race champion Jessica Bauman.

Bauman, a pediatric dental assistant in Lincoln, entered both races and pulled checks every time she ran her mare, Sass And Dash. Her great run of 15.823 in the Cactus Bonus Race barely edged Hayden Segelke on her NFR horse, Rascal, to give Bauman the whopping first-place check of $4,486. On top of that, Bauman placed in the 1D and 2D of the Open with her other two runs to earn another $2,000.

Bauman and the other contestants in the Cactus Bonus Race had to qualify throughout the season at Bonus Race qualifying events. It's the second year the Bonus has been instituted, while the Open was open to all. Plus, top finishers from each day were given a bye into the Bonus Race, too.

The Open also allowed the same horse to enter twice, which suited Tana Poppino just fine. On her gray gelding, Doc's Hickory Cross ("Goose"), Poppino clocked two runs of 13.614 and 13.670 to place first and second in the 1D by more than a tenth of a second for a cool $5,207. At the same time, since she'd qualified for the Cactus Bonus on Amigo (Perryman Star), she ran him in that race.

The 18-year-old, cutting-bred former NFR horse smoked a run less than two-tenths off Bauman's time to earn a sixth-place check worth $2,083, giving Poppino a lucrative take of $7,290 on the weekend.

As for Bauman, she made her windfall on just one mare. Sass And Dash ("Stella") is a double-bred Rocket Wrangler 6-year-old by Convincing Prince – a great-grandson of Rocket Wrangler who also goes back to Bold Ruler on top via her thoroughbred lineage. And she's out of the Rocket Wrangler great-granddaughter Little Dasher Bug, whose maternal grand-dam is Shawne Bug.

"I bought her as a weanling from a lady here in the Lincoln area," said Bauman, 27. "I was deciding between her and a little palomino. I'd always wanted a palomino, but something just led me to the sorrel."

Bauman later sent the filly to the man who taught her to ride, Chuck Newman, to break.

"He does a wonderful job," said Bauman. "And since he taught me to ride, when I get horses back from him, it's a perfect fit. I know exactly how to ride them."

Bauman trained Stella on the barrels and said she took to it naturally.

"She runs real low to the ground and is so smooth when we run," said Bauman. "Half the time when I watch videos it doesn't look like she's running, but then I remember her running so hard it just blows my mind."

Bauman never even entered the mare until last year as a 5-year-old, and did well at the WPRA World Finals futurity in Lincoln – plus placing in the slot race – and placed at the Hawki Futurity.

"So far I've just been running her at local jackpots," said Bauman, who is planning a June wedding to her fiancé, Nate Maahs. "I'll hit some derbies when the weather gets nicer."

Bauman, an Iowa native, came to Nebraska for college at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, and remained. She was just telling her mother on the way home from the Barrel Bash that she finally has a horse that can run with the big dogs.

"I'm in shock, really," she said.

As far as rodeos are concerned, she would like to fill the WPRA

Schuster Wins $6K at Logandale, Oakdale

By Julie Mankin

After shooting to stardom as a 4-year-old by winning such prestigious futurities as Fort Smith – and following that up as the year-end BFA Derby Champion – Hoosier Fame already had the “fame” part down. Now he’s set to gain rodeo superstar status at just 8 years old.

Owned by Mike and Jan Dahlen as a futurity campaigner, Hoosier was more recently sold by Felicia Taylor to Tiany Schuster in December. The gelding picked up a hoof abscess that interfered with running at most big building rodeos this winter. But then he healed up and Schuster stopped catching barrels on him, too.

Nobody was hotter as the spring California rodeo run started than this duo. Running second out at the Clark County Fair & Rodeo in Logandale, Nev., on Friday night, Schuster clocked a 17.31 to finish second to Brittany Pozzi and earn $3,654. The same weekend, her run of 17.80 in Oakdale, Calif., at the Saddle Club Rodeo gave her the win there for another $2,386.

Picking up $6,040 in just one weekend is a good way to zoom from 51st in the world standings straight into the top 25.

“I came out here thinking I’d get my butt handed to me and be going home very fast,” said Schuster. “Well, I just talked to Edwin and told him if I continue to do well the next couple of weeks, I’ll stay out here and go to a couple more. He was all for it. I just wasn’t expecting this.”

Schuster’s been dating barrel racer Edwin Cameron for about seven years. The two spend winters in Karnack, Texas, and summers in Nova Scotia, Canada. Cameron, incidentally, just returned there from a business trip to Germany (he’s the owner of a chain of exercise equipment superstores called Fitness Depot), so Schuster was making arrangements to send his horses home so “he can have fun, too.”

While she says Cameron is the reason she’s able to do this, Schuster is fairly capable herself, traveling solo with just her Munchkin cat and realizing her goals one by one.

“My first goal was just to make clean, respectable runs at some respectable pro rodeos,” she said. “When I did that, my next goal was to make it into the top 50. Everybody told me then I should aim to get into the top 15. But I told them, no, it’s one step at a time. I wanted to make the top 25. Well, I did that in two rodeos, so now my new goal is to make the top 10 – not the top 15. So many girls reach for the top 15 and fall short. I figure if I reach for the top 10, I have a chance of making the top 15.”

Still, Schuster knows this ball game’s still in the first quarter.

“It’s easy to do good one weekend, but you have to do it five weekends in a row,” she said, modestly adding, “It took me four years just to fill my permit and I had to do that at a barrel race – not even a rodeo! I couldn’t get a check at a rodeo to save my life. Then about two years ago, I did all right, and I did respectable last year.”

This year was bound to be different because of Hoosier, a horse that in his photos tends to really fold to the inside as he turns, then pull hard with his powerful front end. The resulting turn can be super hard to ride, and the horse over the years has handed plenty of daylight in the turn to the Crumrine, Kebo Almond and Taylor.

“I might be the only one that hasn’t almost fallen off him,” said Schuster. “I had a couple others over the years, like Red Headed Jonsey, that was the same deal. For some reason I can sit him. Maybe I’m just not smart enough to worry about it.”

Taylor knew that Schuster was one of the few people who tried the horse and actually thought she could ride him.

“I wanted him ever since she bought him, and I was always kind of asking if she was ready to sell,” said Schuster, who’s humble enough to describe her style on Hoosier as just trying to hang on. She also may have made him more comfortable by changing his shoeing (he wears plastic shoes on the front end).

“I just try to get him up in there and stay out of his way and not override him,” said Schuster. “When I get to overriding him, things go wrong. I’ve said this before, but Hoosier is the type of horse that will find a way to win if you let him; not a way to lose. He can make mistakes and place second. When he doesn’t, he wins first.”

While he’s by Dash Ta Fame, Hoosier’s much more a throwback to his maternal grandsire, Dash For Perks, according to Schuster.

“He’s built more like Dash For Perks and is never stupid or uncontrollable,” said Schuster. “He gets ready to go, but he’ll wait on you. However, you have to ask him and not tell him to do something or he’ll say no. I never try to tell him anything – I ask him to do everything.”

Schuster points out that Dash For Perks was statistically a better sire than Dash Ta Fame, based on the number of babies given the chance to run barrels.

“Every single Dash Ta Fame that hit the ground has been given the opportunity,” said Schuster, who also won a lot of money on her former stallion, Perks Master. “That wasn’t the case for Dash For Perks.”

Hoosier is out of Time To Perk, by Dash For Perks crossed on a daughter of Jet View (speed index 104). Incidentally, another phenomenal rodeo horse by Jet View was View This Jet, on whom SherryLynn Johnson set the rodeo world on fire in 2007.

Regardless of whether Schuster is able to do the same, and actually make the NFR, she’s realistic.

“I’m entering everything, but if I think he’s getting over-exploited or sore then I’ll stop,” she said. “I want him to last. And there are still so many variables that I’m not even getting my hopes up.”

Headin' For Home

by Mike Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Have you noticed that some horses have unreasonable fears they have trouble overcoming? A rancher I know had such a horse. This was a buckskin mare that was excellent in many ways but she couldn't get over her fear of the big silver-painted bulk gas tank that stood in the yard. Though she was obedient and did whatever was asked of her, the mare eyed the tank cautiously and would have liked to shy whenever she passed by. She plainly didn't trust it.

Many people are just like that ranch horse, too. They have fears they have to struggle with every day. These aren't necessarily life changing phobias, but they can make life harder and steal a person's joy.

When the devil puts thoughts of doubt or fear into our minds, they can be cast out with the Word of God. When the devil tempts you to fear, remember James 4:7 tells us to "submit to God. Resist the devil and he will flee from you." And, 2 Timothy 1:7 says, "God has not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

Our minds are not to be garbage containers full of ungodly thoughts. The devil might try to put an evil, unclean or negative thought into your mind, but you don't have to allow it to stay. Cast it out immediately before it takes root.

Read Philippians 4:8 which tells us not to harbor thoughts that aren't true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report. We are to "bring into captivity" every wild and unspiritual thought.

The human mind is an area of great spiritual conflict. But God will help you if you ask Him in the name of Jesus. Every day, it's good to pray the words of Psalm 51:10, "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." Thanks be to God! We win!
