Taycie Matthews & Fame Fire Rocks AT&T Stadium For Women's Rodeo World Championship

By Tanya Randall

Arlington, Texas, has been good to Taycie Matthews and her great mare Fame Fire Rocks ("Poppy"). In April, the duo from Wynne, Arkansas, took home a $31,000 reserve championship from The American, held at Globe Life Field. On May 17, they finished up a $70,000 Women's Rodeo World Championship (WRWC) in AT&T Stadium, during the Professional Bull Riders World Finals.

"It was a really cool event," said Matthews, a 2023 National Finals Rodeo qualifier and two-time collegiate barrel racing champion. "I'd never been to a PBR before and that was neat."

Matthews earned the right to compete at the WRWC through the nomination process. She got a jump start to her qualification by nominating the 2024 College National Finals Rodeo, which she won on Poppy too.

"Going into it, I really didn't know much about it," she said. "I kind of had to figure it out as I went."

Matthews's first experience with an event of this sort was with the World Champion Rodeo Alliance—originator of the WRWC—was back in 2019. After winning the International Finals Rodeo Barrel Racing Championship, she got an automatic invite to compete at the WCRA's Title Town Stampede in Green Bay, Wisconsin.

"That was a cool event," she said. "They've always been good rodeos to go to, and they pay really good, but I was focused on other things."

Kindyl Scruggs, last year's WRWC winner and a longtime friend of Matthews from her IPRA days, told her that she was crazy if she didn't try it. Then at the CNFR, Kate Mote, whose husband Bobby runs the WCRA, suggested that she nominate for the WRWC.

"It was definitely worth it!" she said.

Competition for the WRWC started at the Cowtown Coliseum ("Northside") in Fort Worth, May 12-14, with three separate classes based on earnings. Pros and Challengers had two rounds and a semifinal to determine the top three in the aggregate that would compete in the Championship Round on May 17 in Arlington. The Limited, for those who didn't have the earnings of either a pro or challenger, had a one-run 4D with the fastest competitor advancing to Arlington.

Matthews and Poppy made short work of Northside, winning their first round, placing third in the second and winning the semifinals with the fastest time of the event to earn $10,000 and their spot in Arlington.

"They were a lot better than I was expecting," said Matthews of her runs in Fort Worth. "Everyone says that pen is hard to run in. I'd ran in that pen before, and it was very challenging on Bud (Heavenly Firewater), and he can handle any kind of setup."

Poppy, the 2024 NIRA/AQHA Horse of the Year and 2023 WPRA/AQHA Horse of the Year, can handle all setups as well. "She works good in big, small; it hasn't really mattered to her," Matthews said of Poppy, an 8-year-old daughter of $4.5 million sire Firewaterontherocks, out of the Dash Ta Fame mare W R Aces Fame." I feel like in a smaller pen, like the College Finals or Northside not necessarily AT&T, she's going to turn. Whenever you get into a pen like that, there's nowhere for them to go. When she was younger, she would get by her barrels a little bit."

The setup at Arlington, Matthews said, was "very open."

"It felt like a little Houston," she said, referring to a small pattern set in a large arena. In mandatory practice, Matthews opted to ride around the arena to give Poppy the opportunity to see everything and walk through the pattern a couple of times.

The only thing that bothers Poppy, Matthew said, is the small, moving spotlights around the arena.

"Those got her at The American as well," she noted.

The Cinderella story of the event, Charmaine Holdren a Limited competitor from Weatherford, Texas, and her home raised gelding His Way Is Perfekct took an early lead with a 12.984 in the championship round but were denied by Matthews and Poppy's spectacular 12.674.

"She's smooth," said Matthews. "She knows her job. When I first got on her she was still young and scared, adapting to rodeo and different kinds of setups, but now she's the point that I just hang on and she just does it."

The $60,000 check for the winning the championship round pushed Poppy's earnings over the $500,000 mark.

Matthews, who was back at work on Monday at the family sweet potato farm, Ridgeview Farms, said she's not going to venture off this summer. She'll stick closer to home for events like the big slot race with the Virginia Barrel Classic at the end of the month.

"It's been like seven or eight years, with the exception of the summer COVID, that I've been home for the summer," she said. "I'm just going to stay home and suffer in this heat!"

Brandon Cullins & Thunderstruck Lane Strike at Old Fort Days Futurity, Win $49,189

By Tanya Randall

Leading rider Brandon Cullins and the 4-year-old mare Thunderstruck Lane ("Pockets"), owned by Brad Lieblong's Ridge View Farms struck it rich at the Old Fort Days Futurity, held May 10-17 in Fort Smith, Arkansas.

"It's my favorite futurity," said Cullins, who added an Old Fort Days Futurity title to his two derby championships—2016 with VQ Sucker Punch and 2018 with A Cornerstone.

"Growing up, it was the one that everyone always talked about. It was the first big one I ever went to. I'm not going to lie. I think I threw a fist pump after I ran and that's only the second time I've ever done that. This has always been one I wanted to win."

Cullins and Pockets posted the fastest time of the event to win both the 184-entry, $40,000-added Futurity and the 145-entry, $20,000-added Senior Futurity for 5-year-olds with their carryover time. The Futurity victory was worth $28,952 of the $149,758 Futurity purse and $19,870 of the $92,819 Senior Futurity purse. Their total earnings for the event were $49,189 including their fourth-place finish in the Futurity Time Trials.

Bred by Grant Little, Pockets is by 13.5 million dollar sire The Goodbye Lane out of the Dash Ta Fame, Shawnee Promise mare Shawnee Fame. Also bred by Little, Shawnee Fame is a half-sister to Shawnee Feature, the Feature Mr Jess gelding that carried Little's wife Rayel (Robinson) to the 2009 Canadian Finals Rodeo Reserve Champion the same year he won Canadian Futurity Horse of the Year.

Kaiden Ayers had purchased Pockets as weanling but later sold her as a long yearling to Brad Lieblong. Pockets was started as a 2-year-old under the direction of Roger Daly and has spent the last two years at Cullins' 10-62 Barrel Horses in Dublin, Texas.

Cullins said the mare was "pretty easy."

"She was always really willing," he said. "She's the kind that you knew wanted to do it from the start. She's really good minded, very trainable. She wants to do right. She's pretty easy to get along with."

They finished third in the BFA Super Stakes in her debut as a 3-year-old. Since then she's been a finalist at the OKC Rookie Futurity, Lone Star Shootout, Texas Classic and Kinder Cup Futurity.

"She's been good," Cullins said. "She's placed along all year. She's had a lot of bad luck too. She's got a lot of heart."

Pockets got sick with salmonella right after the Diamond Classic and then battled recurrent hoof accesses leading up to Old Fort Days Futurity.

"We weren't even sure we were going to run her," Cullins said, wanting to thank veterinarians Austin Doby and Reese Hand with Equine Sports Medicine and Surgery and Ashley Truman (Acuscope By Ashley) for all their help with Pockets. "She's a pretty tough mare."

Cullins and Pockets' first run in Fort Smith was a 16.884.

"She was good," he said. "Her first and second were good. On her third, I think I was thinking, 'You're fast enough. Don't get in too tight.' When I went to pick her up, she hit on her front end and then stumbled. She kind of fell by the barrel but just picked herself up and turned it. I was really impressed with how she clocked."

Early in the Futurity Finals, recent Ruby Buckle Champions Ashley Schafer and HP Hotrod had a solid lead with a 16.425, the fastest run of the event thus far. Cullins and Pockets managed to squeak ahead with a 16.402 on the bottom of the ground.

"She was ready," said Cullins. "She was really laid back and warmed up really good. She went up the alley really good. She took a good line to the first. Sometimes she can fade to the first a little bit, but here, she stayed really true. When she set to turn the first, she hung a leg and it kind of shot her by it. I didn't realize she hung a leg until I watched the video. I had just thought she dumped on her front end and go by. Then she made a hard move back.

TRAINING/CONDITIONING REGIMEN: "She's pretty easy. She's really willing and real literal. You can change her pretty easy. It's mostly a lot of exercise and just keeping her happy. She reacts to everything you do, like in a good way. If you hold or frame her a bunch, she's going to do that. I really work on giving her a lot of rein and letting her just carry me around, letting her take over. She'll really follow what you do, so I try to put a lot of accountability on her and let her build her confidence."

"I was really impressed with her. She just handled it well. The ground went away from her and not in the right direction and she just got herself back together and turned around. It didn't faze her at all.

"Her second and third were really fast. She was really easy and ran right to her spots. I just had to pick the rein up and give it to her and she turned them. She was flying. She really didn't hardly rate. She just rated right when she needed to and turned around. She was pretty spot on."

$20,488 Old Fort Days Derby Championship For Blaise Wheeler & SBWFeelinThePressure

By Tanya Randall

Who let the dogs out?

That's not what Blaise Wheeler wanted to be thinking before her Finals run on SBWFeelinThePressure ("Gauge") in the 102-entry, $15,000-added Old Fort Days Super Derby, held May 10-17 in Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Unfortunately, a loose dog in the alleyway was just one of many distractions. A segment timer went down that needed to be righted and then the clearance lights for the alleyway had to be reset.

"What was probably five minutes felt like five hours," said the Summitt, Mississippi, barrel racer. "Anyone that knows Gauge knows that he likes one of those old jack-in-the-box toys. When you get on him, you've only got so many minutes before he explodes. He knows his job. He knows what he's fixing to do, so you've got to time it out just perfectly. Gauge actually took it pretty well."

Wheeler and the 6-year-old gelding turned in a 16.432 to claim $20,488 of the $69,877 total Derby purse.

"He let me get further down the alleyway before we took off," she said. "In my opinion, Fort Smith has more of a straight (approach to the) first barrel, and Gauge needs more room. Well, I don't know if he needs more room or likes more room. But I like to get down the alleyway further so I can shoot him out toward the middle of the pen. From there he was perfect on his first barrel. He was perfect on his second barrel. I probably overrode him going to the third. I was just so excited, trying to be fast. We kind of spun out coming around the third. Who cares at this point! He got it done!"

The duo had the fourth fastest qualifying time in the time trials, a 16.754, and Wheeler knew she had more horsepower for the Finals.

"Normally on his first run, he's a little more setty," she said. "He just wasn't smooth. He was a little bouncy in the turns. I knew he could make up a lot of time. His second run is pretty much always his fastest run. The second run he's always ready to turn on the jets!"

The Old Fort Days win is special because it's her husband Brian's favorite event.

"We were pumped up about this one," she said. "If anyone knows Brian, they know his favorite barrel race is Fort Smith. From the time we leave the driveway until the next year, the goal is always Fort Smith for Brian. I know it wasn't him this time, but it was still on something he made. This was a big deal."

"It's kind of like the rodeo in Cheyenne, the Daddy of 'Em All. I don't know if it's because it's been around for so long or because of all the old greats that you hear about and still talk about today. Fort Smith was always the big one."

Gauge is part of that legacy.

Bred by the Matthews family's Mission Ranch—the same Matthews that just won the Women's Rodeo World Championships—Gauge is by 1.6 million dollar sire No Pressure On Me, an Old Fort Days Derby finalist himself. No Pressure On Me is by 2004 Old Fort Days Futurity Champion Leo Nick Bar and out 2001 Futurity Champion SX Frenchmans Vanila, by Frenchmans Guy.

His dam FeelinTheFirewater, by 2010 Old Fort Days Derby Champion JL Dash Ta Heaven out of Derby finalist Fire Water

Fanny, by Fire Water Flit. FeelinTheFirewater finished third in the 2016 Old Fort Days Futurity, made the Derby finals the following year before concluding her aged event run there with an Old Fort Days Derby Reserve Championship in 2018.

"I try to just take Gauge to the big stuff," noted Wheeler. "I try not to just run him for fun."

Highpoint Barrel Horses loses Brace For Bernal

It was announced on Tuesday May 20, 2025 that Highpoint Barrel Horses had lost their beautiful son of Furyofthewind, Brace For Bernal.

Here is the statement released via the Highpoint Barrel Horses Facebook page:

"We are very sad to announce the loss of Brace For Bernal. He was humanely euthanized due to an old race injury that could no longer be managed."

The very striking Champion Racing 3 Yr Old Colt, Brace For Bernal had a distinctive skunk tail that made the dark brown colt really stand out as he raced down the track. The 2010 son of leading race and barrel sire Furyofthewind was out of the Shazoom mare Zoom Bracer who carried a speed index of 106. Brace For Bernal himself held a speed index of 104, won 9 races in 14 starts while earning $322,326. He was a stakes winner who won the Heritage Place Derby, Remington Park Oklahoma Bred Derby and Will Rogers Juvenile Challenge.

His race colts have earned $601,883 and his barrel racing crops of colts will just be hitting the arena over the next few years.

The striking brown stud will be greatly missed.

Jokers Grab Gritty Victory at Kid Rock's Rock N Rodeo

By Darci Miller, courtesy of PBR.com

Following Kid Rock's Rock N Rodeo in AT&T Stadium, Jokers co-head coach Joe Beaver walked into the post-event press conference late, beer in one hand and big check in the other.

"Hey, looks like a bunch of winners up there!" he yelled at his team assembled onstage.

Indeed, the Jokers were no joke inside the home of the Dallas Cowboys, leading the innovative team-formatted rodeo nearly wire to wire to win the second iteration of the event.

The Jokers kicked things off with a gold medal in the bareback riding, following that up with another gold medal in the saddle bronc riding.

The Convoy, who ultimately faced off against the Jokers in the championship round, won the barrel racing, but the Jokers were back in the driver's seat with gold in the team roping. The Convoy earned gold in the breakaway roping and tie-down roping before the Jokers secured their event-leading fourth gold in the steer wrestling.

"We did have one thing, and we talked about it: we wanted to win the first two events, because that's where we've been behind so much," Beaver said. "And man, our guys stepped up right off the bat. We asked them, and they stepped up right off the bat. We don't have a weak spot."

In 2024, the Free Riders took the event win, earning three gold medals en route to the championship round, including the first two disciplines. Getting off to a hot start may very well be the key to victory.

It was huge for the Jokers, who, in 2024, won one gold medal (saddle bronc riding), two silver medals and finished third an additional two times. They were in contention to advance to the championship round but were edged out by the Misty Mountain Hop (one gold, two silver, three third-place finishes).

"We got our asses kicked the last couple times, and nobody likes to lose up here, and that's why I picked them," Beaver said. "It's just like at the end – we'd ask 'em, 'You want on that horse?' 'Yeah, I want on him.' If you don't have that mentality and that grit, gut – there's a lot of National Finals world champions here, and there's a reason for that. Winners win, quitters quit, and losers make excuses."

There were no excuses for the Jokers on Friday night.

In the championship round steer wrestling, the Jokers' Dakota Eldridge faced off against the Convoy's Jesse Brown. His horse ran ahead of the steer, a rare mistake, but Brown's horse had done the same thing. So Eldridge continued his pursuit of the steer, taking a tumble before ultimately wrestling the steer to the ground before Brown.

It wasn't pretty, but it got the job done.

"Uh, that brought me back to the high school rodeo days," Eldridge said with a laugh. "I was like, 'Well, here we go. Suck it up and get back up.' I didn't know what Jesse was doing at that point, but it was just live or die. That's part of being a team, and that's a cool aspect of it."

Barrel racer Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi chimed in on the appeal of a team-formatted event.

"I think what's cool about this whole thing is all of us, except the team ropers, our sports are so individual and it's always about yourself," she said. "You've never had this team concept, and this has been so fun, to cheer our teammates on and to be a part of this. We were all back there for every event in the finals. That's just something you can't experience anywhere else."

The head-to-head nature of the event, co-head coach Sid Steiner thinks, adds a little extra juice to every out.

"There's no one in this arena that's competing that's not world-class," Steiner said. "They're all world-class. We chose them and we put them in a good spot. They are what they are, and they're all phenomenal. But when you go against one other person, it becomes very personal. That adds an element of, at a rodeo, 'Well, he outdrew me,' or whatever. When you get beat head-up, it's just more personal, I think. It adds something to it, and nobody likes to lose."

"We can talk to the other coaches and teams now," Beaver said. "We couldn't even talk to them earlier. We told (our team), 'If you see one of them broke down on the side of the road, don't you dare stop.'"

While the Jokers wouldn't reveal the pre- and post-event rituals that made them so successful so quickly, whatever they did worked mighty well.

Fitting, perhaps, for the team helmed by a man nicknamed Sid Rock to win Kid Rock's Rock N Rodeo.

"Man, I love being on the dirt," Steiner said. "And honestly, watching all these guys compete at a high level gives me goosebumps. I'm a passionate person, and I'm a fan of everybody here. The runs these guys made tonight — team roping runs, and breakaway, bulldogging... to see what (JD) Struxness and Dakota did, that was my event, and to watch them, I was somewhat in awe of what they did, and then what Dakota did at the end to win us this big check. That's harder than what people think. You would think it's a mistake, but that's some of the hardest stuff to do."

"When you put pressure on them," Beaver said, "they answer."

WRWC Championship Round Shatters Records with $5.3 Million Milestone In Arlington

The 2025 Women's Rodeo World Championship came to a thrilling close at AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas, after a week of elite competition featuring the best in women's rodeo. The championship round delivered electrifying performances in Breakaway Roping, Barrel Racing, and Team Roping, with athletes rising to the occasion in front of a packed Cowboys' Stadium. This year's event marked a historic milestone for the WRWC, pushing total payouts past the $5 million mark. Since its inception in May 2020, the WRWC has now awarded more than $5.3 million in prize money—cementing its place as the richest women's-only rodeo event in the world. Full championship results are available HERE.

In Breakaway Roping, Josie Conner (Iowa, Louisiana), delivered a dominant 1.81-second run in the championship round to secure the title and a $60,000 check. Combined with her previous round earnings, Conner left Arlington with $69,000 in total, making her one of the event's highest earners. Cheyanne McCartney (Kings-ton, Oklahoma), followed closely with a 1.82-second run to claim second place and $25,000, bringing her total to $28,250. Third place went to Quealy Probst (Wallsburg, Utah), who posted a 2.22-second time and earned $15,000 in the final round, totaling $20,500 across the competition.

Barrel Racing was a throwdown with Taycie Matthews (Wynne, Arkansas), ran a blazing 12.674 to clinch the championship and a $60,000 prize. With her previous round winnings added in, Matthews ended the event with $70,000—more than any other single athlete at the WRWC. Charmaine Holdren (Weatherford, Texas), who came into the event as limited athlete took second place with a 12.984-second run, earning $25,000 in the final and $26,381.20 overall. Kelsey Howard (Sallisaw, Oklahoma), placed third after clocking in at 13.025 seconds, taking home $15,000 in the round and $22,250 in total.

Ashtyn Pratz (La Mesa, New Mexico), and Tamara Lewis (Queen Creek, Arizona), delivered the team roping winning run of 6.78 seconds to claim the WRWC team roping event title and the $60,000 championship payout. Including money from previous rounds, they earned a total of $64,250. HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

It's not uncommon to hear the statement, "God is testing me, that's why I had this car wreck", or some other horrible thing. Nope. Or, "God is teaching me through this disease". Nope. Or, "God needed another angel in heaven". Nope.

Friends, it's high time as Christians that we stop blaming God for the negative things in our lives. God is not the problem. He is the ANSWER! Jesus loves us so much that He died a HORRIBLE death on the cross so we wouldn't have to PAY for our sins.

So, why would we think that that very same Jesus is punishing us just to see what we'll do? HE ALREADY KNOWS WHAT WE'LL DO! James 1:13. John 10:10 tells us that Jesus came so we could have abundant life. I can't think that any of the above things would constitute an abundant life, can you?

Having trouble? Turn to Jesus. He's our EVER PRESENT HELP in time of trouble! Psl. 46:1.
