He Said - She Said with the Briggs' & Hanssen's

This week Barrel Racing Report departs from the in-depth features for a little as we are all getting a little chargin' at the gate for the removal of the COVID restrictions. We visited with two "power couples" in the barrel futurity industry--Justin and Jordon Briggs and Lee and Hallie Hanssen--for a little bit of laughter with a touch of seriousness.

JUSTIN & JORDON BRIGGS

BRR: How did you meet and who pursued whom?

Jordon: He went to Tarleton and I went to Weatherford for college. We both had other significant others and just knew each other from rodeos. Whitney Godinez is my best friend and went to high school with Justin. When I found out he had broke up with his girlfriend and I had broke up with my boyfriend, Whitney called Justin for me. We went junior high...old school.

BRR: Who is the best stall cleaner?

Justin: We clean them together. It goes faster that way.

Jordon: I would say Justin is because he's a perfectionist. I'm more of a 'just get the job done' person.

BRR: Who is the most likely to track shavings or mud in the house?

Justin: Umm. Me. If need to go in the house for something, I don't take my shoes off.

Jordon: He doesn't take his shoes off and I'm a little bit of a clean freak about my house.

BRR: Who is the better cook?

**crickets****

Jordon: That would be Justin.

Justin: I cook the most because I'm hungry all the time. If I didn't cook we wouldn't eat.

BRR: Who is the better driver?

Jordon: Oh.....

Justin: I do all the driving, but she tells me how to do it.

BRR: Most common horse-related argument?

Justin: I'm sure we argue daily horse-wise.

Jordon: Our biggest argument is Justin gets everything stuck in the mud.

Jordon: That's not horse-related.

Justin: Horse-related our biggest arguments are when to stop bidding at a horse sale.

Jordon: Yeah

Justin: Normally, one us wants to keep bidding and the other one doesn't.

Jordon: Normally, Justin wants to keep bidding, and I'm like 'No, No, No. Stop!'

BRR: Most fought over piece of equipment?

Justin: The tractor. She's always wanting the drag on and I'm always using it for something else.

Jordon: Definitely.

Justin: She needs her arena drag.

Jordon: We have totally different tastes in bridles so we don't fight over horse equipment.

BRR: Best 'I told you so' moment?

Jordon: laughs

Jordon: We have so many of those. What do you think, Justin?

Justin: Probably getting stuck all the time and you getting mad at me. She thinks I get stuck on purpose, but I don't.

Jordon: We've had to call my parents twice in the last month to come pick us up because we're stuck somewhere out in the middle of the pasture.

Justin: ...with Bexley (who will be 2 in July).

Jordon: Yes! With Bexley!

Jordon: He's completely sunk a truck and trailer too at the college finals. It's definitely getting stuck.

BRR: Best accomplishment as a team?

Jordon: I would say Frenchmans Future. That was Justin. My mom owned Frenchmans Future. We decided she was going to be a little too rank for my mom. My mom and Justin decided to partner on her. He was going to break her and get her ready for Bill Myers' sale in the fall. I had nothing to do with it. Justin is the one that PO'd her at the sale and said we're not selling her for that. We're keeping her. He's the reason we didn't sell her. I fell in love with her and we bought her from my mom after that. The rest is history. Definitely Frenchmans Future, for the whole family.

BRR: What's the best part of riding together?

Jordon: I don't like to ride alone. Justin and I are constantly learning and constantly bettering ourselves. It's wonderful to ride together and bounce ideas off of each other. When Justin goes to the futurities, he watches everyone in the warmup pen. He watches the exhibitions. He comes back to me and says so-so does this with their horse. What do you think about that? We go home and we try it.

Justin: Our daily riding sessions are pretty fun because I'll have the arena all shut up, tracking a cow through the middle of the barrel pattern and one of us basically has to pull up from what they're doing. Normally it's her, because I'm running a cow through the middle of the arena. It's pretty fun during the day...really.

I don't take the barrels and poles down when I rope so sometimes I have to go on one side of the barrel and the steer goes on the other. I think that's the fun part of our day too. We do both events at the same time. (Jordon laughs in the background.)

LEE & HALLIE HANSEN

BRR: How did you meet and who pursued whom?

Lee: We met at the Arizona futurities, eight years ago. In fact, next week is our seven year anniversary.

Hallie: He pursued.

Lee: I pursued Hallie. I asked her on a date. (Hallie laughs). I THOUGHT I asked her on a date, and she thought I was asking her out to talk about me asking her to ride a horse. So, I go to pick her up for dinner. I'm thinking I'm taking her on a date and she comes running out and asks if its okay if my helper comes? Yeah... Great...I'd love for your helper to come. Then I got up to go to the bathroom in the middle of dinner and her helper leaned over and said, 'Hallie, I'm pretty sure Lee thought this was a date.'

Hallie: I apologized and flew to Minneapolis for a real date.

BRR: Who is the best stall cleaner?

Hallie: Me.

Lee: I think she thinks she is.

He Said/She Said Continued on Page 3

LACK OF FOCUS?
HORSE HAIR ANALYSIS CAN HELP!

Lee: She probably IS the better stall cleaner.

Hallie: I just get every piece. Lee's good at wet spots, but not so much every little piece. I'm kind of crazy like that.

BRR: Who is the most likely to track shavings or mud in the house?

Hallie: Lee

Lee: I won't even debate that, but I also hire the cleaning lady, so I also take care of it.

BRR: Who is the better cook?

Lee: Me. Hands down.

Hallie: Definitely. I'm a better baker, but Lee's the better cook.

Lee: I make dinner every night. I would say I live to eat and she eats to live.

BRR: Who is the better driver?

Hallie: laughs

Lee: I think Hallie's forgotten how to drive. I just prefer to drive. I don't like to sit in the passenger seat.

BRR: Most common horse-related argument?

Lee: The order we're riding that day.

Hallie: Yeah. The schedule of riding. We each have a different opinion every day.

Lee: Who needs work and what they need done with.

Lee says he's doing more riding now than he did when he was competing himself.

I ride every horse before she gets on it.

Adjusting of stirrups?

Hallie: I don't let him adjust anything.

Lee: No. I don't really need to. We're good.

Hallie: He got that when we first got married. I was like do not adjust anything.

Lee: There was a lot of learning to do when I got married...like the hay gets put in a certain spot and the saddles get put up a certain way. I just had to adapt, but that's okay.

BRR: Most fought over piece of equipment?

Lee: Pass

Hallie & Lee simultaneously: We don't really have one.

Lee: We're pretty good sharers.

BRR: Best 'I told you so' moment?

Hallie: When we got Tres Movidas, she has a big knee. She came with it. She was injured when she was yearling. Lee said that horse is never going to make it. I was like 'Oh, she will. She will.'

Lee: Definitely. I remember those words coming out of my mouth. 'She's never going to make it.'

BRR: Best accomplishment as a team?

Hallie: Winning the juvenile last year (with Jesswatchmestreak). For one, I had never done it and it being a colt by French Streakin Jess.

Lee: That was a six year plan. We partnered with Barb (Westover) and bred the mares. It was years and years of planning and hard work.

The other one that came to mind was we won reserve in the juvenile and futurity a couple years ago. That was pretty big deal. We won reserve in the Juvenile on Frenchmans Disco Rose, who we owned with Dave and Lori Zabel, and won a round and reserve (in the futurity) by 1/1000th of a second on A French Lady.

BRR: What's the best part of riding together?

Lee: I just really love my wife.

Hallie: I think we do it well together. We might have disagreements but we always talk it through. We just do well together. It's very rewarding. When I win, he wins.

Lee: That's why I quit (competing). People think I don't ride, but I ride more now than I ever did in my life. I don't have kids, but that's the only thing I could compare it to. I'm so intense about my job, getting those colts warmed up right and getting their vet work right, whatever they need. When I hand her the reins, I know that I've been a big part of that horse going on and succeeding. I have no jealousy of her being the one going out in the arena and running. Zero. None.

I get asked all the time why I don't ride. I just don't have any desire to compete anymore. None. But, I love the industry so much. I just don't care to hear my name called.

BRR: Did it take a while for your styles to fit together?

Hallie: I pretty much tell Lee if I don't like him doing something.

Lee: And, I just stop doing it. There's no pride there. I don't argue.

I adapt to what she needs, because at the end of the day, it doesn't matter what I think or feel because that's not going to get us to where she feels it needs to be. We both have the same goal of that horse going on with her and winning. I've had to adjust a ton of my stuff to be more of what she needs, which I was happy to do. ~BRR

Modified Pole Bending with Jordon Briggs

By Jordon Briggs with Bonnie Wheatley

This modified pole bending drill was originally posted on Facebook by Jordon, who borrowed it from National Finals Rodeo qualifier Kylie Weast by way of Danyelle Campbell.

"I stole this drill from Kylie Weast," said Jordon. "The goal is to get them to lift their belly and drive with their hind end."

Jordon found this drill to be particularly useful for a horse that needs to engage its hind end to gain collection in small circles, while using up some excess energy in the process. This drill promotes focus and teaches a horse to drive from behind.

"I need drills to get this mare's brain tuned in and warmed up before I even do the barrel pattern," said Jordon of how doing the drill benefits one of her more high-powered futurity hopefuls. "She's the kind of horse that I can't just get on her and lope big circles around the arena to warm her up and then do something fun. She's the kind of horse that she goes faster and faster, I pull harder and harder and then we just get mad at each other."

"What I like about this drill is it engages [my horse's] brain to think about which direction I'm switching to," said Jordon. "This mare is real go-y and forceful with her frontend and she forgets to engage with her hind end first and that's not something I realized until I did this drill. So this drill pointed out a lot of holes to me. I realized what my horses need and I really enjoyed this drill."

How far along in training does my horse have to be for this type of pattern work?

"A horse has to be pretty broke to do this drill," said Jordon. "They have to know how to work away from your leg and counter arc. You can start at a walk and trot to introduce those cues."

Preferred headgear for this drill?

"I use the Kerry Kelley Hemi bit," said Jordon. "I like a longer shanked lifter bit so they stay backed off."

Jordon Briggs' Modified Pole Bending Drill

Step 1. Line up six poles set roughly 20' apart just like the standard pole bending pattern.

Step 2. Lope a complete circle around the first pole. Stop and reverse direction. Lope a circle around the second pole and so on and so forth through the poles.

Once you have gone around all six poles come back down through the poles again, working through them back to your start point.

Check the Barrel Racing Report Facebook page Wednesday morning for a video from Jordon Briggs to demonstrate this modified pole bending drill.

Tough times never last, but tough people do.

IVY HURST'S 3 FAVORITE BITS

- Molly Powell Rate & Turn • L&W Steel Nose Combo
- Kathy James Gag

Right now, I really like the Molly Powell Rate & Turn. It's a chain port. That's what Top Of The Roc ("Diddy") gets to run in. It gives me a lot of control. It has a lot of lift and rate.

I have to throw in the L&W Steel Nose Combo. I won Reno in it. It's a terrible feeling bit just to ride around in. My friends see me win it and they say, "I tried it and I hated it." I ask if they made a run. They'll say, "Well, it didn't feel good trotting around. Why would I make a run in it?" It just works in your hands when you run. It's a very harsh looking bit, but it's not.

That Kathy James gag...that's a gag I like to ride in at home. There's a few select horses that I'll run in it. I like how it makes a horse soft. It has a lot of feel for me to tune my horses up at home.

DUSTIN ANGELLE'S 3 FAVORITE BITS

- Troy Flaharty Snaffle
- Dave Elliott Spur Up 02 with a twisted three-piece with a copper roller in the middle
- Todd Gag by Brad's Cowhorse Supply

All of my horses ride in an O-ring. I normally ride all my horses during the week in either smooth or square Flaharty O-ring Snaffle.

When ever I start running my horses, my first step up from the O-ring is that Spur Up 02. I think it's the perfect step and a lot of my horses never get out of it. You have lots of shoulder control. It's not too quick of a reaction that would make a horse panic. It helps them relax into my hands some.

I like using the Todd Gag when I'm working on loping my circles. You have a lot of shoulder control and it keeps those horses really soft in the face. Colts tend to stay soft in the face when we're doing things really slow, but when we start speeding their feet up they get a little bit heavier and pushier. You can bring them back (with this bit) without them biting down on it and panicking. They let you handle them a little bit more of it.

Barrel Racing featured in PRCA/Cowboy Channel Digital Rodeo This Week

Go Vote today - Lets make barrel racing the event with the most votes!!

The PRCA has taken the sport of rodeo digital. With the COVID-19 pandemic forcing the postponement or cancellation of PRCA rodeos, the PRCA Digital Rodeo Tournament presented by The Cowboy Channel is giving fans the opportunity and the power to vote for their favorite cowboys and cowgirls in a tournament-style format.

In the tournament, the top 16 competitors in the 2020 World Standings in each event – bareback riding, steer wrestling, team roping, saddle bronc riding, tie-down roping, barrel racing and bull riding – will be matched up in a head-to-head bracket, with competitors seeded in their respective spots.

The cowboy or cowgirl in the top spot in the standings will open the tournament against the No. 16 competitor. The barrel racing will be one of the featured events for initial voting May 4-7.

It's going to be up to the fans to decide who advances to the next round, who advances to the semifinals and the finals, and ultimately, who is crowned the champion of the Digital Rodeo Tournament.

Fans and competitors alike can vote daily at ProRodeo.com. The competitor with the most votes in each matchup advances to the next round. Voting for each round runs Mondays through Thursdays.

The tournament will be released in stages. The barrel racing and bull riding will round out the first round of voting starting on May 4. After that, it's on to the quarter-finals.

Vote today! <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/JustinBootsWBR16>

Some succeed because they are destined to, but most succeed because they are DETERMINED to.

CRAIG BROOKS' 3 FAVORITE BITS

• L&W Kathy James • Shallow Creek KB Bit Plus • Loomis Gag

I ride a lot in a Kathy James. The two bits I probably run in the most is the Kathy James and KB Bit Plus. I tune a lot in a Loomis. Rarely ever, do I run in a Loomis, but I tune a lot in one. It's probably the first bit my horses get when they come out of the roundpen.

I like to run straight to a barrel and when I get there, shape them. I like to ride with a bit that has some leverage to it. With the Kathy James, I pull it up in the mouth so it doesn't have a lot of gag action and works quicker. I like to put it on a horse that may need a little help standing up right at the last minute in the approach but will naturally come back on their own. It's not something they want to be pulled on with the way that I ride it with it higher up in their mouth and a tighter curb chain.

The KB Bit I also ride higher up in the mouth but with a looser curb chain. I feel like that bit doesn't have near as much hold up, pick-up or shape in the approach, but you can drag on them on the backside. So, if you have something that's very honest in the approach, but just need a little help to come around the backside that's more the bit I put on them.

Those two bits work completely opposite for me. One helps on the approach and doesn't on the backside. The other doesn't help on the approach but helps on the backside.

Grandious Guy ("Mater") rode in the KB Bit Plus for years and years, then I swapped him over once he started anticipating a little bit more. I switched him over to the Kathy James. That wasn't that big a change for him because I always tuned him in it. The first time he ran in that bit was at the Fort Smith Consolation. His style had changed a little bit where he got more anticipation coming in, but I knew he was going to come back because he was an open horse.

It's not what happens to you, but how you react to it that matters.

— Epictetus

Some Good Stuff...

We thought it would be fun to share with you all Some Good Stuff we come across every week. We hope to provide some fun insights and encouragement to you all. This week we came across this really neat post about being a horse trainer from Joy Wargo. Wargo is a former AQHA Senior Barrels World Champion, BFA Futurity Reserve World Champion, AQHA Senior Barrels & Amateur Barrels Reserve World Champion and has trained a number of good rodeo horses going down the road now.

Check her out on Instagram @JoyWargo!

WHAT MAKES A GREAT TRAINER?

by Joy Wargo

A great trainer can bring the best out of a horse. They can strengthen the weaker assets of the individual and capitalize on the strengths.

They are a horseman. They earn the respect, confidence, and heart of the athlete.

A great horse trainer is not made overnight.

A great horse trainer is molded by blood, sweat, tears, and years of trials. Every horse they encounter plays a role in the development of a great horse trainer. The hours upon hours of ass in saddle time, grooming, and daily care of each horse builds a great horse trainer.

Sometimes being a great trainer means winning and sometimes being a great trainer simply means that you were able to convince a colt to try today.

There will be a horse that contradicts every rule you thought you knew. Those horses help build great trainers. They make you look outside of the box. They push your boundaries and perspective.

You will ruin a few along the way but you will learn something valuable from each failure that you endure.

Great horsemen, mental strength, persistence, grit, and humbleness are some of the qualities that come to mind when I think of the trainers I aspire to be like one day.

Now tell me do you want to still be a horse trainer?

Mayo Wins Three World Titles (1959-1961) Aboard a Special Horse Named Sandy

First appeared in WPRO News; By Jolee Lautaret Jordan

Imagine you are running barrels at the San Antonio Stock Show and Rodeo and you hear a familiar voice from the crowd, cheering your horse's name. You look up and realize it is none other than the Duke himself, John Wayne. It happened to GRA Champion Jane Mayo one year.

"I heard him yelling, 'come on Sandy,'" Mayo laughs, noting that Wayne was filming The Alamo at the time. "My horse was better known than me, which is how it should be."

Mayo takes little credit in the championships she earned with V's Sandy, a son of Oklahoma Star Jr. and therefore a half brother to Sherry Johnson's world champion horse Star Plaudit. "It was his world, I was just living in it," she laughs, "I was his chauffeur and business manager."

Mayo had been diagnosed with a rare blood disease when just a small child and doctors predicted she wouldn't live to be 5 years of age. Mayo's father put her on a horse, the best therapy he could think of, and the fresh air and joy of riding helped Mayo recover fully.

Sandy was trained by JT Waters of Tulsa and it was Waters' daughter who first ran the big dun gelding. Mayo had watched the horse for a long time before she had the opportunity to buy him. She had joined the Girls Rodeo Association just out of high school in 1955 and was running another horse but felt that Sandy could take her further in the arena.

"I always wanted him," recalls Mayo. Sandy was around nine when he came to Mayo's barn. It was far from a perfect match at first. "It took two years for us to get together. I had to change some to fit him and he had to change some to fit me. I was hauling and using him but it wasn't a smooth road."

Gradually, the pair began to unite as a team and the wins began to accumulate. Mayo says that Sandy, who stood 15.2h and weighed close to 1300 pounds, had a forearm that was bigger around than her waist.

"He ran very hard, just wide open and he didn't slow down to turn, he just dropped his front end out from under you," Mayo says, noting that it was a tough style to ride. "He was a very smart horse and very determined to have his own way."

"Once we got together, he very seldom let me down." Mayo describes Sandy as a perfectionist. "He didn't really want to do anything but once you convinced him that he had to, he did it the best he could."

Sandy was an amazing athlete in the rodeo arena but proved his versatility in a wide range of activities. Mayo used the gelding for roping and showed him at reining and cutting. Mayo herself was a versatile cowgirl, claiming her first GRA World championships in the team roping in 1957 and 1958 with Sandy's help.

"He was the most beautiful gelding of his day," Mayo says and he proved it by winning countless AQHA Grand Champion

Gelding titles from the Cow Palace to Fort Worth and Houston. She remembers one AQHA judge asking her when she was going to quit showing Sandy and she replied that he didn't have to place him Grand Champion every time. "That would just be showing my ignorance if I don't," was the reply.

Sandy was Mayo's living and he excelled at running barrels. Mayo recalls winning 15 straight firsts on him in one summer and says that Sandy won everywhere she took him at one time or another. She won all three go's and average at Lake Charles, won Tulsa, San Angelo, Greensboro, North Carolina, Winnipeg, Canada, and San Francisco. The pair traveled around 70,000 miles each year.

"He really was incredible," says Mayo. "There aren't many horses that could do what he could do." Mayo even entered Sandy in the occasional match race. At a rodeo one day, she was warming up when a man approached her. It seems that a roper had claimed that his horse was the fastest breaking horse from a start and the man had said he thought Sandy was faster. A bet ensued and the man offered Mayo half of the $150 bet if she would race. Mayo asked where they were to race and it was decided to run down between a row of parked cars. People were situated to prevent others from walking out onto the "track" and the race was on.

"They said go and I never did see that old boy again," Mayo laughs. "Sandy left him in his dust." Mayo collected her share of the bet and went back and ran barrels at the rodeo which was still in progress.

Sandy was equally good in all conditions, though there weren't many indoor venues, and hard ground was sometimes tough for him because of the way he turned. Mayo says he was so strong that he would sometimes slip on harder footing and he fell once at Denver.

"He walked clear over the top of me, from my boots to my head and never touched me," she remembers. "As big as he was, I don't know how he did it." Meanwhile, Mayo's shirt has ripped open during the fall and she was working at holding the shredded pieces together when she realized that Sandy, after recovering his feet, was standing nearby, waiting for her. With some effort, she climbed aboard and loped out of the arena.

"After all those miles, I knew what he was thinking and he knew what I was thinking," Mayo says. "He was my best friend."

But think, ornery friend with a "mind of his own." Mayo recalls taking Sandy out of his stall in the coliseum at Baton Rouge one day and jumping up on his back without a saddle and with just a rope halter on his head. Sandy shook the halter off and ran to the bottom of hill, diving into the lake at the bottom.

"I slid down his neck, straight through his ears and landed on my backside! And I know he did it on purpose," she laughs at the memory. "I looked up and he was just standing there and I know he was laughing at me."

In Phoenix, Sandy unwired his stall gate and that of his hauling buddy to go graze on the grass nearby. "He liked to play jokes."

In 1959 the GRA planned its first ever season ending championship event. Prior to that year, world titles were given based solely on regular season earnings. Clayton, N.M., was chosen to be the host of the barrel racing and the RCA's steer roping and team roping finals. It was memorable for all contestants.

"It was freezing!" Mayo says. "It was so cold, we went to the stores and bought more clothes. I have never been so cold in my life." Mayo says the horses were bucking and the wind was blowing snow around throughout the event—unlike today's finals events, the first barrel racing finals were held outdoors.

Apparently, Sandy didn't mind the adverse weather. Mayo won two of the four go rounds en route to being crowned the GRA's first National Finals winner. With prize money of $1,950, Mayo was the high money earner for the barrel racers; she collected $663.

Mayo's year-end total was $5,814, enough to earn her first GRA World title in barrel racing. In addition, Mayo was named the Association's World Champion All Around Cowgirl.

In 1960 the finals for the barrel racers and team ropers were moved to Scottsdale, Ariz.

"It was the complete opposite of Clayton, it was nice and warm," Mayo remembers, saying she enjoyed what was a small town at that time. "I rode to the arena from where the barns were, it was that close, and there were orange trees on the way so I would grab one to eat as I rode. I had never seen something like that!"

Also new for Mayo was the media exposure at Scottsdale. "There were TV people there and that was a new thing for me," she says. "There was a lot of news coverage of our event."

Still running outside, Mayo and Sammie Thurman gave the crowd a shoot-out worthy of the old west. Mayo won two go rounds and split a third with Thurman, who also won one outright. Both placed in every one of the six go rounds and without electric timers to time past the tenths of a second, they split the average title. Thurman won $13 more than Mayo but Mayo's $746 added to her regular season earnings gave her a second world title with $7,833 won.

The finals moved again in 1961, going further west to Santa Maria, Calif. Many GRA cowgirls elected not to make the drive from Texas and Oklahoma but Mayo came out early, hauling Marie Mass, Miss Rodeo America with her. Mass had flown to Amarillo from her home in Colorado to ride out with Mayo.

Mayo and Jim Shoulders were asked to be a part of the advance promotions of the event and the two time champ was still getting used to dealing with newspaper and television reporters. With the hype behind her, Mayo and Sandy got down to business, running at record prize money of $2,205 and six rounds of competition.

Consistency continued to be the key of the world champs with Mayo collecting one round win, splitting first in two others, and taking a fourth in another. For the first time ever, Mayo was not the GRA Finals winner—that honor went to Boots Tucker. Mayo collected $429 and claimed her third straight world title. She set another record for earnings at $8,356—a record that would stand until 1968 despite escalating prize money at the finals.

After so many wins and so many miles, Mayo decided to retire Sandy after the 1961 season. "He deserved the rest after three years of hauling so far," she says. "There was nowhere to go but down, he had done everything I asked of him from the barrel racing to the showing and everything else."

"I knew I would never find another like him, but I wanted to retire him while he was on top."

Sadly, it wouldn't be a long retirement. Sandy got sick one night and with her local veterinarian gone, Mayo fell back on another from a neighboring town. A shot was administered and Mayo set to walking Sandy when he suddenly fell to the ground. It was later determined that the medication had caused the champion's heart to explode. He was just 16 years old.

"It tore my life apart," says Mayo. "It was terrible, terrible, terrible."

Mayo buried her best friend on a hill on her property and a friend in town who owned a tombstone company had one made for Sandy. It read, "The loss of a friend is the greatest of all losses."

Sandy was a champion in many fields and will be remembered by Mayo and those who knew them for his amazing athletic ability and determined personality.

"He was going to live life his own way," Mayo says, "and I hope I was just halfway worthy of having him." ~BRR

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

On the lighter side... during a Bible study this week, my friend asked Mike about the Song of Solomon... we all laughed!! Why? Well, have you READ the Song of Solomon? It's... interesting!

Mike mumbled around and then said, "Well, I think it's probably in the Bible for married couples to read together." (I was gobsmocked! We have been married for almost 47 years, in the ministry for 24 years, and to date, we have NEVER read the Song of Solomon together!!!!). More laughter in the room.

In all the years that we've had Bible question and answer studies, this was the first time I ever saw Mike dodge a question! He moved right on to the next question.

So the next night at Bible study, we were getting out of our cars and I asked the same friend, "Are you still reading the Song of Solomon?" His reply... Sherry, you are as pretty as a goat herd!" Batting my eyes like a frog in a hailstorm, I just looked at him. What? It was a statement from the Song of Solomon... I think... soooooo. If you are at home and at loose ends, go ahead, live dangerously... read the Song of Solomon. Can't hurt. Might help.

Mike and Sherry Morrison pastor "Church at the Barn" in Gillette, WY. They also travel to other areas ministering at barrel races, ranches, rodeos, churches and home Bible studies. Check out our schedule online. You can also download all Bible studies by visiting our website: m-m-m.org or contact us at: PO Box 2439, Gillette, WY 82717, 307/685-2272.
