Sweep Colorado Classic Futurities

By Tanya Randall

Desirae Wheeler and ImChocoJingleJangle ("Jangle") collected $21,261 for winning the 92-entry, $7,000-added Smoke Creek Quarter Horses Open Futurity and $35,000-added Stallion Incentive Futurity at the Colorado Classic.

The dual Colorado Classic victories are the fourth championship titles for Wheeler and Jangle, who also won the Greg Olson Memorial Futurity in Arizona and The Classic Futurity in Montana.

Wheeler says she was a little apprehensive in the first round, but she and Jangle still placed fifth with a 15.216. With some encouragement from father-in-law Dave and mother, Terri Morgan, Wheeler had Jangle on a mission in the second round.

"Mentally, I wasn't there the first run," she admitted. "The second day, my father-in-law gave me a really nice pep talk and so did my mom. I thought I really needed to go out there and give him a chance, and it worked! He just worked his butt off!"

The resulting run, which was almost a half-second faster than her first, set a new arena record for the Goshen County Fairgrounds.

"I started crying!" said Wheeler of Jangle's 14.735. "It was just so unreal, just so many emotions. I cried for a long time. I never thought that could happen. It was super cool!"

Prior to the Colorado Classic the arena record was a 14.923. Current WPRA World Standings Leader Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi and her homebred Babe On The Chase promptly broke that record a 14.840 in the first round of the Maturity.

Wheeler was just as excited about competing with and watching the two-time World Champion as she was with breaking arena record.

"She is phenomenal to watch," Wheeler said of Tonozzi. "I was so excited to get to watch in person because it so different than when you're watching on TV. She is an amazing rider!"

Wheeler grew up riding her family's racehorses and not surprisingly the track horses often ended up on the cloverleaf pattern. Jangle's sire, A Chocolate Fury, was a racehorse turned barrel horse for the Morgan family of Idaho Falls, Idaho. Jangle, a 4-year-old gelding out of The Goodbye Lane, Dash Ta Fame mare TMHot Flash, is from his second crop of performance age foals.

Wheeler credits Cody Hyde, who started the gelding under saddle, with teaching her to utilize a square rather than round turning style. Her current crop of futurity horses are the first ones she's trained since focusing on more square style.

"I used to think round, round, round," Wheeler explained. "He taught me how to keep my horses really square. It made a huge difference in my horses. The horses stay stood up and can handle the ground, whereas my horses used to slip all the time. I know it's because I can keep them up square. I know it seems like they're stiffer, but that's just the way I trained them—to stay more stood up."

Wheeler says the style change has made a huge difference in her horses.

"It's crazy the difference," she said. "Since he taught me that all my horses have been turning machines. It feels really different, but I love that feel now. I can't get enough of it!"

Rather than using one specific drill to train a squarer turn, Wheeler just focused on working the pattern with less focus on roundness and more focus on keeping her horses stood up.

"All I do is the pattern over and over," she explained. "It's mainly helped me set my horses up consistently. Just staying square, focusing on each corner of that square turn instead of keeping it rounder. I think it helps you keep control of the outside shoulder and inside shoulder. It just keeps them really well balanced."

Next up for Wheeler is the Burns' Xtreme Million this week in Salina, Utah. She'll compete with her 11-year-old daughter Alisha, who also competed with her mom at the Colorado Classic. Alisha ran Wheeler's other homebred TM Flashy Pebbles in the futurity. "It was a lot of pressure, but I think it's going to work," said Wheeler. "They love each other. She's never had a green horse like that. It's really a learning curve for her, a big adjustment. They've both got to get used to each other's quirks and come together." Wheeler said that Pebbles, a 5-year-old daughter of Smoke Flash Im Gone out of Ima Aba Daba Do, by The Goodbye Lane, is a lot of horse for her daughter too, but her daughter really wanted to try.

"She's a very powerful horse and nervous on top of that," Wheeler said of Pebbles. "I didn't now how it was going to work, but that's the type of horse she likes to ride. I'm going to keep letting her ride her at the futurities."

Wheeler wanted to thank her family and friends for their support as well as Colorado Classic crew, especially producer Kayla Jones, for the extreme efforts they put forth to have this event.

THE SHOW MUST GO ON...

Due to COVID restrictions, the seventh annual Colorado Classic was held at the Goshen County Fairgrounds in Torrington, Wyoming, June 18-21, instead of its traditional home at the Colorado State Fairgrounds in Pueblo, Colorado, due to more stringent restrictions at the state-run facility.

With the clock ticking, event producer and founder Kayla Jones was forced to find a temporary home for the Classic.

"There were a couple days that I didn't know if we were going to be able to get it done," said Jones. "I figured the stallion owners put up all this money every year and these colts only have one crack at it. It would be pretty unfair if I didn't do everything that I possible could so those colts would have a chance at the money their stud owners put up for them."

An advertisement for a barrel race in Torrington, Wyoming, spurred Jones to call Debbie Beede, the producer, and feel out that facility as a potential temporary home for the Classic. Beede gave Jones the number for the facility manager and deal was worked out just three-and-a-half weeks before the event's scheduled start.

Revamp her crew with a new announcer and barrel setters, plus a new tractor driver.

"We had to re-plan the entire event," said Jones, noting that she need a new announcer and tractor driver as well as barrel setters. "That's when I thought, 'Man, I hope this is worth it!'"

It ended up being the richest Colorado Classic ever held, awarding nearly $175,000.

"I had a record number of entries," she said. "I already had more added money than I'd ever had before, but we surpassed our payout from last year by $55,000."

Jones' original goal was to have an affordable, well-paying event closer to her home.

"I just really wanted to bring a futurity to Colorado," she said. "I thought why not bring it closer to home so I didn't have to drive eight hours. I didn't realize it meant 10 months of work in exchange for an eight hour drive!"

What started as a $5,000-added event with 15 stallions in the incentive program has grown to more than 100 stallions and nearly $70,000 in added money. The added money for the stallion program is generated by a stallion auction each January.

"Through the years, I've tweaked at it a little as we've added more stallions, but all that money, minus a little for advertising, now goes back to the futurity, maturity, and this year I added a $2,000-added Open for just stallion incentive horses just to try to give every aged range of these stallions progeny a bigger chance to win money."

Several walked away with a lot of money this weekend, including Futurity Champion Desirae Wheeler, who won more than $22,000, and Derby Champion Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi, who won more than $25,000.

Jones is grateful everyone stuck with her throughout all the changes to this year's event.

"I takes a lot to put something like this on and I really appreciate the people who hung in there with me through this," she said.

She's planning the Colorado Classic on being back on her home turf in 2021.

"Every year during Day 1, I'm like I'm never doing this again. Day 2 ends, I work on results and see the checks that we pay out and who we paid them out to. . . As long as my family and crew doesn't quit me I'll do it again."

Dream Comes True – Elaina McKinney & WRS Cool Memories Win All-American Youth

By Tanya Randall

Elaina McKinney and WRS Cool Memories turned the only sub-14 second run of the All-American Youth Race, held June 24-27 in Jackson, Mississippi, to win the 1D championship. Their 13.848 in Saturday's finals was worth $8,140 of the event's $193,077 payout.

"It was truly a dream come true," exclaimed the 18-year-old from Carbondale, Illinois. "It was something that I always wanted to win for a long, long time!"

McKinney and Cool started their journey to the title when they left Illinois for Tifton, Georgia, where her grandfather Bob McKinney resides.

"With the virus and all, everything is pretty well shutdown up here," she explained. "Usually we're showing in March and April, right on through. With the shows being shut down, it kind of put you a month behind with getting them in shape. That's why I went down south, to get in shape to get ready for All-American Youth."

In the first round, Cool proved he was ready with a victorious 14.065.

"I was just hoping for a clean run to make it back to the finals," McKinney said. "It takes a lot of pressure off for the second day. He went in and never missed a beat and worked like a dream. He had a great run."

McKinney and her dad Rick, who made the trip with her, considered scratching from the second go with the finals already made. They decided to take advantage of the 12-year-old gelding's consistency and ultimately finished second in the round with a 14.161.

"He made pretty much the same run as the first day," she said. "I couldn't ask for any more out of him."

In the finals, McKinney says all she wanted was a safe, clean run.

"We were just happy we made it this far," she said. "I was just going to give it to God. Whatever happened, happened."

What happened was it was finally her turn to win the All-American Youth.

"He knew what he was doing and just went in there and worked so good," she said. "It just all came together. We've been in the finals before and come close but never got it done. This has been a dream of mine for a long time."

McKinney and Cool were in an advantageous spot, running first out after big drag at draw 101, but it meant nearly 240 more runners were left to see if their time held.

"It's nerve-wracking because you just sit in the stands watching and there are so many nice horses coming up after you run," said the recent high school graduate. "We tried to stay away as much as we could without going up there to watch."

It also helped having a second horse qualified for the finals—her 6-year-old Eddie Stinson gelding Daddys Dollar ("Ace") to run.

"That gave us something else to do instead of just sitting there waiting," she added.

She and Ace ultimately finished 11th in the finals for $905.

"We've been trying to haul him more and get him some experience," said McKinney. "He's been coming along nicely. He showed up to run 11th in the finals with some pretty tough company."

The horses are a family project for the McKinney family with her dad and grandfather starting each horse's training and the whole family taking a turn showing the horse.

"It's a family thing," said McKinney, who has never known a life without horses, thanks to her family's involvement. "We all just ride them a little bit, switch on and off a little bit, help each other out. We try to make a nice horse in the end with everyone putting time on them. It takes a lot of effort out of everybody."

Cool was purchased off the track by McKinney's grandfather, whom she calls "Pawpaw." Bred by Williams Racing Stables, Cool is by the stakes-placed son of Royal Quick Dash, Kool Quick Kid, out

"He actually did all the training and was the first one to show him," McKinney said of her grandfather. "He passed him on to me when I started getting old enough to ride him a little bit."

McKinney started riding Cool in 2014, when he was 5 and she was 13. With some coaching from her grandfather and dad, she says it was "somewhat of an instant fit."

"He's such a big strong horse that I had a lot of problems keeping up with him," she said of the 16-hand, 1,300-pound racehorse. "I was kind of small myself. It took a little while for me to learn my timing and keep up with him. He's very stout. He's a big horse. He just gives his heart every time."

The big, free-running gelding loves the arena at Jackson, having carried McKinney to the 2016 Mega 1D Championship.

"He really, really likes that pen," said McKinney. "He can really run, but he's so honest too. He's truly one-in-a-million."

McKinney wanted to thank her sponsors and her family, especially her grandfather for all their help and support.

"I couldn't do it by myself," she said. "I have to give all the glory to God. We wouldn't be anywhere near where we are now with him and all that He has done for our family."

Open Entries For The $750,000 World Championship Event Begin July 27--

WCRA (World Champions Rodeo Alliance) and PBR (Professional Bull Riders) today announced payout details regarding the November 3-7 Women's Rodeo World Championship (WRWC) along with open entry dates and athlete package opportunities.

Athletes in each discipline will compete for $136,000 in the main event, with each discipline champion walking away with a minimum of $60,000 each.

All 24 athletes in each discipline who compete in the main event will receive a paycheck. The event will also award $20,000 to the Women's Rodeo All-Around Champion. On May 18, the organizations announced the event format and progression—click here to learn more.

The complete payout for the championship round featuring the Top 6 athletes in each discipline of the main event will be as follows:

Packages will be available, offered on a first come, first served basis. For package information please visit HERE.

Nominations for the 2020 Women's Rodeo World Championship Leaderboard will run from May 18 - October 11 at 11:59 p.m. CT.

Athletes who earn the Top 4 spots on the WCRA Leaderboard at the end of the nomination period (October 11) will be directly seeded into the main event while athletes ranked No. 5-No. 64 on the leaderboard will compete in qualifying pools.

All athletes advancing through the WCRA Leaderboard will not be required to pay an entry fee. For more information on nominations and earning points through the WCRA, please visit HERE.

Athletes who enter through the "Open to the World Qualifying Pools" will be placed into pro and challenger divisions. ProRodeo Hall of Fame reopens

The ProRodeo Hall of Fame and Museum of the American Cowboy reopened its doors to visitors Monday, June 22, 91 days after closing due to the coronavirus lockdown. The museum will adhere to the health and safety guidelines approved by the El Paso County Public Health Department including social distancing guidelines, cleaning guidelines, safety policies, etc.

"We are beyond thrilled to make this announcement," said Hall of Fame Director Kent Sturman. "It has been a long time coming. We are looking forward to welcoming the public back to our museum. The health and safety of our staff, visitors and attendees is our priority. We have adopted two dozen policies and procedures to ensure that we will reopen the museum in the safest way possible."

The approved safety plan is available on the Hall of Fame's website and at the admissions desk in the museum.

Water fountains, touch screens and the Little Champions Arena will remain closed and off limits due to health department guidelines. The museum will not open the livestock exhibit this summer since it is already so late in the season. All other areas of the museum will be open to the public.

The Hall of Fame will open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will extend those hours through Sept. 30. Traditionally, the museum returns to winter hours on Sept. 1, closing Mondays and Tuesdays.

"It is our intent to welcome visitors further into the summer and early fall," Sturman said. "Since everyone has been at home and not able to travel, we anticipate that people will travel closer to home later into the year. We want to accommodate them and allow them time to visit our facility."

A new exhibit is in the 101 Gallery at the museum and is ready for guests to enjoy. Entitled "Let's Rodeo . . . The Art of Rodeo Posters," the exhibit features a selection of posters ranging from the 1910s through 2019. Through its 100-year history, rodeo promotion has taken many forms. One of the most persistent forms is the rodeo poster. The posters featured in the gallery are from artists such as Larry Pirnie, Dave Merrick, Mike Scovel and Buck Taylor.

The exhibit also contains other types of advertising materials, including jackets, shirts, mugs and lapel pins.

Select National Finals Rodeo posters from several years are being sold as part of the exhibit to benefit the Save America's Treasures grant managed by the Institute of Museum and Library Services that the Hall of Fame was awarded in late 2019. The Hall needs to raise money to match the grant award of $95,500 in order to preserve the entire collection of 120 panoramic photographs dating between 1919 and 1959. This project will assist in that fundraising.

Fuller and Ward win $155K cash at one-of-a-kind BFI in Oklahoma

By just seven hundredths of a second over six steers, Kal Fuller of Bozeman, Montana, and Reagan Ward of Purcell, Oklahoma, won the richest event of their sport and split a first-place paycheck worth a record $150,000 at the 43rd Annual Bob Feist Invitational. The event is part of Wrangler BFI Week presented by Yeti, held for the first time inside the Lazy E Arena in Guthrie, Oklahoma, since its usual venue in Reno, Nevada, was shut down due to the pandemic.

"Words can't describe this," said Ward, who won in virtually his hometown, riding a horse he bought from world champion Kollin Von Ahn. "My header is pretty phenomenal. I've never met a 20-year-old that can do the stuff he can do. Most people can't even do what he can do."

The BFI is the most lucrative but challenging team roping event for professionals in America. Under the traditional format, the 100 best teams in the world are invited to rope six steers that have an 18-foot head start, for a purse of more than $600,000 in cash and prizes. Organizers allowed 140 teams this year behind a 20-foot head start, due to the location change, which pushed the purse over $700,000.

Fuller and Ward, 32, were fourth-fastest going into the finals and made a snappy run of 6.04 seconds to win the round and add $5,000 to their total haul. National Finals Rodeo veterans Billie Jack Saebens and Junior Nogueira each roped just one leg. Then the leading team after five rounds, Utah's Pace Freed and Cole Wilson, roped their last steer in 8.35 but fell just short in the aggregate to settle for second and split $100,000.

The number of contestants competing in so many rounds meant the first team roped in Guthrie at 9 a.m. and the final round kicked off at 8 p.m. The BFI has long been a test of mental endurance, which adds to the bragging rights of a championship. Ward actually took a nap in his trailer in the three hours between his first two runs, while Fuller said he tried to keep moving throughout the day.

"I blocked all the pressure out in my mind and tried to just think of it as another practice steer," said Fuller, who had practiced at the home of two-time world champion Chad Masters and at Ward's place prior to the event.

Fuller had only entered the BFI once prior to this year. He credits much of his win to the sorrel horse he calls Marshall that he purchased from Nick Pullara. Meanwhile, Ward's brother Andrew placed fourth in the aggregate with former BFI champ Buddy Hawkins, which meant the Ward brothers took $104,500 back to their native Edmond—less than 20 miles from Guthrie.

The annual Rickey Green Overall Fast Time Award went to Cory Clark and Wyatt Cox, whose 4.65-second time won the fourth round and was the only sub-5-second run of the day. The Montana Silversmiths Head Horse of the BFI Award went home with Chris Francis. He and Cade Passig, both of Las Vegas, N.M., placed seventh in the aggregate this year. Today and in 2018 when they won the BFI together, Francis rode Ima Monty Leo ("Dude"), the 13-year-old sorrel he bought from Kaleb Driggers.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Do you LIKE everyone that you know or meet? I doubt it. We all rub each other the wrong way from time to time... or ALL THE TIME! LOL!

Our instruction from God is to LOVE one another. Like and love are two different things. But whether we like someone or not, we need to respect them and the gift God has put on the inside of them. Because I can guarantee that you probably don't have the gift they have, and vice versa.

Romans 11:29 says, "For God's gifts and His call are irrevocable, (He never withdraws them when once they are given, and He does not change His mind about those to whom He gives His grace or to whom He sends His call.)."

Pride wants everyone else to think like we do. Pride wants us to correct those who are not like us. But before we go to correcting others, we need to check in with God. He made each of us and we are all different for a reason. HE WANTED IT THAT WAY!

You don't know it all. I don't know it all. But if we let God lead us and if we listen, we will be stronger and peace will reign in all our relationships!

Mike and Sherry Morrison pastor "Church at the Barn" in Gillette, WY. They also travel to other areas ministering at barrel races, ranches, rodeos, churches and home Bible studies.
