Parting the Waters— Sadiefamouslastwords & Mary Burger Dominate Calgary Stampede

By Tanya Randall

After years of training great horses and selling them to make a living, Mary Burger waited until her 6th decade to keep one for herself. Her decision to keep Sadiefamouslastwords (“Moe”) put her on a collision course with barrel racing history.

In March, Burger and Moe grabbed the WPRA World Standings lead with a $54,750 Rodeo Houston Championship and virtually assured the Pauls Valley, Okla., barrel racer her first trip to the National Finals Rodeo since 2009.

Now mid-summer, having only entered rodeos that she wants to, Burger and her 8-year-old buckskin gelding have potentially put themselves in position to set earnings records with a $122,000 victory at the historic Calgary Stampede.

“I have to thank my family and God for this horse and the opportunity to do what I’m doing,” said Burger.

Even though only half of the $100,000 Final round victory counts toward the WPRA World Standings, Burger has the lead locked with $170,979.

She and Moe simply dominated the Stampede, winning all four rounds of their opening pool of competition, surviving a tie-up scare to advance into the Finals and parting the waters in a torrential downpour to win the $100,000 by a hundredth of a second over 2012 WPRA World Champions Mary Walker and Perculatin (“Latte”).

Moe’s adaptability to the Calgary conditions amazed the veteran trainer.

“I looked for him to maybe hold his own, but he’s really not that experienced with mud and longer trips,” she said. Other than to Kissimmee, Fla., for the RAM National Circuit Finals, Moe hasn’t really been on the trailer or away from home for long periods of time.

“He handled the ground way better than I thought he would. It’s a gravelly-type sand; it’s not that fine stuff and it packs underneath. I think the footing is a little bit better when it’s pouring down rain. It’s slower because it’s sloppy.”

Even with her farrier husband Kerry at her disposal, Burger said they didn’t make any shoeing changes specifically for the ground, noting that the ground looked pretty decent for their first practice. Moe was due for his regular reset, so they went with his normal shoes.

For much of the event Moe (Sadies Frosty Drift x Porky And Bess x Dash Ta Fame) was his usual self, showing off in practice trying to imitate the rough stock.

Walker Passes the $1 Million Mark

When Mary Walker ran second to Mary Burger at Calgary by 0.01 seconds; she grabbed a $25,000 runner-up check and that combined with her other earnings at Calgary pushed her over the career earnings mark of $1 Million. She is the 7th cowgirl in WPROA History to cross that mark. She joins Sherry Cervi, Charmayne James, Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi, Lisa Lockhart, Lindsay Sears, and Kristie Peterson as millionaire cowgirls. Congratulations Mary!

Mary Burger Closing in on Records

With the $72,000 of her $122,000 win at Calgary counting towards her year end total & winning Houston as well, Mary Burger pushed her earnings to $170,979. This puts her only $13,588 away from the All-Time Regular Season earnings record of $184,567 of Lindsay Sears from 2008 (Calgary did not count towards the standings that year) with 2 1/2 months left in the regular season.

Also, Burger currently holds the record of Oldest World Champion from her Championship in 2006 at 58 years old and with an $81,058 lead in the World Standings over #2 Ivy Conrado, it is possible that at age 67 she could beat her own record.

With the NFR paying record amounts again this year, Burger could make a run at the All-Time Single Year Earnings of $323,570 that Lindsay Sears also set in 2008.

There are a bunch of good horses and jockeys out there that will have a lot to say over the next several months about whether or not Burger breaks these records, but one thing is for sure; Burger is having an awesome year!

Lockhart Wins Calgary's Guy Weadick Award

Barrel racer Lisa Lockhart was presented with the prestigious Guy Weadick award, as the person best representing Stampede values and Spirit. She is one of few cowgirls to receive this award.

"In practice, he'd get to a barrel and buck up, flip his tail and play," laughed Burger. "That's just him. He just shows off. He's a piece of work. They had a little piece of grass where everyone would try to trot and lope a few circles to warm up after the warm-up area got so sloppy. He was cutting up and playing when the jackrabbits would run out from the bushes."

Burger said she's not worried that he'll ever cut up during a run, saying the gelding is normally pretty laid-back and quiet. Unfortunately, the drastic change in weather conditions from warm and sun to cold and wet coupled with his antics caused Moe to tie up on Friday.

"I took him out to get a little exercise; it's so hard to get them out because they only have the pen open so long," she noted. "I took him out there and he bucked around and played and he tied up on me. We were fretting and working pretty hard to get him fit to run Sunday. It was pretty stressful."

The only other time that Moe had tied up was at Rodeo Houston—Burger's other pivotal victory for 2016—where extremes in weather may have prompted the episode.

"We came from decent temperatures (in Oklahoma) to like the upper 90s with it so humid you could almost cut the air with a knife," she recalled. "He did it down there and hadn't done it since, and then I get up there where it got wet and cold, just the opposite, and he did it again."

Luckily the attending veterinarian and advice from her regular veterinarian Charlie Buchanan of Brazos Valley Equine Hospital in Morgan Mill, Texas, helped Moe make a victorious recovery.

"My regular veterinarian Charlie Buchanan was wonderful when Moe tied up there at Calgary," she said. "He coached me through it. Jess Harper did a wonderful job trying to get the soreness out."

She also wanted to thank her sponsors Professional's Choice, Back On Track, Simply Equine, Lubrisyn, Oxy-Gen, Brazos Valley Equine Hospital, and Oxy-Gen.

"They all mean a lot to me," she said. "They keep him safe and prevent a lot of things."

Burger and Moe will run in slack Tuesday morning at the Cheyenne Frontier Days, but afterwards her plans are up in the air as her main goal is to keep Moe "sound and fresh."

"It just depends on how he holds up here, whether he's too tired or sore again," she said. "I'm just going to try to monitor him. I've got good draws at Spanish Fork and Ogden and I kind of wanted to go to them, but if he's not feeling the greatest then we'll have to skip them.”

Burger will likely head home soon anyway. She needs to make five more circuit rodeos to qualify for the Prairie Circuit Finals. Plus, several of them like Dodge City, Kansas, and Lawton, Okla., pay pretty well too.

“We just don’t want to haul to that many rodeos anymore,” she said. “We want to limit to just what we want to go to and what we have time for. Kerry can only be gone so long because he’s got customers that need to be taken care of. We’re kind of working with that too.”

In fact, they’ve been gone long enough that Kerry is having to fly back to shoe horses, while their eldest son Todd will fly in to serve as chauffer for Spanish Fork and Ogden.

World Standings this week over the last several years

With Calgary wrapped up this past weekend, we thought it would be fun to see where the world standings were over the last 3 years this same week after Calgary and compare it with what it took to make the NFR in those years and see where we may end up this year as a cutoff!

So in 2013; Kelli Tobert sat #15 with $41,977 in earnings; then on Sep 30, Trula Churchill sat #15 with $66,726 in earnings; a $24,759 difference. In 2014 this week, Trula Churchill sat #15 with $52,247; then on Sep 30 of that year, Jana Bean qualified to the NFR #15 with $70,415; a $18,168 difference. In 2015; Meghan

Johnson stood #15 with $40,142 this week; then Deb Guelly filled the #15 spot to the NFR earning $59,931 at the end of the year; a difference of $19,789. So over the last 3 years the average difference in the #15 position in the world between the standings the week after Calgary and the end of the regular season has been $20,905. So here we are now in 2016, Sherry Cervi sits in the #15 position with $41,191 the week after Calgary. So if we use that average difference over the past 3 years, this year it should take somewhere in the ballpark of $62,096 to make the NFR. It is sure going to be an exciting 2 1/2 months to finish off this season and see who runs at the big money in Vegas!

Hillman & Cuatro Fame Heat Up Casper & Break Into Top 15

by Hope Sickler

Weatherford, Texas cowgirl Stevi Hillman is becoming a household name in the rodeo industry. With her latest win at Central Wyoming Fair and Rodeo in Casper, Wyoming, she has boosted herself into the top 15 in the WPRA World Standings in hopes of qualifying for her first NFR.

Hillman, 29, and her main sidekick in the arena, Cuatro Fame, aka Truck, stopped the clock in their first run at Casper in 17.30-seconds, just .6-hundredths of a second in front of last year's NFR qualifier Sarah Rose McDonald who finished in second in the first round with a 17.36.

"The barrels at Casper were close to the wall on the first and second barrel, so my game plan was to drive harder by them than what we normally do. I knew I had to be sharp and make sure to get correct positioning to get him by. He worked great and we won the round," explained Hillman.

Cuatro Fame "Truck" is 9-years-old and by the immortal Dash Ta Fame and out of Princess Streaks by Streak Laico Bird. He is owned by Jason and Melissa Mouton. Hillman was handed the reins on the talented gelding a year and a half ago after Melissa had started and hauled the gelding but had to put a halt on her training and riding due to being diagnosed with Lupus.

"I am very grateful for this wonderful opportunity to ride not only "Truck", who is beyond talented but also Morning Traffic who is owned by Michelle Darling. I have two very talented horses under me, but also owners who are beyond amazing and are helping make my dreams a reality."

Going into the short round at Casper, Hillman knew that as long as she did her job, "Truck" would do his.

"Having such a nice run in the first round, I just wanted to come back and make a smooth run in the short round in hopes of securing the average win. He fired super hard and smoked a run. It was a very fun run!"

Running a 17.21, Hillman finished second in the short round behind NFR qualifier Nellie Miller, and won the average with her time of 34.51-seconds on two runs.

Hillman, who travels with her husband Ty, stays mentally strong thanks to Ty and his very special talent with mental coaching and preparation for success.

"Thanks to Ty, I have the mental soundness and mental game that I do today and he hardly ever gets enough credit for it. He started coaching me a couple years ago and it has been a huge game changer in my focus and how I look at certain things," Hillman said. "Although he is my coach, he is my husband and there's always the hard balance there. But I feel like we make a really great team."

Prior to her runs, Hillman listens to certain songs and motiva-tional videos throughout the week and morning of a run. For her horse, her #1 pre-race ritual is a good massage the night before to help loosen his muscles so he can have a relaxing night before the next day. On race day Hillman will bow and stretch "Truck" followed by long trotting and pretty light warm-up. Hillman always makes sure she focuses on keeping him in a place where he is happy and calm right before they make their run.

Although they have moved into the top 15 in the WPRO World Standings, Hillman is sticking to her guns about the rest of the season.

"It is very exciting to think about it and it is definitely a dream come true to just be where I am today. It is still too early to count on anything because there is a lot of money yet to win but my goal will not change; I focus on one run at a time no matter what."

Sue Smith & Dashes Centerfold Continue Winning Ways at Glacier Chaser Classic

By Tanya Randall

Veteran futurity trainer Sue Smith of Blackfoot, Idaho, has another great one on her hands, Dashes Centerfold, a 5-year-old daughter of Dash Ta Fame out of the Proudest Effort mare Diamonds Tiny Effort.

"I'm pretty high on her right now," said the former National Finals Rodeo qualifier. "I think she's pretty special, for sure." Smith and Centerfold added to their ever-growing list of futurity championships with a clean-sweep victory at the Glacier Chaser Classic in Kalispell, Mont. The victory was worth $6,162.

"I'm super excited about her," said Smith. "Every time she does that . . . it makes me emotional thinking about how honest she is and how hard she tries every time. She's probably, in that aspect, the best one that I've ever had."

Asking Smith how Centerfold compares to her former futurity greats, she said it's hard to say which is best because they're all individuals. In regards to her most famous futurity standout and eventual National Finals Rodeo qualifier Real Claim To Fame ("Claimer"), the main difference was his gelding mentality.

"He's incredibly gifted as an athlete, but he doesn't have that mare grit that she has," she said comparing the two. "I think you can only get that from a mare or stallion that really wants to try." Smith said she has no plans to sell Centerfold.

"I'm planning on pulling some embryos out of her next spring and her colt that I have out her (a weanling buckskin colt by A Smooth Guy) is looking pretty good," she said. "He's a fun colt to be around so I'm excited about him."

Smith pointed to the mare's bloodlines for the source of her talent.

"The Proudest Efforts have a lot of try," she noted. "Sometimes too much. I think crossed on Dash Ta Fame it just made it the right amount. It's a good balance."

While the mare was a touch green earlier in the year and relied on her speed and determination to get to the winner's circle, now she has the confidence to crave her job.

"This spring she was still inconsistent and green," said Smith. "She can really run so she was having trouble gauging her speed and getting set up for her turns as well. Now she seems to have a handle on that, or maybe I do. She's just getting more solid that way. She's physically filled out and developed. She knows her job now. She knows what she's going in there to do and she seems to like her job."

Centerfold is pointed to the last of the major futurities for 5-year-olds: Fizz Bomb, Parker-Wood Memorial, Copper Spring Ranch, WPRA World Finals and JB Quarter Horses.

"It's nice to have good futurities to go to," said Smith, who commended the Glacier Chaser Classic. "They did a really good job and

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

In John 16:33 it says, "These things I have spoken to you, that in Me you may have peace. In the world you will tribulation but be of good cheer, I (Jesus) have overcome the world." That's a promise straight from Jesus Himself. No matter what is going on in our lives, we can have peace. But if you don't know what the Bible says, your convictions/beliefs will only last until the first test. Like: "I am going on a diet, and I am going to lose 20 lbs!"...until that donut gets offered to you. Or: "I am going to go on a budget and I am getting out of debt!"...until you see the newest style of headstalls/saddle pads/boots/horse trailers or whatever. We do NOT want to be that way! We want to walk in the Word of God and all the promises in it no matter what anyone says or does to the contrary.

So here's a funny story. We picked up our two granddaughters for church and as we were driving there, Cylee (5) told us that they got to go to the zoo in Billings. She was sooo excited! She described the animals she had seen, but her favorites were the tigers and the red pandas!

And the conversation went like this:

"And we got to see the tigers and the pandas!"

From Papa Mike, "I shoot tigers."

GASP! "Papa you can't shoot tigers, they are "in danger!" (En-

Papa, "I don't care, if they got out I would shoot them."

"You can't Papa, they are "in danger" RIGHT NOW!"

Papa. "I don't care, if they got out, they would eat cows and sheep....."

Grandma. "...and children."

There was a brief pause from the back seat and then.....

SHOOT HIM, PAPA! SHOOT HIM!

Her convictions only lasted until she THOUGHT she might be in danger, even though she wasn't in any at all! We do that sometimes. We worry about what MIGHT HAPPEN and we cave on what we believed that very morning! Say it out loud with me...

"Jesus has overcome everything that affects me and I trust HIM!"
Good job!
