Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi & Yeah Hes Firen Win Fourth California Ro-Day-O Championship

By Tanya Randall

Yeah, he's back. Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi's World Champion Yeah Hes Firen ("Duke") is back in the winner's circle after an injury sent him into early retirement four years ago.

When it looked as if the 15-year-old gelding was going to continue to stay sound after a few runs over Fourth of July, Brittany told her husband Garrett she knew just where she wanted to go with Duke.

"When I did think this actually was all going to happen, I told Garrett we're going to Salinas," she said. "I just wanted him for Salinas."

At the California Rodeo (Ro-DAY-O, for the locals) in Salinas, Brittany and Duke returned to their championship form, winning their fourth title, and earning $10,657.

More important, Duke found his fire again. They won the first round, placed second in the second, ninth in the third and third in the short to win the average by a half-second.

"For him to win the first round and to come back in the second round and run a 1/100th off of Nellie (Miller's) horse, whose been just smoking it, ... The third round, I went in and made the 'I'm not going to hit a barrel' run. It was slower. It wasn't him; it was all me. I wasn't going to hit a barrel and screw this all up," Brittany said.

"The short round, I swear he ran harder than he did all three rounds combined. He was running so hard. At the third barrel, I kind of had to say 'Whoa' and bump him a little bit because he was hauling butt! That's been the whole deal since I got him back. I didn't feel that fire. It just took us this long to get that fire back. You're off for four years and it's not going to come right back. It's also me not wanting to run him a super whole lot. That makes it hard to get their running air back. I've been fighting that whole—well do I run him or do I not?"

"I did take him to a jackpot before he left to go to Salinas and I was like, 'I'm just going to sit on him and let him cruise, let him do his deal,' and he won the jackpot by 2/10ths. It's just finally coming together."

Bred by Phyllis Wells, Duke is by Alive N Firen out of Splendid Discovery, by Shoot Yeah. Brittany purchased him his futurity year from Latricia Duke and won her 2009 World Championship largely due to Duke's efforts.

Just a few weeks before the 2013 National Finals Rodeo, Duke injured his deep digital flexor tendon. Working with her veterinarian Marty Tanner, Brittany tried to rehab the gelding from the initial injury without success. About a year later she tried again, but Duke didn't stay sound through the light conditioning process. Ready to give up, Duke went to a friend's ranch to live out his days eating green grass in the pasture.

Shortly after the 2017 NFR, Brittany got a surprise video from her friend.

"He was running and bucking and hitting and turning," she said. "I was like 'Oh my gosh! This is crazy! He's so sound and he looks great!' I sent it to Marty and said, 'Doesn't this make you sick? Why can't I ride him?' He sent me a text back and said start putting him on the walker. I called him back, 'You are not serious?' He was like, 'Yeah, put him on the walker. Just don't rush it.' So, we did."

"We put him on the walker every two or three days. We did that for a month and he stayed sound. It went from that to 'Well, let's take him and swim him and see what happens.' That lasted a month and he was still sound. I just never got my hopes up. Each process, he kept doing well. Finally, I was like it's time to get on him and run him."

Tie-down roping arena record falls at Cheyenne Frontier Days Rodeo

Sterling Smith has won some legendary rodeos and had a lot of success as a tie-down roper in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, but what he did at the third performance of the Cheyenne Frontier Days Rodeo.

Smith, from Stephenville, Texas, roped and tied a calf in the fastest time in the 122-year history of the rodeo in Frontier Park. The two-time Wrangler National Finals Rodeo (NFR) qualifier stopped the clock in 9.4 seconds a half second faster than the previous record of 9.9.

That was first set in 1997 by Chad Johnston from Cut Bank, Montana. Then, 17 years later, Cade Swor, from Winnie, Texas clocked another 9.9 here. Another Texan, Scott Kormos, matched it again in 2017.

"I had a really good calf," Smith said. "I knew it was good and felt like I could be fast. I'm still letting it soak in. My horse worked perfect and it just came together."

The first person Smith was going to call after catching his breath, watching the rest of the ropers compete and talking to the media, was his dad, Brad Smith, who was the 1978 world champion team roper. Because team roping was added to the roster of events at the "Daddy of 'em All" for the first time in 2001, Smith's father has never competed here.

Smith will rope his second calf here tomorrow and if he has another solid run, he will have a lot to report back home. He is riding a 10-year-old gelding owned by his girlfriend that they call Pepto.

"Pepto works really good here. He's patient," he said. "He seems to fit me really well and has made a big difference for me this year." Sterling was ranked 12th in the PRCA world standings prior to competing here.

Duke made his return to the arena in the second round at the Corpus Christi, Texas, pro rodeo.

"It was like I was pressing the gas, but the park break was on," she laughed. "He left and then he got real, real short like he was unsure. I took him to a little jackpot after that and it got a little better. It was a slow, long process because we didn't want to push it. We wanted him to tell us if this is going to work or not."

Brittany said her farrier Scott Funston also played a large role in Duke's return throughout his four-year hiatus.

"He flies in every six weeks to Victoria from Colorado," she said. "He shod him every six weeks like clockwork. He never went without being shod. I think that was a huge part of it."

At Salinas, Duke had to make four runs in a row. A throwback to the early days of pro rodeo, every contestant gets three runs at Salinas in back-to-back go-rounds. All of the contestants run in slack held late in the morning, except for the 12 that will run in the performance that night. The top 12 on three come back to a short round.

"I like being up in all slacks at Salinas because I get to have my day off. Slack starts at 10:30 so you get to sleep in a little bit, you run, and you're done. We went to Monterey twice and ate seafood. It's a nice break from what we do every day. It's nice to get there and hang out and then jump on a plane getting where you need to go.

With her husband's team roping slack at Cheyenne, Wyoming, conflicting with Salinas, Brittany caught a ride with Andrea Busby to Salinas. Together they were able to fly to Salt Lake for the Utah rodeos.

"Andrea (Busby) and I combined forces last week. Without her and Jeff this wouldn't have happened," said Brittany. She flew to Spanish Fork, Utah, to run KissKiss BangBang on Friday night and should draw a good check as she was sitting second as of press time.

After Salinas, Brittany returned to Salt Lake to run in the WCRA's Days of '47 Rodeo. She and Mona advanced to the medal round on Tuesday night. Her week doesn't get any easier from there. She's got her second run at Cheyenne on Wednesday, Rock Springs, Wyoming, on Thursday, Preston, Idaho, on Friday morning with Eagle, Colorado, on Friday night, then all the way to Burwell, Nebraska, Saturday, and hopefully the Cheyenne short round on Sunday. Duke won't run again until Dodge City, Kansas, the first weekend in August.

"I'm still entered pretty good," said 15-time NFR veteran. "I don't feel safe. I've got about $73,000 won. I feel like I need to win $15- or $20,000 more. Every week, I feel like I need to win more than I thought I did."

She currently sits eighth in the WPRA World Standings with $73,962.

Hansen and Sky High Guy Capitalize in Edmonton

Nikki Steffes and her trusty yellow gelding, Sky High Guy, have been quietly and consistently winning through the 2018 rodeo season. After their whopping $10,951 win at Edmonton, AB at the K Days Rodeo, this dynamic team should move into the Top 20 (after the WPRA updates the standings this next week) and within striking distance of making the NFR so we caught up with her to ask her a few questions:

BRR: Can you walk us through your run in Edmonton?

Hansen: To be perfectly honest, everything happened so fast in that building that it's really just a blur. Sky was on point and flawless; it was a run I will replay in my mind and try to duplicate!

BRR: What was your prerun mental preparation and warmup routine before your run in Edmonton?

Steffes: My warm up routine stays the same no matter what type of pen we're running in. I spend 10 minutes or so walking, trot several minutes both directions, and lope 2-3 circles each direction. Throughout my warm up, I make sure Sky is responsive to my hands and feet in case we need to make an adjustment during the run.

Hansen: To mentally prepare, I pick a few key elements that need to happen during the run and focus on what I need to do to make them happen. In Edmonton, I knew my approach to the first barrel was crucial, so that was my main focus in my warm up and final moments before running down the alley.

BRR: Tell us about your horse, where your horse came from, and what makes him such a winner.

Hansen: Sky was raised by Bill and Debbie Myers, and I ran him at the fall futurities for them when he was a 4 year old stallion. He had quite a successful futurity year, but unfortunately he ended up being infertile and was gelded.

Ironically enough, I have one of only two colts he sired- a 7 year old gelding ("Let The Skyfall").

I purchased Sky in May of 2013 from the Myers. I always loved Sky, and I am so thankful to them for letting me buy him. I was at a crossroads in my life- I either needed to continue my barrel racing career or go to dental school. If it wasn't for Sky, my life would have taken a completely different path.

Sky's consistency and huge heart make him a winner. He gives his all every time, and he's extremely consistent. He makes barrel racing very fun!!!!

BRR: Does your horse have any special humorous quirks?

Hansen: Sky is absolutely a perfect gentleman. He is loving, sweet, and so incredibly kind that my 16 month old little girl can ride him. However, he can be a bit of handful to ride when he's fresh.

BRR: How did you end up barrel racing and what do you love about the sport?

Hansen: I started barrel racing at 4 years old on my first horse Grey Toadina (yes, that was actually her name) in my Dad's hayfield. I've always had a passion for horses and barrel racing. I love the competition and watching great horses/jockeys.

BRR: Do you have a role model in barrel racing? Who is it and why do you look up to them?

Hansen: I have such respect and admiration for every barrel racer. This sport is so rewarding, yet so challenging- one day your on top of Mt Everest and the next day you could be down in Death Valley. My role models are those that persevere, ride the rough waves, and find ways to keep winning.

BRR: If you could share one piece of advice to other barrel racers, what would it be?

Hansen: Always listen to your inner voice/gut feeling. No one knows your horse better than you, and use this knowledge to decide when, where, and how much to enter or run. I can honestly say that small voice, or gut feeling, has never led me astray, as long as I listen to it!

Farr and DD Dee Cee Stampede Champions

If you have been watching the rodeo results over the last month or so, you may have noticed Meka Farr and her 9 yr old gelding, Dd Dee Cee, getting bigger and bigger checks leading to their big win at Nampa, ID. She nearly swept the rodeo winning the Finals and Average while winning 2nd in the 1st Round on the way to an $11,400 paycheck at Nampa. We caught up with Farr to learn a little more about this team!

BRR: Can you walk us through your runs in the Nampa? How did they compare to each other?

Farr: This was the first time we have ran in this arena and my first barrel was a little wide on my first run. On our second run we cleaned up the first.

BRR: What was your prerun mental preparation and warmup routine before your runs in Nampa?

Farr: I kept my routine and warm up the same as always. I usually get on at the end of saddle broncs or start of tie down. I like to do a lot of long trotting to make sure he is warmed up good.

BRR: Tell us about your horse, where your horse came from, and what makes him such a winner.

Farr: I bought him as a yearling. He was a very calm horse and easy to start I had no idea he would love to run barrels. He is honest in the pattern and if he goes by a barrel he will try to correct on his own. He gives his whole heart each and every time he runs. He loves what he does.

BRR: Does your horse have any special humorous quirks?

Farr: Well... he does have a few. Every time you go load he will always stop and pause before jumping in. When you clean his stall with him in it he will push the wheelbarrow around.

Hildreth & Too Chains Dominate 5-State Breeders Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Taylor Hildreth of Olathe, Colorado, and her homebred gelding Too Chains almost had a clean sweep of the 5-State Breeders Futurity, held July 19-22 in Rapid City, South Dakota. The $23,000-added Futurity is only open to offspring of participating stallions that stand in either South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska or Montana.

Too Chains, named for a popular rap artist, is by Nebraska-based Ima Firefighter. The 5-year-old gelding laid claim to $9,005 of the event purse with $8,563 coming from the futurity championship. "I'm so excited to win this one because I know he's amazing and has all the capabilities," said Hildreth, who has been in the hunt for a futurity title with Too Chains several times this season. "He's been so close! It's been down barrels or just little things. I'd just been waiting."

At the 5-State, they practically dominated, winning the first two rounds and placing third in the short go en route to the average victory.

"The first round he had an awesome run," Hildreth recalled. "He was the last horse out."

On their second run, they turned in a 16.984 on a WPRA Standard Pattern, which had been Hildreth's goal.

"He's really honest and does exactly what I tell him in his run," she explained. "I have a tendency to sit down a little too early on second, and it just causes him to shorten up his stride. So, I knew I just needed to stay up riding into the second barrel. His second run was virtually flawless. He fired really hard, stayed honest."

With a solid lead in the two-run average going into the short round, Hildreth knew she had a bit of wiggle-room and played it safe on her third run.

"I got him a little bit by his barrels, just to make sure we were safe," she said. "He really wants to work. I've hit a few barrels to have more wins, but he works really hard and he'll catch them on the backside. I really wanted to make sure I rode him deep into the barrels, so we didn't have that problem."

Hildreth and her husband, Coy, raised Too Chains, who is out of the Proudest Effort daughter, See Ya Leah, whom they bought from Thorstonsens', when they were dispersing their mares after selling WPRA World Champion Sire Sadies Frosty Drift to Brazil.

"Unfortunately, she was older, and we didn't get that many babies out of her," added Hildreth. The mare lost a Shawne Bug Leo late term and not wanting to deal with losing anymore foals, Hildreth offered her to Snowey Range Livestock, where she was bred to their stallion Ragged Charm. Taylor later purchased that gelding as a yearling last fall.

A mother of two children under the age of 4, Hildreth said Too Chains will likely be up for sale after his futurity career.

"I don't rodeo, so he'll probably be for sale," she said. "Hopefully, he finds the perfect place and can go rodeo, because I really think he'd make an excellent rodeo horse. He has such a good mind and he really wants to take care of himself. He has really good foot placement. I swear he always knows where his feet are, I really think he'll make a great rodeo horse at some point. I'll keep him going through the fall and we'll see what his fate is."

Hildreth also took the Futurity Reserve Championship on Webb Ranch's Morning Sun Shine. The 5-year-old daughter of Frenchmans Guy out of Robin Meade, a daughter of Dash Ta Fame out of the NFR-qualifying Tres Seis mare Tell Em Belle, won $5,975 on the weekend.

"She's awesome," Hildreth said. "I just got her in April. We've been working a few things out and trying to get things together. Our goal was to have her really doing good by 5-States and that happened! We were really proud of her."

Hildreth wanted to thank her sponsors as well as the 5-State crew. "5-State is always such a fun race," she said. "They always put such a good futurity on. Lana is the best of the best as far as that is concerned. It's one of my favorite futurities. I look forward to it every year. It's fun. They have little extras for the kids. It's just great."

Amanda Butler & TS Cinch Ta Fame Earn High School National Championship

By Tanya Randall

The aptly named TS Cinch Ta Fame ("Tic") carried Payson, Utah's Amanda Butler to the barrel racing championship at the 2018 Cinch National High School Rodeo Finals in Rock Springs, Wyoming.

It was the second straight trip to the NHSFR for the pair. Last year, they placed fifth in a round and finished 13th in the average.

This year, Butler started out her championship journey with a 17.662 to place 13th in the first round and followed it up with a third-place finish in the second round with a 17.328.

"My runs really weren't that awesome," said Butler, a 16-year-old, soon-to-be senior. "He always blew the first barrel. He blew it really bad the first run. The second run, he was a little closer to it, but he still blew it. Then, he got really, really close on the third barrel. I thought we were going to take it out, but we didn't."

She said she's dealt with first barrel issues with Tic in the past, but she thinks nerves on both of their parts didn't help them at Rock Springs.

"I thought I had it fixed before we went to Nationals," Butler said. "I took him to a jackpot in Spanish Fork before we left, and he wrapped the first barrel. I just think when we got there, he was amped up and I was amp(ed) up."

Butler and Tic turned in their best run of the NHSFR, a 17.149, for second place in the short round after a little tuning session.

"Before I ran in the short round, I got up early, and my sister, Lauren, worked with me, so we could get him to turn the first barrel tighter. When we ran, it was good," she said.

Butler didn't expect to have much of a chance for the championship, so she had started back to the barns with Tic

"I didn't think I would win because I was 13th in the first round," she said. "I just told myself to keep trying my hardest and if it happens, it happens. After I ran, there were still a few girls that could bump me down, so I headed back to the stalls. Then, the National Director for Utah called my dad and said I needed to get back to the arena. That's when I knew for sure that I had won."

Butler didn't grow up in a rodeo family, but she and her sister took an interest in horses when they were younger.

"I actually wanted to be a horse when I was little," she said. "I started riding when I was 6, but then I got bucked off and it scared me. So, I took a year break. Then I started horseback riding lessons again. We started 4-H and the (Bruce and Lori) Pulhams got us into rodeo."

She partnered with Tic a little over two years ago.

"He's the biggest puppy ever," she laughed.

Bred by Sterling and Shauna Smith, Tic is by all-time leading barrel horse sire Dash Ta Fame out of the Sir Cashanova mare, Shez Sucha Snap. Tink got his competitive start in the aged event arena under the guidance of Jill Atkinson. He was 7 when the Smiths sold him to the Butlers.

"I want to thank parents (Mark and Kim) for pretty much sacrificing everything they have for me and to my sister Lauren for always helping me and making sure I'm running my best; Jill Atkinson for always lending me a helping hand and Shauna Smith for selling me her baby; Dr. Bo Beck for keeping my horses sound and running their best, and Max Harris for shoeing them."

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

As I was peeling my very hot jeans off at the barrel race last weekend, I was wondering just how in the world a person could live in humid climates! I felt like I couldn't breathe and those shorts looked so inviting!

I also know that people from the south who come to Wyoming in January wonder just what is wrong with us! It's interesting how we can all get used to something, and we never ask ourselves why we are 'settling for' something that is less than the best! God's kids should NEVER settle for less than the best of anything.

If we pray and obey God, He will lead us out of all contrary situations and into His very best in every area of our lives! Jer. 29:11-13 says, "For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, says the Lord, thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you a future and a hope. Then you will call upon Me and go and pray to Me, and I will listen to you. And you will seek Me and find Me, when you search for Me WITH ALL YOUR HEART!"

Since I've been in the ministry, I have noticed this...we all want God when we want God. But if we perceive that there is no need, we live like WE want, checking in with Him whenever, and IF ever, we want.

Friends, if you want to live in the very best, God needs to be FIRST place in our lives. Not after our job, spouse's, children, horses, vacations, etc. First place. And when we do, He will see to it that our lives are elevated to the very best in all things!
