World Champ Hailey Kinsel & DM Sissy Hayday Take High Money Honors Over Cowboy Christmas

By Tanya Randall

The list of triumphs and accolades are long for three-time and defending WPRA World Champion Hailey Kinsel and DM Sissy Hayday ("Sis"), but the dynamic duo from Cotulla, Texas, captured their first high-money title over Cowboy Christmas this year. They won just over $22,000 at three rodeos to take the title, plus got a little help from her ageless backup Thunder Stones ("TJ") to make Kinsel's official Fourth of July haul $22,238.

"It was great!" said Kinsel of her Fourth of July run. "Sis has been just amazing. We've drawn good at some and not good at others. She's made everything work. She's just been incredible. She's been amazing everywhere. I'm really excited, she's feeling fresh and good and ready to go to some more. I'm grateful for that and for everyone that keeps her feeling amazing."

Kinsel, who had college buddy Mackenzie McBeth to help her drive and care for the horses, started her Fourth of July run in St Paul, Oregon, the richest added, one-run rodeo of the week.

"We were hanging out in Reno waiting for the short go and I thought this is probably the closest I'm going to get to going to Oregon and running at St Paul," said Kinsel. "After having three runs in a row in Reno, I wanted her to have a couple of days without a lot of traveling. We just eased our way up there and got there early to get ready."

Going to St. Paul meant turning out of the Greeley Stampede in Colorado and the World's Oldest Rodeo in Prescott, Arizona. As a backup plan if she didn't make the short round in Reno, Kinsel had entered Lehi, Utah, and then planned on dropping down to Prescott, a rodeo that she thought Sis would do well at, before heading up to Oakley, Utah. Making the short round at Reno changed all that.

"It's hard with entries staggered so far I decided I was just going to enter for options," she explained. "If I didn't get the draw I wanted, I was going to enter somewhere else. This year is such a drawing contest everywhere. There's no way around it because the slacks are so big. You've just got to have a good draw. I just committed to if I didn't have a good draw I wasn't going to make the trip."

Like at Greeley, she figured her odds of winning big from that position were low so she chose not to make the drive, and with Greeley out, she opted not to enter Colorado Springs at all.

"I had options," she continued. "I knew she'd do well at Prescott and I was excited about that, but I figured I was already this close to Oregon and I always wanted to go to St Paul. I had a good draw, being toward the top of the ground in a perf. I was excited to go there. I added up the money I could win there too."

Kinsel said two runs and an average at Prescott are appealing, but her draw and an increase of added money to $25,000 at St Paul sent her north.

After hanging out in Reno, Kinsel made a leisurely trip to St. Paul, arriving on Tuesday. The early arrival allowed her to show Sister the unique lay of the land, the Christmas trees around the arena and the tunnel under the grandstands into the arena.

"I've always wanted to run her there because it's big, wide open," she said. "I've only been to Pecos twice and she's won it both times, so I know she's fun in big, wide open pens. I thought St. Paul has got to be fun as long as the trees don't scare her or the tunnel. I didn't know if she would run back under the bleachers very well. Then after I looked at it, there's not a lot of room to stop in there so I'd rather run across the timer and just pull up. I just wanted to get her there early so she could see the alleyway and walk up underneath those bleachers and not be scared. If she can see it, she's usually fine. If she can't see it first, she's usually like, 'Are you sure about this?'"

Kinsel and Sister took an early lead at St. Paul and ultimately finished second for $6,705.

After running at St. Paul, Kinsel headed toward Oakley, Utah, making it part way before stopping for the night. She finished up the 12 and 1/2 hour trip the next day.

"That's quite a trip," she chuckled. "It's always longer than the map says!"

Kinsel and Sister were out in the first performance, but ground trouble left them with a tipped first barrel.

"It was kind of shifty and she kind of slid by the first barrel and got a little tight on the backside. I just pulled her up and loped out," said Kinsel. "My oops at Oakley is the only place since Guymon that she hasn't won a check."

She stayed the night in Oakley and let the horses rest most of the next day before making the hour drive to West Jordan, Utah, where she was out in slack after the rodeo.

"The weather was nice and it was a good rest for Sis after a long haul and two runs," Kinsel said. "I ran TJ at West Jordan and placed on him there. That slack took a long time. I thought we would have plenty of time, and we did, but they didn't even start slack until 11. I ran at 11:30 and we had to hustle to get on the road after that. I ran TJ because I wouldn't run her and then throw her on the trailer and run the next day."

The 7-hour trip from West Jordan to Cody, Wyoming, was their only overnight drive of the Fourth of July rodeo.

"Normally I don't make overnights if I can help it," Kinsel said. "With the heat, it's really not a bad thing. As hot as it was in Utah we were able to drive that at night. (Sis) had rested all day so I knew she would be fresh. We made it most of the way that night and stopped and rested a couple of hours at an arena along the way. We went on to Cody that morning. There's so many people slack, we knew the stalls and pens would be taken. We just rested part way and we got there later so we knew slack would be cleared out a little bit so we could get some stalls or pens.

"Sis was feeling spunky and we were feeling...just dead! I drank a 5-Hour Energy and got ready to roll. I was toward the end of slack so I knew I would have enough time to make it and get ready for that run."

Kinsel and Sis took the lead which held until Emily Beisel and Namgis D 33 bested them by 2/100ths. The second-place finish was worth $8,099.

She stayed the night in Cody before making an easy drive to Livingston for late morning slack on the Fourth of July. They topped their two second-place finishes with a win, worth $7,200.

The incredible Cowboy Christmas cash bumped Kinsel to No. 2 in the WPRa World Standings with $55,859. At the beginning of June, Kinsel wasn't even in the Top 25, largely because she was seasoning younger horses and saving Sis for the summer.

"When you look at the rodeos and realize 75 percent of the money is ahead of you, it puts into perspective what you need to run at and what you need to wait for," said Kinsel. "I really wanted to save her for the bigger rodeos because I know I can count on her to be winning big checks."

With Sis rearing to go, Kinsel plans on staying in the intermountain west, mainly through Wyoming and Utah.

"It's a little less driving and lots of good rodeos," she said.

Emily Beisel & Namgis D 33 Top Cody Stampede, Win $18,913 Over Fourth of July

By Tanya Randall

Two-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier Emily (Miller) Beisel and her talented trio of geldings picked up $18,913 over the Fourth of July run.

"I was pretty proud of them," said Beisel of her three check-drawing mounts. "They were really good this week."

The dental hygienist from Weatherford, Oklahoma, moved to No. 4 in the WPROA World Standings with $48,500.

"We're in a good place," she said. "I'm really tickled with that. I don't even know if we were in the Top 15 a month ago. I kind of piddle-pattered earlier this year. I kept the horses sharp, but not over ran. I was hoping to capitalize on this last week and it worked out. We had some luck."

Beisel said she entered everywhere over the Fourth and let the draw dictate where she went.

"I'm so thankful my husband is so forgiving," she said of her husband Austin. "For the last month, our dining room table has been covered in papers, laptops, planners and erasers. I've just learned that you've got to be really flexible this time of year because your plans will change."

You enter everything. As tough as it is, it's tough to win with a bad draw and it's really tough to win with a tired horse. I just figured out that if I don't think my odds are good, it's better to make a different plan and skip than to risk injury to my horse. I think my saving grace is that I can alternate them and they were all sound and ready to go for Cowboy Christmas."

Her original plan was to run at Greeley, Colorado, first and then catch the qualifier for Colorado Springs before running at Prescott, Arizona. Oakley and West Jordan, Utah, would be next before the Gateway Rodeos (named for their proximity to the Yellowstone Park entrances) of Cody, Wyoming, and Red Lodge and Livingston, Montana. St Paul, Oregon, would be her last one.

That is not what happened at all.

"I had to make a completely different plan because I wasn't getting what I needed at Prescott and nobody was trading there with good reason too," she said. "It's a long way out of the way. You have a small window to make it there. That's the thing with the excessive entries that everyone is seeing right now. You're not getting your preference a lot and we're begging for trades. I was super fortunate that I had a lot of girls that were able to help me out." She entered Belle Fourche on a whim as backup plan to the backup plans. When she drew first out in the first performance, she took a harder look at the rest of the Dakota rodeos.

"I was like, 'Alright, plans are changing. We may be going to the Dakotas.' That's the thing about the Fourth, you can have this master plan... It's been since 2017 that I've been to the Dakotas over the Fourth. I really like Utah, and Prescott has been good to me. I love Oakley. They've been good to my pocket book. You try to go where you know your horse is good at. Schedule-wise, it just wasn't lining up for me. You have to be so flexible over the Fourth. Like I pretty much enter everything and then go where I have the best draws and can try to hit a cluster of rodeos without putting too many miles on my horses. I can enter more rodeos because I have more horses, and that is a luxury that not everybody has."

Beisel split her rig with Bidden On Fame ("Beau") in one and Namgis D 33 ("Chongo") and Namgis D 35 ("Pipewrench") in the other. She enlisted the help of Carlie Jones to haul the two Bucks Hancock Dudes and then commandeered Carlie's mother Karen into driving Beau's rig, while she flew.

From Reno, Karen took Beau to St. Paul. Carlie headed to Colorado with Chongo and Pipewrench, while Beisel flew in for the qualifier at Colorado Springs on Monday, June 28, and Greeley on June 29.

"It is cheaper for me to fly," she said. "I know that makes no sense. With the price of fuel the way it is right now, getting seven miles to the gallon, it is literally cheaper to book plane tickets. Splitting my rig and giving those horses a couple of days in between and not having them on the trailer every single day made such a difference for them."

From Greeley, Beisel flew to St. Paul, where Beau tied for fourth out of the first performance out of the rodeo for $3,771.

"I tried to put Beau at the weirdest setups because he always seems to handle funky setups and weird ground," she said. St. Paul with its Christmas trees in the arena, slick footing and alleyway tunnel on the grandstands fit that description.

Meanwhile, Carlie drove the horses from Colorado to the Dakotas. The favorable draw on July 1 in Belle Fourche resulted in a third-place finish worth $2,778 on Chongo. The next night Pipewrench's run held for third at Mandan, North Dakota, worth $2,240.

On July 3, Beisel was out in Mobridge, South Dakota, in morning slack and the performance that night in Cody, Wyoming.

"We didn't have a lot of time between Mobridge and Cody," she said. "I had a catastrophic morning. I thought I broke my finger and I had my hand taped up. I could not ride my horse and I tipped a barrel. I'm glad that happened because I knew I had to deal with the pain when I ran at Cody. Having your fingers tapped doesn't work very well when you're trying to grip the reins!"

Chongo, who had been resting since Belle Fourche, got the call in Cody, a rodeo that has been a source of heartbreak for Beisel the past few years.

"Cody is just...oh my gosh...is like the rodeo that I'm so close I can taste it, but I've never been able to win," she said with the growl of frustrations past in her voice. "It's kind of been the rodeo that's made me want to go home at times. In 2017, I tipped a barrel to win Cody on Pipewrench. That was a heartbreaker. I had such a trying Fourth. I hadn't won anything. I go there and my horse works amazing and I catch the third barrel leaving. I was just shattered. Last year, I wasn't having bad Fourth, but it wasn't great, and I catch a barrel on Chongo to win fourth."

This year, however, was the year. Beisel got her Cody win and took home the biggest first-place check of all the Cowboy Christmas rodeos, $10,124.

At Red Lodge, Montana, much needed rain dampened Beisel's chances at a check.

"We got skunked in the mud at Red Lodge," she explained. "There was a big storm that came through Livingston and Red Lodge on the Fourth. I ran to the first barrel to see what it was like. We turned three-quarters of the first barrel and stopped and walked out. Nope! We'll save this for another day. It wasn't unsafe. I just knew we weren't going to win anything."

At Livingston, Pipewrench was just 2/100ths out of placing.

On Monday, Beisel finished up with Oakley.

"I had full intentions of running Pipewrench at Oakley last night because he loves Oakley," she said. "The barrels are the minimum off the fence here. They are ON the dang fence. Pipewrench has some serious allergy issues. When we were in Livingston, the dust got to him, so I sent him home. I rode Chongo last night and we almost made it happen as close as the barrels are to the fence here. It was kind of a bummer that I didn't get to bring Pipewrench to this rodeo but it was time for him to go home and put his head down and graze for a couple of weeks and get some rest."

Beisel, who is on hiatus from her "real" job until August, has a couple of days off before starting back up at Vernal, Utah.

"I really debated going home and giving the horses a week off and releasing this week, but the biggest problem is the PRCA is requiring us to attend 35 Tour Rodeos if you want to run at the Tour Finale," she said. "I don't want to be that girl who misses the Tour Finale because I turned out for a week and didn't go to Vernal, which is two hours from where I'm at right now. That deal has changed how we're having to rodeo this summer.

"I feel like this summer was more complicated. We had a lot of Tour Rodeos this last week. You can enter them, not get your draw, can't get a trade and not make it and have points deducted from the standings. It kind of dictates where we can go a lot. I guess I'm really fortunate. I got popped at three of Tour Rodeos that I'd entered to the unwanted perf, but I was fortunate enough to get traded but the one that I didn't get traded at I got those points deducted. The thing I kept reminding myself is that everyone else is losing points too. It's not just me that's not able to make all of them. Even though I had a great plan with my horses, trying to save miles on them, splitting their runs up, it still was really difficult."

Beisel, who was the high money winner over the Fourth in 2019, wanted to thank Carlie and Karen for making this Cowboy Christmas much less exhausting.

"It saved a lot of energy for me and for the horses so we could perform at our best," she said. "My dad was on the phone fixing anything that was broke on the trailers and that makes a big difference. My mom got to come up for Colorado Springs and Greeley. It does take a team. I had a lot of girls that were very helpful if they're plans had changed or they weren't going that were considerate enough to get me traded, so I could capitalize while I was on the road and not back track. I was lucky."

Big Time For Maggie Poloncic & Aint Seen Me Yet Over The Fourth, Pocket $21,363

By Tanya Randall

Maggie Poloncic and her great mare Aint Seen Me Yet ("Puff") had an exceptional Fourth of July, winning $21,363.

Unlike those relying solely on the rodeo trail for their Cowboy Christmas riches, Poloncic took a different approach. She added the $25,000-added Big Time in Big Sky to her mix of rodeos.

"She had a great week," said Poloncic of Puff. "She's feeling really good and it's a good time to feel good!"

Since winning the WCRA's Rodeo Corpus Christi in early May, Poloncic had rested Puff in anticipation of a busy summer.

"I really haven't been running her a whole lot," said the dance and fitness instructor from Gillette, Wyoming. "I've been running my young horses and just keeping her in shape and waiting for things to start picking up. We really were just waiting for the circuit rodeos up here to get started."

Puff's first big runs back were at the Xtreme Million in Salina, Utah, the weekend prior to the Fourth. They picked up more than $14,500 in Utah before running at a few circuit rodeos in the Montana Circuit.

Poloncic started off her Fourth of July run with another circuit rodeo on Wednesday.

"We have a tiny little circuit rodeo in Big Timber," she said. "It's only $500 added, but every little bit helps in the circuit. I hadn't run her outside much this year yet, so we got our feet wet there running."

The 9-year-old mare, by Aint Seen Nothin Yet out of Jumping Sugar, by RR Milk Bone Shorts, picked up her first money of the week with a second-place finish worth $667.

On Thursday, Poloncic and Puff made their first run at the Big Time, held July 1-4 at the Cottonwood Equine Center in Silesia, Montana. They set the pace in the race with a 14.621 before heading off to the pro rodeo in Belle Fourche, South Dakota.

Although Poloncic said their run in Belle Fourche was "a disaster on her part," they were able to rest at home that night before heading out to finish their Fourth.

On Saturday, they had their second run at the Big Time. In their first attempt to reclaim the lead from Lynnzie Lindstrom and Dan I Am Famous, Poloncic and Puff caught the first barrel. Thankfully, Poloncic had "hit barrel insurance" and immediately pulled up to save Puff for another run.

"If you entered early before a specific deadline, they actually gave you tipped barrel insurance," Poloncic explained. "Normally it's $750, but if you entered before a specific date you got it for free. She's so tough and we're just really getting started this year, so I decided to pull her up and make another run on a smaller pattern with some good ground. It didn't really phase her."

Their next effort, a 14.508, would take the lead and hold for the win, worth $7,464. Their first run placed third for an additional $5,517. Combined with day money and sidepots, Poloncic and Puff won $16,804 at the Big Time.

Poloncic, who was the leading 1D rider in the country in 2020, is deeply appreciative of producers like the Ross and Casey Wagner with the Big Time who have stepped out to produce high-paying races for people who live in the gray area between the lucrative spectrum of futurities and rodeos.

"I'm in that gray area, where I'd like to stay home but still make circuit finals, but still be able to make a living doing this," she said. "I know that I have a horse that can be competitive at that level. Being on the road is really tough and I'm not sure I'm cut out for that right now, so these producers have given us in the middle there a really great place to showcase these horses that can still win at a high level and reward them with the money that they deserve to be winning. These producers sticking their necks out and doing this, getting this money for us to run at, I'm so thankful they're doing it. It's just amazing."

Poloncic also picked up a futurity sidepot check on Aint Seen Her Yet, her 5-year-old Aint Seen Nothin Yet, First Wrangler futurity horse. Poloncic was more excited about the effort than the $144 check.

"She's running so good!" said Poloncic. "She's only a half-second off Puff this weekend! That blew me away!"

After Puff made her winning run at Silesia, Poloncic made the 40-minute trip over to Red Lodge, Montana, for the Home of Champions Pro Rodeo. They were toward the bottom of the somewhat tricky ground, but still pulled off a second-place tie with Nellie Miller and Rafter W Minnie Reba ("Sister") behind Jordon Briggs and Famous Lil Jet.

"She handled it amazing," Poloncic said of Puff's Red Lodge performance. "Some horses don't like a crowd, but I think it really gets her going."

They returned to the Cottonwood Equine Center for the night, where Puff got to relax in a big comfy stall before making their last run of the Fourth in slack at Livingston, Montana, just an hour and half up the road, the next morning.

"The ground got us a little bit, but she powered through and ended up getting us money there too," Poloncic noted. They finished 12th for another $900. All totaled, Poloncic and Puff won $4,559 at the Cowboy Christmas pro rodeos.

Although her fees at the Big Time were high, Poloncic didn't travel the miles that many did over the Fourth.

"Cottonwood was only 3 and 1/2 hours from our house, so it's just a hop, skip and jump," said Poloncic. "She wasn't really in the trailer that long. I think her longest trip was 5 and 1/2 hours, which was from Livingston home. We were really close. That's why we love this time of year because we don't have to put the miles on our horses in the trailer."

She has many more circuit rodeos ahead as she enters her busy hauling season.

"My pro rodeo goal this year is to make the circuit finals and stay in the top 50, so if I want to go this winter I have that option," she said. "It's just nice because I don't have to travel far to do it this time of year."

This coming week, she'll run at Big Fork, Montana, before running her younger horses at the Glacier Chaser Classic in Kalispell. On her way home, she'll hit another circuit rodeo before running at Sheridan and Casper, Wyoming. Although they're not circuit rodeos, they're too close to pass up. She'll finish July with the Ruby Buckle in Salina, the WCRA's Days of '47 in Salt Lake City, plus rodeos in Spanish Fork and Ogden, Utah.

Polonic wanted to thank her family: parents John and Misty, and boyfriend Devan Reilly, for their continued support and encouragement as well as her sponsors Master Saddles, Pure Equine Herbs, Yellowstone Equine Hospital, Kingsville Brand Shirts, Sheehan Equine, Premier PEMF Complete and OrthoEquine.

HEADIN' FOR HOME

'Classic' by Sherry Morrison // Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Mike is a pilot and when we had our plane, he was always giving me tidbits of info. I didn't always get it, but the general drift of things stuck. I mean, who doesn't understand him tapping on the panel and saying, "Uh oh...".

He said there were three things to remember. Aviate, navigate and communicate. Aviate = fly the darn plane! Navigate = stay on course! Communicate = listening and obeying the person who's directing you from a tower somewhere close by (or not).

Well, the other day he used those three things to illustrate what to do when times get tough. I'm stealing them for you.

If we run into trouble, we DO NOT throw our hands in the air and quit. Never. We take the Bible and we run through what we know about God and how He helps us through. We aviate the Word.

Step two, we use the word of God to keep us on course and we don't listen to CNN to get an answer.

Step three, my favorite. Sometimes when we can't see (like when we are in a cloud), it is so comforting to talk to someone who CAN see. They can see what's close to you, any dangerous terrain ahead and when you'll fly out of that cloud. They can talk you through some inclement weather.

Our loving heavenly Father is better than any old radar. His voice will comfort us and lead us through and out of trouble...Safe landings this week!!
