Unwrapping Cowgirl Christmas

By Tanya Randall

Rodeo over the Fourth of July is as American as apple pie. With big-time attendance comes big-time added money, making the one-week surrounding our country's Independence Day the most lucrative rodeo run of the year. National Finals Rodeo dreams are made or broken over Cowboy—or in a barrel racer's case, Cowgirl Christmas, due to the large payout available.

To put the purses into perspective, consider Christy Loflin, Franktown, Colo. She and Sheza Blazin Move won $9,167 at the Fourth of July rodeos, and she didn't move from her seventh-place spot in the World Standings.

For several barrel racers, however, Cowgirl Christmas gifts gave them a huge jump in the standings.

After her usual slow winter Kaley Bass, Kissimmee, Fla., made up some serious lost ground, picking up $28,814 from just four rodeos concluding between June 30 and July 7. Only bareback rider Kaycee Fields won more, with $34,483.

Aboard her 14-year-old, gray gelding Wonders Cowboy Dan, Bass—the Livingston Pro Rodeo Champion—jumped from 38th in the World Standings on July 1 with $13,007 to 15th with $42,057 as of July 7th. That total doesn't include the $15,500 she picked up in her pool at the Calgary Stampede, which again counts toward NFR qualification in 2014.

With two rigs at her disposal, Carley Richardson, Pampa, Texas, also made a large jump in the standings. The recent Texas Tech University graduate started her run 48th in the World Standings with $11,018 and added $20,294 over the Fourth. She was the only other barrel racer to crack the PRCA's high-money earners list in 2014. Richardson, who won both the Cody (WY.) Roundup and Home of Champions Rodeo in Red Lodge, is currently 21st with $31,310, while her hauling partner, recent Reno Rodeo Champion Christine Laughlin is 16th with $35,798.

Another standings jumper over the Fourth was 2009 NFR qualifier Shelley Morgan, Eustace, Texas. She and her 7-year-old, cutting-bred gelding Will Merada collected $12,531 to from 11th in the standing to sixth.

Even with An Oakie With Cash ("Louie") sidelined for the rest of the year, Lisa Lockhart, Oelrichs, S.D., and Fast An Gold ("Chism")—who took her to her first NFR in 2007—continued to pad their World Standings lead with $16,285. Lockhart also padded her circuit earnings by winning the Mandan Rodeo Days and Killdeer Mountain Roundup. Their closest challenger is Black Hills Roundup (Belle Fourche, S.D.) Champion Fallon Taylor, Ponder, Texas, who jumped to second with $16,023 in Christmas cash.

Other barrel racers making a one-spot jump in the World Standings were Carlee Pierce, Jana Bean, Mary Walker and Sherry Cervi. Sammi Bessert used $10,411 to crack the Top 30. St. Paul Rodeo Champion Brenda Mays is 31st with just 10 rodeos in her count. Erin Ricotti more than doubled her earnings over the Fourth with $11,270 and is now 33rd in the standings. Greeley Independence Stampede Champion C.J. Vondette is also just out of the Top 30.

Canadian barrel racer Tara Muldoon, Hinton, Alberta, collected $14,066 all north of the border. The Ponoka Stampede Champion currently leads the Canadian barrel racing standings. Muldoon is not ranked in the WPRA.

AHC's Issues Forum: "Where Are All the Horses?"

On June 24, the American Horse Council held its National Issues Forum, sponsored by Luitpold, the makers of Adequan, in Washington, DC. The forum featured speakers from across the horse industry discussing "Where Have All the Horses Gone?" Leaders from breed registries, racing, showing, the various disciplines, veterinarians and other stakeholders spoke about the decline in registered horses and the impact on their segment of the horse industry.

Several major points emerged from the forum. There has been a decline in the number of foals and registered horses over the last several years that is impacting all breeds and segments of the industry and the leaders of the industry are aware of this decline and are taking action. It was also noted that this is not the first such decline in the number of horses and in previous instances there was later a rebound in numbers.

The forum began with a presentation by Tim Capps, Director of the Equine Industry Program at the University of Louisville. Mr. Capps presented evidence that the industry has experienced several drops in horse numbers and prices in modern history, most notably during the great depression and in the mid-1980s. He pointed out the horse industry often parallels the wider economy and the current situation closely mirrors the impact the Great Depression had on the industry. In the past following such declines, growth was often propelled by individuals outside the industry becoming interested and investing in the industry, noted Capps. He believes it will again be important to look beyond current horse industry participants to grow the industry now and in the future.

There was no one reason given by the various speakers for the drop in registered horses. The economy was cited as the single largest factor, but there are likely several others factors as well.

The decline is also impacting horse shows and trainers. Julie Broadway, Executive Director of the American Morgan Horse Association (AMHA), discussed the impact on professional horse trainers and said if trends continue there will be more trainers than horses.

Lori Rawls, Executive Director, U.S. Equestrian Federation reported participation in breed shows has decreased, but participation in discipline shows has increased.

Service providers are also being impacted. Jeff Blea, DVM, President of the American Association of Equine Practitioners (AAEP) talked about the impact on the veterinarian community and how fewer horses' means less work for horse vets.

There was wide agreement among all segments that welfare programs are vital to attracting new participants as well as a need to focus on youth and removing barriers that discourage individuals from competing with their horse. Gate Swings Wide for Richardson over Fourth of July

By Tanya Randall

Carley Richardson, Pampa, Texas, was a hot hand over the Fourth of July run, picking up checks at six of the eight rodeos she entered to the tune of $20,294.

The Gateway Rodeos of Red Lodge, Mont., Livingston, Mont., and Cody, Wyo.—so-called because each town serves as a gateway to Yellowstone National Park—were particularly lucrative. Richardson won the Cody Stampede ($9,280) with the only sub-17 second run of the rodeo, topped the Home of Champions Rodeo ($3,507) in Red Lodge and placed third at the Livingston Roundup ($3,208), all aboard Doda Flit (“Radio”).

The Richardson family purchased the now 10-year-old gelding as a 2-year-old out of the 2006 BFA Select Sale.

“He was in the same sale as FM Radio,” Richardson recalled. “I really liked FM Radio, but I couldn’t afford him so I bought the next best gray and called him Radio.”

Bred by Kenneth and Barbara Burns, Atlanta, Texas, Radio is by Dodadash, a Dash For Cash, Streakin Six-bred stallion and out of a double-bred Flit Bar Beggar mare Flit Priss, who has a dose of Bouncy Mac 3 thrown into the mix.

Richardson’s father Jim trained Radio, and she took him to the BFA World Championship Futurity as a 4-year-old. Radio got most of his seasoning at high school rodeos and won the 2009 International Finals Youth Rodeo in Shawnee, Okla.

“I had the arena record there for a while, but I think they broke it last year,” she said. “That was probably the biggest thing I had won on him. I college rodeoed on him. This is the first year that I’ve gone off and pro rodeoed on him.”

Richardson, a recent Texas Tech University graduate with a degree in exercise and sport science with a minor in psychology, has spent most of 2014 hauling with Christine Laughlin, Pueblo, Colo., who talked her into a Fourth of July run.

They started their week on Monday at slack for the Greeley Independence Stampede in Colorado, where she and Laughlin were just out of making the short go on Friday. From Greeley, the two headed to Oakley, Utah, for Tuesday afternoon slack at the Independence Day Rodeo. Richardson and Radio ended up third ($2,657).

They were out in the Wednesday performance at Livingston and got up at 3 o’clock in the morning to make the three-hour loop around Yellowstone Park to for Thursday morning slack in Cody.

Then it was back in the truck for an hour drive back up for a night performance in Red Lodge.

They drove all night from Red Lodge back to Greeley (510 miles) where Laughlin’s father picked up the horses and took them to Pueblo, while they boarded a commercial flight out of Denver International to Eugene, Ore.

Richardson had her back up horse Fashionable Boy in Oregon. Making two runs on Saturday, they placed 10th at the Molalla Buckaroo Rodeo ($556) and 11th at St. Paul ($1,087). She was really pleased with how well Boy worked since he’s coming back from two serious tears to a suspensory ligament. She had just started running Boy again in May.

“He had some pretty good mistakes in Oregon,” she said. “The setup in St. Paul with the tunnel and the trees is really tricky and he handled it really well with no more experience at the rodeos than he has. That was pretty crazy.”

Boy, 13, is a three-quarter brother to Sydni Blanchard's Calgary Stampede Champion Firewater Five ("Shotgun"). Both horses were bred by Dale and Mary Tubensing, Richmond, Ind., and are by Non-stop Firewater (a Fire Water Flit son out of a Nonstop Jet mare), and out of paternal half-sisters. Boy is out of the Jet's Pay Day mare Fashionable Pay.

"I bought him several years ago from Catherine Hixson in Louisiana," said Richardson. "My friend Shae Franklin had told me about him. I was looking for another horse. I had some young horses that were nice, but nothing that was ready to go. I knew eventually I was going to try to rodeo so I needed a second horse."

"After the short round at the college rodeo in Vernon, I drove all night to try him. I hit all three barrels on him and bought him anyway. He's the first horse that I've ever ridden that my dad hadn't trained."

Although Richardson and Laughlin were supposed to run at Colorado Springs on Sunday, they decided to turnout. "We hadn't slept in so long, we were exhausted," said Richardson. "We were going to be pushing it to make it back in time anyway with the way flights were working and everything."

Now 21st in the World Standings, Richardson's rodeo run is far from over. She and Laughlin have Casper, Wyo., Tuesday; Sheridan, Wyo., Wednesday; Vernal, Utah, Thursday; Estes Park, Colo., Friday, and hopefully the short go at Casper on Saturday. Meanwhile their backup horses are hanging out in Idaho until the rodeo in Nampa.

"We'll fly out right after the first round of Cheyenne and run those horses at Nampa," she explained. "We're entered in Salinas. We'd really like to have our first (string) rig at Salinas if it all possible because that's such a good rodeo. It depends on how we do the first round at Cheyenne. If we need those horses here we'll take our second trailer over to Salinas."

Richardson wanted to thank her parents for their support and

Bass & Cowboy Score Big Over Cowgirl Christmas

By Tanya Randall

Maybe it's the heat that Florida born-and-raised Wonders Cowboy Dan likes, but the great gray gelding never gets cranking until the temperatures start to rise. He qualified Kaley Bass for two straight National Finals Rodeos on the summer run, and 2014 is looking no different.

"My winters always seem to be quiet," laughed Bass. "Cowboy seems to do all his winning over the summer. There's something about it; it's like he flips a switch this time of year. I don't know what it is. There's nothing I do different. It's not like he's sore in the winter or anything; it's just not his time."

Bass, Kissimmee, Fla., was the richest barrel racer over the Fourth of July week known as Cowboy, or Cowgirl, Christmas. For the honors, the PRCA (and Barrel Racing Report) counted earnings from all rodeos that ended on June 30 through July 6. Only bareback rider Kaycee Field won more than Bass's $28,814.

The 21-year-old actually started her run north of the border at Canadian rodeos in Airdrie and Williams Lake before heading to the extremely lucrative Ponoka Stampede. She and 14-year-old Cowboy were 10th at Airdrie ($516) and sixth at Williams Lake ($1,252). At Ponoka, they were second in the rodeo ($7,186) and topped the shootout for an additional $7,500—all which counts toward WPRCA World Standings.

Ironically, Bass's actual Fourth of July run was rather short since she was out in the first pool at the Calgary Stampede, which started on July 4. She only got to make the one-run Gateway Rodeos around Yellowstone National Park.

Fourth, I didn't have time to go to Eugene, St. Paul, Molalla and all of those. I made it to where I could go straight south and straight back up."

Bass rode Cowboy at all the rodeos she placed at and her 6-year-old mare Wonders Moon Song at Red Lodge. Both horses were raised by SeBelle Dymmek of Kissimmee. Cowboy is by Wonders Pal, a son of Wonder Otoe, and out of Jackies Cowgirl Bar, by Cowboy Dans Bar. Moon Song is by Wonders Pal out of Maudies Moon Song, by Connie Comb's 1976 WPRA World Champion Maudies Joak.

After Ponoka on July 1, Bass made the all-night drive to Red Lodge for slack. Rather than run Cowboy, she decided to let him rest while she ran Moon Song and then ran him that night in the performance at Livingston. The morning of July 3, Bass made her run at Cody in slack before heading up to Calgary.

Her schedule doesn't get any easier. Moon Song will get the call this week for Casper, Wyo., Sheridan, Wyo., and Vernal, Utah, while Cowboy stays in Canada to rest. Sunday, July 13th is the Calgary Shootout.

"If you make the Final 4 (at Calgary), you can't make slack at Nampa the next morning," Bass explained. "Hoping I do well in Calgary, I'd just turn out of Nampa and go straight to Cheyenne and then to Salinas. If I don't, I'll go to Nampa, then to Cheyenne and Salinas. It's a lot of driving, but we did it last year."

After nearly four years on the circuit, Bass said Cowboy is looking better than ever.

"He's feeling really good this year," said Bass, who is sponsored by Triple Crown Feeds, SeBelle Dymmek, Bayou West Pads and Elgin Veterinary Hospital. "I think he looks the best he's ever looked, rodeoing this summer. I think he's just feeling a lot better this summer. I think was I lot better prepared. This is my fourth year, so you learn a lot. You learn what your horse can handle and what they can't. You learn what you need to do to keep them feeling really good."

Bass said how long and how hard she hauls for the rest of season depends on Cowboy.

"It depends on how he's feeling and how things are going," she said. "If he's feeling good, I'm going. I'm kind of playing it by ear, but I'm definitely going to Dodge City and taking the south route (as opposed to the Northwest run) to Sikeston, Lawton and Lovington, because he always does good there."

Headin' For Home

by Mike Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Quality instruction is important to your horse and to you as well. We've all seen what could have been a good horse but was instead messed up by a "wanna-be" horse trainer.

Quality instruction is available to anyone who is looking for help and is not too proud to ask for it and accept it. Quality instruction is important for Christians, too. You can't live up to your full potential either if you don't know what you can have through the promises of God. If you can, find a good Bible church that teaches faith in the Word. Read the Bible regularly especially the New Testament. Pray and talk to God and take some time to just be still and sit in the presence of your Creator.

You're never too old to learn. Find some faith filled Christian friends to spend some time with. Much can be learned from older Christians and often they will have inspiring books and magazines to share with you. The message has never changed but it is easier now to study in this electronic age. Jesus is the same yesterday, today and forever. Good Christian teaching is available to everyone today in one form or another.

God said in the Bible that His people are destroyed for lack of knowledge. Don't be one of those destroyed by lack of knowledge when it is so readily available. You can have the abundant life Jesus promised if you get into God's instruction book and learn what His will is for you and what your covenant with God gives you.

Talk to God. Ask Him to reveal things to you. He said, "you can do all things through Christ who strengthens you." Stand on that promise for knowledge and believe for it.

Mike Morrison and his wife Sherry are ordained ministers in their own nondenominational church in Gillette, WY. They also travel widely as circuit riders ministering over a large area of the western states.
