Sherry Cervi Returns to No. 1 in the World

By Tanya Randall

Just prior to Cowboy Christmas, Sherry Cervi jumped to third in the WPRA World Standings with $45,910. Over the lucrative Fourth of July run, she nearly doubled her earnings with $31,351 earnings from the rodeos held the weekends before and after Independence Day. The three-time WPRA World Champion leads the WPRA World Standings with $70,026.

Aboard MP Meter My Hay, Cervi won Oakley, Utah, Airdrie, Alberta, and the first round at Greeley, Colo., swept second place at the three Oregon Independence Day rodeos—St. Paul, Eugene and Molalla, placed sixth at Ponoka, Alberta, tied for eight at Cody, Wyo., and placed ninth in the first go at Prescott. With Trip and Callie duPerier's Reality Go, she placed second at Red Lodge, Mont., and ninth at Belle Fourche, S.D.

Cervi is currently in Canada competing at the Calgary Stampede, which counts toward the WPRA World Standings this year. She placed second in the first round of her pool Tuesday afternoon.

Kelli Tolbert and her great mare RF Firefly ("Cleo") made an impressive move up the standings over the Fourth as well. The Hooper, Utah, barrel racer won $24,772.

She and Cleo won Cody to the tune of $9,857 and the average at Greeley. They finished second at Livingston, Mont., fifth at St. Paul and 10th at Oakley.

quiet spring. She and her two full siblings Wonders Cowboy Dan and Girl Pal Wonder ("Gal") earned $17,545. Bass and Dan won the average at Ponoka, placed fourth at St. Paul and finished sixth at Cody. Gal spelled Dan at Red Lodge and picked up another fourth-place check.

Christy Loflin, Franktown, Colo., probably had the most entertaining Cowboy Christmas that included a bent axle, lost luggage and detours. However, she and Sheza Blazin Move made up for lost time due to Movin's injury last fall and collected $15,400.

3 Time NFR Qualifier Rick Carpenter Passes

Rick Carpenter, a three-time qualifier for the National Finals Rodeo (1979-80, 1982) as a saddle bronc rider – the first from east of the Mississippi River – died July 6 at his home in Prairie, Miss., after a long battle with cancer. He was 56. Carpenter was seven times the year-end champion in the Southeastern Circuit and won the First Frontier Circuit year-end title in 1995, at the age of 38. He also served as a PRCA competition judge for many years, worked as a farrier for race tracks in Louisiana and Minnesota, taught at the Lyle Sankey Rodeo Schools and was proprietor of Rick Carpenter Saddlery for 30 years, specializing in the production of high-quality bronc saddles and stock saddles. A private service was held July 7.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn., or to God's Cowboys, c/o Rome Wager, P.O. Box 915, Dulce, N.M. 87528. He is survived by his wife,

Mary Jane; son, Dusty; stepsons, Jake and Cooper Orman; mother, Julia, and brother, Mitchell. Courtesy of www.prorodeo.com

Barrel Racing Benefit for Tornado Victims

A barrel racing jackpot and silent auction is scheduled for July 27 at the Checotah (Okla.) Roundup Club to raise funds for 2008 World Champion Bareback Rider Justin McDaniel and barrel racer Blazi Weippert, who lost their home in Porum, Okla., and all their belongings to a fire late last month. The event is being organized by Renca Beech Bolling through BB Productions. For further information, visit bbbarrelbash@yahoo.com or call 918.617.0660. Courtesy of www.prorodeo.com

"My Futurity horse had issues with tying up, ulcers and weight loss then I discovered Horse Hair Analysis. It gave me the answers I was looking for. Now I test all of my horses to take the guess work out of my feed program."

-- Jordan Briggs
BFA World Champion / NFR Qualifier

HorseHairAnalysis.com

A majority of today's equine health problems are nutritionally related. Horse Hair Analysis is a cutting edge approach for owners to help their horses regain optimum health and performance. Hours of loping and training frustration can be avoided with proper nutritional mineral balance. When your horse feels its best, success in competition is achievable!

"The RVSW Undergraduate Internship is one of the strongest internships in the nation because the size of the business is paralleled by the involvement of the veterinarians and staff in meeting the individual learning goals of the student it is very stimulating to work with professionals in the field that welcome interns and are dedicated to teaching them physiological theory as well as practical skills they need for the future." - Megan Born

"All that I am learning is only confirmation that equine reproduction is the area that I wish to work in. This area of study fascinates me... I believe that RVSW has a great internship program. Everyone here is warm and friendly making it a great work environment. Interning (here) has improved my knowledge of equine reproduction immensely. Christy Loflin Makes A Blazin Move at World's Oldest Rodeo

By Tanya Randall

Wrangler National Finals qualifier Christy Loflin, Franktown, Colo., had a Cowboy Christmas she'll never forget. In spite of several misadventures, Loflin collected $15,400 and won the World's Oldest Rodeo in Prescott, Ariz.

"You never know how things are going to turn out," she laughed. "Right now I'm sitting $5,000 ahead of where I was last year at this time. Things are looking at least more positive. We've cracked the Top 100 finally!"

With her superstar Sheza Blazin Movin back healthy, Loflin moved to 28th in the World Standings with $20,045.

"She feels great," said Loflin, who picked up the 8-year-old daughter of Blazin Jetolena out of Sheza Cashanova MP, by Sir Cashanova, at the end of April. "She feels more consistent. We're clocking better than we've ever clocked actually."

She attributed the mare's recovery from wound-related tendon injury to Roy Ferro at Southland Equine Rehab in Pilot Point, Texas.

"That's who rehabbed her for six months and she feels better than she ever has," she noted. "As soon as I got her from Dr. Hauge she went straight there. I don't know how that salt water thing works but it will cut your recover time in half. I picked her at the end of April, so far so good."

With her horse feeling well, all Loflin needed was little bit of rodeo luck.

"First I went to Canada and it rained every day I was in Canada," she said. "I couldn't get anything done up there. It just didn't work out. I went to Reno, thinking it never rains in Reno. Well it rained a whole hour before I made my run. It was a muddy mess. I needed to do good there and I didn't get anything done because of the rain. That was pretty frustrating."

After making a placing run at Livingston, Mont., Loflin and Amy Moser, her friend she conned into helping her drive over the Fourth of July, headed to Greeley, Colo.

"We were supposed to drive all day to get to Greeley that night," she explained. "I was really excited about it because my daughter Randi (Timmons) was running that same night. I won Greeley last year, so I thought this is where I'll make up my money."

"We get outside of Shoshoni and we have a blown tire on the rear axle of the trailer. I've had problems with this trailer from day one. This will be the second axle we replace on this trailer," she digressed. "So we have this blown tire and there's grease all over where the bearings are shot. There was no one to help us change the tire. We couldn't get the lugs off. Amy went across the road to a gas station and this truck driver came and changed our tire. He said, the only place we could go was Riverton, which was 30 miles out of the way. We limp in there with the wheel smoking and about to come off. This guy meets me there and says, 'Guess what, you're axle is bent. You're not going anywhere.'"

Loflin was devastated that she would miss running and watching her daughter compete at Greeley.

"My daughter ended up making the short go," said Loflin, who had to turn out Mandan and Killdeer. "It was the best thing that happened to me all week, but it was the worst thing too because I missed seeing it."

To get back on the rodeo trail while a new axle was ordered, Loflin was able to rent a trailer for $400 for two weeks from a "friend of a friend of a friend" of the guy that's fixing axle. It was a Featherlite three-horse stock trailer.

"Not that I'm so high maintenance that I can't rock a stock trailer, but I have to have dividers," she laughed. "My mare is a kicking son of gun. My other horses don't even want to get in the trailer with her. It was a sad situation."

They returned to Cody, Wyo., where they got the last room in town for $250.

"They wouldn't take dogs, and if you know anything about me, Bella goes everywhere with me," she said. "She's my German shepherd and she's like human to me. I had to leave her in the trailer which was more traumatizing than anything"

She lucked out in the horse department though thanks to the Cody Rodeo committee.

"When we got to Cody all the pens were taken," Lofin explained. "My horses were tired and hot and had been on the trailer for 12 hours by the time I got back to Cody. There was no way I was going to tie them all night. I went up to this committeeman and told him the situation. He was like hold on I'll take care of you. That rodeo committee is awesome. One of the committee members put us up in his house and my horse got to be on pasture for three days; it was awesome. When you meet people like that it's really cool."

Then she won second at the Cody Independence Stampede.

"I ran at Cody and had an absolutely awesome run," she said. "I've never ever done good there in my life. Never draw a check there. Never got up in a performance; I was always out in slack. Movin worked like a million bucks."

From Cody, they went to Oakley, Utah, where a rain soaked course took her out of the money. From there it was on to Prescott, Ariz.

"On our way from Oakley, I don't know why, but I punch in Flagstaff instead of Prescott," she laughed. "It took us all the way over to Lake Powell, four hours out of our way. Then we had a detour outside of Lake Powell. It was crazy. We got to see some beautiful country, but it turned an eight hour trip into a 12-hour trip."

"That's how we roll. We fly by the seat of our pants."

Somewhere along the way, Moser's suitcase with her shoes and jewelry flew out the back of the truck, which had its tailgate stolen at the Ram National Circuit Finals Rodeo. So, by the time they reached emotionally charged Prescott, Lofin could only laugh at their misfortunes.

"We got to Prescott and there were a lot of turnouts, so Amy got to run my backup horse in the perf," she said. "I won the first round. There were only two of us out in the slack that morning. Everybody else had turned out. I ran a 17.12. In the second round we ran a 16.93 and they said that's the only 16 that's ever been run there. It was awesome."

Lofin said the win was extra special because her "second dad" and farrier Gene Ovenick was there to reset Movin and got to watch her win.

"It was a really special win because he was there," she said. "It was really emotional. Earlier this winter I didn't know if she was going to come back or not."

Lofin, who is sponsored by MVP Exceed, Professional's Choice, EQUIDAE Feed and Ice Vibe Boots as well as her most important sponsor Gene Ovenick, has a full slate of rodeos this week, starting in Casper Tuesday night, followed by Colorado Springs, Sheridan, Vernal, Laramie and Estes Park and hopefully back to Casper for the Saturday night short go.

"Amy goes home (Tuesday) so I'll be all alone in my tiny rig," she said with a laugh. "If it wasn't for her I probably would have cried instead of laughed—literally laughed—the whole trip. Thank God for her or I would have probably been in the nut house."

Permit Holder Callie Gray Wins Rodeo Of The Ozarks

By Tanya Randall

Callie Gray, Weatherford, Okla., bought the perfect horse two weeks ago when she purchased Quixote Bar Chex ("Missy") from multiple Wrangler National Finals Rodeo qualifier Molly Powell. Since the purchase, she's made two runs, placing second at Clear Lake, SD., and winning Rodeo of the Ozarks in Springdale, Ark., over the Fourth of July for $3,849.

"I love her," said Gray, who won the rodeo from ninth on the ground in Saturday night's performance. "I'm just so blessed to have her. She's a great little mare. She's a little powerhouse. She's a lot of fun."

Gray, who will be 21 on July 15, was at a friend's in Ohio when Powell called and offered her the 11-year-old mare by Dustin Quixote, a grandson of Magnolia Bar, out of Ebes Concession, by Docs Sugar Chex out of a Timeto Thinkrich mare.

"I told her if she ever knew of anything for sale to let me know because she knew what caliber I was looking for," explained Gray, an exercise science major at Southwestern Oklahoma State University. "I would like to compete at the pro level. She called me and said she was selling Missy and that I needed to come try her. So I did. It was a fit. I loved her."

Prior to the two rodeos, Gray only made two practice runs—one when she tried her and a second at her friend's house.

"Everybody's got the dream of making the NFR but until you've got that horse..." she noted. "It's like 'Oh, wow! I can really do this. It's a little nerve-racking but exciting at the same time. I would like to take a crack at Rookie and maybe make the NFR with her.'"

Gray, who grew up in Ontario, Canada, started running barrels, following in the footsteps of her older sister Tamaran Mousseau.

"She started out at the 4-H Shows and club shows," she said. "She had barrel raced but never really rodeoed. We started the high school rodeo association in Ontario, so that's how we got into it. I just followed in my sister's footsteps that way. I had always rode, but decided that I wanted to try the rodeo thing. Now I'm hooked."

Gray attends SWOSU on a rodeo scholarship and had purchased her permit in March. Until she bought Missy she hadn't gone much because she didn't feel like she had the horsepower to do so. Now she that she's filled her permit, Gray's in the waiting mode.

"It's been kind of a whirlwind after I bought her," said Gray, who wanted to thank her parents Scott and Lisa Gray and Molly Powell.

"With the new year coming October 1, I think I'm going to wait. I'm going to take a shot at Rookie next year so I'm going to wait to buy my card. Now I have a horse that I can kind of go on with and try to make those plans, but it's so late in the year that I don't think I could make enough to qualify for those winter rodeos."

She will however get to watch her mare run at the Daddy of 'em all—the Cheyenne Frontier Days—with her sister.

"My sister's horse got a little sick and she was entered in Cheyenne, so I offered her Missy," said Gray, who returns to college in August. "My next plan is to go up to Cheyenne and hope that she does good on her there. Then I plan on going to the big IPRA rodeo in St. Tite in September. Other than that, I'm just kind of waiting."

Walker Wins $20K in First Half at Calgary

By Julie Mankin

In 100 straight years, the Calgary Stampede had never cancelled a show, despite two World Wars and the Great Depression. Mother Nature tried to end that streak just over two weeks ago with a massive flood in southern Alberta.

But despite the entire Stampede grounds being under water, the crew proclaimed they'd have the rodeo "come hell or high water." Notwithstanding the flooding of their personal homes, the crew rallied with hundreds of gravel trucks, millions of tons of dirt and thousands of labor hours to fix the arena. Not only that, but in a matter of days, friends and family of Stampede staff members had raised almost $500,000 for flood victims by selling "Hell or High Water" tee shirts (visit calgarystampede.com/store to place an order).

"Hats off to the Calgary Stampede for getting this place ready for us to compete," said defending world champ Mary Walker. "After everything people have been through in this town, it's just amazing. Hopefully maybe we've put a smile back on their face."

She was graciously referring to the show she provided when her shirt ripped completely open while she was running home from the third barrel on Friday in the first performance of the 101st Stampede. And she didn't mind flashing the crowd in order to win the round.

"That's the first time I've had that happen," she said. "I felt it go, but I thought, 'I just can't quit because my shirt's undone.' I just wish I had a better tan!"

The unexpected show wasn't much consolation for fans denied the big Carly Rae Jepson, Tim McGraw and Dixie Chicks concerts (cancelled due to flood damage). But Latte sure treated them to some amazing feats over four days.

Tie-down roper Shane Hanchey said "you can't go anywhere else and win $20,000 in four days in the middle of July." And that's why the Walkers love Calgary. Mary would like to add her own Stampede trophies to the rifle hanging in her dining room and the ring her husband Byron wears from winning the 1997 Stampede. She's well on her way.

Walker either won or placed second in all four rounds of Pool A to bank $20,000 and secure one of four coveted spots in Sunday's semi-finals. Right behind her was Carlee Pierce, who also placed deep in three rounds to earn $13,500. The final two spots were nailed down by some darker horses.

Kaley Bass had hit barrels in the first two rounds, but came back to not only place second to Walker in the third round, but out-run her handily in the fourth. Remarkably, Bass clocked (by far) the fastest time of the entire rodeo – a 17.44 – on completely sloppy ground after a downpour.

"My horse loves the mud," said Bass, who earned $10,000 on her two runs. "Coming from Florida, I've run in plenty of it. Once they told me the ground was safe, I went in there just as fast as I could and he was working just as good as he could."

And rounding out the final hole in the semi-finals on Sunday, also with $10,000, is Kim Schulze. Invited to Calgary thanks to her ranking in the 2012 WPRA Qualifying Tour, Schulze joined Walker as the only two cowgirls to place in all four rounds.

Of the 10 women competing in Pool A, only Shada Brazile and Jean Winters failed to earn a check at the Stampede, which is collecting random drug samples this week. They are part of the six girls who will run again Saturday in the Wild Card Race, which also counts toward the world standings. The top two times will advance to the semi-finals, and the race pays six holes, with first paying $6,000.

Meanwhile, the 10 women in Pool B are making their four runs through Friday, after which four will make Sunday's semi-finals and six others will run Saturday. Those gals include traveling partners Sherry Cervi and Brittany Pozzi (who leap-frogged Fallon Taylor and Mary Walker in the world standings over the Fourth of July), as well as Taylor, Cranna Roberts, Lee Ann Rust, Lindsay Sears, Lisa Lockhart, Nikki Steffes, Taylor Jacob and the great mudder, Sue Smith.

Calgary's 20 invitations don't go only to the best in the world. They include – in this order – 2012 Stampede winner Sue Smith (who clocked a 17.5 last year in a foot of water), the top six from the WPRA in 2012; the top four from the CPRA in 2012, the top four from the 2012 WPRA Tour, the top four from the 2013 WPRA standings on April 1, and last year's RNCFR champ in Oklahoma City (dropping down to third-place Cindy Smith).

Basically it's the WPRA Tour that allowed some others in (Schulze, Brazile, Steffes and Winters). The Tour was formed after Jimmie Munroe led the board in approving the Calgary Stampede last spring. The 15 events on the Tour include one rodeo from each circuit, two in Canada and one race from last year's WPRA World Finals. The girls counted money from their five best rodeos out of the 15.

The money won in Calgary already this year will have a significant impact on the race for the NFR:

Let's take Schulze, for instance. With Calgary paychecks she will move from 34th in the world to 18th. If she were to win fourth in the Showdown, she'd creep to 12th. Second place would put her third in the world.

As for Pierce, maybe knowing she'd be going to Calgary helped her decide to quit the trail in May. Since she stopped entering to stay home with her kids, she dropped from third in the world to 13th. Because of Calgary, she would be back at 7th as of today. A Showdown win would give her nearly $100,000 on the season and she could drive right back home with no doubt of a top-five ranking and gold-buckle contention going into the NFR.

Calgary also presents a chance for Lindsay Sears, languishing in 36th place in the world, to contend for another title in just a few runs. The Showdown, however, is mostly a chance for the rich to get richer.

If Walker wins on her last run, she'll have $124,990 in the standings (just a few thousand fewer than she took into the 2012 NFR) with 11 weeks to go! However, Cervi, Pozzi and Taylor all have the opportunity to do just as well this week. Actually, every girl in the top 10 except Sabrina Ketcham and Brenda Mays were invited to Calgary.

It could also be a life-changer for the handful of girls up this week who were barely in the top 50 in the world. It's not hard to make $10,000 at Calgary, and lots of girls will do that if they just place a couple of times in their five runs. Also, $170,000 in championship points are available in the barrels on Sunday, including $50,000 for first (only half the $100,000 first-place check counts toward the standings). It took $54,853 to make the NFR last year. Second pays $25,000, which is also a guaranteed NFR berth for anyone already in the top 25 (Rust and Bass).

Is it fair to count Calgary as an eligible rodeo when qualifications are based on much more than last year's or this year's standings? When only 20 get in? When it requires no entry fees, which is inconsistent with other eligible rodeos? When you can screw up four times and get to run again for $6,000 in Wild Card money?

Or are all of these features actually of benefit to barrel racers? Is it fantastic that there's at least one sanctioned rodeo with no fees that gives mulligans? Is it great that you could make the NFR without traveling? Is it delightful that you could make Calgary by hitting a handful of rodeos on the Tour?

We'd love to hear your thoughts! Facebook us to comment at www.facebook.com/barrelracingreport.
