Kassie Mowry & Epic Two Ks Sweep Cornhusker Open & Breeders Futurities

By Tanya Randall

Kassie Mowry and her "little" 4-year-old gray gelding Epic Two Ks swept the Cornhusker for $8,718. The Open win paid $3,158, while the Breeders' paid $4,921. They also won Saturday's Open with a carryover time.

"He was really consistent," said Mowry. "I went in there the first night for exhibitions and he was a 15.9 and I literally loped him home. Everyone was like 'Whoa, were the barrels on the stakes? That can't be right!' So, we kind of knew he was on from that moment. He just needed to make that same run.

"The next day he did make the same run, only I ran him home and he ran a 15.3. It kind of reiterated what we already knew about him. We knew he was nice and he finally got to show it. I was super proud of him. He came back the second run and was a 15.6. He was at the very bottom of the ground and I did feel him bog out, but he had the exact same run. It was just as precise. He worked flawless. I couldn't be more proud of him. He worked like a pro.

"He just felt really confident about everything. He warmed up easily and handled it all very well. I'm thinking a summer of jack-potting has got him up a notch."

Affectionately known as Fluffer, the gelding is loaded with personality as well as talent.

"If there was such a thing as a 'Fluffer,' he would be it," laughed Mowry. "He's such a peculiar little guy. He's got a lot of personality. He has little-man syndrome. He thinks he's tough, but he's not tough at all. He's already been stitched up once across his eye—that was last year. This week the vet had to come out and stitch his cheek up because he picked a fight that he couldn't back up! He's not mean, but he is an instigator!"

Fluffer was bred by Tommy Williams of Big Spring, Texas. By Epic Leader, whom Mowry bred with Karma Lofin, Fluffer is out of Sixy Two Spots, by Sixarun. His registered name is a nod to Kassie and Karma.

"I bought him when he was a yearling," said Mowry. "We got him broke as a 2-year-old. Michael Boone started him on the barrels as a 2-year-old. He had him all summer. We brought him back to my house and I got on him in the spring of his 3-year-old year because he was pretty far ahead. His first couple of exhibitions he was in the 2D. It didn't take much to get him going for me at all; he had such an awesome start."

Fluffer has been an understudy to his taller, bigger brother So Epic largely due to his immaturity.

"He's done well through the year, but he's been a little inconsistent," she said. "He's getting more to where I'd like him to be. He's done some cool things, like placing second at The Patriot, but I'm hoping as he matures—because he's really immature—that he'll get that consistency down. I know he has the talent."

Nancy Hunter Facing New Challenge

Our thoughts and prayers will be with Nancy Hunter as she battle cancers. Anyone who knows Nancy knows she is a fighter that never gives up. We hope to see her back in the arena again soon.

Here is an update from her Facebook page:

The book of life has many chapters as one closes one opens, and as these chapters come and go you are asked to face new challenges and new battles. Some of these chapters are full of wonderful experiences that build you up but then some of these chapters you are asked to take on battles. With each chapter and each experience you are polished and refined creating your own legacy one that you can hang your hat on.

Today, Team Hunter closes one chapter and opens a new one, we are announcing the retirement of Mr. Fuzz, and he is going to a life of luxury as he lives out his days at the homestead. Team Fuzz was centered on this wonderful horse that has created so many experiences and he will be rewarded with all the food he can eat and the king of the barn (not that he was not already just ask him he owns that place). Team Hunter turns their attention to a new battle, this week we have been placed in the front lines in the war on cancer with marching orders to kick it right in the teeth.

We received this life changing news this Thursday that Nancy was diagnosed with Pancreatic Cancer, this new as with anyone took our breath away and in moments stopped us in our tracks. As the test came back the flood of memories came of the time we sat by the bed of the youngest family member when we were given very similar news. But as with that time, we came as a family and support group and steeled ourselves for the war ahead.

As with Kolton's battle research and development in this war is the key to success, he was the recipient of those who came to the battle before and found ways to win the war. Team Hunter has been blessed to be able to work with Huntsman Cancer Institute and their wonderful team of doctors and staff. The privilege of working with a facility built for the purpose fighting this battle is a blessing without measure, and has given us an opportunity to not only fight our individual war but help generations to come.

As the diagnoses was handed down the team at Huntsman pulled together and evaluated Nancy's condition looking at her activity level, her cancer type, and most importantly her support network. We have been approached to participate in a new research study and testing called immunology cancer treatment. With Nancy's history as a nurse she was very excited by this option not only for the chance to attack her cancer but also the influence on the battle for those who follow.

The rewards of these research projects have been felt in our family before with Kolton's fight, he was blessed by those who came before and this allowed him to win his fight. As we move into this battle we want to thank all those around that have already expressed their love and prayers and we want you all to know that you as a support group is a big reason Nancy's has been placed in this project.

We know that we are not alone in this and that is what helps lift us up; "Rising water lifts all Ships" it is time for us to put our drops of water into the sea of life and lift all ships. We also know all things are in Heavenly Fathers hands his will is what will dictate this outcome; we hope that we can do our part in his plan for his children.

Things are going to happen really fast in the next few weeks and Nancy's is going to need all her strength she can muster, we as a support group will take on as much as the daily role and one of those is fielding questions and feeding information. I will do my best to keep all of you in the loop on what is happening here on Nancy's facebook account, that being said we greatly appreciate your support and prayers.

Nancy has asked that if you have any questions or want to express your feelings of support please direct those to me or anyone of my brothers until she has digested this process and actions needed to move forward. Thanks Team Hunter!

Here is an update from the WPRR Wilderness Circuit Barrel Racing Facebook Page on a benefit being planned for Hunter:

As most of you have read Nancy Hunter has been diagnosed with Pancreatic Cancer and Fred is going in for major back surgery, please keep them in your prayers through out this difficult time! We are putting together a silent auction not sure if we will be able to do this sooner or at our barrel race on Oct 16 2016 at the Golden Spike Fairgrounds. The race has $1500 added and awards to 4 or 5 places down in each D. There will be a flyer sent out soon and more details to follow.

We are also working on putting together a Live auction but that hasn't been finalized yet, we will keep posting as we get more details! I am asking for any sponsors/ donations that anyone could help with, you can contact myself Melissa Taylor 435-724-6069 you can text me, Julie Herman or Amy Hunter and we appreciate anything you can donate! I am so amazed by the support we have received already with just a few phone calls! I have tagged a few who I have spoke with already Thank you so much!

Cool Memories and 1D Championship for Elaina McKinney at the Mega

By Tanya Randall

Elaina McKinney, a 15-year-old high school freshman from Goreville, Ill., and WRS Cool Memories ("Big Cool") turned in the fastest time of the entire Mega Barrel Race, a 13.916, to win the 1D Championship and a tidy $8,000 first-place check.

"I give God all the glory," said McKinney. "We had a blessed weekend."

The duo also placed fourth in the first round and won the second round with the only other sub-14-second run of the weekend. All totaled, she pocketed $10,542.

"The first night we had good run," she said. "It could have been a little bit better. We came back to the second go and had a really good run. I was really excited for the Finals and hoping that I could get another good run like I did that day. In the Finals, we had another really good run. We were really excited. We just had a really good weekend."

It wasn't without stress, however. She ran 78th out of more than 300 runners in the Finals.

"We tried cleaning the stall and putting stuff up," she laughed. "We did everything we could think of. We weren't wanting to be up there while they were all running. We were nervous wrecks. We were crossing our fingers. We finally went back up there for the last 30 horses or so."

Ironically, McKinney said they weren't even sure they were going to go to the Mega because it was the first week of school.

"We decided at the last minute to go," said McKinney, who forwent school on Thursday and Friday to travel down to Jackson, Miss. "I'm sure glad we did."

McKinney comes from a family of barrel racers.

"My Paw Paw and my dad ride," she said. "My mother used to ride. My brother's not into horses so my mom and dad switch off taking me. One is taking my brother fishing or something and the

She said her grandfather is the head trainer of the bunch. He purchased Big Cool off the track as a 2-year-old and got him going before handing him over to McKinney in 2013.

The 8-year-old gelding is by Kool Quick Kid, a son of Royal Quick Dash out of a Zevi (TB) mare, and out of the Blazen Bryan, Leaving Memories mare Blazen Memories.

BRR: Tell us a little about your horse and his history.

Lovendahl: Speed Version (Ryder), we now call us team Ry Ry! Haha. He's is one of those special horses that has his own personality. He's quite the character. If you enter the barn while he's in there he will pin his ears and look ornery but all he wants you to do is come and rub on him and make sure that you're paying attention to him! He does get a little jealous if you walk to other horses stalls! He's a "me" horse; he definitely thinks he needs all the attention. This colt hardly even breaks a sweat after running it's very easy for him and he loves his job!

This horse is a stand out, super talented with a great mind, he ran on the race track and then was purchased and trained on barrels by Diana Cubic. Diana said from the day she brought him home from the track he has been a natural on the barrels. Diana always does an amazing job with her horses and after attending a couple of my clinics and getting to know each other we have become great friends. Diana commented that over the last couple years she has stuck to what she learned at the clinics and her two latest horses; Da La Dauh, a 5 yo gelding that I also competed on in qualifier, and of course Speed Version, are the results.

So after Diana had an accident this spring, hitting her head and suffering a concussion, she said since the horses were trained pretty much through our program combined with the talent and years of experience from Diana; we talked and thought it would be a great team to get together and ride some horses back and forth. So we are planing on campaigning these two with some other great horses we have in training for other great clients and see what we can accomplish together. It's been very fun having Diana around at the shows with her horses.

BRR: Could you walk us through your winning run?

Lovendahl: With him, he still young enough, we are preparing him for runs. We exhibitioned him on Friday and he felt outstanding. His first run is usually his fastest run, so we decided to just exhibition him on Friday and save his big run for Saturday. He felt really good warming up and Diana said to send him to win it it; he did his part and it worked! On Sunday, he came back and was actually making a better run until I dropped my reins when I thought he may tip over the second he was working so sharp.

BRR: Knowing you were taking a 4 year old into a big race,

Golden Girl Griemsman Making Her Move Towards Top 15

By Hope Sickler

Piedmont, South Dakota wife, mother and barrel horse trainer Jana Griemsman has had a very exciting 2016 season and she currently sits just outside the top 15 going into yet another busy week of rodeos across the country. As of press time on August 22, Griemsman is currently ranked 16th in the WPRM World Standings with $58,763, a mere $1,600 behind Washington barrel racer Pam Capper who holds down the 15th position with $60,363.

At the beginning of the year, Griemsman didn't even have her sights set on a possible berth to her first NFR in Las Vegas.

"My goal for this year when it all started this fall was to win my circuit and be high enough in the standings to qualify for the winter rodeos. Needless to say, I am overwhelmed with how well my mare has done for me. She is my little rockstar," explained Griemsman.

Griemsman has ridden her 8-year-old mare Chase It With Brandy aka "Brandy" all season. The quick and powerful mare is by TM Sakem Drift and out of Corona Special by Shake It Special. The brandy-colored mare, where her name derived from, was a gift from Griemsman's older sister, standout barrel racer, barrel horse trainer and 4x NFR qualifier, 2x NFR Average Champion, Jill Moody.

"Jill gave her to me as a colt. She was out on the road and I was at home pregnant with my husband, Paul's and I, two-and-a-half-year-old son Laken. Brandy was born at my mom and dad's and she was spoiled by all of us, especially my mother."

Griemsman describes "Brandy" as a huge blessing from Moody and an opportunity that she will forever cherish close to her heart.

"I cannot thank Jill enough for the opportunity to own and ride "Brandy". I would've never guessed for it to end up this way but I am so thankful that it has. Jill has been my greatest inspiration, helper and teacher since day one. She is actually the reason my family even got into horses," Griemsman noted.

Griemsman and Moody were not born into a rodeo family, in fact not even a family that had horses. Instead they lived in town and their father was in the construction business. It was a horse-crazed Moody that changed their lifestyle and Griemsman followed in her foot-prints.

"I have always been trying to follow in Jill's steps and it feels good to be making her and my family proud. In addition to Jill, my

how did you prepare him to make that winning run?

Lovendahl: When we decided to enter the American qualifier on the young horse, we knew we would be putting him in situations with a lot of pressure, and I am not one to put horses in a bad situation, but we knew his mind and his maturity level and the great job that Diana had done with him so we decided to enter him. We're sure glad we did and we are looking forward to the rest of the year and seeing how he does at the Semi-Finals!

BBR: What are your plans between now and The American Semi-Finals for you and your horse?

Lovendahl: Even though he is extremely good minded and quiet, he is off the track and has such a big motor we are trying to keep him mentally right and not run him too much. We will just pick and choose races that we feel like are going to be good experience for him to keep him moving forward in his career. Along with our barrel racing schedule, we have a number of clinics booked (email lovendahlclinics@gmail.com for more info) throughout the year as well. We are just trying to keep Ryder mentally and physically happy for the rest of the year.

Lovendahl: Big thanks to RFD-TV and the Better Barrel Races for the opportunity to run at shows like this and also a big thanks to the rest of my support team. I couldn't do it without a great team! Kc Groves, the Waterson family, Dr Beau Beck for his great vet skills that keep all my horses going strong and his family for the friendship and support! I would also like to thank Diana & Mike Cubic along with all my other great clients!

And can't leave out our big fan and helper Mr Vince!

I also want to give a shout out to our Junior Junior head trainer, Kajun Waterson, who was involved in a horse accident this week. We are praying she will get well soon so she can get back in the arena with us!

husband Paul has also been a huge support and always there pushing me to be better and keep going which is imperative while out on the road.”

When Griemsman's sights slightly shifted into possibly making a run towards the NFR, was when she qualified to the semi-finals of The American this past February. Griemsman figured that since she was already going to be south for the Semi-Finals, she may as well enter a few winter rodeos and see where she and “Brandy” would stack-up against the best in the WPRA.

“I entered Denver and ended up doing well there, making the short round and winning quite a bit. After that, my husband told me that I needed to take advantage of the situation and the horse that I have under me and keep entering,” explained Griemsman. “It was, and still is, hard out there on the road, especially since I am traveling with my two-year-old son. My mom went with me this winter which was very helpful and we just hired a driver so that will also be extremely helpful.”

Griemsman kept entering, paying close attention to enter rodeos that were closer to South Dakota that she could be home as much as possible. She stayed consistent and placed almost everywhere she entered.

Now that we are down to the final part of the season, Griemsman has had to make the decision on whether she is going to stay close to home or put her nose to the grindstone and make her dream a reality.

“This past week really helped, but it was a bit of a wild ride! I did well at a few rodeos and then I hit a barrel at the following three rodeos. At that point, I had to take a minute and remember why I was out here and what my end goal was. I picked myself back up and went on to win Billings and Baker which was incredibly helpful.”

Now just outside the top 15, Griemsman can feel the pressure building up but in a good way. She was able to take a few days off at home where Laken can spend some quality time with his dad and Griemsman can spend some time with her husband and give Brandy a well-earned few days off.

“While on the road, and while at home, making sure that Brandy and Laken are comfortable and happy are my number one priorities. If that means waking every hour to make sure Brandy is comfortable and my child is happy, then so be it. They are my world and my world revolves around them. I am just very fortunate that I am able to live my dream and see how it unfolds,” said Griemsman.

While some rodeo contestants will be jumping flights and sending rigs across the country to try and make their dreams a reality, Griemsman is going to go about it the same way she has all season; with her horse, her son and her dreams driving her.

“Everyone back home has been so supportive and that has really helped keep me going. Never in a million years did I think that I would be in this predicament. I used to be tickled pink when I would win an amateur rodeo or even qualify for the circuit finals. Making the NFR would be a blessing and something that myself and my family would cherish forever but it is not what defines us. Rio Flaharty & The Wonder Bug Shine at Summer Shootout

By Tanya Randall

High school freshman Rio Flaharty and The Wonder Bug (“Little Brother”) topped the 1D Summer Shootout by 5/100ths of a second over defending champion Kyler Terlip and Guys Voodoo Bug. Flaharty, who hails from Eldorado, Kansas, pocketed $3,874 for the victory.

“I would like to thank God for blessing me with my wonderful family and friends,” said Flaharty, who also wanted to thank her parents, Troy and Colette Flaharty, and her grandparents Stan and Debbie Greene as well as her sponsors OE Nutraceuticals, Tres Rios Silver, FlowBoot and Flaharty Bits & Spurs.

Having already started school on Wednesday, August 17, Flaharty caught a ride with her grandparents after school to compete in Oklahoma City on Friday night. She and Little Brother were third in the first round.

“I had been having a little trouble with my first barrel, so in the first go round, I didn’t really push him to the first; I kind of just let him roll by himself. He had a great run and qualified us back. I decided not to run him on Saturday because there was no need,” she said.

On Sunday, Flaharty “went for it,” pushing Little Brother to all his barrels to run a 15.208. Running in the last drag, she sweated through Terlip’s run that fell just short, 15.258.

Flaharty, 14, came by the barrel bug honestly through her parents. She started competing at the tender age of 3. Her horse, too, was a family product. Little Brother was broke to ride by her father and trained for barrels by her mother.

“He was her futurity colt,” Flaharty said of Little Brother, now 7. “I started riding him last summer in May. He is very, very easy to ride.”

Bred by Lynn Hodges of Alabama, the Flaharty’s purchased Little Brother as a yearling because he was a full sibling to her mother’s great horse Zanes Wonder Bug. Both horses are double-bred Wonder Otoe being sired by Zing Zang Wonder out of Candybar Wonder Bug, a granddaughter of Bugs Alive In 75 through her sire Runaway Bug.

Colette Flaharty was turned on to the lineage by her friend Clay Sewalt.

“I had sold Dash N Sparks,” the Colette recalled. “Clay Sewalt had this colt—Zanes Wonder Bug. She told me to come down and ride him. I didn’t want to, but I did anyway. We love Clay and just trusted her, so we drove down and I rode him and fell in love with him.”

Now, it’s likely that mother and daughter will be running full brothers, since they acquired Zanes Last Wonder Bug, a 3-year-old old.

“This horse looks just like (Zanes Wonder Bug),” said Colette. “We’re going to keep him a stud, even if we don’t stand him to the public. There’s not many of them left.

“They’re about the only thing that I want to ride, they fit me so well. They’re good-minded horses. They all run the same. They all run up in the hole, but they don’t get setty. They keep their shoulder and rib cage up; it’s really easy for them.”

Next up for the younger Flaharty and Little Brother will likely be the American qualifier in Loveland, Colo.

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Have you ever noticed how children like to make pacts? And how they are attracted to superheroes that are destroying evil. Like Superman, Spiderman, Batman and Mighty Mouse. (Mighty Mouse was a REALLY long time ago). They wear their capes and masks and fly around the house leaping off coffee tables in a single bound! New superheroes come around all the time and if it weren't for my grandkids I'd be woefully behind the times. But as they get older, they get a little jaded. No more 'pinky swearing'. Innocence is replaced by cynicism in a lot of teenagers. They get old before their time.

Well, what about us? Here we are, Christians, with Jesus on the inside of us. He's the one with all the answers and we still mope around with all the questions? Why is this happening? How come I can't make ends meet? Why did I wreck my tricycle? (LOL!) It's because we want to do everything OUR way, even if it leads us down the wrong path. And then God gets the blame.

It has been said that there are over 6,000 promises in the Bible. I personally haven't written them all down and am pretty sure that I won't. But I know some of them. Like when I get attacked with sickness, there's a promise in I Pet. 2:24 that by Jesus stripes I was already healed. When unexpected bills come in for the tractor repair, I have the promise that when I tithe, God rebukes the devourer for my sake. Mal. 3:10 & 11. So many questions.....ALL the answers in God's Word.

So if you feel a little shaken some days, you can remember all the answers right there in the Bible and you can tell the devil, with utmost confidence in God.....A PROMISE IS A PROMISE!
