Summertime sweep for Laughlin & Guys Six Pack To Go

By Julie Mankin

Christine Laughlin doesn't nickel-and-dime the other girls. You won't see her name at tiny rodeos in the corner of distant states all in the same weekend – but put her together with Kathleen Collier's great horse Guy's Six Pack To Go in one place for three or four rounds and they're unstoppable.

It started in Reno when Laughlin outran the pack by three-tenths over three rounds to earn $13,393. That little paycheck shoved her all the way to 16th in the world standings for the first time. Three weeks later during her mind-blowing domination at Salinas, where she won three out of four rounds, Laughlin banked $14,562 to inch up into 13th in the standings. That same week, she caught $3,665 out of Cheyenne's first round – and likely cost herself another $15,000 when she tipped the first barrel in round two.

But then a couple of weeks later came Dodge City. In the outlaw town's Roundup Rodeo, July 30 through Aug. 3, Laughlin won the first round by three-tenths of a second and the short round by three-tenths of a second. She cleaned up the average by a full half-second over the other hottest cowgirl of summer – Kaley Bass – to rake in $8,503.

"In the second round, when I ran a slower time, my reins flipped over his head at the third barrel," said Laughlin. "I went ahead and whipped him home and thought when I got to the alley I'd figure it out. But he was great; I just said whoa and he slowed up."

Laughlin said her dominance in July is the result of a culmination of things. Her timing with "Six Pack" is getting better, she said, and he likes the ground and those particular arenas. Plus, he's just feeling so good and strong. Laughlin likes to give him some time between runs. For instance, just after Cheyenne she turned out of Philipsburg and Abilene so he could have a week off before Dodge City. It seems to be working – today she's 10th in the world with $68,287.

Last year, the magic number it took to make the Finals in 15th place was $66,726.

"Everyone says, 'You've got it made,' but in my mind I'm thinking, 'Yeah right,'" said Laughlin. "I think it will take $70,000 for that bottom hole this year. I'm excited but I'll definitely keep going to Idaho and on to the Northwest and try to keep picking up checks."

Laughlin, of Pueblo, Colo., has also placed at some rodeos this season on Collier's other horse, Bud Light, who will likely continue to back up Six Pack for the remainder of the season. She gives a big shout out to sponsors Arrow Electric out of Pueblo and Top Of Texas, Inc., out of Hereford, Texas, as well as Casey Potter, DVM, for their part in her recent success.

Regarding how things have impacted the potential NFR roster, Laughlin has taken an entirely different route into the top 15 than two of the cowgirls crowding the leaderboard. For instance, current world standings leader Kaley Bass got hot at the same time as Laughlin, but used her Calgary windfall of $65,000 to go to the lead

Fond farewell to a ground and production pioneer, Phil Goostree

By Julie Mankin

With the passing of Phil Goostree on August 2, passed a legacy few have offered to the sport. Goostree had for years battled an autoimmune disorder called myasthenia gravis, but before becoming ill, he had spent roughly 30 years making ground safer for barrel racers with his friend Chuck Dunn.

"Phil cared for everybody," Dunn said. "I mean, he had a million-dollar personality."

Goostree's relationship with barrel racing started with his wife, 1979 world champion barrel racer Carol Goostree, a longtime barrel-horse trainer who sells her own line of bits. In 1985, when the NFR moved from Oklahoma City to Las Vegas, the BFA World Championships moved in and Goostree and Jack Hoffman were hired to oversee ground maintenance. Then-BFA president Florence Youree hired Chuck Dunn to help Goostree work the ground, and the two did that together for the next several years.

Both men became state directors in the NBHA; Goostree in Oklahoma and Dunn in Texas. Through their efforts, the NBHA became known for great ground conditions at its big shows. Around 1998, Goostree and Dunn subcontracted six super shows from the NBHA as a way to kick off their new organization, D&G Productions.

"That was Phil's life, barrel racing," said Dunn. "He lived and breathed barrel racing and that's one of the things that made D&G so successful – that Phil was so serious about it. I mean, very seldom did a day go by that he wasn't at least calling me to discuss something about D&G."

In 1999, when the two men started producing their own races, they were arguably the first independent producers hosting a series of races outside a national organization.

"There are probably thousands of us now," Dunn said. "Or at least hundreds of us."

But back then, people didn't care about the little things like they do now – except Phil.

"I can remember the first year I worked with Phil, his wristwatch had a stopwatch in it and he would actually time how long it took to drag after each set of barrel racers," Dunn said. "He always took it serious. He wanted the best ground possible, but at the same time wanted to keep the show running as fast as possible."

Having worked the ground everywhere from the BFA World Championships to the NBHA's finest shows and Booger Barter's extravaganzas, the men shared rare experience and knowledge. In a 2009 interview, Goostree revealed some of that knowledge:

"You have to work the arena in a way to have ground a horse can get into but that will also hold the horse in a hard turn," he had said. "Most of the time, ground has a hardpan under it, so our first thing is to break up the hardpan. Or, if it's really deep you go back over and pack it a little. Or if it's river sand, you put a lot of water on it. You do this by the seat of your pants!"

But hundreds of producers have tried to follow his lead and do what it takes to make barrel racing safer for horses and riders. Goostree's legacy will also live on with a memorial scholarship fund set up Tuesday in his honor.

"Phil basically dedicated his adult life to barrel racing, and we thought it was appropriate that we do something for that to live on," said Dunn. "That was Phil. He was a very generous man; a very loving individual."

Memorial Services for Phil Goostree will be Thursday, August 7, 2014 at the Stephens County Fairgrounds in Duncan, OK. Carol has requested in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the Phil Goostree Memorial Scholarship Fund. Donations can be made at any Wells Fargo bank location to account #7322690376, or can be mailed to 210 N. Bridge St., Henrietta, TX 76365.

There be fun for all ages, including pony rides and face painting for children, stage coach rides, caricatures and roping demonstrations.

Additionally, the open house will feature several different forms of entertainment, including the Gold Canyon Wild West Gunfighters, trick roper Craig Ingram and the Pikes Peak Rangerettes Drill Team.

Country music artist Trinity Seely will perform at 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 2:15 p.m., and the Flying W Wranglers will close out the day's festivities, performing from 5-7 p.m.

"The ProRodeo Hall of Fame has 35 years of proud history to celebrate since first opening in 1979 here in Colorado Springs," HOF Director Kent Sturman said. "This open house is a way to showcase our history and achievements to both tourists and local residents alike. We hope the community of Colorado Springs, as well as many people from across the country, join us to celebrate this milestone. We are proud to call Colorado Springs home."

The event will feature vendors in the pavilion area, autograph sessions with state rodeo queens and 2014 Miss Rodeo America Paige Nicholson, as well as past and current inductees and world champions.

However, even without that money, Bass would still be solidly in the top 10. Incidentally, Calgary also paid Fallon Taylor $28,000 and Brittany Diaz $18,000. Taylor sits second in the world. Then there's Lisa Lockhart in third (she earned almost $30,000 in Houston) and Nancy Hunter in fourth. Hunter pulled $55,000 out of Houston and another $14,800 out of Calgary. Unlike Bass, Hunter would have no chance at the NFR without those two checks this season.

"I've been very fortunate to have won a lot of money at those invitational rodeos, but that doesn't change my opinion that they shouldn't count," said Lockhart. "I love Calgary and I've been very fortunate to get to go, but I think with that much money added, the limit should include the top 40 or 50 horses. Those are the people who are out there paying their dues."

So now Bass has a whopping $135,236, when last year at this time, standings leader Sherry Cervi had $121,144. Today, sixth-place Cervi is spotting Bass about $40,000 – but it may not matter. In Las Vegas last year Bass earned $60,998 compared to Cervi's record of $155,899.

In fact, Cervi has climbed to seventh since just before the Fourth of July, when she sat 14th, while others have fallen; Christy Loflin from seventh to 15th and Shelly Anzick down to 18th from sixth.

Most of the ladies in the top 15 have earned $6,000 to $11,000 more this year than the ladies in those positions last August. That includes Fallon Taylor, who a year ago was ranked third in the world with $93,088, but has amassed $116,705 this time for her second-place spot. She's counted 71 rodeos thus far, which is twice as many rodeos as Bass or Lockhart. The award for most rodeos counted through today goes to rookie Callie Duprier, who has 84 to her credit and sits 27th in the world with $31,237.

Aside from Laughlin, good bets to make the Finals for the second time are Diaz, who has earned $74,663, and first timer Cassidy Dennison, who with $73,561 should finally make the NFR and become the first member of the Navajo Nation to run barrels at the finals.

There will be a dogfight next month, and if last year is any indication, about three women now in the top 15 will not be there come Sept. 30. In an extremely tight race – all within $10,000 of each other – are 11th through 17th including Mary Walker, Shelley Morgan, Samantha Lyne, Jana Bean, Christy Loflin, Ann Scott and Trula Churchill. Eight girls in the top 20 today have never been to the NFR.

And don't count out the possibility of a late-season push from Brittany Pozzi or Jean Winters, who each need to make up about $20,000 on 15th-place Loflin. Noticeably absent from last year's standings are Taylor Jacob (in 50th with $18,704) and Sabrina Ketcham, who is almost $25,000 out of 15th.

The kicker is that Mary Walker, Taylor Jacob and Christy Loflin can each compete at the final three Champions Challenge events in Kennewick, Wash., Amarillo, Texas, and Omaha, Neb. A first-place check at each venue comes to nearly $5,500.

Plus, up for grabs are the big Wrangler Tour bonuses. With just three Wrangler Tour rodeos remaining – Sikeston, Lovington and Hermiston are all at the same time – Christine Laughlin is in place to earn the $7,500 bonus if she holds onto first, with Carlee Pierce second (worth $6,000) and Dennison third (it pays $4,500). Samantha Lyne is only a few thousand dollars behind Dennison and could use that third-place bonus check if she can move up.

The homestretch of the NFR race is here, and one of the tightest races in recent history should come down to the wire.

Headin' For Home

by Mike Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

We're in a war. Turn on the news and there's wars going on all over the world. But, I'm referring to the personal battles we struggle with in our own lives. We have an enemy, the devil, and he doesn't fight fairly. He'll use everything at his disposal to ruin our lives and try to prevent us from having eternal life.

The devil tries to get us through our minds and our thoughts. Worldwide evangelist Joyce Meyer said the battlefield is the mind and this is what 2 Corinthians 10:5 warns us about when we are cautioned to "take every thought captive to the obedience of Christ." We must watch what we allow to enter our eyes and ears because Satan will use every opportunity to get in the door if we allow him.

A pastor once said if we think right, then we'll believe right. If we believe right, then we'll speak right. And, if we speak right, then we'll act right. So we have to watch the words we speak because it is true that what we say is what we get.

God has not left us defenseless though but He has put mighty weapons at our disposal. The name of Jesus, the Blood of Jesus and the Word of God are mighty shields that the devil and his evil henchmen can't penetrate. Learn how to use them and use them often.

Remember 2 Corinthians 2:14 reassures us that "Now thanks be to God who always causes us to triumph in Christ..." Hallelujah!

Mike Morrison and his wife Sherry are ordained ministers in their own nondenominational church in Gillette, WY. They also travel widely as circuit riders ministering over a large area of the western states.
