Tracy Nowlin & DJG Madison Gain Breathing Room with Ellensburg Rodeo Championship

By Tanya Randall

Just four weekends remain in the chase for the 2018 National Finals Rodeo. Nowata, Oklahoma's Tracy Nowlin topped two rodeos over Labor Day Weekend to move back into the WPRA Top 15.

Nowlin and her gritty, 12-year-old mare DJG Madison ("Dolly Jo") picked up $7,237 for a three-run effort at Ellensburg, Washington, and $3,403 for a one-header at the Walla Walla Frontier Days. Her weekend total of $10,640 bumped her to 13th in the Standings with $82,621.

"It's been quite the week," laughed Nowlin, who had Gremlins in her trailer this past week. "I had to get two new tires. I got a speeding ticket. Did you know you are supposed to go 60? We are supposed to go semi (truck) speed.

"We get here (Ellensburg), I turn the pump on and plug my hot water tank in, I come back out after watching the barrels on Friday night and there's water running out of my trailer. It's funny now, but it wasn't at the time. There's something wrong with the pump, so we've got to put a new pump in it.

"We got to Walla Walla and the air conditioning wasn't working. Well, I hit the switch and it went to working and I was like, 'Oh Thank You, Lord!'"

Nowlin and Dolly Jo had their first run at Ellensburg on Wednesday morning, placing 8th with a 17.54. "She got a step by the first barrel," recalled Nowlin. "I don't know why. That's not like her." From there it was on to Plains, Montana, for the Thursday night performance.

"It was awful," she chuckled. "I hit the first barrel so hard I stopped. She was going to run over the top of it."

They returned to Ellensburg on Friday for a day of rest before her second-round run.

"I made some mental changes," she said. "I told myself I was going to be here, and I better suck it up and win something."

Nowlin and Dolly Jo took the lead the second round with their 17.12 after Saturday's performance. They ended up second to Teri Bangart and RCA Three Bugs Honor, who were a few ticks off the arena record with a 16.97.

With a great run under their belts, Nowlin and Dolly Jo went to Walla Walla for the Frontier Days. They turned in the fastest time of the rodeo in the first out in the last performance to take the title.

"We were happy when we got to Walla Walla," noted Nowlin. "We like an alley that's offset to the right."

From Walla Walla, it was back to Ellensburg for the short go. She and Dolly Jo were sitting second in the average going in and were out fourth on the ground.

"Thank the Lord, I wasn't very far down," she said. "They were very good here; they drug after six, but still..."

They posted a 17.12 to take second in the Final to Brittany Pozzi Tonozzi and Yeah Hes Firen's 17.04 and win the average over defending Ellensburg and current WPRA World Champion Nellie Miller and Rafter W Minnie Reba.

This next weekend will be Nowlin's last in the Northwest. She's entered in Lewiston, Idaho; Spokane, Washington; Salt Lake City and the Wrangler Tour Finale in Puyallup, Washington. How she draws and does at Puyallup will impact which rodeos she makes over the weekend.

Then, the homesick road warrior will point her rig toward Oklahoma.

"I'm ready to see my son," she said. "I ready to be home. I'm trying to stay tough!"

Her teenage son Ty is largely responsible for Nowlin's current position. It was while looking for a calf horse for him, that Nowlin found Dolly Jo. Nowlin found the daughter of Royal Blue Chew Chew, a stakes-winning son of Royal Quick Dash, out of Donald and Janice Guthrie's double-bred Streakin Six mare Run Madison on Facebook.

After roping on the mare, she knew Dolly Jo wouldn't work for Ty, but she thought she might make a barrel horse. That was just three years ago. Now they're on the cusp of adding an NFR Barrel Racing qualification to her family's storied rodeo history.

"We still have a shot, so we'll keep going," said Nowlin. "It will all depend on Puyallup and Pendleton, and I didn't enter Pendleton. It's a relief though (having won two rodeos this weekend). I don't feel as much pressure. Next week, it's going to be a lot of pressure, because there's a lot of money paid out."

Wrangler Pro Rodeo Tour Finals On Tap

This week's game-changing rodeo is the Washington State Fair in Puyallup that hosts the Wrangler Pro Rodeo Tour Finals.

The tournament-style rodeo has an expected $70,900 payout with $7,500 to winner of the Finals. The kicker is only the Top 24 in the Wrangler Pro Tour Standings as of the conclusion of Ellensburg, Washington, are eligible to compete.

In year's past, the rodeo was open to the top 24 in the World Standings and it didn't pay near as much.

Many of the current WPRA Top 15 are eligible to compete via the Tour Standings, but changes to eligibility and the elevation of purse have added to an already stressful time of year for some on the bubble and a few trying to get in contention for a world championship run at the National Finals Rodeo.

The books on the rodeo, opened and closed today. Although many will enter, hoping to move up if those ahead of them choose not to do so, a few that are outside the Top 24 in the Tour Standings are Jessica Routier, Tiana Schuster, Taci Bettis, Hailey Kinsel, Lisa Lockhart, Amber Moore, Carman Pozzobon and Kelly Bruner.

Other upcoming rodeos that many of the ladies will try to make pending their Puyallup draws include the $10,100-added Lewiston Roundup in Idaho, $3,000-added Spokane Interstate Rodeo in Washington, the $3,000-added Utah's Own Rodeo at the Utah State Fair in Salt Lake City. A considerable hike away from the action, but doable on a second-string or borrowed mount is the $11,000-added Tri-State Rodeo in Fort Madison, Iowa.

As for the race to the NFR itself, Tammy Fischer picked up $4,940 at five rodeos over Labor Day weekend. Kellie Collier tied for second at Filer, Idaho, to remain in the hunt. Jessie Telford earned $4,612 at five rodeos. Nowlin won two of the three she entered to make the biggest jump in the standings. Season earnings record holder Tiana Schuster placed at one rodeo. Jessi Fish, who has come on in recent weeks, placed at three rodeos for $3,155. NFR veteran Jana Bean has placed along, earning $2,449 at four rodeos. Nikki Hansen picked up $3,512 at three rodeos, and Teri Bangart collected $8,320 after placing second at both Ellensburg and Walla Walla.

Dice Banks $13,500 at WCBRA Finals

By Amy Wilson

A little red mare who was originally supposed to be a reining horse, helped Rachel Dice win all three rounds and the 1D Open Average at the West Coast Barrel Racing Association Finals in King City, California. In Round 1, Tivitosatthegogobar “Katey” and Dice were 17.151 seconds. They got even faster in Round 2 with 16.974. “The third round, I was about to go into the arena and they said I only needed to run a 17.9, so I said, ‘Ok I’m just keeping the barrels up’. My friend Vickie looked at me and said, ‘No! You’re going to go out there and win the round!’ So I listened to her, and we won the round,” Dice said laughing. Their Round 3 time of 17.106 gave them 51.231 in the average to win by nearly 9 tenths of a second, and brought their total money won to over $13,500. It was a repeat win for Dice and Katey as they also won the WCBRA Finals in 2014.

Held at the Salinas Valley Fairgrounds, the WCBRA Finals feature a 5D format with three full rounds. It’s known as the richest race in the west and the numbers prove it with over 625 open entries and $171,435 total added money, plus tons of prizes including giveaways of three ATV’s and a trailer. Owners, Taylor and Bailey Nahrgang designed the WCBRA with producers’ and members’ best interest in mind, and have expanded throughout California, Nevada, and Arizona. Dice appreciates the great prizes and said, “Everyone is so friendly and everything is organized. It’s run really, really well. I cannot give them enough praise for how amazing of an association the Nahrgang’s run.”

Dice also ran her mom’s horse at the WCBRA Finals because her mom isn’t able to ride due to breaking her leg earlier this year. They won enough to cover their fees and even let someone borrow the good-minded gelding for the men’s race. Not only was Dice’s mom there to offer support, but also to help with J.J., her 10 month old baby boy. “He’s my first kid. He’s amazing,” Dice said. “He’s completely changed my life.” The Bryon, California horse trainer was on the road going to prorodeos 9 months out of the year before she had J.J. “I’ve been home now...a lot,” she said laughing. But she’s enjoying being home, “I loved being on the road and rodeoing, but now I don’t know if I can do that again.”

Since having her baby, Dice admits that she’s had a hard time getting back with her mare since she is such a push style. “I have to two-hand around the first barrel just so I stay forward to keep pushing her hard. I’ve had a hard time with that fearless mentality you need going into the barrel full blast with no rate at all.” Her goal this weekend was to run 17.3-4’s and stay steady to win her entry fees back and get with Katey better. The weekend far exceeded those expectations. “We finally clicked back to where we were when we were on top in 2016 and doing amazing,” Dice said referring to the success they had while proroдеоing.

Dice’s favorite rodeo accomplishment was making the shootout at Rodeo Houston. Just short of the NFR, she’s competed at nearly every major rodeo in the country, and it’s because of Katey. Dice grew up riding horses, “When I was about 4, we started at the local gymkhana. My dad said he tried to do lead-line with me the first time and I yelled at him the whole time, so he let me do it by myself after that.” In high school she competed in some local jr. rodeos. “I loved barrel racing, but I started doing the rodeo queen stuff and fell in love with reining and wanted to try that out,” Dice remembers. When she was in college, she rode reiners, and that’s when she got Katey, who was three years old and started as a reiner. “My reining trainer said, ‘She’s not going to make a reining horse, go ahead and take her and turn her into a kid’s gymkhana horse and flip her and you can have the money.’ As I rode her, I really liked her. The first time I ever ran her on a standard pattern we ran a 24. That was when she was four. I was so excited because I hadn’t ran barrels in a couple years so it felt so fast, even though I know it wasn’t,” Dice said laughing as she told the story. When Katey was 6 years old, Dice tried to take her to a jackpot once a month but sometimes it wasn’t even that often. Dice was the rodeo queen at Livermore and was running flags on Katey at her hometown rodeo, “All of a sudden, running towards the gate as I was carrying a flag, she had a new gear – she stretched out and ran for the first time in her life.” Katey then went from being the 4D to the 1D. “I had told myself if I ever had a horse that won the 1D I was going to buy my [WPRA] permit. When she won the 1D, I bought my permit the next week,” Dice said.

The little reining horse brought Dice back to running barrels again and helped her as a rider in the process. “I became a much better rider when I rode reiners. I learned all the nuances of how you want the horse’s body to move and everything. I wasn’t just out there running barrels – I understood how the horse needed to move around the barrels,” Dice explained. “I’ve had barrel racer trainers tell me to do maneuvers but they never described to me how the horse should feel under me while I’m doing that. When I started riding reiners, the trainers really explained to me how the horse should feel. Then I was able to translate that to barrel racing.”

Dice somewhat joked as she described what it’s like to run the 11 year old mare, “Around that first barrel every time, it’s always a gamble – am I coming off or staying on?” The cowhorse-bred 14hh mare is smart, as she always keeps herself safe if she knows the ground isn’t good which has helped her stay sound. And for as little as she is, she still has a big stride which makes the pattern smooth. But her best asset is her heart, "She puts her heart into it every single time that we go out there and run. It's exciting to run her," Dice said. As for her personality, Dice explained, "She's like a puppy dog – very friendly to people. She talks to you every time you go out to feed her. She loves being scratched. She has a sassy, I'm-better-than-everyone personality in her too."

And this past weekend, she validated that attitude! "All the glory goes to God. I wouldn't be where I am without the blessings He's blessed me with," Dice said as she also talked of her appreciation for her family and friends who were there to watch and support her on this journey, as well as her sponsors, CSI Saddle pads, 4 Flat Tack, and Rustic Beauty.

National Finals Rodeo Qualifier, Indian World Champion Sierra Hall Of Fame Laid To Rest

Sierra Hall Of Fame ("Eagle"), the lanky, bay gelding with the whirl-away tail, who carried Kassidy Dennison to the 2014 National Finals Rodeo and numerous Indian World titles, was laid to rest over Labor Day Weekend.

The 13-year-old gelding suffered a catastrophic injury while competing in the Northwest with his current owner Kellie Collier, who purchased him right before the 2017 NFR.

Eagle placed sixth in the eighth round of the 2017 NFR for Collier, who has used the gelding sparingly throughout the 2018 season. The forthright gelding often got the call when Collier needed his steady presence in the arena.

"This horse has been an absolute bleeding to my family and I," wrote Collier in a heart-felt Facebook post announcing the gelding's passing. "He has the biggest heart of any horse I've ever swung a leg over. He gave me his all every single time we stepped foot into the arena!

"His personality was one in a million. Goofy, crazy, talented, loving, grumpy and incredible are just a few words to explain my Eagle Man.

"I want to say thank you. Thank you, Eagle, for everything you ever did for me. All the runs, all the laughs and all the tears.

"Our first run together in the Thomas & Mack to our next run in Heaven together, forever you'll be a part of me!"

Bred by Juan Sierra of El Paso, Texas, Eagle was by Dash Ta Fame out of the Thoroughbred mare La Ganadora, by Pirate's Bounty. Lance Graves' father James picked Eagle off the track and the gelding was sold to Raymond and Chris Duke of Wheatland, Indiana.

The gelding was lightly futurity'd by the Dukes and caught the eye of fellow trainer Dena Kirkpatrick. When Kassidy and her mother Debbie contacted Kirkpatrick about a horse, she mentioned Eagle.

"It was a really cold, wintery day when we flew to Indiana to try him," said Dennison. "My mom was actually flying back from Washington, D.C., and we met up in Indiana. I remember walking into that barn like it was yesterday. I remember what I was wearing. I remember when Chris opened the stall door and said, 'This is him.' I remember it was so cold that his breath was freezing, and it was a love at first sight moment. I hadn't even stepped on him yet, but I felt something with that horse. I tried him, but he had already won over my heart."

Eagle, who could be described as cantankerous at times, spent two years in Kirkpatrick's barn getting groomed to be a rodeo horse."

"He had the weirdest personality," said Dennison. "He was a grumpy horse. He could be super kind when he needed to be. You never knew what you were going to walk into."

Ironically, when Dennison purchased Eagle he didn't have a barn name. She picked Eagle, because of the symbolism in the Native culture and from her favorite Bible verse—"But those who wait upon the Lord will renew their strength; they will mount up with wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary; they will walk and not faint," Isaiah 40:31.

In 2013, Dennison and Eagle won all four rounds at the International Indian Rodeo Finals on their way to the world title.

"He didn't just win them, he outran them by a lot," recalled Dennison. "It was a good start toward 2014. I felt like I had a really good shot to make the NFR. It had always been our family's dream to have a Navajo woman make it to the NFR.

"His loss is impacting a lot of people across the Indigenous Nation, because they've all thought of that horse as giving them hope and peace. I've had a ton of calls of people saying they impacted their lives, and that means a lot to me."

In fact, one of Dennison's most favorite memories of Eagle is winning the Window Rock, Arizona, Pro Rodeo.

"That arena is named after my late grandfather Dean C. Jackson," she recalled. "It was during the Fourth of July and it was really fulfilling for me. I thought, 'Wow, I really do have a chance to make it in this industry and be a top barrel racer. Winning that rodeo in front of the Navajo Nation and family meant a lot.'"

At the time of his death, Eagle had more than $300,000 recorded in Equi-Stat and an estimated $500,000 in career earnings.

"I'm very thankful to have had the opportunity to ride such a great horse and I'm very thankful to people who have called with such kind words to both Kellie and I," said Dennison. "It's heart-breaking, but he's probably in Heaven, running barrels and being his goofy self."

Headin' For Home

by Sherry Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

In 2 Tim. 3:1-7 there are a whole bunch of traits that we do NOT want to have! Boasters, blasphemers, unthankful, truce breakers, and despisers of good, to name just a few! Yikes! Who wants that??? I seriously doubt that if you have asked Jesus to be the Lord/boss of your life, any of those things listed there would be on your "Be Like This" bucket list.

No, when we ask Jesus to come into our life, it's because we recognize that without Him, we are pretty much "without God and without hope in this life." Eph. 2:12. So, that being said, now that we are on the side of God and now have hope, how do we help others to get there? Good question Grasshopper! Some of us think that people will call us a weirdo. (They already do.)

Others buy "fire insurance" and really could care less what happens to everyone else. And some are so excited about what God has done for them, they just want to share His goodness! That's us! Read 2 Tim. 4:1-5 and "Your mission, should you choose to accept it" is NOT mission "impossible"! It's mission "possible" and all we have to do is follow the directions. For me, I knew what I was like "before Jesus". "After Jesus" is sooooo much better! Tell someone about Jesus this week!
