Consistency Pays For Lynn Kohr & Dun Got Charmed at 5-States Futurity

By Tanya Randall

Lynn Kohr guided Dun Got Charmed ("Charm") to the three-run average victory at the $20,000-added, 73-entry 5-States Futurity, held Sept. 4-7 in Rapid City, S.D. All horses competing in the futurity were by stallions standing in either North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming or Nebraska that have been paid into the 5-States Futurity program.

"I want to thank the 5-States Crew, LI Productions, Lana Dacar, and the Dacar and Ireland families—they do a great job," said Kohr, who is no stranger to event production. "It's an elite event now. They've raised the bar in event production. Every aspect and detail was all tended to. They have developed one of the biggest and finest futurities in the world. It was an honor to make it back to the finals!"

Kohr, Gillette, Wyo., said Charm "just did her job" in Rapid City. "She worked hard, that's all I can say," noted Kohr. "She was quiet and relaxed. She just worked hard and nailed her turns. There isn't anything tricky about her. She stayed soft and light and focused. She's fun that way. She's come along really solid."

The duo placed seventh in the first go with a 17.707 and forth in the second go with a 17.562 to advance to the short round. Their 17.638 took third in the short to win the average in 52.907. The teams 3 consistent runs were worth $4,806.

Bred and owned by the Hamm family of Rozet, Wyo., Charm, a 5-year-old bay mare, is by the Melvin family's Dash Ta Fame stallion Famous Charmer and out of Henretta, by the Doc's Oak son Big Horn Doc and out of a double-bred Leo mare.

"We raised her and her mom," noted Lexi Hamm, who wanted thank Kohr for all her hard work. "My dad had actually qualified her mom to the AQHA World Show, but she got into the locoweed and we never rode her again. Charm's the first futurity age colt that we've kept. We've sold the rest."

Kohr said Charm had several great starts under very talented and knowledgeable horse people. She was halter broke by Tom Waggoner and broke to ride by Kurt Elgin. Hallie (Melvin) Hansen put a month of barrel training on Charm before Kohr got the mare last summer.

"I've had her at least a full year, said Kohr. "They've let me treat her like she's one of mine. I've got to do everything that I've done on mine, on her. I've rode her outside. I roped on her. She's a neat pole horse. She's going to excel whatever direction they decide to go with her."

Next up for Charm is the Fizz Bomb Futurity there in Gillette.

"Then we'll have a week off," sighed Kohr in anticipation. She has a very hectic schedule with her horses and her three children Sage, Cedar and Stratton with husband Marshall, a veterinarian. The children are extremely active in school sports and with their own equine activities as well. "I always let my horses have a week off in the fall. Then we'll go to the Grid Iron. There's some pretty big 4Ds close to home and we'll go to those too. Between the kids' sports events this Fall, I'll just keep her in shape and running because they've entered her in the Derby at Oklahoma City."

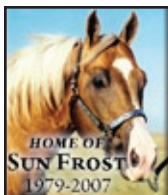

Ultimately, Charm will become Hamm's college rodeo mount.

Kalafatic & Doc Score At Justin Boots Playoffs

By Tanya Randall

Jennifer Kalafatic and Phoebes Pepper Who ("Doc") got their first pro rodeo win at the uber-tough Justin Boots Playoffs at the Washington State Fair Pro Rodeo in Puyallup, Wash., Sept. 5-7. The 20,000-added rodeo was limited to 48 entries, up from the 24 taken previously. Contestants also paid an entry fee this year.

Kalafatic, who wasn't even ranked among the WPRA's Top 200 prior to the rodeo, said she was lucky she got into the rodeo at all.

"My friends told me I couldn't enter that rodeo," said Kalafatic, a 39-year-old mother of two. "My thought was I'm not going to get in if I don't enter. I actually looked up the past few years, and when I saw that pen I knew that was going to be Doc's pen. He really shines in those tight little pens with the barrels on the fence. I really wanted to run him there, so I thought I'd just enter and see what happens. I really didn't think I was going to get in it."

Even though she knew Doc would like the setup, she wasn't sure how the gelding would work. He had just one weekend of competition under his belt after a three-week layoff due to a puncture wound to his tendon sheath.

"It was the smallest little cut, you just wouldn't believe," said Kalafatic. "He got it before Hermiston. The vet said, 'Oh, it's fine. Just wrap him and go ahead and run him.' So, I did. He ran really good and he placed, but then it started to get a little bit puffy and leaking some tendon sheath fluid. Then we laid him off."

"I took him to Ellensburg (the weekend prior to Puyallup), but that pen was a little too wide open for him. This weekend I was really curious if he was going to come back really strong and turn everything or if he was going to run by because I haven't rode him very much. I was pretty excited that he did so good."

She and the 13-year-old gelding made their first run of 14.84 in Friday's performance. With a great chance of making Sunday's Finals, she had to make a decision—stay in Puyallup and rest her horse or go on to rodeos in Spokane and Lewiston.

"I decided to go up and run, mostly because he's a little bit hot by nature, and I thought if he sits around here and does nothing for a day he's not going to be too strong," she explained.

They also had to survive the nerve-racking trek through the carnival to get to the arena from the trailer parking.

“That was interesting,” she laughed. “I had no idea what to expect because I’d never been there before. They have it setup really good with escorts, but there are a lot of people and a lot to get through. It takes a lot of time to get from the trailers to the arena. Usually, my game plan with Doc is to go to the arena a few minutes before I run. When he can hear the crowd and hear the announcer, he builds on that and can get pretty hot. I really had to go outside my comfort level because you had to get to the arena earlier because it takes so long to get there. Once you’re there, you’re stuck. It was a whole different environment for me.”

The extra runs at Spokane and Lewiston helped keep Doc quiet and focused.

“He was really quiet Sunday before my Finals run,” she said, “and I thought, ‘Oh, I hope I didn’t overdo it and he’s too tired,’ but when he turned the gate into the pen, he really fired!”

Their 14.74 topped the Final Round and gave them the championship time on two runs. Their share of the purse was $5,894, plus Kalafatic’s first pro rodeo buckle. Making the win extra special was that her husband Nick, sister and nephew were all on hand to see it.

“I have to thank my husband for driving for me all weekend,” she chuckled. “We went back and forth across the state of Washington four times this past weekend. He did most of the driving and I did most of the sleeping. He was a very good traveling partner.”

She also wanted to thank Doc’s former owners Richard and Hope Jordan.

“Anytime he doesn’t feel just right, they tune him up for me,” she explained. “I sent him over there before I went on this run and Richard rode him for two days and really tuned him up for me.” Kalafatic, a roper who picked up barrel racing two years ago, and the cutting-reject, by Docs Phoebe out of Whoozee, by Hokey Poke, burst on to the national barrel racing scene earlier this summer when they won the Semifinals qualifier to RFD-TV’s The American at Producers Gone Wild in Pasco, Wash.

“We’ve had a good summer,” said Kalafatic, who has checked off her 2014 goals of filling her WPRA permit and qualifying for The American. She also qualified for two amateur rodeo association finals—Idaho Cowboys and Intermountain Rodeo. Othello, Wash., will be her last circuit pro rodeo before she sits down to make her plans for the fall and winter, especially her trip to Texas.

“I want to get him down there three to four weeks before the Semifinals to get him legged up and everything,” said Kalafatic, who operates Outback Stallion Station with her husband. “Up here it’s so wintery you can’t do much and all we have to run in is these little barns.”

"Classic" by Mike Morrison
Triple M (Mike Morrison Ministries)

Horses come in all shapes, sizes, colors and dispositions. Christians are like that, too. They come in all shapes, sizes, colors and personalities.

Some Christians are so trusting in God that nothing much moves them. They know God will protect them and bring good out of what the devil intends for evil. They pray and wait because they have totally surrendered their lives to Christ. Their lives are fruitful.

Others get all excited about walking with the Lord for a short time but then get careless and start trusting in themselves their money, their friends, the government or everything but God and then they blame God for their problems.

Then there are those who live so deep in the world and are so blinded by material things that they cannot and will not even try to understand the truth of God's Word. They lead empty, dissatisfied lives and fear death.

Read Matthew 13 and Mark 4 and see what Jesus says about those who hear the Word and accept it. He uses a parable of a sower out sowing seed and the different kinds of ground the seed falls on which is a comparison of how mankind receives His Word.

Don't let "the cares of this world, the deceitfulness of riches, and the desire for other things" enter in and choke out the Word of God in your life. Be the good ground where God's Word lands and flourishes and you will bear much good fruit: "some thirty fold, some sixty, and some a hundred!"

Yes Christians come in all kinds from lukewarm to on-fire for the Lord. Be the kind that is 100% sold out to the Lord with no compromise and let it show for all to see!

Mike Morrison and his wife Sherry are ordained ministers in their own nondenominational church in Gillette, WY. They also travel widely as circuit riders ministering over a large area of the western states.
